WOMAN MAN'S SAFEGUARD

A BULWARK FOR THE HUSBAND.

How to Avoid Domestic Unhappiness—Mutual Understanding Necessary—Bravery of Wife of Biblical History.

If every married woman in this city could have heard th discourse delivered by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, at the Congrgational church yesterday morning they would today have a more exalted opinion of their worth and a deeper pity for their husbands, particularly when the latter are peevish, ugly and uncompanionable. In "The Wife of an Ill Tempered Man," Pastor Goodrich told a story of domestic unhappiness and of a woman's wisdom and her mission and finally her triumph.

The text for the story was found in First Samuel, 25:32 and had to do with the lives of Nabal and Abigail and 'she was a woman of good understanding and of beautiful countenance, but the man was churlish and evil in his doings." How did they ever come together? How in the world did he ever get such a woman for his wife?

"I don't know, but do you know it may be that people may have asked the same thing about us? It is only by the mercy of God and the grace of woman that any man gets a good wife. But,however, humble, we may feel today, this is not quite a true picture of our case, but it is not such an uncommon one. It does seem at times that the best women had the worst husbands. Perhaps it is the mercy of God who knows that the worst men need the best wives most. In fact, however, it is the unwise choice of young women who choose with too little thought, who overlook too serious faults, who idealize man too much, and marry not the real man, but an imaginary one, created out of their own fancies and live to repent their mistake. All Abigail endured is not told, but the climax is.

"Nabal was at Carmel shearing his 3,000 sheep, near where David and his followers were staying to avoid Saul. David sent to Nabal asking for provisions for himself and his small army. The request was brutally refused by Nabal. It was not a good message for an unprotected sheep herder to send to a man backed up by 600 armed outlaws, and shortly after the message was received by David, 400 of his men were hastening on their way to destroy Nabal and all his household.

"But Abigail, the patient wife, who knew what suffering must follow an invasion by David's men, made haste to save the day for her surly husband, and became the wife to rescue her husband from the results of his rashness. Nabal had not taken his wife into his confidence, a mistake many men of today make. It would have been better for him if he had. He thought to himself, 'I can manage my own affairs.' How often this has proved a mistake. Abigail learned of all that had occurred and had determined to do all she could to undo the wrong. She did not consult Nabal about it. There was no mutual understanding between them, which is far from an ideal of domestic happiness. Nabal was called a son of Belial, with reason. He was unapproachable, unreasonable. No wonder that Abigail did not want to talk the matter over with him. It is an unfortunate state of affairs when a wife does not feel free to tell her husband all her plans and hopes.

"But the god wife is not the person to remain idle when the occasion arises for action. She does everything in her power to save her husband to shield him from any evil which threatens him. She wards off trouble and hides her own pain.. In Abigail two fine traits at once are distinguished; quickness of decision and readiness of resource. She got together the provisions David wanted and went forth to meet him. She went alone and faced an army to save her husband from the consequences of his rash acts, and if you will read the story in the first book of Samuel you will read one of the most courageous and most eloquent appeals ever made by woman for her home.

As all good stories end let the hero and heroine marry. What we pray for is that every young man may choose for a wife one such as Abigail. One who will be a restraining influence against sin, who will stimulate noble desires and who will make the spiritual seem real. For all young women we pray that they may be such.

THE POWER OF PRAYER

Rev. Dr. Herring Tells of the Importance of Communication with God.

HOW OBSTACLES ARE OVERCOME

Large Congregation Attends Union Service at First M. E. Church—Music by Trinity Choir.

The union services were held last night in the First M. E. church. The attendance was the largest of any of those at these services, probably on account of the cool weather. The services were in charge of the Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church and the singing was by the choir of that church. Three anthems were ably sung by the quartet while Miss Raybert and Mr. Cutter sang the offertory duet in excellent voice. Arthur L. Titsworth, the organ'st of Trinity, presided at the organ. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First Methodist Church led in the prayer.

Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was the preacher of the evening. He took for his text, Acts 9-11, "Behold he prayeth. He spoke in part as follows:

"We often ask ourselves the question—why do we pray? The reason is just this—because Christ did it and when we pray, we are obeying the command of God. There are certain definite laws of nature, one for instance that water will not run up hill. But in the case of the lifting pump, this law is seemingly defied for the water is raised against the force of gravity. Yet in reality there is no defiance of a law in this case for the water is raised by the overcoming of one force by another. And so it is with prayer—our obstacles are overcome by that silent power for God stands behind all of his laws and has ordained it to answer prayer.

"There are four elements in prayer, the first one being adjustment and resignation. With this idea in mind prayer might be defined as the harmonious adjustment of our thoughts and feelings to the thoughts and feelings of God. Christ said, "Let the cup pass from me, Father—but not my will but thine be done." This shows the application of the first element of prayer. No matter whether our prayers are answered as we would have them or not, God always answers prayer by giving his peace, which passeth all understanding.

"The second element of prayer is that it brings us in close touch with God. We know this because we find it repeatedly in the Scriptures.

"The third element of prayer is that it is the means of opening the avenues of power into other lives and leading these souls to salvation. As the railroad locomotive on the track has no power to work without the direction of the engineer so we have no power to do good unless we pray.

"And the fourth element of prayer is the meditation which it demands. Pray daily and pray thoughtfully until your life has been transfigured to a higher level through the avenues of prayer.

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A. WALLOPS ORANGE Y.M.C.A.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team kept up its winning streak Saturday afternoon by taking the scalps of the Orange Y. M. C. A. nine at East Orange by the score of 7-3. The local boys clinched the game in the second inning by bunching a couple of hits and a couple of bases on balls, thus scoring five runs. Two more runs were added in the ninth by hard slugging.

Frederickson pitched his usual good game, keeping the Orange hits scattered and striking out nine men. The Plainfield fielders had an easy time of it, not a single fly going out in their direction.

Platt Adams surprised himself by clouting out a three bagger, a two-bagger and a single. Only one error was charged against the local team and that wasn't costly while two misplays were made by Orange.

Trinity's Excursion Next.

The next excursion from this city to Asbury Park will be that of Trinity Reformed, Netherwood Reformed churches and Marconnier chapel, on Thursday next. This is one of the most popular excursions to the shore during the season and as the weather man has promised ideal weather for Thursday the trip should be enjoyed by one of the largest crowds of the year. A long day at the shore will be provided, as the train leaves here at 8 o'clock and returning leaves the shore at 7.10. The clerks of A. E. Force's store have arranged to go on this excursion and the last car on the first section will be reserved for them.

SAMUEL DREIER IS DEAD

Plainfield's Oldest Jewish Resident Passes Away at Bradley Beach.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE THE CAUSE.

Resided Here Forty Years—Successful in Business—Prominent Member of Jewish Synagogue.

Samuel Dreier, of 429 West Front street, the oldest Jewish resident of this city, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon at the summer home of his son, Garrett Dreier, at Bradley Beach. Death was due to Bright's disease, from which Mr. Dreier had been suffering for the past week. The end came at half-past four, and the body was brought to this city yesterday morning. Mr. Dreier had gone on a visit to his son at Bradley Beach, intending to remain there for about three weeks.

Mr. Dreier was sixty-nine years of age and had lived here for over forty years. He was engaged in the clothing business at Madison avenue and Front street for many years in the store now occupied by his son, Harry Dreier, and also at 110 West Front street. Many years ago he conducted a pawnbroker's business in this city. Mr. Dreier had retired from active business nearly twenty years ago. He owned considerabl property in this city and vicinity.

Mr. Dreier's wife died seven years ago. Four children, however, survive the dead man. They are: Harry Dreier, of this city; Garrett Dreier, of New Brunswick; David Dreier, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Mrs. Bertha Singer, of this city. There are also six grandchildren surviving Mr. Dreier; Walter Dreier and Joel Dreier, of New Brunswick; Henry Dreier and Augustus Dreier, of this city; and Nettie and Isadore Newcorn, also of this city. Mr. Dreier also leaves two brothers: Simon Dreier, of Buena Vista, Colorado, and David Dreier, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Dreier was an active member of the Newark lodge, No. 59, O. B. A., and also of the local Synagogue, to which he was a liberal contributor. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock from his late residence, 429 West Front street. Interment will be made in Gateville, near Bound Brook.

LOCAL SELF-GOVERNMENT SWACKHAMER'S PLEA

Upon the request of Chairman Michael Scully, S. S. Swackhamer addressed the members of the Democratic County Committee, at Somerville, Saturday afternoon, at the close of the business session. Mr. Scully, in requesting Mr. Swackhamer to speak, said that while in the Legislature he had proved himself always on the side of the people, and that he would like to see him nominated for Congress.

Mr. Swackhamer acknowledged the compliment and said that some of his friends had even expressed the wish that he might be nominated for Governor but that there was something nearer his heart than any nomination or any office. He then made a plea for local self-government, including the license question, on an equal footing with all others, and stated that in his judgment the Democratic party would stultify itself and bring down public distrust and ignominous defeat upon its head if it failed to declare for this right of the people.

Mr. Swackhamer restated, in brief, his argument recently made in Saengerbund Hall, and told the committee that the eyes of every voter of the state would be fixed upon the convention to see whether the party would take the plain path of duty and offer the people their rights which the Republican party had denied to them or cringe and cower before the enemies of home rule. He expressed the hope that the Somerset county Democrats would stand firm and resolute for this right of the people and bring their undivided influence to bear upon the State convention.

Slocum, his opponent in the box for the 'Plains, was the first one to make a hit for the visitors. It came in the eighth. Three men received minor injuries before the contest was over. Only one, Meyer, first baseman for the 'Plains, was unable to finish. Bound Brook made seven of its eleven hits in the seventh inning. The score by innings

HURT IN RUNAWAY ON NORTH AVENUE.

The kingbolt of the shafts of a runabout driven by Alfred Widdowson broke at the corner of North avenue and Park on Saturday afternoon at about 6 o'clock frightening the horse which promptly ran away. The sudden stoppage of the vehicle threw the two occupants, Mr. Widdowson and James Glaser, five years old, both of Alton, out and the little fellow received several cuts and bruises.

Simon Sobel, of New York, who was passing the corner at the moment of the accident jumped to the side of the wagon and throwing his weight against the wheels prevented it from falling on top of and crushing the Glaser boy. Glaser was taken to police headquarters where Dr. Albert Pittis dressed his wounds. The horse fell down after running as far as the North avenue station and was returned to his owner by Patrolman Saffron.

Mr. Widdowson was not hurt much and after repairs had been made proceeded on his way home. Young Glaser had cuts on his knees, head and over the eyes.

Supplies at Trinity Church.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh Day Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit at Trinity Reformed church next Sunday morning and the following Sunday morning Rev. James T. Schock, retired, of this city, will preach. Announcements for the third Sunday in the month will be made later. On August 28 the church will be closed. The prayer-meetings will be conducted by the following persons: August 3, Rev. Royal A. Stout; 10, George L. Van Emburgh; 17, Rev. Royal A. Stout; 24, George L. Van Emburgh; 31, F. E. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Green, of Easton, Pa., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hartley, of 457 West Front street.

GOLFERS TIE IN 18-HOLE CONTEST

Notwithstanding that a majority of the members of the Plainfield Country Club are out of the city, there was a good field out Saturday on the links. The event was an 18-hole match play competition against par, 70, the players taking three-quarters of their handicap. The contest was keen and many close scores were made. In Class A, there was a tie for first place between William T. Glenney and E. T. Willson, both being three down to par, while E. P. Goodwin and H. D. Hibbard were four down.

In class B, there was also a tie for first place between Dr. F. E. DuBois and T. W. T. Maxwell, both being five down to par. J. P. Murray was six down, H. S. Brown and ten down and J. V. Beekman was fourteen down.

Besides the events on the course, the social features were much enjoyed. Superintendent John Hilton was kept very busy serving lunches and dinners at the clubhouse. Although so many members are away, those at home find the clubhouse a convenient place to get their dinners, and the service as well as the menus are most attractive. Every night the club is the centre of attraction in this respect.

HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR HENRY PIERCE

A memorrial service for the late Harry Pierce, who died July 7, was held at the Salvation Army tent, last night, under the direction of Captain Hewitt, and was of an impressive nature. The services opened with a hymn, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder I'll be There," after which Adjutant Mrs. Jackson offered prayer and Captain Hewitt read the Scriptures from I Thess., fourth chapter.

Many touching tributes were paid to the life of the departed one by those who knew him, especially his Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Minnie Apgar, who told of his life in the Sunday school, also his private life and his beautiful Christian character. Adjutant Mrs. Jackson and her daughter, Captain Jackson, sang a beautiful duet, entitled "One Day Nearer Home." The service was brought to a close by the singing of the favorite hymn of the departed, "Jesus Lover of My Soul.' Meetings were announced for Tuesday Thursday and Saturday, of this week.

STANDING ROOM ONLY AT NETHERWOOD CAMP.

A large attendance was on hand to hear Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp yesterday afternoon. Dr. Anderson interested the little folks from the beginning to the end of his remarks. Miss Laura Gesswein and Miss Jessie Haynes were the soloists and the singing by the children was remarkably fine.

The meeting was led by James F. Parker. The seating capacity of the pavilion was taxed beyond its limit so that many persons had to stand outside and listen without being able to see. It was the largest gathering of the season and went far toward encouraging the workers at the camp.

Small Fire in Cellar.

NICKEL COST ZELLER $25

Fined for Assaulting Supervisor George Luhr and Thomas Duffy.

FINAL SCENE OF ROW IN JULY.

Judge Runyon Declares Rowdyism on Trolley Cars Must Cease—Next Fine Will be Heavier.

It cost Theodore Zeller, of Leland avenue, just twenty-five dollars for refusing to pay a nickel to the Public Service Railway this morning when Judge William N. Runyon declared that he would put a stop to rowdism in the trolley cars if the big fines could accomplish that object. Zeller will probably not repeat his offense.

On July 23, according to the evidence of George Luhr, conductor Thomas Duffy, Mrs. Lorensen, William Brown, a machinist, of Garwood and Edward Green, an employee of the Levering and Garigue Company, Zeller refused to pay his fare on a main line trolley car when it arrived at the fare zone at Terrill road on the afternoon of Saturday, July 23. On being informed that he would either have to pay or get off the car he refused to do either.

Following the main line car was a special with some sunday-school children bound on a trolley ride around the loop. This special was in charge of Supervisor of the fifth division George Luhr and when his car arrived at the corner of Terrill road and he noticed that the car ahead was being delayed he went forward to inquire the cause. When Duffy informed him of the action of Zeller, Luhr entered the car and explained the situation and rules of the company to Zeller and gave him five minutes in which to make up his mind to either pay or get off. At the end of this time, Zeller continued to refuse to act either way and Luhr declared he would have to get off.

When Luhr took hold of Zeller's arm to enforce his command, it is alleged that Zeller struck him in the face and after getting the superv'sor down attempted to choke him. Conductor Duffy then pulled Zeller off Luhr who got up and gave the order for the car to proceed, the total delay on the line having been eight minutes.

When the car reached Leland avenue, Zeller got off the car after handing the fare to Duffy, but his belligerancy had not ceased. Here it is alleged that Zeller again offered to fight Duffy and the testimony showed that he made a pass at the conductor and offered to fight either Duffy or Luhr for $5.

There were no witnesses to testify in behalf of Zeller, whose counsel, Judge William Newcorn, admitted a technical violation of the peace. Judge Newcorn made a strong plea for leniency in behalf of his client while Clarence L. Case, counsel for the Public Service Company demanded that punishment adequate to the offense be administered.

Judge Runyon said that the testimony of the witnesses was convincing enough to make him believe that Zeller was guilty of the offense charged and fined him twenty-five dollars, saying that if this fine did not act as a deterrent he would make the fine for the next offense heavier.

The girl claimed that she was not incorrigible but that the father had driven both her and her mother from their home a week ago and since that time she and her mother had been making their home with a half sister, a Mrs. Day, who lived in the Big Woods, near Jerusalem road, it being her intention to stay there until she could find a position. 13th Annual August Sale of Furs

And for our patrons the luckiest sale of the series. Thirteen years ago we inaugurated the first August sale of furs ever held in Newark, At the time people smiled at the idea, but on verifying the truth of our statement, since then oft repeated, that the same furs a few weeks later would cost 25 per cent. to 33⅓ per cent. more than the August sale prices, the extraordinary advantage of these sales has been increasingly appreciated and almost universally acted upon in this city.

A Genuine Saving of From 25 per cent. to 33⅓ per cent.

As possibly you are aware manufacturers at this season of the year are more than willing to make sacrifices in price in order to get their autumn and winter styles before the public well in advance of the actual need. As the manufacturing furriers represented in the great 1910-11 exposition now opening are numbered among the most prominent in the country, the styles may be relied upon as absolutely authoritative—the furs the finest procurable.

A Reasonable Deposit Secures Any Garment Until December 1st

The great advantages in this is that you pay us a deposit at time of purchase, and remitting in small amounts, have the entite garment paid for when fur time comes around.

Plainfield, N. J., August 1, 1910.

The Palinfield-Union Water Company has found it necessary to notify its consumers that unless they desist from using hose and lawn sprinklers, it will enforce the provisions under the terms by which water is supplied to them, and shut off the supply. The company did not believe that it would be obliged to take this step after the Mayor's proclamation, but as many consumers have persisted in using hose and lawn sprinklers, there was no other course left.

As stated by the company, in another part of this paper, it has treated its consumers with liberality in the past in the use of hose, but owing to the unusual conditions prevailing, has decided that it must insist upon the Mayor's proclamation being observed. It is believed that this latest warning from the company will be sufficient and result in a strict obedience to the rules. The attention of all consumers is called to the company's communication on the first page of this issue.

Proctor's Great Show.

Proctor's theatre has an unusually good show billed for the next three days, acts that will prove entertaining to all. Frederick E. Wright & Co., will present a dramatic episode of metropolitan life entitled 'The Master of Men.' There are four in the cast, each a finished performer. Husband, Dethridge & Co., will offer "The Spirit of '76," a live story of colonial days with a cast of five people, in two special scenes. "That" comedy Marionette act of Harry, May and Jim Margots is a headliner. The company carries its own scenery. The Vesuvious Four, singers from Italy, have an act that will interest lovers of music. The whole show will afford a fine evening's entertainment.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE CASE.

With a look of horror and indignation on her usually placid features, Miss Cynthia Barker sat back from the window of the elevated train, relates Youth's Companion. The train was speeding above a congested tenement district, and looking down from the window, she had seen a policeman clubbing a prisoner.

There had been a crowd round him, but the flashing speed of the train had given her no chance to take in the details of the picture. But she did get a clear view of the policeman's face. Of one thing she was certain: she would know the brute if she ever again saw him. And another thing she had determined: she would write an indignant protest against having such men on the police force and take it to an editor with whom she was personally acquainted.

That night she wrote her protest, and about noon of the next day started downtown to take it herself to her friend on the newspaper.

Her way led through a public park, and as she looked ahead of her she saw a policeman sitting on one of the benches. He was surrounded by children, to whom he was telling a story, and the picture increased Miss Cynthia's indignation toward the policeman of the day before. This, she told herself, was what policemen should be like—big, strong and tender-hearted.

She drew nearer and the policeman looked up at her over the head of a curly-haired youngster perching on his knee and playing with his brass buttons. It was the same policeman.

Miss Cynthia gasped. Then her step slackened. She hesitated, turned, and approached the officer. Her hand was on the letter in her pocket, and it gave her courage.

"Officer," she said, "may I ask you a question?"

"Certainly," said the policeman.

"Are you the same man who arrested yesterday somebody down in the North End and clubbed him unmercifully?"

The policeman nodded.

"I don't know about the 'unmercifully,' ma'am. But I did take a chap down there yesterday, and I did use the club a bit on him."

"I saw you," said Miss Cynthia, "from the elevated. It was terrible! How can a man who seems to love little children treat a fellow being in that awful fashion?"

The policeman thought it over.

"No."

"Well, if you had, maybe you would have noticed that they were just ripe to rescue him. You see, ma'am, I don't really like to club a fellow being, as you call him, any more than you do. What I like better is to sit here in the park and tell yarns to these youngsters. But the fact is, ma'am, if I hadn't used my club yesterday I wouldn't probably be sitting here today. Hospital or cemetery. If you'd been down there on the street instead of up in the elevated—"

Miss Cynthia nodded, and looked again from the man to the children impatiently waiting for him to resume the interrupted story.

"I think I see," she said, presently.

The Purist Behind the Counter.

"I've just happened to remember that my wife told me to get a tin pan that will go under the icebox. Have you any?"

"No, sir; but we have some that can be shoved under the icebox. Won't that do just as well?"

"I think not, young man. My wife is a bit particular about my getting the exact thing she tells me to get. I presume I can find it at some other store. Good day, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

He had been failing rapidly the greater part of the day. He suffered a sinking spell between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning from which he was revived only by the use of oxygen. His physicians said at the time that it could scarcely be hoped that his strength would hold out against another such attack. The second attack came at 6:30 o'clock last night and he weakened steadily to the time of his death. He was conscious, except when his heart action was weakest, up to within a minute or two of his death.

THINK BODY IN SURF MAY MEAN A MURDER.

Atlantic City, Aug. 1.—Julius Leithold, of Philadelphia, whose body was found on the beach at Longport on Wednesday night by William Goldenberg, son of County Prosecutor Clarence L. Goldenberg, is believed to have been a victim of foul play.

The body of the Philadelphian, which had been lying for two days in the morgue of Jeffries & Keates, in this city, was identified Friday, following the discovery of his clothing under the Boardwalk at Twenty-fourth avenue, Longport, less than a block from where Leithold's body was cast up by the waves. Letters bearing his name and other papers corresponded with the initials tatooed upon the right forearm of the dead man.

Suspicion that Leithold was lured to the presume scene of his death was aroused when blood stains were found upon the shirt the Philadelphian is known to have worn when he was last seen alive in this city on Wednesday.

Two cents was the only money found in the apparel, and the absence of a watch or jewelry of any kind lends color, the police believe, to the foul play theory. The other effects included business cards, a check drawn by Leithold to his own order on the Ninth National Bank of Philadelphia, and several postal-card pictures of the dead man in a bathing suit in a group of four other men.

Another strange circumstance is that searching parties who have been scouring the beach at Longport since early Thursday morning assert that the clothes must have been placed upon the beach Friday night, as the place where they were found was gone over thoroughly Friday.

County Physician Souder conducted an autopsy Saturday. He dos not accept the foul play theory, but admits the circumstances are suspicious.

One Thing that Went Wrong.

Editor, Goovius, of the Drearyhurst Banner, wrote an article on "The Plenitude of Prosperity."

He forgot to read the proof of the article.

After the entire edition had been worked off he happened to glance at the caption of that editorial.

The word "plenitude" had not been changed to "plentitude."—Chicago Tribune.

SADLER HAS TO FIGHT FOR JOB

Trenton, Aug. 1.—Following the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the preliminary phase of the quo warranto proceedings brought by former Adjutant-General R. Heber Breintnall to recover that office and oust General Wilbur F. Sadler, of this city, the information in the case was filed in the court Saturday. The decision permitted the filing of the information and thus gave the suit standing before the court. The suit is in the name of Attorney-General Wilson and is instituted at the relation of General Breintnall. The information requires Adjutant-General Sadler to show to the court by what warrant he claims to hold the office.

The paper, which was filed by McCarter & English, counsel for General Breintnall, recites that General Breintnall was commissioned as adjutant general February 25, 1903, and served until March 2, 1909. It shows that the adjutant-general of the State is a commissioned officer, and that by virtue of article VII, paragraph 6, section 1, of the State constitution, the term of the office continues until the voluntary retirement therefrom of the officer or his removal by the sentence of court martial, pursuant to law.

The information goes on to show that March 2, 1909, Governor Fort acting under the Vredenburgh retirement law issued an executive order purporting to relieve General Brientnall from the office, putting him from the retired list and assigning Colonel Frederick Gilkyson assistant adjutant general to act in his stead. Then it is shown that following his appointment by Governor Fort, April 15, 1909, General Sadler was commissioned for the office.

General Breintnall sets out that his retirement was contrary to his will, that he then desired and still desires to continue in the office. He claims that the executive order and the subsequent nomination by the Senate and Commissioning of General Sadler was illegal and void. It is claimed that the governor has no power to make such an order and that the retirement law of 1909 is unconstitutional because it violates the paragraph of the constitution referred to.

The preliminary phase having been settled in favor of General Brientnall the case will now be tried on its merits. It is expected that it will be argued before the Supreme Court at the November term.

CLAIMS TO BE SON OF COLONEL SWOPE.

The executors of the estate of the late Colonel Thomas H. Swope, of Kansas City, are taking evidence at Flemington in the case of the executors of the said estate against Elmer C. Swope, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who claims to be the son of the late Colonel Swope, although the executors contended that it was a Peter M. Swope that was the father of the claimant.

It is claimed by his attorney that Peter M. Swope married in the West before Elmer Swope's mother died. The records here show that the man who married Elizabeth Carroll on March 7, 1861, married her under the name of Srope and not Swope.

Testimony was taken here in the office of Willard C. Parker. Dr. Isaac S. Cramer, of Flemington, who practiced medicine for more than half a century in the vicinity of Sergeantsville, testified that he was present at the marriage of Miss Carroll, which took place at the home of the bride's parents. He was called at the birth of Elmer Swope on June 3, 1862.

The man who married Miss Carroll is said to have been known to but few persons in the vicinity of Sergeantsville, where Miss Carroll lived. It is contended by the claimant that while buying horses for the government in 1861 the late Colonel Swope became acquainted with Miss Carroll and married her. In the event of Elmer Swope establishing his kin to the late Colonel Swope he will receive somewhere in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

Octogenarian Pedestrian.

In Joseph Edwin Walker, eighty-two years old, of 405 Chilton street, it is believed Elizabeth has the champion long-distance walker, age considered. Mr. Walker frequently walks twenty miles a day. He is actively engaged in the real estate business here. He was born at New Bedford, Mass., on the anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, June 17, 1788. He has a son, who lives in Newark. To walk to his son's office in Newark and back is just a bit of exercise for the octogenarian.

Short Strike at School.

Because the bricklayers brought from Staten Island to work on School No. 12 in Bayonne were not certified to by the local union a strike was declared by local men yesterday. Through the efforts of President Benny of the Board of Education, the local union certified to the Staten Islanders' cards and work was resumed.

Reasons Why We Have Decided to Have An AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

Our July Furniture Sale, just passed, takes rank with the best held by any concern anywhere, and in some respects it is greater than any other. In one, at least, possibly greater than any, that being the reduction of prices on every piece of furniture in the house.

In this one particular feature the August Sale will differ from the July Sale. Otherwise it will hold out equally great inducements to the prospective furniture buyer. In fact, there are good reasons why we can offer you some SUITES AND PIECES FOR LESS MONEY THAN IN JULY, for during the sale just closed we were busy reorganizing our stock and taking the semi-annual inventory, both movements serving to bring too forcibly to our notice the fact that our stocks are rather too heavy for comfort---and we feel the necessity of disposing of several thousand dollars' worth regardless of profit---hence the August Sale.

THERE IS ANOTHER REASON. All those patterns we or the manufacturers have decided to discontinue must be disposed of immediately. These will be amongst the best bargains of the sale we begin today.

You'll Find Furniture Bargains Aplenty

Chairs, Rockers, Bedsteads, Toilet Dressers, Chiffoniers, Dressers, Cheval Glasses, Side Tables, Sideboards, Umbrella Racks, China Closets, Mission Furniture, Desks, Bookcases, Tables, Hanging Glasses, Couches, Gold Furniture, Music Cabinets, Wash Stands, Desk Chairs.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

A SUMMER GIRL.

She wears a saucy hat,
And her feet go pitapat
As she walks
And the sweetest music slips
From her saucy little lips
When she talks.

She fascinates the street
With her gaiters trim and neat,
Made of kid.
For they twinkle as they pass
Like the rillets in the grass
Halfway hid.

Her skin is soft and white
Like magnolia buds at night
On the bough,
But for fear she'd be too fair
There's a freckle here and there
On her brow.

Dimples play at hide and seek
On her apple blossom cheek,
And her chin
Shyly beckoning to you:
"Don't you think it's time to woo?
Pray begin."

Then her winsome, witching eyes
Flash like bits of summer skies
O'er her fan
As if to say: "We've met.
You may go now and forget—
If you can."

—Red and Black.

A la John Carter.

"I see that two convicts were shot and killed while escaping from a penitentiary."

Senator Nelson's Prospects.

"As old Knute goes, so goes Minnesota."

That is the theory on which the great mass of Republican voters in Minnesota decide public questions of moment, according to a member of the house from that state.

They tell a story in the senate cloakrooms about a campaign orator who was delivering speeches in Minnesota. He marveled at the hold Nelson had on the people of the state. One day he was discussing the subject with a Norwegian political boss. To his amazement he discovered that the rest of the folks in Washington who were generally supposed to have something to do with shaping the destiny of the nation were a lot of amateurs when compared with Nelson. He therefore decided to put the matter to a supreme test.

"Knute Nelson," the Norwegian boss had declared, "he ban smart fellar; smartest feller in whole worl'."

"Do you think Nelson is as smart as the Almighty?" the campaigner asked.

"Waal," answered the Norwegian, scratching his head reflectively, "Knute he ban young feller yet."—Washington Times.

All She Had.

Little Ethel hobbled into her mother's room to complain that her button shoes hurt her feet.

"Why, my dear, you've put them on the wrong feet," said her mother.

With a puzzled expression the child said:

"Well, what will I do, mamma? They's all the feet I've got."—Success Magazine.

Too Dangerous.

Mr. Church—Whew, how it's raining! Lend me your umbrella, dear. I've got to run over to the vestry meeting.

Mrs. Church.—But why not use that umbrella you've been carrying all week?

Mr. Church—What! To the vestry meeting? Why, that's where I got it.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Fish Story.

Bill—Gill was just telling you some fish lie, wasn't he?

Jill—Yes. But how did you know?

"Oh, I saw him stretching out his hands as if to describe the size of a big fish."

"Yes; he was telling me of the one you told him you caught."—Yonkers Statesman.

No Details Needed.

Mrs. Blank—The paper tells of a postmaster who was appointed by John Quincy Adams and has held the position ever since. Was he an unusually good man, do you think?

Mr. Blank (an experienced citizen)—Oh, not at all, not at all. It was an unusually poor office.—New York Weekly.

Her Nationality.

When small Sigrid made her first appearance in an American school she was asked the usual puzzling questions, one of which was:

"What is your nationality, Sigrid?"

Sigrid tossed her flaxen braids. "I'm an American of Norwegian design," she said promptly.—Harper's Magazine.

The Refinement of Assurance.

Busy Business Man (irately)—Sir, I didn't ask you to sit down!

Persistent Salesman (settling back comfortably)—That's all right; no apology is necessary. I knew it was only an oversight.—Harper's Weekly.

Strategy.

"Why do you make that patient wait three hours every day in your anteroom?"

"He needs rest," explained the doctor, "and that is the only way I can compel him to take it."—Ideas.

THE JUNGLE HAT.

A SAILOR SHAPE FOR THE SUMMER GIRL.

Could anything be better adapted to keep off the rays of the sun and at the same time prove a becoming frame for a pretty girl's face than the sailor hat seen in the picture?

It is called the Roosevelt or jungle hat and was suggested to an English designer of woman's millinery after looking at the hat "our Teddy" wore while in Egypt. The necessary feminine modifications were made, and the hat stands a blessing to the girl who goes out much in the strong sun or who loves canoeing.

A Return to Nature.

"I'm sick of this bony style of beauty," a man was heard to remark a few days ago. "This walking skeleton, bisected, hollow cheeked, meager creature that the modern woman has made herself into does not suit me. I like it when I see a plump, comfortable, round faced, laughing eyed woman with a waist which does not suggest torture and indigestion."

Whether this is a sign of a "return to nature" in the body of woman one cannot tell. This may be but "the one sane wail from the one sane man," but it is set down as a possible straw which may indicate a change in the wind.

A wealthy New York woman went to her physician recently. She was "feeling bad" in a good many different ways. He asked her all sorts of questions and discovered that she was engaged in the same mad hunt that nine-tenths of our women are carrying on for slenderness and the invisible waist.

"Madam," he said sternly, "you need no medicine. All you need are three square meals each day, with perhaps three or four hours of good hard housework and plenty of fresh air."

You can imagine how mad she was.

Parson a Mossback on Suffrage.

There's a clergyman in England who does not want women to get their rights. He says so frankly and vows that if women ever get them he will leave the country. He is the Rev. A. J. Waldron, vicar of Brixton. "Women want their rights," said he. "When they get them I will emigrate." He does not see why women should wish to enter politics or even want to vote. His contention is that women should remain at home, should not work for a living unless absolutely compelled to and should give up women's clubs. He says women are destined for the home and should not be permitted to vote.

When Genius Burns.

When she is writing, Mrs. Wilson Woodrow says, she wants to bite something hard. So she keeps near her a box of brittle candy. One day she found that she had eaten a whole pound of it during her work upon a single chapter of "The Beauty." Another time she was working with a glass penholder and bit it clear in two.

Cooling Drinks.

Tea to be iced should be made rather stronger than for drinking hot, as illustrated. When it has stood seven minutes pour it from the leaves, sweeten it to taste and stand it in a refrigerator for seven hours. Serve in dainty glasses with a spoonful of vanilla ice cream on the top.

Pear Water Ice.—Peel, core and cut into thin slices eight good sized pears, put them in a saucepan with half a pound of sugar, one and a half pints of water, two inches of cinnamon stick, rind of two lemons and cook till the pears are tender. Remove the rind and the cinnamon and rub through a sieve. Mix in a little red coloring to give it the desired tint, add one cupful of sirup and the strained juice of two lemons. Set aside to cool and freeze. This will make one quart of ice.

FIRST AND THE FIFTH REGIMENTS BREAK CAMP

Camp Fort, Sea Girt Aug. 1.—The First and Fifth regiments broke camp Saturday afternoon to make way for the Fourth Regiment, Battery A and the Signal Corps.

Governor John Franklin Fort sent a letter to the colonels of the Fifth and First regiments, Hines and Fraser, congratulating them on the fine order which prevailed here last week and upon the excellent appearance of their men on all occasions. General Edward A. Campbell, commander of the First Brigade, also issued a letter of commendation to the colonels of the two regiments that have been in camp.

Shortly after the two regiments broke camp a small army of camp attendants with wagons made a tour of the field and placed everything in order for the arrival of the Fourth Regiment from Jersey City.

The special train bringing the Jersey City men arrived here at an early hour, and forming in line at the railroad square, led by Colonel Brinkerhoff, they swung into the grounds. They were reviewed by Governor Fort and his staff and General Edward A. Campbell.

The East Orange battery did not arrive until this morning, as the men of that organization left their home armory in that city early Saturday morning on their hike across New Jersey to this place, while the Signal Corps men, under the command of Captain Perkins, also left their quarters, and are on a hike with a schedule that calls for their arrival here today.

The other day, when the First Regiment battalion went down near the ocean front and threw up a lot of breastworks and dug entrenchments, the men had a fine time and the battalion was brought back to camp, leaving the entrenchments standing. It just happened that the work was done on the land of a property owner and not on property owned by the State. The property owner had an idea the guardsmen should replace the dirt and restore the place as it looked before they dug the trenches. He made a complaint about the matter and men were sent to fill in the trenches and fix it up to the satisfaction of the owner of the land.

Lieutenant Frederic A. Reimer, who is in charge of the detail from Battery A, which has had the work of firing the salutes and the sunrise and the sunset guns, will be glad to see his organization enter camp today. Lieutenant Reimer is an enthusiastic guardsman and the men on the detail in the past week have performed their arduous duties satisfactorily.

ASBURY PARK PLANS FOR BABY PARADE.

Not even the great rush of popular enthusiasm over aviation, the exposition of which is the latest fad Asbury Parkers have espoused, can quite smother interest in the baby parade, which, though not heard of much this summer until now, is beginning to loom up strongly. The promoters have decided to fire all of their big guns at the time the aviation crowd is in town, and a plan is also being considered to put in various entertainment specialties between the dates of August 20 and 30, marking the end of the aviation meet the beginning of the annual baby parade carnival, so that visitors may be attracted by what will be practically one month of special celebrations, closing the first week of September.

Harold B. Ayres, chairman of the carnival committee, has opened up his offices upon the boardwalk, and already parents of hundreds of little children are inquiring there daily concerning particulars of the fete. These are told that the baby parade itself will this year mark the wind-up of festivities, occurring on the afternoon of September 2 with the masque fete. Queen Titania will be crowned August 30, and in connection with this there will be a playlet. The court ball will come off August 31.

SIXTEEN INNING BATTLE

Plainfield Baseball Club and Mc Nulty Bros.' Team Unable to Reach Decision.

SCORE WAS A TIE—TWO TO TWO.

After Fourth Inning It was Nip and Tuck Between Pitchers—Sensational Fielding a Feature.

After one of the longest and most exciting games of baseball ever seen in this city, the Plainfield Baseball Club divided honors with the McNulty Brothers' nine, of New York city in a sixteen inning battle at Crescent oval Saturday afternoon. The game had to be called on account of darkness, the score at the end being 2 to 2. Both teams were out for blood and neither of them would give in until the last drop was shed and so the two hundred loyal fans, who had taken the trip to the oval with the expectation of seeing a ogod game, came far from being disappointed.

It looked at the start as if the New Yorkers were going to take the Plainfield scalps again for they opened the game auspiciously by landing men on second and third with only one down. But McLaughlin was there in the tight hole and easily retired the next two batsmen. Then in the second inning, the visitors made their first tally, Carrol, the first man up, got to first on an error by Barnes and stole second, coming home when Mullin returned Archer's hit in the skyward direction over Mullin's head. Another run was added to the McNulty score in the third round, when "Warry" made a balk thus giving Morris a free trip to the first sack. The Plainfield pitcher followed this with a free pass to Carroll and Morris scored on Donley's hit.

By this time Plainfield fandom was getting anxious and the crowd began to yell for someone to start the ball a rolling. Well it started in the fourth inning. With one down, Emery singled and Jack Martin advanced him a peg in his usual sly way—and Jack was safe too. Then Barnes added a hit to the collection but Emery had to stop on third. Nelson flied out to short right and it began to look as if another golden opportunity would be lost by the Plainfield team. But "Warry" McLaughlin hadn't been counted on when that figuring was done, and he was the next man at bat. The husky pitcher selected his favorite stick and stepped to the plate like the Casey of old. But unlike the famous batter of the Mudville nine, Warry was equal to the occasion and saved his own game by slamming a sizzling two bagger into deep center, scoring Emery and Martin.

Of course, the crowd was thrown into wild delight at this climax but in the jubilee, the fans in the grandstand along the first base line became too boisterous and the stand collapsed, throwing fifty loyal baseball rooters into an undignified heap. Fortunately no one was injured in the accident but the game stopped for several minutes.

After the fourth inning the game was a constant see-saw, back and forth. Plainfield really should have won out in the eighth if there had only been a little careful base running. Brit Martin opened the eighth with a beautiful two sacker, but overran third in attempting to purloin that station and was tagged out. And that was just the aggravating part of it for Boyd, the next batsman, laced out a clean single. This was the last chance that either team had of getting anywhere near that winning tally.

Both pitchers were in excellent form although the Plainfield slab artist seemed to have the better of the argument. Warry's pitching was stronger in the sixteenth than in the opening round. The locals banged Archer for thirteen hits while the New Yorkers only managed to get nine safe clouts from McLaughlin's delivery. Six errors were charged aaginst the locals, two of them being responsible for a run.

McLaughlin and Barnes were the leading sluggers for the Plainfield nine while Boyd, Emery and the two Martin brothers, carried off the fielding honors. Brit and Jack Martin each pulled off plays that were little short of sensational. Pfeiffer was the whole show for the visitors, his work at short being responsible for thirteen put-outs.

HAD TO GIVE UP PASSES.

Atlantic City, Aug. 1.—City fathers are deeply incensed because their passes were ignored on trolley cars of the Atlantic City and Shore Railway, Friday, and they, with other officials, including Mayor Stoy, were given the alternative of paying a nickel like any other citizen or getting off the cars. The passes were suddenly suspended, in accordance, it is said, with a new State law forbidding the granting of free transportation upon lines controlled by the new Public Utilities Commission.

The situation here, however, is complicated by the fact that all of the franchises of the Atlantic City and Shore Railway, which was incorporated by Philadelphians to lease the rapid transit service of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the city, specifically provided for free passes for all public officials. City Solicitor Wootton believes the trolley company is breaking its contract with the city in requiring councilmen to pay or walk, and the matter may be taken into court.

Chalmers MOTOR CARS

Announcement of 1911 Models

IN announcing the Chalmers models for 1911, the most noteworthy fact is that in all vital features they remain the same as the cars that have created world's records for efficiency, endurance and speed—such as winning the Indiana and Massapequa trophies—blazing the way from Denver to Mexico City and mapping the path for the Glidden Tour of 1910. Trade papers last year gave the Chalmers the title of "Champion Cars."

The best evidence of Chalmers merit, however, is not the trophies won in tests of all kinds, but thousands of satisfied users, the majority of whom have the means to purchase cars of any kind.

Look over the list of automobile buyers in your own community and see if this statement is not true. Talk to some of the Chalmers owners; their enthusiasm will prove our claims.

In general, the greatest improvement on the 1911 Chalmers consists in refinement of detail, like the artist's final touch to the masterpiece. Lines have been beautified in body and fender, so that—viewed from any angle—no car, whether it costs $5,000 or more, affords more eye-delight than the Chalmers.

In detail—the curves just back of the tonneau doors have been straightened out, making the low, rakish, straight-lined bodies which every maker strives so hard to obtain. The seats have been lowered, adding materially to the riding comfort.

The tonneaus of both "30" and "Forty" have been made longer and wider. The fenders have been changed slightly, adding to the graceful appearance of the car and at the same time affording greater protection from water and mud.

The angle of the steering post has been changed slightly so as to allow more space between steering wheel and driving seat.

The battery box has been placed under the rear floor and a tool box big enough to hold a pump placed on the left running board, a change that every driver will praise.

New style carburetors are used on both motors and their economy and uniformity of operation under all conditions will surprise every buyer,

On the "30" we furnish a Bosch magneto, big new-style gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank and a special Chalmers top— all for $200 additional.

As in former years, the Chalmers principle is not to make as many cars as possible, but to make them as good as possible. Chalmers cars are built on a quality, not a quantity basis. We regret that we could not furnish cars of the 1910 models for all who wanted them. We fear that some may have been offended at being told they could not get the cars they wanted: It is sometimes harder to tell a man he can't have a thing than to show him why he ought to have it.

We would like to take care of everyone who wants a Chalmers car, and yet it is not our ambition to build cars in very large quantities; hence we would advise you to place your order early.

Deliveries to customers begin August 1st.

MIDSUMMER AT THE LAKE

BOAT RACE ON FRIDAY.

Camp "Ram's Horn" a Centre of Attraction—Interesting Notes About Plainfielders at Hopatcong.

With the arrival of the midsummer season at Lake Hopatcong has come the great August influx of tourists and visitors, who, together with summer residents, haave filled that whole region with life and activity. The lake shore and its islands are dotted with hundreds of campers and boats.

The present season at the Hotel Breslin has eclipsed all those of the past. The hotel is crowded to its utmost capacity with summer folks that include many Plainfielders. On last Sunday over 1,200 guests were served with luncheon, and many had to be turned away.

The fishing boat race which was to have been held last week off Nolan's Point, was postponed because of a change in rules and will now take place Friday afternoon. James Rishor is in charge of the arrangements and now has about thirty entries. The Plainfield boats to take part are "Hardtack," owned by Clarence Teel, of Craig Place, and "Woodie," owned by Edson Woodhull, of West Front street.

Camp Ram's Horn, on Halsey Island, conducted by Tom Muir, was visited by a party of west end people Sunday who enjoyed dinner beneath the pine trees and afterwards had a pleasant launch ride about the lake. The party included. Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInnes, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Miller, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Robinson, Mrs. James Stewart, Mrs. John Rogo, Miss Flora Miller and Miss Edith Robinson. Guests at the camp this week are William Coddington, of Grove street, who arrived Sunday for a two weeks' stay; Frank Duer, of New York; William Lawrence, of Brooklyn, and Edward Keim, of Philadelphia. Roy Adams and John Viebrock, of Netherwood, will arrive at the camp Thursday for a week's stay.

Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilber, of Westervelt avenue, who spent the month of July in Maine, reached the lake yesterday and will occupy their cottage, "Elkwood," for the remainder of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Blake B. Tatham, of Baltimore, their daughter and son-in-law have been at he cottage for the past two weeks and will remain until the middle of the month.

Andrew E. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, and J. J. Kenney, of East Second street, have leased "Sanford Oaks" cottage, in Great Cove and with their families will occupy it for the present month.

George Wilson, of Madison avenue, is tae latest arrival at camp "There-He-Goes," on Halsey Island. He will remain two weeks. Mr. Wilson, or "Pusher," as he is known to his many friends, is prominent in amateur minstrelsy and has been invited to take part in the annual minstrel show of the Lake Hopatcong Yacht Club. He will probably be one of the end men.

Mrs. Anna Moore, Miss Hazel Moore and Carlton Moore, of West Fifth street, and Miss Evelyn Hillman, of West Fourth street, who enjoyed cottage life near Bass Rock for the month of July returned home yesterday.

The Misses Rae and Anna Warnock, of Craig place, and Miss Elsa Palmer, of Fanwood, are guests at Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hayne's cottage, "Chotola," in Great Cove. Miss Anna Warnock will probably remain all summer.

Russell Morris, of West Seventh street, is spending a week at Barwood cottage as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Woodhull. He will return to Plainfield Friday and will leave soon after for a two weeks' canoeing trip in New Hampshire with Frank Wilcox and Edward Abbott.

Miss Mayme Brady, of West Front street, is spending two weks with a party of friends at "Woodland" cottage in the River Styx.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ivamy, of West Second street, are guests at Schafer's hotel in Breslin cove. They will remain until August 15.

Juniors in New Rooms.

Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last night for the first time in its new rooms in the Stillman building on West Front street. The rooms have been handsomely refurnished, making them most attractive. The State convention of the Haymakers' Association will be held in the same rooms.

SET ASIDE $22,000 FOR CONTINGENCY FUND

The Common Council, at its August meeting, last night, decided on $22,000 for the contingency fund for the coming year, as against $23,000 last year. This fund is intended to cover any necessary expenses between the estimated budget and the actual amount needed for the year's expenses.

While it cannot be told at this time what the tax rate for the coming year will be, members of the Common Council say that it will be less than this year. The members in making up the budget have sought to curtail expenses as far as possible with a view to lowering the tax rate.

SOMERSET G. O. P. PLANS FOR CLAMBAKE

Mayor N. B. Smalley, B. R. Waldron and E. P. T. Smith, of the borough, attended the meeting of the Somerset County Republican Committee at Somerville, yesterday, when plans for a clambake and outing to be held sometime this month were discussed. Mr. Smalley was made chairman of the outing committee and this will insure a good time for those who attend. Considerable time was taken up in discussing plans for the fall campaign.

Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield; Robert Kay, of Bernardsville, and Joseph Fitzga, of Somerville, all candidates for sheriff, met the committee and presented their claims for recognition. The opinion seemed to be that Mr. Sebring is at present the strongest candidate in the field.

T. S. ARMSTRONG'S NEW STORE ON VIEW TODAY

The renovated drug store of Thomas S. Armstrong, at the corner of Park and North avenues, which has been opened to the public for the first time today, leads one to believe Mr. Armstrong when he says that it is the finest and most up-to-the-minute establishment of its kind in the state. The entire store has been changed, and it is hard to reconcile the present surroundings with those of a couple of months ago.

The furnishings of the store, including the show cases, are of solid mahogany and plate glass, the trimmings of the wood being of gold, making a magnificent combination pleasing to the eye and rich in its solidity. Perhaps the most notable feature of the north side of the store is the new soda fountain. It is claimed that this fountain has not its duplicate in Jersey. It is built of solid onyx, with silver trimmings. Surmounting the soda counter is a gun-metal electric umbrella lamp, with a solid onyx base weighing something over two hundred pounds. Around the sides of the store, arranged at exact intervals, are ten "hornet nest" lamps, with Japanese trimmings, well calculated to fascinate the observer.

In the center of the store are arranged three solid mahogany serving tables which serve two purposes. These tables are covered with plate glass show cases, which serve to attract the soda drinker with their contents. Ice cream will also be served at these tables, which are supplied with adjustable seats from which an entire view of the store may be had by simply turning them from one point to another.

A feature of the prescription department and one which will be advantageous to physician and patient alike is the new system of card index employed in the arrangement and care of the drugs, none of which are exposed for sale in the store proper. Mr. Armstrong has engaged Miss Henrietta Hanson as cashier, and Carl Staples, of New York, as soda dispenser. The store will be open for business tomorrow. Tonight will be given up to reception of friends and those who care to inspect the new establishment. Many people have taken advantage of visiting the new store today.

The new floor which is also a feature of Mr. Armstrong's store, is a new composition called Compolite. It is of great resiliency and makes walking on it a pleasure. The whole scheme of the decorations and furnishing is one to give pleasure to the beholder.

Miss Etta Trembley, who for the past five years has been cashier and bookkeeper at Smalley Bros.' market on North avenue, has resigned her position.

ANOTHER ROWDY FINED

Charles Hill Mulcted to the Tune of $40 for Creating Disturbance in Trolley.

GROSSLY INSULTED PASSENGER

Tore Conductor's Coat to Pieces and Kicked Motorman in the Face—Declared He Couldn't Remember his Acts.

For creating a disturbance on a main line trolley car at Washington and Fifth streets, last evening, Charles Hill was fined forty dollars in the city court this morning by Judge Runyon, who has determined, as he stated yesterday, to put a stop to rowdyism on the trolleys.

According to the testimony of Conductor Harry Hicks and Austin Woodruff, who was being broken in as a conductor, Hill boarded the car in Westfield and being under the influence of liquor, annoyed several of the passengers with vile talk and shoving the passengers about. Hicks remonstrated with Hill, who at once became abusive, and a young man who was conducting a party of children also objected to the man's language and helped the conductor attempt to quiet him.

In a minute there was a fight in which Hill was ejected from the car, during which Conductor Hicks' coat was nearly torn to pieces and the motorman, August Sederstadt, was badly kicked in the face by Hill.

In the meantime a crowd of two hundred people had gathered and, learning the cause of the disturbance, threatened to do bodily harm to Hill.

Police headquarters was notified and Chief Kiely, accompanied by Sergeant Overbaugh, hurried to the scene of the disorder. There they found two of the trolley crew holding Hill down, the latter making frantic efforts to get away, in the meantime using the vilest epithets to the men who were holding him and shocking the other passengers in the car. The language of Hill was so vile that many of the passengers held their hands over their ears to shut out the sound.

Judge Runyon roundly denounced Hill this morning, and said that Hill was the worst of all the trolley offenders yet brought before him, imposing the fine mentioned, with the alternative of spending the next twenty days in jail. Hill is married and has a son five years old. He declared he had no recollection of his acts.

COMMON COUNCIL ROUTINE

Little of Importance Considered at Session Lasting About One Hour.

SEVERAL PETITIONS RECEIVED.

Numerous Ordinances Passed to Third Reading—Official Returns of the Special Election.

The August meeting of the Common Council, last night, was one of the most important held in a long time. The session lasted about one hour, and a portion of that time was taken for a recess to allow the auditing committee to complete its work. Before the regular business was taken up, a public hearing was granted on the ordinance calling for the improvement of a portion of Leland avenue. No one spoke for or against the ordinance.

The Public Service Corporation called the attention of the members to the recent trial of the Tungsten lamps in the business section, explaining that they were not satisfactory to the merchants. It suggested installing cluster lamps, and offered to take the matter up with the light committee. The question was referred to that committee.

Residents of West Eighth street, between Grant and Hobart avenues, petitioned for lights, and another petition from the same section requested that a fire hydrant be installed on West Eighth street, west of Grant avenue. Both petitions were referred, as was also one from residents of West Fifth street, near McDowell street, asking that that thoroughfare be graded and improved.

The official returns of the special election, abolishing the voting machines in the city, were read by the clerk and filed, as was also a fire insurance policy on the Brush automobile used by Chief T. O. Doane.

The League of American Municipalities sent the usual invitation to the Common Council to attend the annual convention to be held this year at St. Paul, August 23-26. This was referred to the public affairs committee, and later Mr. Mygatt offered a resolution, as a joke, that the committee on laws and ordinances be sent to the convention and that a sum not to exceed $9 be appropriated for that purpose. Needless to say the resolution was not passed.

Clerk H. G. Adams, of the District court, reported receipts of $116.37 for the past month and expenditures of $32.87, leaving a balance of $83.50. Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported that he had granted twenty-seven permits, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of fifteen permits during the month.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, the city treasurer was authorized to borrow $3,000 on account of fire fund and $1,000 on account of poor fund.

Mr. Gloak moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, August 22, and he then offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the advertising for bids for doing the work and furnishing materials for macadamizing a number of streets as specified in recent ordinances. They will be received at the adjourned meeting.

Several ordinances were passed on third and final reading, including the one to extend the sanitary sewer system, one to improve a portion of Leland avenue, the general ordinance providing for police pensions, the one to govern the storage of gasoline and the supplement to the tax ordinance, while the ordinance calling for certain specifications and provisions in the future regarding all thoroughfares to be accepted as public streets was passed on second reading and ordered advertised. One amendment was made, however, before this was done, providing for public hearings when requested. Otherwise if the street commissioner approves the plans this will not be necessary.

At the request of the Public Service Corporation, the Common Council passed resolutions calling for four electric lights on West Front street, between Giraud and Grant avenues, and one at Bank place. These lights will now be installed. The previous action merely referred the petitions to the committee with power.

Plainfielders at Manhattan Beach.

Among recent arrivals at the Manhattan Beach Hotel, L. I., are H. B. Cubberly and H. M. Cubberly, of this city. Also at the Brighton Beach, Manhattan, are Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Barker, of this city.

Included in the late arrivals at the Ocean Avenue Hotel, Patchogue, L. I., is J. E. Prunillo, of this city.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE

THE LOSS AGGREGATES $1,000.

Both City and Borough Departments Work Hard to Save Property—Origin of Fire a Mystery.

Fire destroyed the candy shop and pool parlor of John Consoli, which is located at 43 Somerset street, at 3 o'clock this morning. The store was completely guttered, the loss of the stock amounting to over a thousand dollars. This is partly covered by insurance. A wholesale liquor store at 23 Somerset street, which is next door to the burned building, and a cigar store at 25 Somerset street, which is owned by Herman Keller, were slightly damaged by water and smoke.

The fire was discovered at 2.50 a. m. by one of the Plainfield policemen who immediately turned in an alarm from box 12. Marshall Keller, of the borough force, turned in an alarm for the North Plainfield department from box 141 at the same time, and both whistle and bell sounded their numbers in unison. The apparatus from the West Second street house and headquarters quickly responded and the North Plainfield combination hose wagon reached the scene of the fire at the same time.

The building at 43 Somerset street which is owned by Mrs. Lena Hoester, stands directly on the dividing line between the city and the borough. The building is numbered according to the Plainfield system, yet one corner of it lies in North Plainfield. But both the city and borough department started in to work on the fire without arguing about county lines or anything else. The fire spread spread quickly and it wasn't long before the inside of the building was completely wiped out. The water pressure was strong, fortunately, and the fire was soon gotten under control. It was completely extinguished within an hour.

The blaze originated in the rear of the store, but the cause of its origin is unknown. Consoli left the place at 12.30, and as far as he knew everything was all right at that time. Chief Doane spent considerable time this morning in an investigation, but was unable to obtain the clew to the origin of the blaze.

PROTEST AGAINST THE DELIVERY OF LIQUOR

The August meeting of the Dunellen Common Council was held in the town hall last night. C. E. Richards, president of the board, who is the acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Sandford, occupied the chair. Routine business was disposed of and several remonstrances from Michael Gallagher were heard. One of these was against the borough for allowing Plainfield liquor wagons to come into the borough with only a Plainfield and not a Dunellen license. Mr. Gallagher also called the council's attention to the carrying on of business by George Huff in his son's name. Marshal Benson was also reprimanded by Mr. Gallagher on the ground of being unfit for and neglect of duty.

The report of the sewer committee was received. It is planned that Dunellen join with North Plainfield in the trunk line sewer on a pro rata capita basis. An expenditure of $250 was recommended for the preliminary survey of the proposed sewers in Dunellen. Herring and Fuller of New York being recommended as the engineers. The report was referred to Walter Hetfield, Jr., the borough counsel, for its proper arrangement in legal form.

Gone to Attend a Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neidig, of Manning avenue, have gone to Pearl River, N. Y., to attend the wedding of Mrs. Neidig's cousin, Miss Emma Wielage to Fabien Doscher. It is to be a church wedding, the time being at 6.30 this evening, with a reception immediately after the ceremony.

Ill from Mosquito Bite.

Mrs. James Roach, of West Second street, is detained at her home with blood poisoning, the result of a mosquito bite. While her condition is not considered serious, Mrs. Roach is under the care of a physician and it will be some days before she will be able to leave the house.

MRS. MARY BACHE SMALL PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Mary Bache Small, wife of Frederick L. Small, and sister of Mrs. A. Clinton Wilmerding, of 518 Belvidere avenue, died of a complication of diseases at her home, 50 Convent avenue, New York city, on Saturday. She was thirty-five years old. Mrs. Small was a grand-niece of Col. Henry Rutgers and a lineal descendant of Benjamin Franklin.

She was Mary Lincoln de Peyster Bache before her marriage. She was the daughter of Andrew J. and Mary de Peyster Lincoln Bache, and was born in this city. She is survived by her husband and her only sister, Mrs. A. Clinton Wilmerding, the latter of this city.

W. L. SMALLEY JR., ACQUIRES VALUABLE CITY PROPERTY

Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr., of the borough, today closed the deal whereby he becomes the owner of the desirable residential property on the north corner of Park avenue and East Fifth street, formerly owned by Mrs. F. A. Pope, and now occupied by Dr. Charles G. Davis and Dr. F. E. DuBois. The present tenants hold a lease which runs until April, 1913, and Mr. Smalley cannot get possession until that time.

The property is 64x168 feet and is considered one of the best in that section of the city. Mr. Smalley has not definitely decided upon his plans for the future and he declined to discuss that part of the matter today when seen by a reporter for The Daily Press. The deal was made by Charles H. Lyman, real estate broker.

CHIEF DOANE GETS $75 FOR HIS TRIP

The Common Council at its August meeting, last night, voted $75 to cover the expenses of Chief T. O. Doane to the annual convention of fire chiefs to be held at Syracuse, N. Y. It was originally planned to give the chief $100, but some of the members favored the lesser amount. Mr. Montgomery, one of those voting against the $75 proposition, stated that Chief Doane could not stop in Syracuse for less than $7 a day, and that $75 would not be sufficient.

However, the majority of the members favored the $75 appropriation, and that sum was passed upon, Councilmen Montgomery, Mygatt, C. C. Randolph and Tolles voting against the resolution. They favored giving Chief Doane $100.

THREE DISORDERLY CASES BEFORE RECORDER DOLLIVER.

Miss Mary Willis, of Newark, was arraigned in the borough court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was arrested yesterday on Brook avenue by Chief Weiss. This woman had just served a sixty days' term in the Somerset county jail on the same charge. Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence on the condition that she would leave the borough immediately and if found there again she will be arrested at once.

Grico Guiseppi and Jimmy Tony, age 37 and 20 years respectively, were also arrested by Chief Weiss yesterday for disorderly conduct. Both men live on East Fourth street. They were each fined two dollars.

Garfield Nelson, colored, age 29 years, of Warren street, was fined three dollars by Recorder Dolliver on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was arrested Sunday night by Marshal Reinmann.

CHECK MAKER CAPTURED

Harry T. Clement and J. S. Klugman, Who Tried to Cash Them, Arrested.

RELEASED ON $200 BAIL.

City National Bank Cashed One Check for $36, but This Amount is Refunded—Result of Poker Game, 'Tis Said.

An alleged attempt to defraud the City National Bank was made yesterday and Saturday on two checks, one for $36 dated July 29 and the other for $105 dated July 30. The complaint was signed William F. Arnold, cashier of the bank and the arrests were made yesterday. J. S. Klugman, who claims to be the treasurer of the Independence League of New York, a Hearst organization, and Harry T. Clement, of South avenue, were the men accused. Both men were put under $200 bail, which was furnished, for a hearing on next Tuesday morning.

A poker game seems to have been the cause of the issuance of the two checks by Clement who has no account in the City National Bank. Clment, it is said, was the loser and in order to make his losses good gave the checks to Klugman who promptly attempted to cash them.

On Saturday Klugman presented the check for $36 to the bank and through a misunderstanding between the teller and Mr. Arnold the check was cashed. When Klugman presented the other check yesterday morning and the previous mistake having been discovered, Klugman was promptly taken into custody by Patrolman Saffron who had been called by Mr. Arnold.

This morning at a preliminary hearing before City Judge William N. Runyon the story of the issuance of the checks was told and during that process Clement exhonerated Klugman of wrong intent, but in order to thresh out the matter thoroughly Judge Runyon held both men in equal amounts. H. L. Stamper, a reporter for the New York Times produced $200 in cash as bail for Klugman and Clement was released by putting up a similar amount later.

When Clement's New York address was ascertained by Chief Kiely yesterday he promptly notified the detective firm of Byrnes and Sheridan, of New York to apprehend the man. They went to his office at 526 St. James building, but were unable to locate their man. Clement is a clothing designer and has his office at that address. However, Detective Sergeant Overbaugh was detailed to watch Clement's house and at 10 o'clock last night nabbed his man as he was about to enter his home. He was locked up in police headquarters over night as was Klugman.

In speaking of his arrest this morning Klugman declared that he personally had cashed the checks which were handed to him by Clement and that in order to get his money back had brought them to this city, and as the first check for $36 had been readily cashed he believed the larger one would also meet with a ready acceptance by the bank.

This does not, however, in the minds of those vitally interested in the matter explain why the two checks were not cashed by some bank in New York, taking the regular course through the clearing house. Klugman maintained that he brought the first check merely to ascertain whether Clement had an account in the local bank and not necessarily to get the money, but as the money was thrust at him through the paying teller's window he did not refuse it. Then, after assuring himself that the checks of Clemnt were all right he had no hesitation in presenting the second check for the larger amount.

It is a knotty question which will have to be solved by Judge Runyon next Tuesday. He will be helped by counsel for the two accused men, Francis J. Blatz for Klugman and Winfield S. Angleman for Clement.

The amount of the first check, $36, was refunded to the bank by Klugman yesterday.

Sold Just as Many Tickets.

The new rates of commutation, which affected the commuters yesterday for the first time, had no effect upon the number of these tickets sold for the month of August. Ticket Agent Stein reports no difference between the number of tickets purchased for this month and the number purchased for August of last year. The new rate is $7.85, an increase of twenty-five cents over the old one.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

With everything spic span new the shining George Evans and his Honey Boy Minstrels will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, August 10. From "The Crimson Trellis" first part set, by Ernest Albert, to the elaborate scenic embellishment of George H. Cohan's minstrel comedy "The Firemen's Picnic," which concludes the program, every offering of the Honey Boys will be staged with all the attention to the beautiful which money and the scene painters' art can devise. George Evans is surrounded this year by a corps of comedians and vocalists which will be fully able to continue the "idealized minstrelsy" policy that has ruled the offerings of this organization during the past three years, with Honey Boy Evans at the head of the fun makers, lovers of minstrelsy will see a comedian who compels laughter with an ease which is refreshing compared to the laborious efforts of some other minstrel luminaries. In all his monologue moments, he shows that he has mastered the art of knowing what to say, how to say it, and when to stop. There is no other single talker in this country who can make an audience so foolish as Evans. Hand in hand with the Honey Boy will be found John King, Sam Lee, Charles Hilliard, Clarence Marks, Tommy Hyde, Pierce Keegan, Vaughn Comfort, Jas. Meehan, Tom Kane, Wilson Miller and a host of others.

Rev. J. H. Cubberly, formerly of South Plainfield, but now of New York State, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church Sunday morning.

BLUE REIGNS SUPREME.

The sudden, certain popularity of blue in Paris and, incidentally, all over the world of fashion, has brought about an almost unprecedented use of blue for all occasions and a wild riot of shades, if anything so calmly satisfactory as blue can contribute to a riot. Certain it is that those vivid, warm and most royal shades are placed in very close juxtaposition to the greenish sea blues with a daring not dreamed of a few seasons ago; and then, too, their combination with purples and pinks is unprecedented in the past history of fashion.

Most useful is the well-known blue serge for traveling and all ordinary wear, and even this has been exalted to a place above its usual standard. Although its finish is still the tailor's best, its accessories are more elegant. Collars are worked with blue embroidery, as are jabots and turned-back cuffs. Various bits of cashmere patterned silk or figured foulard contribute to the general effect of the blue costume by color well placed on the revers. A simple blue serge street dress, belted at the waistline, shows a peep of chintz—the waistcoat—between fronts decorated by rows of tiny gold buttons. All brass, gilt and steel buttons are a feature of the blue serge garment.

Linens are ravishing in their blueness. The weave is canvas or the coarser hopsacking or the uneven crash or, again, the softer French, but one and all they are made more attractive by some unique decoration done in coarse linen floss in some curious contrasting blue, or by an eyelet treatment of whole sections of the gown, or even by the touch of blue and white India print or Chinese crepe.

Foulard has carried the day by its adhesion to this rule of blue. In no other plain or figured color could it have become so popular and at the same time have remained so choice. The dark-blue foulard is more durable than are some of the more delicate colors, and its cool aspect on the warmest day recommends it to be the place of the usual pretty wash dress.

Parasols of blue have even a more cooling effect upon the summer countenance than has the large blue hat. The blues of the hat vary, as do those of the parasol, from king's blue to Mediterranean.

The first is right royal, but is not so cooling in its effect upon the observer as is the sea blue, which is greener.

Green satin under chiffon of Mediterranean blue is a wonderful combination for the most perfect of evening models. Blue is a generally becoming color, but this phase of it has only lately been understood. Time was when only the most delicate of blondes wore blue with an assurance of its becomingness, and its use positively stopped with those of blue eyes.

Borrowing a color sense from the Japanese, or cultivating it, we have learned to love certain shades of so-called "old blue" with dark hair, a rich complexion and brown or hazel eyes. Royal blue is not so becoming to this type, but any blue verging on the dull or greener shades is fascinating with dark hair.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

Two Summer Hints to Housewives

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Preserving Kettles

We want to show you our complete line of Preserving Kettles, both in aluminum and agateware—all sizes.

Your choice of either depends upon whether you want the lightest weight, aluminum—or medium weight, agate.

Both kinds are made by two of the most reliable concerns in the country.

The prices are very reasonable as upon all that we sell.

There were a large number of friends and relatives of the departed at the services. A representation from the Newark lodge, No. 59, O. B. A. was also present. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, wreaths being sent by the various organizations of which Mr. Dreier was a member, and also by his friends and relatives.

Interment was made this afternoon at Gateville near Bound Brook. The pall bearers were: Morris Abrams, Nathan Meyers, Samuel Taub, Hyman Adelberg, Jacob Stanberg and Herman Moldezky.

SAYS JOHNSON THREATENED TO KILL HIM LAST MONTH.

Asserting that Albert Johnson, colored, a former employee of his barber shop, had threatened to kill him on July 27, William Burns, also colored, of Watchung avenue, had Johnson haled before City Judge William N. Runyon this morning, and the judge suspended sentence of a fine of $15 for breach of the peace. The fine will be collected if Johnson repeats his threats or in any way misbehaves himself.

Johnson claimed in his own defence that the trouble arose over indifferent payments of wages, and that although he had worked for Burns for upward of three years, he had always had more or less trouble with him, owing to Burns' temper being bad. Burns declared that the trouble arose out of Johnson's drinking proclivities, and a key to the front door of the shop which Burns alleges Johnson took away with him and would not return.

SILHOUETTE PHOTOGRAPHY.

Silhouette photography is not new; it has been practiced in all probability since impressions on sensitized paper were first introduced in the "fifties". I have also seen some remarkable daguerreotypes and ambrotypes in which the figures are taken, probably by mischance, in complete shadow, says a writed in The Strand Magazine. The chief draw-back to pictures which by accident, or the lack of adroitness on the part of the photographer, are made to appear in silhouette, is that the subjects do not stand out in perfect profile.

There remains, however, another plan, not less ingenious, and vastly more entertaining in its results. It consists in collecting profile snapshots, or making them for the purpose, and converting them into silhouettes by the very simple device of blackening with India ink and cutting away the background with a pair of scissors. A large album may, if the collector be industrious, be filled in this way with very fantastic and humorous specimens of celebrities in silhouette, ranging from royalties down to popular singers on the vaudeville stage.

The quantity of material at the disposal of the collector is enormous, because a wide range exists for his scissors in the numerous pictures of crowded race course enclosures, garden parties and military functions at which numerous persons of celebrity are customarily, if not invariably, present.

The Crowning Glory of the Shoemaker's Art is to Produce Dainty Pumps For Pretty Feet.

It's something of a task to turn out a well balanced, true fitting pump with graceful lines at the instep and prettily poised at the heel. But our Shoemakers do it. Do it because they know how and have regular pump lasts to do it on. Search the town over and you'll not find smarter looking, better fitting pumps than ours, and, this is important, too, the price is no greater than elsewhere, oftentimes less.

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK BY P. R. R. TRAIN AT ISELIN.

The automobile, which was hit by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the grade crossing at Iselin Sunday morning, is a complete wreck on the side of the road. The machine belongs to Charles Merrick, of 145 South Arlington avenue, East Orange, who was driving it at the time of the accident. A. J. Littell, of this city, saw the wrecked car yesterday and said this morning that he couldn't see how the elderly woman ever escaped death. The engine was cut right off the car just as if it had been sawed off. The car was a Buick. 1908 model.

The accident occurred at the crossing when Mr. Mellick stopped to inquire the road to Rahway, stalling his engine in so doing. The train bore down upon the party and Mr. Mellick tried to shove the machine out of the way but the emergency brakes were set and this proved of no avail. All the occupants of the car jumped out safely except an elderly lady in the back seat. She received a few slight cuts from broken glass.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

One of the easiest things in the world is to form the habit of grumbling. The occasional discontent at one's lot soon develops into chronic pessimism, a state of mind that sheds gloom around and completely overshadows the natural brightness of every normal healthy being.

There's an old saying that puts the matter in a nutshell: "If you can't have what you like, like what you have." Try to see the good that may lie far beneath the surface of your lot, but in the effort to unearth it there will be developed a greater strength to withstand the harder knocks of the world.

The grumbler is a very unwelcome person. He is in a constant state of displeasure with everything in general and himself in particular; it is a reputation that few of us envy or covet, and one that, if care be not used in the daily attitude toward life, will grow upon us until we are the slaves of a disagreeable habit.

JULY A RECORD BREAKER

Precipitation for the Month Was Less Than One-third of an Inch.

MAXIMUM TEMPERATURE LOW.

Local Weather Prophet Presents Interesting Facts and Figures for Quarter Century.

July established a record for being extremely dry, in fact never before in the history of the local weather bureau has there been a month like the one just passed. As for temperature, it was not as warm as some other July months, but as regards precipitation there has never been a month when so little rain fell. The total precipitation for last month was less than a third of an inch, or 0.33, to be exact.

The last heavy rain was on June 18, 1910. The amount was 1.47 inches. From that time until today, a period of 43 days, only 0.38 inches of rain fell, there being only 5 days that the rain was measurable.

For those interested, dates and amounts are here given, viz.: June 21, a trace; June 27, a trace; June 28, 0.05 inches; July 4, a trace; July 7, a trace; July 10, a trace; July 13, a trace; July 16, 0.08 inches; July 17, 0.04 inches; July 19, a trace; July 23, 0.05 inches; July 25, a trace; July 28, a trace; July 30, 0.16 inches.

The rainfall and normal from January 1, 1910, to August 1, 1910, are: January, 5.88 inches, normal, 4.15; February, 3.79 inches, normal, 4.02; March, 0.88 inches, normal, 4.36; April, 5.04 inches, normal, 3.75; May, 3.14 inches, normal, 4.15; June, 5.24 inches, normal, 3.78; July, 0.33 inches, normal, 6.14. Total, 24.30 inches; normal, 30.35. Deficiency, 6.05 for the 7 months.

Below is a record for the month in its entirety, both as to temperature and precipitation. Comparisons are also given so that, as a matter of record, it may be preserved for future comparisons:

For, July, 1910—Highest temperature, 98, date, 24th; lowest temperature, 50, date, 7th; mean temperature, 75.9; normal temperature, 74.5; mean maximum temperature, 89.0; mean minimum temperature, 62.9; mean daily range temperature, 26.1; greatest daily range temperature, 37; monthly range temperature, 48; total precipitation, 0.33 inches; greatest amount precipitation in 24 hours, 0.16, date, July 30. This amount fell in 1 hour and 10 minutes. Normal precipitation, 6.14 inches.

The number of rainy days with .01 inch or more were 4; number of days clear, 13; partly cloudy, 17; cloudy, 1; dates of thunder storms, July 16, 23, 28, 30, Prevailing direction of the wind was southwest. W. R. MARTIN IS MUCH PLEASED WITH OUTLOOK.

Candidate Martin visited Burlington County, where the Progressive Republicans are gaining a foothold and where they hope to take an active part in the primaries September 13.

"The outlook," said Mr. Martin, "is extremely encouraging. I find that the Republican voters are taking a deeper interest than ever in the politics in the State. Assurances of support are being received from many quarters. The Progressives are making headway. That's certain. There will be surprises for a lot of politicians on primary day."

Former Assemblyman Martin is preparing for a vigorous campaign in North Jersey and in other parts of the State. The Progressives are perfecting their organization in Hudson, Essex, Passaic, Bergen and Union counties. Speeches will be made in many places in these counties.

ESCAPED PRISONER IS FOUND IN NEW YORK.

Eckhart Maick, a prisoner in the Metuchen jail, who was serving the last week of a six months' sentence when an opportunity was afforded him yesterday to snatch the warden's keys he naturally took advantage of. Awaiting his opportunity, Maick quietly slipped out of the jail last night, taking the warden's bunch of twenty-four keys with him.

The warden is Enos Fourat, and if it must be told, he did not discover his loss until yesterday morning. Then he tried to force his way into the jail, but to no effect. Mr. Fourat then had recourse to the New York detective bureau, and through the efforts of two detectives recovered both the prisoner and his keys. At least this is the story which is going the rounds in police circles in New York today.

NEW IDEA CANDIDATES.

The New Idea men of Hudson county, New Jersey, held a meeting in Jersey City last night and agreed to recommend to the Republican Central Committee the following names for Republican candidates at the primaries in September. The list is composed of New Idea men:

George L. Record of Jersey City, for Congressman in the Ninth district; Rudolph Schroeder, of Hoboken, for Congressman in the Tenth district; Theodore L. Bierck, or Edgar B. Bacon, for State Senator; Jos. A. Murray, W. D. Ives, George Ruff, Edward A. Ransom, Jr., Joseph A. O'Connor, Charles H. O'Neill, Charles Frost, Philip Grece, John F. Kelly, Jr., and Arthur F. Norton, for Members of Assembly, and Ralph Young, of Kearney for County Supervisor.

Selections for minor nominations were also made.

WATER RESTRICTIONS IN GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

"Public Service", a monthly periodical issued in Chicago, has an interesting account in the August number of the water famine threatened at Grand Rapids, Mich., which is the home of Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and who is now there visiting his mother. The water plant at Grand Rapids is controlled by the municipality. During July all watering of lawns, parks, trees and shrubbery and all street sprinkling were prohibited by the city.

Commenting on the subject, "Public Service" says:

"City officials could not be criticized for adopting this rule and restricting the sprinkling of lawns to certain short portions of the day. These drastic makeshifts were rendered absolutely necessary because of the hazard to life and property from fire." It is further stated that during certain days in July all the high districts of the city were without water. There was no water in bathrooms in half the city area, which made such a grave menace from disease as to draw a protest from the board of health. Part of the trouble in Grand Rapids was due to faulty machinery at the pumping station, but in the main the conditions are no different from many large cities throughout the country during the past month.

AMBOYS' TROLLEY STARTS SCHEDULE TODAY

The Jersey Central Traction Company, after many false prophecies, is quite sure in its statement now that it will inaugurate its trolley service across the county bridge between Perth and South Amboy today. So sure is it that everything will be ready that it has invited the city officials of South Amboy and Perth Amboy, the county officials of Middlesex and the township officials of Sayreville to help them celebrate the event by riding over the line today and then dining and wining at Highland Beach as guests of the company.

The opening of this trolley line means much to those of this vicinity who enjoy trolley riding and want to go to the shore. At present the route is through Plainfield, Bound Brook and New Brunswick, in order to reach South Amboy and change to the Central Traction Company's line to the shore. Now they can go to Westfield junction and take the cars to Perth Amboy via Rahway by a much shorter route, materially reducing the running time. The Public Service Corporation will get the benefit of this travel, as it has an arrangement with the Central Traction Company by which it can run its cars across the bridge. It was only after this agreement was made that the Public Service Corporation withdrew its objections to the Central Jersey, which tied up the work of building the line for years and caused much expensive litigation. The Central Company will also have the right to run its cars into Perth Amboy to the ferry and then out of Boynton Beach over the Public Service tracks.

The two Amboys have been waiting for years for this promised trolley connection. A stage line across the bridge tried to satisfy them, but traffic was not heavy and trips infrequent. The new line will have half-hourly trips each way.

For the Children

A Busy English Boy and His Motorcar.

The little boy running the motor lives in England. He is the Hon. Maynard Greville, son of the Countess of Warwick. Besides getting his lessons, having a good time at sports and running motorcars, he has been a page at 100 society weddings.

The Secretary.

This is a variation of the old game of "consequences," but it is more personal and therefore more interesting.

The players may be seated around a table, provided with pencils and paper and directed by the leader, or secretary, as he is called, each one to write his or her own name at the top of the sheet and fold it over so as to conceal it.

The secretary then collects the papers and redistributes them, with the order to "write a character." The players set to work to write a description of an imaginary character, good or bad, or they may take any one of their companions as a model. The more extravagant the details the more fun.

Again the papers are taken up and distributed, all being changed around, and the writers are told to describe the past life of the unknown person whose name is hidden at the top of the page. Then follows the order to describe the person's present, future, fate or fortune or any particulars the secretary may think to ask for. At last the papers are collected and read aloud, and great is the amusement as each one present is described.

Name Characteristics.

This game will please those who like to tax their wits and who enjoy a problem, especially when competition furnishes a spur. It consists in writing a descriptive account of well known persons, authors or others, using only words beginning with the letters composing their names and using these letters in the order in which they come in the names.

An example is given:

W-hose i-mmortal l-ines l-ive i-n a-ll m-emories. S-overeign h-onor a-bove k-ingly e-state. S-hakespeare's p-oetry e-nchants a-ll r-eaders e-verywhere.

It would be even more amusing to take the names of some of the company present. A name might be secretly allotted to each player.

Guessing Game.

In preparation for this cover four spaces on the walls of the room with pictures representing (1) famous men and women in history or times past, (2) famous buildings, (3) authors of today and (4) well known men and women of the present time.

Cards, with pencil attached, should be given to each player. Every picture is numbered, and opposite the corresponding number on the card the name of the person or building represented is written.

The person correctly guessing the largest number is the winner. Prizes may be given.

About Cats.

We all know the story of Dick Whittington's cat and the fortune which it brought to its master. It was valuable because it was the only cat in the country to which Dick carried it.

Our domestic cat is the descendant of a very ancient family, which was held sacred in ancient Egypt as far back as 1300 B. C. It is even said that our word "puss" comes from an Egyptian name for the cat. If, therefore, ancient lineage counts for anything, pussy is certainly entitled to respect.

Why the Sun Sets.

Little Jack asked his mother one night why the sun set so often. She told him so that it might rise in the morning. This seemed a useless reason, and Jack hunted for another. At last he said:

"Oh, I know, mother. The sun sets so that she can hatch all the days."

International Salutations.

The British and the French have always had the greatest contempt for each other, and this contempt has even gone into proverbs. An Englishman speaks of "taking French leave" and a Frenchman "going away in the English fashion."

Conundrums.

Why are house builders like novelists? Both construct stories.

When is a wheel like a fly? When it is a flywheel.

What ships are more common on land than on water? Court-ships.

Two Cats and a Dog.

Two cattails started in to fight
One pleasant summer day.
A sun dog jumped down from the sky
And scared them both away.

LITERARY

Time was when the newspapers believed they were indulging in good-humored fun if they referred to Sagamore Hill as in any way a notable spot in the United States. Yet there is no question but today it is at least as well known as Monticello, Hawarden, or Karlsruhe. Within the last nine years the owner of Sagamore Hill has become the greatest figure of the present generation and perhaps one of the greatest in history. It is no wonder, therefore, that the public manifests an interest in the little estate at Oyster Bay, in its owner, and in the daily life he leads there. And truly, the life which Theodore Roosevelt leads upon his hill is in itself so absolutely wholesome and so typically American that we cannot but envy it. It is a sane and a healthy outdoor life, the kind some of us who are city-pent constantly yearn for. Quiet that life could easily be upon the sun-drenched hill, but politics, that exacting occupation of Mr. Roosevelt's, pursues him even here and now in his retirement, and breaks in upon his tranquility.—From "Roosevelt the Husbandman" by Henry James Rorman, in the American Review of Reviews for August.

Then Carry a Raffia Parasol.

THE NEW SUNSHADE.

Raffia makes our porch cushions this summer and the newest of our parasols, and a pretty, dainty, light kind of sunshade it is, to be sure, one that will stand any amount of wetting. Indeed, the raffia parasols may be carried right into the surf without damaging their beauty or usefulness.

In the illustration the model is in natural colored raffia, and the long fringe is an attractive finish. The handle is of brown wood and elaborately carved. The handle is long, as is the case on all the best parasols of the summer.

To Save Alcott Home.

Efforts are being made to inaugurate a movement for the preservation of the old Alcott homestead in Concord, Mass., where Bronson Alcott lived and died and where Louisa Alcott created the immortal children that run through the pages of "Little Men" and "Little Women." The place at present is fast falling into hopeless decay, and action must be started soon if it is to be preserved at all. "Perhaps if Miss Alcott had been dead two centuries instead of only about thirty years her former home would not be in such a dangerous plight as it is in today," said a New York woman who is trying to interest others in its preservation. "But by and by Miss Alcott will have been dead 200 years, and if Orchard House is not saved now American soil in future generations will be the poorer for our neglect. We never shall raise a harvest of ancient association for our land unless we take care of the associations while they still are comparatively modern."

Useful Trifles.

A small brush, such as is used in a mucilage bottle, is just the thing to remove caked salt from shakers or to keep the lips of pepper shakers clean.

If you use glass jars for storage purposes and cannot insure careful handling it is well to protect the edge with pasted strips of adhesive plaster unless you do not object to chips of glass in your food.

For a leftover salad mold cold spinach in a shallow custard cup, turn off on hearts of lettuce, sprinkle with the yoke of hard boiled egg, run through a vegetable press and cover with mayonnaise.

Vegetable salads will be more appetizing if the mayonnaise contains onion juice. Where the taste of onion is not liked a flavor can be given by rubbing the bowl with garlic.

Don't Marry the Man—

Who is selfish.
Who is a pessimist.
Who is a spendthrift.
Whose word you cannot rely upon.
Who never works unless he has to.
Whose highest ambition is to become rich.
Who is namby pamby, weak and effeminate.
Who has no sympathy with your ideals and aspirations.
Who believes that all courting should be done before marriage.
Who believes that a woman should have no interest outside her home.
Who is unsympathetic, cold and deaf to any demands outside of business.
Who loses his temper and indulges in profanity on the slightest provocation.

Gardening For Nervousness.

Gardening as a curative pastime is the newest idea introduced by the head of a fashionable sanitarium for nervous women, and each patient has her particular plot to look after. She is even given the task of spading up the ground and is expected to spend a certain amount of time daily cultivating it regardless of the weather. On clear days, after the garden hour, the entire force of fair women is supposed to turn to and rake and burn leaves and fagots and play they are amateur farmers. The benefit that the out of doors life and interest do to the nerves is incalculable, and the novelty of it makes it something to be looked forward to.

A Dainty Fragrance.

To impart the delicate fragrance of any flower to one's letters the oil of any desired flower can be added to the writing fluid. Scent the blotter and place it with the letter paper, but do not put flower oil or perfume upon the paper. A package of invitations can be scented by keeping them overnight in a closed jar containing oil of flowers on white wool or cotton.

He Won the Bet

He Also Won Something Else That Was Not Included In the Terms

By DAVID W. CHURCH

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

A number of people stood on the piazza of a summer hotel leading into Washington, now looking at their watches and now up the road as if expecting something or somebody. Among them was a young lady dressed evidently for an automobile ride.

"If he gets here at 3 o'clock he'll be an hour ahead of time," said one.

"What time is he due in Washington?" asked another.

"At 6."

"What's up on it?"

"Oh, nothing valuable. It's a gentleman's race against time. A dozen pairs of gloves are all there is in it."

"Here he comes now."

The last one of these remarks was scarcely spoken before a minute cloud of dust was easily discernible up the road. An automobile appeared a mere speck and began to grow in apparent size. In another minute it pulled up at the steps of the hotel. A young man jumped out, calling for gasoline and such other automobile equipments as he needed. The lady mentioned stepped up to him and said:

"Mr. Champlin, I believe."

"I am," replied the auto man, bowing and trying to get hold of his cap to pull it off.

"My cousin, Humphrey Cook, knowing that I was here, that I adore automobiling and that I wish to go to the city, has written me that you would stop here and possibly would take me in."

Mr. Champlin hesitated.

"I'll be no trouble," the lady added.

"Really I should be delighted for your company, but in case of any delay I may have to proceed at breakneck speed."

"The faster you go the better I shall like it."

"Very well. I'm an hour ahead and if nothing breaks shall have no trouble in reaching the goal on time. Are you ready?"

"I am."

"Step in, Miss— I beg your pardon. I didn't get your name."

"Hood—Jaqueline Hood," replied the girl.

Mr. Champlin started. "Jack Hood!" he exclaimed.

"The same. Is there anything about Jack Hood that you don't like?"

"I've heard she's the worst feminine daredevil the world has ever seen."

"You've also heard probably that she knows all about an auto. Perhaps she may aid you in case of trouble."

By this time Miss Hood was settling herself comfortably in the auto, tying her veil under her chin. There was a singular look on Champlin's face. He had bet Humphrey Cook that he would drive his auto to New York and return by a given time. Might not Cook have sent this girl to delay him?

"I'm sorry, Miss Hood," he said, "but I've changed my mind about taking you."

"I haven't changed mine about going."

A bewitching smile hovered on her lips, and her eyes danced with mischief.

"Very well," he said, "I'll take you. But remember that in case there's any rascality perpetrated I shall treat you just as if you were a man."

"Good! That's the way I wish to be treated."

During this scene the onlookers had gathered around the machine, and at the last words some of the men and all the women clapped their hands. Champlin got in, and the couple rolled away, followed by cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs. In another minute nothing could be seen of them but a tiny dust cloud.

For an hour Miss Hood entertained the driver of the auto in such a way as to make him forget everything but her. Nevertheless his eye was on the speed gauge and the clock, and nothing pertaining to winning his race was neglected. There are women who can do more with a man in an hour than other women can do in a lifetime. Miss Hood simply absorbed him.

"Have you time to stop for a glass of milk?" she asked.

"Certainly."

"Well, there's a farmhouse off the road up there. Would you mind getting one for me?"

Mr. Champlin stopped before the gate and went up to the house. A woman answered his knock at the door, and he went inside. He was no sooner out of sight than Miss Hood jumped out, took a small nickel plated monkey wrench from her pocket, unscrewed a nut and put it in her pocket. She had not finished her work before Champlin reappeared with a glass of milk in his hand. Miss Hood was awakened to his presence by hearing the breaking of glass on stone. Looking up, she saw Champlin the picture of astonishment and chagrin. He knew that he had been "done."

Striding with a quick step to the auto, he said sternly:

"You know what I said before leaving—that if there was any rascality perpetrated I would treat you just as I should a man."

"Oh, yes," she replied, making a face at him; "I remember that."

"Give me what you have removed."

"I decline to do so."

Champlin made a dive for her. She sidled around the auto. He followed, chasing her in a circle. She was too fleet for him. He was strong, but she was agile. At every stop there would be the pretty face brimming with mischief, her eyes riveted on him that she should be ready for his slightest move. Finally he gave it up.

"Did Cook send you out to do this?"

"Yes."

"Well, I suppose I shall have to lose the bet."

"That isn't necessary."

"What do you mean?"

"That if you ask me to give you what I have taken I will do so."

"On what conditions?"

"No conditions."

"No conditions! What do you mean?"

"I mean that I agreed with Humphrey for a dozen pairs of gloves to come out and delay you. Please don't ask me why I prefer not to do so."

She cast down her eyes, and her meaning was plain. She had "gone soft" on Champlin.

She handed him the nut. He replaced it, and in another minute they were shooting again along the road.

Champlin was delighted. Cook had very nearly got ahead of him—would have got ahead of him had it not been that the girl had taken so great a fancy to him that she hadn't the heart to "do" him. What a splendid joke it would be on Cook and the party who were present at the making of the bet when Champlin and Miss Hood rolled up to the —— hotel on time! Miss Hood hadn't even asked for the gloves her cousin had offered her to help him win them. Champlin told her that as soon as he received the stakes he would give them to her and she could change them for ladies' gloves. Instead of being pleased at this, she appeared to be very much hurt. Champlin begged her to tell him why, and she replied that she had not consented to be a turncoat for a bribe. This left him to understand that she had done it all for him. There was a very tender scene between them, at the end of which the misunderstanding was made up, and for the rest of the journey Miss Cook held the steering wheel, while Mr. Champlin's arm was about her waist.

There were no more delays. On approaching the city, having still an hour's leeway, they concluded to stop at a convenient place and get the dust out of their throats with an ice. Champlin left the lady for a brief season while he poured out something more effective than an ice in doing away with dust. On rejoining her they partook of the ices and resumed their journey.

"What are you smiling at?" asked Miss Hood of her companion.

"Oh, I was thinking how surprised that cousin of yours will be when we roll up on time. That was a rascally proceeding of his, and it deserved to fail. If you hadn't been the dearest girl in the world it would have succeeded. But just think of his surprise when he hears of the other part of it."

He managed to get hold of her hand with his left, holding on to the wheel with one hand, and they bowled along in this way until they met another conveyance.

And now the dome of the capitol with the figure perched upon it loomed up faint in the distance. It was not long before the outskirts of the city were reached, and half an hour before the time limit had expired they stopped at the ladies' entrance to the —— hotel. A liveried servant advanced and said:

"Mr. Cook and a party of ladies and gentlemen are in a private dining room waiting for you, sir."

Entering the room, Champlin expected to find Cook eager to know why his scheme had failed. Instead Cook handed his cousin a dozen pairs of ladies' gloves. After this he put out his hand to Champlin.

"I congratulate you, old boy, with all my heart on your engagement."

Champlin stood mute with astonishment.

"Champ, old boy," added Cook, "you need an explanation. To make you lose I sent my cousin Jack out to effect an entrance into your auto and delay you on the way. If she succeeded she was to have a dozen pairs of gloves for a reward. She has lost the gloves."

"That's plain," said Champlin.

"Well, there was a bet between Jack and me of another dozen pairs of gloves against a hundred cigars that she would make you propose to her on the way."

Champlin looked so many emotions, of which astonishment and shamefacedness were the most prominent, that all burst into a laugh, in which he finally joined. Then, turning to Miss Hood, he advanced, with a puzzled, inquiring look on his face.

"Was it all a sham?" he asked.

She made no reply in words, but a slight color rising to her cheeks indicated that the brief period she had passed, even of a sham engagement, had not been unpleasant to her. Besides, Champlin was regarded as one of the best catches in Washington. Since he could get no word of confirmation he concluded to apply a test. Putting an arm around the girl's waist, he drew her toward him and kissed her. She submitted without a protest.

"It's a go!" shouted Cook, and there was a burst of merriment, all crowding around Miss Hood to congratulate her, the men with handshakes, the women with kisses.

"Good for you, Champ!" cried Humphrey Cook. "You've won out all around. But the stake on the race is nothing compared with winning a wife. And you've got a dandy. Jack can run anything from an auto to a man, and you'll find that she can take both the auto and the man apart and put them together again without the least trouble."

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit
Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use T I Z. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after T I Z than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this.

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. To-day there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use T I Z. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. T I Z cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. T I Z is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Proctor's High-class Show.

The fine show at Proctor's theatre this week appeals to all the patrons. "The Spirit of '76", a bright, stirring sketch of the days of the Revolution, is making a hit. F. E. Wright & Co. are appearing in a sketch called "The Master of Men", a forceful tale of New York life. The Vesuvious Four comprise a clever quartet of Italian singers. Margo's Merry Manikins are a delight to the children, as well as older people. If you go to Proctor's you will escape the heat.

BASEBALL.

Jack Sheridan is to have a new job as scout for umpires.

Jack Flynn, the Pittsburg first baseman, seems to have come back.

The Highlanders finished well in the five games in Boston, making only six errors all told.

Drucke has the mannerisms of Mathewson in the box, same rubbing of the ball and lifting of the arms.

The Clevelands look to have a good crop of young pitchers in Harkness, Koestner, Mitchell and Fanwell.

It's a crime nowadays to let a pitcher take a high infield fly. There are five other men there for that purpose.

Could it be possible that Cree tipped himself off to the kind of ball that was coming in Boston? This needs investigation.

This thing of the Giants and Highlanders shifting back and forth between second and third places is trying on the nerves.

Birdie Cree had a batting average of .450 in the five Boston games last week. He made nine hits for a total of seventeen bases.

No use talking about a post season series betweenthe Giants and Highlanders yet a while. Maybe one or both of them will be in the world's series.

Johnny Evers says the question whether Johnny Kling could recover his old time form in throwing and batting has been answered in the affirmative.

The Giants are girding up their loins for the Cubs this week. Red Ames' recent good work leads to the hope that the Bruins will have harder sledding than last time.

As a result of exchanging blows Sunday afternoon at Toronto, Umpire Stafford and Manager Dunn of the Baltimores have been suspended indefinitely by President Powers.

"I figure that the Detroits still have a chance for the pennant," says Jack O'Connor. So does everybody else; likewise that the Athletics have a chance and the New Yorks and Bostons.

Elect a National League president for a term of years and have the magnates stand by him, as the American League magnates do by Ban Johnson, and not nag and make threats about taking away his job, and there'll be as little fault-finding about the umpiring in the National as there is in the American.

Francis J. Blatz, Walter Hetfield, Jr., and Fred Firstbrook started this afternoon for a fishing trip to Barnegat. The party will be gone for the rest of the week.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Danish Lutheran services will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Pilgrim church, West Eighth and New streets. Rev. Theodore Beck, of Brooklyn, will preach.

The choir of the First Baptist church will enjoy its vacation during the entire month of August. Herbert J. Harold, of East Second street, will be the substitute organist for Howard Case, and Willard Miner will probably act as precentor for the month.

CIRCLES ON THE SQUARE INDORSE CITY JUDGE RUNYON.

Circles on the Square, a civic organization of Berkley Heigts, met Saturday night and elected William Jeffrey as president to succeed Frank Shaffer, who resigned. The first business transacted by the club after the election was to indorse Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, for Congress. Mr. Jeffrey referred to the Judge as being "tried and true, strong and able.' Mr. Jeffrey added that the Judge had promised to come out with a statement on August 9, when he would let the people know where he stood on important issues.

The organization also indorsed John F. Wahl, of New Providence, for Freeholder, but refused to make any other indorsements until after the primaries.

Mr. Jeffrey announced that he would not stand again for member of the county committee.

The club appointed a committee to arrange for a celebration on Labor Day. Nine delegates were also selected to attend the Union county Republican outing August 13.

JERSEY CITY, 267,779. CENSUS BUREAU REPORTS.

PLANNING FOR THE STATE G. O. P. CONVENTION.

Tomorrow's meeting of the State Committee at Newark bids fair to prove of interest. Besides threshing over the gubernatorial situation the committee will fix a date for the State convention to be held next month, and will, also, it is expected, approve another partially prepared address to the voters, this time in defense of the new tariff law. This will be offered as the party's recommendation for the renomination and re-election of New Jersey's "regular" Republican Congressional delegation.

As for the State convention date it will be fixed for either September 20, 21 or 22. Secretary Edward Gray, of the committee, is trying to find out on just which of these days Taylor's Opera House, in Trenton, where the convention will be held, can be secured.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Vivian M. Lewis Accepts Endorsement of Passaic Republicans at Dinner.

PRINCE LAUNCHES THE BOOM.

State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance Will Fight for Gubernatorial Honors.

Vivian M. Lewis, state commissioner of banking and insurance, was formally indorsed for Governor at a dinner given in his honor by the members of the Passaic County Republican Committee at Paterson, last night. He accepted the indorsement and said he would be a candidate. More than 100 prominent men in the party were present and shouted their approval of the choice of "Our Viv." The cries of "We want you; we want you, Viv!" "The next Governor!" were heard above the music.

The diners were not satisfied until they heard from Mr. Lewis. When he arose to speak there were more cries and cheering. Mr. Lewis went right into the matter of his candidacy, and after reviewing the political past he placed himself on record as being in favor of the establishing of a reservoir for the conservation of the waters for the people of northern New Jersey. He referred to the water bills passed by the last Legislature and urged the amendment of the public utilities bill.

County Chairman George W. Pollitt presided. The gathering was an informal one. Present were State Senator John D. Prince, Assemblymen McCran, Layden, Moore, Pikaart and Radcliffe. County Clerk John J. Slater, Sheriff John Rancier, Former Senator Wood McKee, State Water Commissioner George W. Wright and county officials.

Vivian Lewis and Professor Prince were late in arriving. The doctor motored all the way from his home and met Mr. Lewis as he arrived on the train from Trenton. After a short rest at the Hamilton Club they went to the Colt Restaurant, where the diners were waiting. The entrance of Mr. Lewis was the signal for a rousing welcome. All stood up as a big red, white and blue banner was unfurled in the rear. The band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner," and changed quickly to "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," all present joining in the chorus.

Senator Prince was the first speaker, responding to a toast "Organization." The speaker said he was in favor of some plan for the education of the young man on organization lines, explaining to them the system of government, city, state and national. He then proposed a toast to Mr. Lewis.

"I ask you all to drink with me to a man whose life has always been a life of results; a record that has always been a credit to his party; one who has served his state faithfully, quietly and capably; an ideal public servant—Vivian M. Lewis, our next Governor." Hardly had the speaker sat down when there were insistent cries of "Lewis, Lewis, our next Governor; oh, you Viv!"

After the din the voice of a tall, smooth-shaven young man in the rear could be heard: "Hear, hear." He was recognized. He was Fred V. Moore, county committeeman of the Second district of the Eleventh Ward, Mr. Lewis's own ward. Mr. Moore read the following resolutions:

"Whereas, The Republican party in September of this year is to nominate a candidate for the office of Governor of New Jersey, and

Whereas, Passaic County is the home of a man, born and reared in the city of Paterson, who in every office he has held has exhibited a capacity in his work in a manner which has the respect, confidence and approval of the people throughout this state, regardless of party affiliation and

Whereas, Believing him fully equipped to administer the high office of Governor of New Jersey; therefore be it

"Resolved, That we, the Passaic County Republican Committee, respectfully submit to the voters of this state the name of Vivian M. Lewis for the office of Governor of New Jersey, and hereby pledge ourselves for the attainment of his nomination."

Mr. Apgar Resigns.

John Apgar, of East Front street, who has been night watchman at the local freight depot, for the past nineteen years, has resigned his position with the Central Railroad and resumed his trade as wheelwright and is in the employ of J. Forgerson, of Lincoln place.

FRONT ST. MERCHANTS TO PLAY BASEBALL

The merchants of East Front street claim that they can beat the West Front street store-keepers at baseball and a game has been arranged between these nines for tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval. It will be in the nature of a celebration of the Thursday half-holiday. Both teams are in fine fettle and are out for blood—that's why the game is to be played near the hospital. No admission is to be charged, the contest being only for the sport and for the decision of the championship of Front street's commercial members. The game is to be called at 2:30 sharp.

A. C. Lohrman is the captain of the East Front street contingent, while J. Weinberger is the leader of the other team. The line-up of the East Front street nine will be: Harry DeMeza, left field; David Coleman, right field; Archer Levy, center field; Benson Meaney, shortstop; Charles Post, third base; Robert Barnard, second base; Fred Becker Jr., first base; Charles Ferraro, catcher; and A. C. Lohrman, pitcher. For some unknown reason the West Front street aggregation is keeping its line-up secret. But a good game is promised, nevertheless.

MANY ARE MOURNERS FOR NEIL M'CARTHY

Funeral services for Neil A. McCarthy, assistant State factory inspector, who died very suddenly at his home, 867 Martin street, Elizabeth, Saturday night, were held yesterday morning at the church of the Holy Rosary, in Elizabeth.

The church was thronged with relatives and friends. A delegation of members of the Metal Polishers and Buffers' Union and from the Singer plant, where he was employed up to six years ago when he received the appointment as assistant factory inspector, attended the services. The Rev. James J. Reynolds, of the Holy Rosary church, of which Mr. McCarthy was a communicant officiated at the high mass of requiem.

The floral tributes were beautiful. Among them were a large pillow bearing the words "My Husband," a large standing wreath from the Metal Polishers and Buffers' Union, a large pillow from the Get Together Bunch, of this city, inscribed, "G. T. B.," a wreath from the William Haizmann Association marked "Our Friend," and a wreath from the Bergen Association.

The pallbearers were Andrew McCardell, William Tompayne, William Schlachter, Daniel Dillon, Henry Young and Thomas Y. Bye. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Elizabeth.

HOUSEKEEPERS URGED TO HELP IN EARLY CLOSING.

Housekeepers are reminded that on Thursday afternoons during August the merchants will close their stores so that their clerks may have the afternoon and evening off, and they should govern themselves accordingly about their purchases. The adoption of the rule to give the clerks a half-day a week during the warm weather has met with popular approval, not only by the clerks, but citizens generally, and it is believed that all will co-operate to make the change a success.

The local stores will close at noon and customers are urged to plan their trading so that the clerks can get away promptly at 12 o'clock. Tomorrow the clerks at the store of A. E. Force & Co. will be given the entire day, and they will go to Asbury Park with the Trinity Reformed church excursion. Tepper Brothers have decided to close their dry goods store all day Thursday during August.

JUPITER PLUVIUS & JOVE

LIGHTNING PLAYS PRANKS.

Barn at Greenbrook Destroyed, Trees Struck and Grass Ignited—Fire Threatens Buildings in Martinsville.

With the possible exception of the lightning and wind which accompanied the thunder storm of yesterday, the farmers and market gardeners got what they have been longing for ever since the beginning of July—a good heavy rain. Although the rainfall was less than an inch, .84 to be exact, it took on the proportions of deluge in its early spurts and did a tremendous amount of good.

In some parts of the city as well as in the suburbs heavy hail preceded the downpour of rain and considerable damage was done to corn and standing grain in different parts of the county. In Washington Valley, it is said the full force of the wind was felt. Here the wind resembled a hurricane in strength and what it did not blow down it bent close to the ground and created a feeling of uneasiness.

Lightning got in some pretty work in the heavens and at the same time played havoc with some people's property. Over in Martinsville several trees were uprooted and others were struck by the bolts of Jove. A tree on the premises of John P. Van Nest was struck and began to burn. The same bolt set fire to the underbrush and grass nearby and communicated to the fence. The fire crept up close to the outbuildings, which in a moment would have caught, but the ensuing rain aided Mr. Van Nest in subduing the blaze.

In this city hailstones half an inch in diameter fell for several minutes, but as far as can be ascertained did no particular damage. It was rumored this morning that a man had been struck by lightning in the vicinity of Fanwood at 8 o'clock last night, but the story was not verified this morning.

A barn belonging to Mrs. Elizabeth Harris, of Greenbrook road, Dunellen, was struck by lightning last evening during the height of the thunder storm and was entirely consumed together with several tons of hay. Fortunately the team of horses with the harness and two wagons were rescued from the burning building. The loss is estimated at $500.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE OPENS AT POCONO PINES.

The conference of Young People's Societies of Presbyterian churches at Pocono Pines Assembly, Monroe county, Pennsylvania, opens tonight with an address by Karl Lehman, interstate secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Walter Firstbrook, the delegate to the conference from the Hope chapel society, writes that from all indications this conference will greatly excede the last one in size and influence. Delegates are presht from New Jersey, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Washington, D. C., Maryland and West Virginia.

Through a suggestion made by Mr. Firstbrook last winter, the conference will hold a Christian Citizenship and Temperance evening, with Rev. Dr. Johnson, of Washington, N. J., the chairman of the State Christian Endeavor Christian Citizen committee as the speaker.

RUNYON WILL SPEAK AT SESSION OF ELKS

A summer session, which promises to be a big social success, and which will be featured by a talk by Judge William N. Runyon, of this city, who will probably be the Republican candidate for Congress from the Fifth district, will be held in the Elk club rooms at Elizabeth tomorrow night. There will be no initiations.

Another feature of the session will be the report of the grand lodge representatives, Augustus W. Schwartz, on the Elks' convention at Detroit. The finance committee has an interesting report to submit at the business session to the effect that a permanent loan on the home has been obtained.

Fine entertainment has been provided by the house committee, composed of George L. Hirtzel, Victor Morris and Robert McKean. The second floor of the new home has been tirely fitted with handsome furniture. Visiting Elks now claim that the local lodge has the finest home in the state.

REVISED BUILDING CODE IS NEARING COMPLETION

The Councilmanic fire and building committee will meet tonight to further consider the revised building code, which will be presented to the Common Council probably early in the Fall. Many changes have been made in the code, bringing it up to date so that it will meet present-day requirements in building, and the members will probably set aside one whole meeting for its consideration.

During the time that the code has been under revision representatives from the various trades have met with the committee, making suggestions which were invited by the committee as a guidance in framing the code. In this way the builders have been a great help to the committee. There is no idea of compiling a code that is going to be a hardship, but it is proposed to have one that will fully protect the city as well as the builders.

ROUTED FROM BED BY CRUEL JOKER.

Last night about 11 o'clock Mrs. Bertram C. Firstbrook, of Plainfield, who, with her sister, Miss Clara Guyer, is stopping at the Newburgh hotel, was roused from slumber when the clerk of the hotel received a telephone message, presumably from her husband, stating that he would be down on the theater train early this morning. Together the two ladies clambered out of bed dressed and sat on the front porch ready to greet Mrs. Firstbrook's hubby when he arrived, but they waited in vain, Firstbrook came not. It was no doubt the work of some practical joker who would better have been lost in slumber himself. —Asbury Park Journal.

UNCOVERED FOODSTUFFS

Board of Health Gives Dealers Until August 8 to Make Changes.

WILL THEN BEGIN CRUSADE.

Some Opposition Met With Among City Stores and Specious Arguments Heard—Must Obey Law.

The inspectors of the Board of Health who have been busy during the past week watching the changes being made in some of the stores by which fruit and other things exposed for sale are to be screened from flies, have met with some opposition in the enforcing of the provisions of the statute which provides for this protection, but as John O'Brien, the health officer does not wish to appear as working any hardship on any dealer he does want to see the law complied with.

Believing that those who have not yet complied with the request of the board will ultimately see the reasonableness of the law, Mr. O'Brien has allowed them until next Monday to comply with the provisions of the act. After that day a systematic inspection of all the stores will be made and action taken as seems to warrant in each individual case.

The law provides that all food stuffs exposed for sale must be covered with a protecting screen or other device which will prevent contamination from flies and dust and fixes fines all the way up from $50 according to the offense.

The notice requiring the changes to be made to protect fruits and other food was issued during the week ending July 23, and the Board of Health believes ample time has been given to all the dealers in town to make the necessary changes in their stores. However, the added time is allowed for those who have not yet seen fit to follow the suggestions made to them. Wagons in the street are subject to the same law and it won't do for the bakers and peddlers to neglect their duty in regard to protecting the goods they deliver or carry on their wagons, for they also will be carefully inspected and perhaps will have to be prosecuted.

The argument has been raised that fruit while on the tree or vine is not covered and therefore is unprotected, but this will not alter the law. After Monday the crusade will begin in earnest, says Mr. O'Brien.

ELIZABETH'S BUDGET TOTALS $603,532.97.

The Elizabeth Board of Aldermen at its monthly meeting Monday night passed on its third reading the annual appropriation ordinance for the support of the city government. The budget this year is $603,532.97.

Fire Commissioner Charles S. Chandler was reappointed by the Mayor for a term of five years and was confirmed by the board.

The Mayor, on the ground that there was no general demand for free concerts during the balance of the summer and fall in the city parks vetoed an ordinance appropriating $450 for this purpose.

Alderman McGurn asked that steps be taken by the Railroad Committee to prevent the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad from obstructing with its cars the Amboy avenue grade crossing.

The total valuation of Elizabeth this year will be, it is estimated, about $54,000,000.

Praise Superintendent McDowell.

Persons who have occasion to drive through Rock avenue between Front street and the brook, are sounding the praises of Superintendent McDowell, of the City Alms House. He has cleaned the road of all weeds, straightened the gutters and otherwise improved that thoroughfare. OUTING OF EMPLOYEES OF A. E. FORCE & CO.

Tomorrow the employes of A. E. Force & Co., following their usual custom, will enjoy the whole day in an outing. By way of a change from the usual trip to the mountains they will this time take in the beauties and pleasures of the seashore at Asbury Park.

The employes will gather at the store tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and march in a body to the station where they will take the special car provided for them which will be attached to the train on which Trinity Reformed Sunday school will travel to the shore. Special arrangements have been made by the firm with the management of the Hotel Brunswick at Asbury for the entertainment of the employes, the Japanese parlor being specially set apart for their use. Here an ample dinner will be provided with the accompaniment of a string band to furnish the music.

The committee has left nothing undone that will tend to the comfort of the faithful workers in the White Store. Every point of interest will be visited and it goes without saying that tomorrow will be a red letter day in the history of these annual outings. Returning the train will leave the shore at 7.10 and will arrive home at about 9 o'clock.

MUST BRING BACK WHEEL STOLEN ON MAY 12

The wheel which was stolen from William G. Cramer, of Dunellen, on May 12 last has been traced to L. Bray, Jr., of Plainfield avenue, who bought it of Ollie Faines, a colored man, who in turn obtained the bicycle from William Totten who stole it and who is now in jail at New Brunswick awaiting the action of the September grand jury.

Faines was in court this morning and admitted buying the wheel from Totten for $4.50 and selling it to Bray, for 12$.50 on the instalment plan. Faines seemed to think that he was not guilty of receiving stolen goods and did not show any concern regarding his position until Judge Runyon filled out a complaint against him. Then he changed his mind and told the judge that he would see young Bray and try to secure the return of the wheel. The court allowed him until Friday morning to accomplish this result.

No blame is attached to Mr. Bray for purchasing the whel as he was unaware that the bicycle was stolen, but it is quite likely that both he and Faines will get into serious trouble unless the wheel is in court on Friday morn'ng.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DECLINES TO FURNISH AN OPINION.

In reply to a letter addressed to him by V. W. Nash, Jr., on July 27, Edmund Wilson, Attorney General of this State, declares in a letter received by Mr. Nash this morning that it is out of his province to answer the questions propounded and declines to set the matter straight in so far as it relates to the nominations of City Judge, Councilman at Large and Board of Education aspirants.

In the letter, which is a printed circular, the Attorney-General says that "As the Attorney-General has no legal power to give official answers to the questions contained in the letter of Mr. Nash, he begs to be excused from indicating any opinion."

Thus the matter remains in statu quo and everybody will have to interpret the law, as printed in the Daily Press on July 27 to suit himself.

NEIGHBORS CALLED POLICE WHEN FAMILY QUARRELED.

Because the neighbors butted in when Joseph Staib and his wife, of West Third street, were having a family jar last night, the police were summoned and Staib brought to headquarters where he was locked up pending a hearing.

This morning Judge Runyon suspended a sentence of sixty days over Staib's head in an effort to insure his future good behavior. Staib was insolent to the court and only escaped getting off this time because of the fact that he is the father of five children, the youngest of whom is four months old.

GOLF.

Shinnecock, cherished by all golfers who have tasted its delights, will be the magnet this week. Its fifteenth annual meeting is set for tomorrow, Friday and Saturday under new conditions which will appeal more strongly than ever to enthusiasts.

Instead of the three cups being restricted, as heretofore, to divisions of eight each, the committee has increased the number to qualify to sixteen each. This leaves the finals to be decided on Saturday at thirty-six holes instead of cramping them into an eighteen hole scramble on Friday afternoon, which was always a brusque custom of treating one of the most important tournaments in the country. By this change the thirty-six hole handicap, instead of being the feature on the last day, properly takes a minor position, while players who may be a shade off color in the qualifying round are less likely to be subjected to the questionable consolation of watching the "other fellows."

Go where one will in this country, the narrow strip of sand between the Atlantic and Long Island Sound possesses an atmosphere and flavor of golf unattainable elsewhere. It inspires golf to the marrow, and this is why sensational struggles on these links remain vivid and indellible, while keen and exciting duels on other courses fade into comparative dimness and obscurity.

Many have fretted at the apparently exclusive attitude of the committee in restricting the size of the field. This, however, was forced on the officials, for in the days when Shinnecock was an open tournament golfers came in such overwhelming numbers that Southampton, Quoque and East Hampton were choked beyond accommodation capacity by ardent students of the game.

With twice the number of players to qualify than has been the case in some years, invitations have been increased proportionately, and the present gathering promises to be as important as any in the past.

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Well sixteen innings without a decision is going some.

And Warry was stronger at the end of the game than he was at the start.

Nelson had an off day with the stick Saturday. Seven times at bat without a hit is something unusual for the big catcher.

Bound Brook certainly did give Slocum his bumps on Saturday. Eleven clean swats for eight runs heavily overbalanced the eight strike-outs which Slocum had to his credit.

That Marathon A. C., of Newark, is a bunch of four-flushers in the estimation of the Dunellen team.

Frederickson is keeping up his good work for the Y. M. C. A. nine and the youngster is improving right along. His box work on Saturday against Orange Y. M. C. A. was all that could be wished for.

Platt Adams, the Olympic first baseman of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. nine, certainly had an off day Saturday. It is very seldom that the big javelin thrower manages to clout out a three-bagger, a two sacker, and a single.

It was a patched up team that Plainfield presented to New Brunswick on Sunday. Only three regulars in the line-up. But we won, so why should we kick.

MANY PEOPLE ROBBED BY A BAD GANG

Central Railroad detectives are still active in their efforts to round up the gang of young marauders which is working havoc along the lines of the road. They have been successful in arresting those whom they believ to be the leaders of the gang and Frank Rose and William Rider, recently arrested, are in the Somerset county jail, awaiting the action of the Grand Jury. Rose was a member, it is alleged, of the famous "Dutch" Ides gang which terorized railroad men for several years, until their leader was shot in a pitched battle with a Newark policeman a couple of years ago.

Rose and Rider, acording to the detectives who arrested them, were working a new game. Displaying badges of Central Railroad detectives, they held up almost everyone they met and when they were resisted, did not hesitate to beat down their victims.

The men have been positively identified by Paul Wagner, of Elizabeth, and Raymond Matthews, an iron worker of High Bridge, both of whom were robbed just west of Elizabeth last month. Another victim is still in the hospital as the result of an encounter with the men one night in June. He was beaten between the eyes with a revolver and for a time his life was despaired of. He is recovering now and as soon as his condition will warrant his removal from the hospital, he will be taken to the Somerville jail to identify the prisoners as the men by whom he was assaulted. He was robbed of $47 while Mathews and Wagner both lost amounts almost as large.

There are more mebers of the gang, but since the arrest of their leader, they have not been as active as formerly. The railroad detectives, however, are making every effort to find them and their arrest is expected at any time.

C. O. A. AGENTS REPORT BUSY JULY

Owing to the heat and work attendant upon outings there has been more demand upon the agents of the Charity Organization Society in July than any month since midwinter. The number of cases taken up was 23, six more than in June, and with previous cases making a total of 121 families in charge during the month. Eighty applicants called at the office and 113 calls were made by persons wishing to consult the society on questions of relief.

The agents made 411 visits, the largest number of visits made since April. This was partly due to the fact that more of the friendly visitors were out of town, only seven remaining. Five cases were admitted into institutions and twelve referred to clinic. One child was placed in a home in the country and three cases were brought before the court. As reported in The Daily Press an auto-riding and picnic was given to fifty children and their mothers, the children all suffering from whooping-cough. There are many more delicate children in the city whom an outing of this kind would benefit and the agents hope to hear of more automobiles which can be used for this purpose in August.

RECORD RELATING TO SIEGE OF JERUSALEM FOUND.

In a letter to the London Standard a correspondent writes that a record of very great interest concerning the celebrated siege of Jerusalem by Vespasian's army, under command of Titus, has been discovered in upper Egypt, consisting of a wooden panel, with raised borders or frame, bearing a Latin inscription of some fifty lines, of which thirty-seven are still perfectly legible.

Apart from its historical importance this relic with the exception of the tablets found at Pompeii, containing some accounts of a banker there, is the most valuable specimen of Roman caligraphy extant. The contents of the text, however, are what will be considered the chief result of this acquisition, because they embody the formal enregistration of the discharge, after long active service under the eagles of a veteran who, as one of the Tenth Fretensis Legion, had taken a distinguished part in the Jewish campaign and was present at the investment and sack of Jerusalem, that city, Hiersolyma being specially mentioned.

The name of the old warrior was M. Valerius Quadratus, and in the newly recovered document, he formally attests that it is a duplicate of an imperial edict promulgated in his favor, and in that of some other comrades in the legion, by the Emperor Domitian, by the hands of the imperial legate Sextus Hormetidius Campanus, in December, A. D. 93.

One copy of this honorable discharge was the tablet states, deposited in the proper temple for containing such archives at Rome, as was the custom with all such military deeds, registering completion of service, while the other had been forwarded from Rome to the governor of Egypt, M. Junius Mettius Rufus, and was kept in the chancery at Alexandria. It is of this Egyptian edition of his discharge that Quadratus on his panel record gives us a copy, which he had made July 2, A. D. 94, at Alexandria.

The old soldier had probably been recruited in Egypt, because it is known that before the Jewish war the Fretensis Legion was stationed there. He retired with his three children to end his days at the little town of Philadelphia in the Fayum. There amid the ruins of his house, among a number of papyrus documents of the second century, the panel he doubtless prized was found.

Other memorial inscriptions have been found of officers who took part in the famous Palestine campaign, usually styled therein the "Bellum Judaicum," but that is the first authentic contemporary documents emanating from a soldier actually engaged in the siege of Jerusalem, and referring to that event, thus confirming the statements of Josephus and the classic historians.

HERE AND THERE.

A new study—that of farming—is to be added to the public school curriculum in New York City at the next school term and the Board of Estimate has granted $2,200 for the preparatory work in getting the little farms ready. Farm implements, seed and other things will be purchased for planting the spring crops, and the youngsters of the East Side and other congested parts of the city will be taught to differentiate rutabaga from flax and to know beans in the pod when they see 'em.

"If we can instil a knowledge of and a love for farming among the rising generation it will help in relieving over-crowded cities and increase the number of strong limbed sons of the soil that are so necessary to the health and prosperity of the country," said a member of the Board of Education.

A chauffeur who had just returned to the garage in New York City after taking the state's examination to determine his fitness to be licensed was asked by a fellow worker what the questions were:

"One of them was about meeting a skittish horse," he replied. "They asked what I would do if I approached a horse which showed signs of being afraid of the car and its driver held up his hand to me."

"What's the answer?" asked a bystander.

"Oh, I had that all right," the chauffeur replied. "I told 'em I'd stop the car, take it apart and hide the pieces in the grass."

The owner of a touring car came out of a restaurant in New York the other day and found a family of strangers occupying his machine. The spokesman of the party smiled ingratiatingly as he explained the situation.

"We are waiting," he said, "to ask your permission to let me take some kodac pictures of my wife and children in the automobile."

The astonished owner granted the request and passersby on Fifth avenue were edified with the sight of each member of the family taking a turn at sitting on the front seat grasping the steering wheel.

"Baxter street will probably soon be flooded with pictures of my machine," soliloquized the owner with a grin.

Ballad of Various Bards.

The weeklies have their rhymsters
Who frame a roundelay
Or string a rhyme
From time to time
And draw their modest pay.
The monthlies have some others
Who slightly higher fly,
We must allow
That they know how,
Perhaps, to versify.
But, as for real poets,
The same are few, alas.
I rhyme a bit,
But I'll admit
That I am second-class.

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Charles William Bingaman, boys' work director of the local Y. M. C. A., will spend the month of August in Buffalo, N. Y.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Millville's dog-catcher collected $97.75 in fees during July.

Falling from a couch, Mrs. Claude Reeves, of Millville, broke two toes at her Cedar Beach summer cottage Monday.

Charles Foulke has been appointed treasurer of the borough of New Hope, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles S. Roberts.

Indicted on a charge of aiding in the escape from the Camden County Jail of William Brown and Charles Burger, John Higgins and John Hoyle will be placed on trial next Monday before Judge Jeline. Although a reward of $500 has been offered for the arrest of Brown, the officials are still puzzled as to his whereabouts.

Women friends of Mrs. Samuel Lockhart, the young mulatto confined in jail at Mays Landing for shooting her husband at Atlantic City, have made up a purse and secured the services of Attorney Isaac Nutter to defend her.

The Weeden Motor Car Company, of Newark, fell a victim Sunday night to burglars, who successfully got away with nearly $1,000 worth of high-class automobile accessories, without leaving a single clue. The robbery was discovered at 5 o'clock Monday morning by Perrine Cheeseman an employee. The burglars had entered with professional tools, and ten new cars were stripped of expensive fittings, valuable tools were stolen and every desk in the business office was forced and looted.

Arraigned in the Camden Police Court Monday on a charge of assault and battery on his wife, Henry Werner, fifty-three years old, of 1201 Mecahnic street, declared that a toothache caused him to strike his wife. He said that some of the liquor he put in his mouth to ease his pain slipped down his throat and upset his brain. For the sake of her children, Mrs. Werner refused to press the charge, and the defendant was released with a reprimand.

Located at a circus after being wanted for nearly a year on a charge of robbing the home of Louis Blumstein, 315 Kaighn avenue, Camden, where she was employed as a domestic, Rachel Dorsey, thirty-four years old, colored was committed to jail in default of $300 bail Monday. She is accused of looting a child's bank of $9 and also of carrying away clothing. "If that circus hadn't come to town they wouldn't have gotten her," declared one of the accused domestic's friends.

Because the woman who had just rescued her from drowning in Salem Creek Monday afternoon laughed at her bedraggled appearance, Elsie Nichols angrily scolded Mrs. Edward Rain. Miss Nichols is about twenty-four years old. Yesterday she went to Fifth street wharf, and as she leaned against the side of a boat, the boat moved out, letting her fall into the deep water. She had gone under for the second time when Mrs. Rain, who is an expert swimmer, jumped in and kept the girl afloat until Policeman Henderson's two young sons came to the rescue in a boat. When the two women reached the wharf Mrs. Rain laughed, and Miss Nichols became angry.

Joseph Proscello, near Vineland, brooded so much over a threatening letter received from the "Black Hand" some years ago that he dreamed about it while asleep in his wagon at Newark Monday night. His horse wandered on the sidewalk near a little child and several women began to scream. Proscello awoke to see some men running toward him in the darkness, and he whipped up his horse and nearly drove over half a dozen pedestrians, while he shouted, "Black Hand killa me!" Marshal Samuel Rossi took Proscello to City Hall, where he paid $14.75 fine and costs.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Minstrelsy idealized; that is the promise for the offering by George Evans and his Honey Boy Minstrels which will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday night, August 10. To anyone who has ever seen George Evans on the stage, a think back can only bring up memories of the fluffery of his comically tangled hair, the grotesque cut of his angular garments, the "Honey Boy" smile and his London fog high-strung trousers. He is brilliancy itself in the way of minstrel humor. With this unctious little laughsmith at the head of the big programme of idealized minstrelsy, the scenic settings which have been provided for the several sections of the entertainment, the sweet-voiced singers, and the modern methods of the George M. Cohan afterpiece, "The Firemen's Picnic," the Honey Boy show promises to be much.

Philip Leichtentritt, formerly of this city, but now a practicing lawyer in New York, called on Plainfield friends yesterday.

Councilman C. C. Randolph, of West Eighth street, has returned from Asbury Park. His wife and children are still at the shore for a longer stay.

The hard work and stooping of workmen.

The woman's household cares.

Backache, headache, sideache.

Kidney troubles follow.

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm Place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience with them, I feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to do a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Randolph's drug store and I was soon in good health. Since then hard work has brought on one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

A. P. C. Wash Fabrics 6½c

175,000 Yards in This Great Annual Event

Prettiest Patterns, Richest Colorings, Widest Variety Ever in Any Sale

Again the sale of A. P. C. Washable Dress Fabrics—An occasion that rises head and shoulders above any similar sale held in America, and makes this establishment the unquestioned champion in the selling of printed wash goods.

175,000 Yards—a mighty lot, indeed, forms the basis of this great sale which we start Thursday morning.

The American Printing Company has attained a degree of perfection in the printing of cotton cloths that has been the wonder of the fabric world, and which has created a new era for cotton goods.

Hold up these fabrics alongside of their silken or woolen sisters and you will be astonished at the similarity—the printers have worked miracles in duplicating the most elaborate patterns and the most exquisite colorings.

And while so much art and beauty have been wrought into these cotton cloths, the greater resources of the American Printing Company have enabled them to accomplish the result without increasing the cost.

So it is possible for a woman to buy an entire dress of these beautiful printed fabrics for the trifling sum of 65c.

A. P. C. Fabrics are now most extensively used, not only for the simpler house dresses, wrappers and children's clothes, but for pretty kimonos and handsome princess and jumper dresses.

Many women will hesitate to wear dark wool dresses all winter long in their well heated homes, and to send their children into steam-heated school rooms so unsuitably clad. The dresses made of the A. P. C. Wash Fabrics will not collect dirt and germs, nor overheat the wearer.

SELLING BEGINS TOMORROW

Will Continue Ten Days.

Truly Unfadable Fabrics

The colors are absolutely unfadable, and can be washed over and over again without harm. The blues are dyed with pure indigo. The soft, brilliant colors are a delight to all who use these fabrics, and the patterns are so widely varied—there being no less than 420 staple and novel designs in this enormous collection.

Great Mid-Summer Fur Sale

Coats, Scarfs and Muffs at a Guaranteed Saving of from 25 to 33⅓ Per Cent. on Next Season's Prices.

August fur sales are not new institutions by any means, but this kind of a sale is new and it will establish a precedent by which all future events of a like character will be judged. We never have held a midsummer fur sale before, for the reason that we never have succeeded in securing the right kind of goods at sufficiently low figures to warrant us in urging you to buy. We have the goods this season, however, and we are going to offer them to you at a guaranteed saving of from one-fourth to one-third on next season's price. By this we mean that if next November you can duplicate your purchases for within 25 per cent. or 33 1-3 per cent. of the prices you pay now, we will promptly and cheerfully refund your money. This is by an overwhelming majority the largest collection of furs ever displayed in Newark at this season of the year. All advanced styles, too. Neckwear, muffs and coats. Upon the payment of a nominal deposit we will store whatever you buy during this sale in our cold air plant until fall.

DO ANIMALS SEE COLORS.

How can we answer the question, for example, whether an animal has color vision? I have already said, "by watching what he does," writes Professor John B. Stetson in Harper's Magazine. Let me illustrate, from some of my own experiments upon the color vision of monkeys, how the psychologist makes the animal tell whether it has color vision or not. Two colors (obtained by passing sunlight through a prism), red and green, or yellow and blue, are made to illuminate two small metal food-boxes, set flush with the floor of the apparatus, the whole being placed in an otherwise dark room. In the food-box (closed by a hinged lid which the animal must pull open) illuminated by the red we place a single grape; in the box illuminated by the green we also place a grape, but arrange the conditions so that the animal can open only the box illuminated by the red light.

The grape is kept in the other box so that we may be sure that the animal is not being guided by smell. We first train our animal outside the dark room to get food by pulling open these little boxes. What happens when we take him into the dark room and confront him with the two boxes illuminated by the two different lights? Obviously he can choose either of the two boxes; he does not know which one to open, no association has as yet been established between red light and food and green light and no food. As a matter of fact, he is just as likely to go to one of the other—i. e., make as many wrong choices as right. If we leave the red color on the same side always, the animal will learn to go to that side even though it is color-blind, by merely forming the habit of going always to the right or left—a so-called position habit. We must guard against this by having our apparatus so arranged that we can present the red now on the right, now on the left.

The animal must learn to follow the red light regardless of its position. If our tests are continued long enough, an association is established between red color and food. It required about twenty-five days for Jimmie, a rhesus monkey of mine, to form this simple association. At the end of this time he would choose the red (color with food) about ninety times out of a hundred on the average. It began to look as though he might have color vision, but our test had not been carried far enough. So far we have said nothing about the difference in the brightness or intensity of the two colors. We know that colors as they are seen in the sunlight spectrum differ to our eyes quite a little in their brightness.

A color-blind person could learn to distinguish between red and green in the above test by reason of the fact that they differ so in brightness. The apparatus must be so constructed that we can easily and immediately change the brightness of either the red or the green, and the monkey must be able to choose the red always if he has color vision, under these several conditions: Red very bright, green very dark; red very dark, green very bright; both red and green dark; both red and green bright. Many such changes were introduced into my tests in order to confuse the monkey if possible, but without much success. The monkey apparently possesses to a very high degree the ability to choose between colors.

Meeting a Situation.

"What will we say to those commuters who want to come up to the office and protest against the methods of the road?"

"Encourage them to travel," replied the railway president. "Tell them that if they will organize large parties and come often enough we'll give them special excursion rates."—Washington Evening Star.

Seeking the Glare.

"That man is always anxious to get into the spotlight," said the observant citizen.

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "but he doesn't discriminate. One of these days he's going to stand in front of a locomotive headlight and not realize his mistake till he is run over."—Washington Evening Star.

IN PARIS FROCKS ARE MADE SHORT.

In Paris all evening and afternoon frocks are short.

For dancing nothing is so nice, but to see a room full of women and no trains among them is a new sight in Paris, and not altogether a pretty one, since, after all, nothing is so graceful as a trained skirt in the house or a ballroom that is not too crowded.

Paris couturiers are always carrying things to the extreme, and they are at preesnt so much in live with the short skirt that they are adopting it for every possible occasion. Almost the only dresses made long are those intended for dowagers and large women of 50 or thereabouts.

All the short skirts are round at the bottom. They are indeed queer looking, with the straight round hem and the rest of the skirt fulled in with mousseline, chiffon or soft silk. Changeable silks are sometimes used with the mousseline in a lainage foundation, but the effect is far better with the mousseline itself, for then the picture is a more airy one. When the dress is of silk or satin and mousseline the silk or satin is as soft as possible.

Dresses are no more solid than they were last winter. That is to say, they are composed of sheer silk or mousseline or of several layers of mousseline. For summer the idea is not a bad one, and were the Paris climate different, the cool frock would be hailed with delight; but just as likely as not there will not be half a dozen warm days throughout the entire season. With the exception of one year, that of 1906—and persons look back with delight to that summer—there has been absolutely no summer in Paris. Nothing but a long season of continual rain, the lengthened days of summer months making the only difference.

There is one player on that McNulty Brothers' team that will be heard from as a big league star some one of these fine days. The one we have in mind is their short stop, Pfeiffer. He was the terror of the day to the Plainfield team and it was largely through his wonderful recovery of what looked to be sure hits, that the game resulted in a tie.

But why talk any more? You know that that game on Saturday really should have been Plainfield's in that eighth inning. Yet baserunning is part of the game.

STATE CONVENTION OF REPUBLICANS SEPT. 20?

Unless there is a change in the present plans the State Republican convention, at which a nominee for Governor will be chosen, will be held in the Taylor Opera House, Trenton, September 20, one week after the primaries. This date will be recommended to the State committee at its meeting tomorrow afternoon.

Secretary Edward W. Gray received a letter this morning from the management of the opera house, saying the place could be secured for either September 20 or 21. Mr. Gray communicated at once with State Chairman Franklin Murphy, and Mr. Murphy picked the earlier date as the time for the convention. He suggested to Mr. Gray, however, that the theatre be hired for both days, in case the convention should last more than one day, which is not expected, however.

LEAVES CHILDREN ESTATE.

Jersey City, Aug. 3.—The will of Jacob J. Detwiller, the Greenville fireworks manufacturer, and father of Charles Detwiller, of this city, who died July 16, was probated Monday before Surrogate Egan. The document provides that Mr. Detwiller's remains shall be interred in the family plot in Easton Cemetery beside those of his wife, Cecilia.

The residue of the estate is to be divided equally among his children, Laura C., Charles H. and Clarence J. Detwiller. The executors are directed to pay $1,000 to each of Mr. Detwiller's nieces in Switzerland.

The will was made August 11, 1906. The witnesses are John Andreas, Jr., and Theodore Andreas. Charles H. and Clarence J. Detwiller are named as executors.

The amount of the estate left by Mr. Detwiller is not mentioned in the document, but it is believed to be large.

Dr. Ward's Will.

The will of Dr. Leslie D. Ward makes as certain as anything can be in this world of change, that his granddaughter the child of his deceased son, Herbert, will some time be one of the rich women of the country. She is to have an income of $10,000 a year, or more if necessary, and half the estate when she reachs fifty years. She is only six now. A half amounts to $2,000,000 and during the early years of her life only a fraction of the income, probably $80,000 even now, will be needed. The property is well-invested, and with ordinary care will increase enormously. When she comes into full possession it should reach many millions. The son, Leslie, who inherits, under the same provisions, besides receiving $25,000 cash, is now about 35, so will come into the principal in fifteen years.

BALL PLAYER IS A HERO; "CY" PARKIN RESCUES BOY

With a pair of broken ribs, "Cy" Parkin, the star pitcher of the Newark Eastern League Club, probable pennant winners in Pat Powers' circuit this season dashed into the surf at Fifth avenue Asbury Park, yesterday afternoon and rescued Eddie Dashiell, a 12-year-old Baltimore lad, from drowning. Parkin was rewarded with $50 for his act of heroism by the lad's father who reached the beach just as his boy was saved. Parkin is staying at the West End hotel.

Parkin a few days ago fractured his ribs while taking a plunge bath at Toronto where the Indians were playing a series. Manager Joe McGinnity shipped him to the Queen Resort to recuperate and he is domiciled at the West End hotel for a week or so.

Although unable to go in the surf, Parkin donned a bathing suit yesterday for the purpose of getting some fresh air, as he told a reporter, and while sitting on the beach his eyes fell on young Dashielll as he was battling with the waves. Seeing that the boy was unable to cope with the waves and that he was gradually being carried out to sea, Parkin deserted the sand and swam to the boy's assistance. Gripping the lad around the neck he brought him safe to shore.

Young Dashiell was a bit groggy when he hit the land and while Parkin was rolling him over in the sand Dashiell, Sr., appeared on the scene. Opening his wallet he handed Parkin five crisp 10 spots and thanked him profusely.

Parkin, who hails from South Dakota, a prohibition country, is known as one of the comedians of the diamond. According to old baseball fans he has the erstwhile famous Arlie Latham skinned 10 miles when it comes to making fun on the diamond. Mr. Parkin will be present at the Athletic grounds this afternoon when Manager Harvey's Hyenas will tackle the Royal Giants again; and if he is called on to coach "Cy" will certainly accept the invitation to unloose some of his funnisms to seashore fans.

FOWLER IN OPEN WAR ON VOORHEES

Anything to beat Fowler is the slogan of the leaders of the Republican party in Morris county. But Mr. Fowler has declared war against "Uncle Dan" Voorhees and his cohorts and means, he says, to fight them with every honorable weapon of political warfare, and at the same time strike a blow against Cannonism. That he has supporters and followers here was made known to him on his visit here.

The Congressman talked with many Republicans and declared that he was encouraged beyond expectations in his battle for a renomination.

"I don't believe these so-called bosses can buy the people against me," said Fowler. "They are not going to be purchased like so many sheep and so many hogs. There are thousands of good citizens in Morris county who think for themselves, and they are going to repudiate such men as Voorhees and Kean."

A campaign of deception against him has already been started, Mr. Fowler says, and he says that Senator Kean tried to "steal" from him the credit of obtaining for Morristown an appropriation for a new postoffice building there.

"It will be remembered that after the Morristown postoffice appropriation was secured," said Mr. Fowler, "the story was given out that Fowler could not get it because he was "in bad" with Cannon, and Uncle Dan saved the day by rushing down to Washington and getting Senator Kean to put it in.

"I secured $35,000 for the property, and then after going over the matter with Congressman B. F. Howell, a member of the committee on public buildings, we agreed upon $75,000 for a building. The amount was approved and reported by the sub-committee to the full committee.

"Then it was that Senator Kean went to Mr. Howell and asked him to omit the Morristown appropriation in order that he (Kean) might put it over in the Senate and so get he credit for it. When Mr. Howell informed him that I had already arranged for $75,000, he told Mr. Howell that he (Kean) had put in the $35,000 for the lot and wanted to get the $75,000 for the building.

"Th's statement was an absolute falsehood and uttered in order to deceive Mr. Howell and the people of Morristown. It was done to deprive me of the credit of doing what I had done and stealing it for himself."

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson, of Central avenue, left today for Ocean Grove, where they will spend a part of the month. Later they will go to the mountains. Dr. Anderson will again occupy h's pulpit Sunday, September 4.

DISCUSS AUTO LAW CHANGES.

Many State Notables Attend Committee Meeting at Newark—Apportionment of Delegates.

Discussion of the agitation among automobilists for a modification of the New Jersey automobile law, so that out-of-the-State owners of cars can use the roads of the State at will without the payment of any license fee, took up most of the time of the members of the Republican State Committee of New Jersey at the meeting in Newark yesterday. Some of the members of the committee professed to be greatly alarmed at the spread of the agitation, so, in an effort to win the support of the automobilists the following resolution, introduced by Hamilton F. Kean, was adopted:

"Resolved, That the State committee recommend to the Republican convention the consideration of a resolution at the next session of the Legislature to provide for reciprocal privileges between automobilists of this State and other States."

The resolution, however, did not pass without vigorous opposition from the representatives of the rural counties, among them D. Harris Smith, of Salem, and Samuel K. Robbin, of Burlington, Ex-Governor Murphy, chairman of the committee, who, like Mr. Kean, is the owner of a high powered car, enthusiastically supported Mr. Kean's resolution and it was adopted.

Tuesday, September 20, at the Taylor Opera House, Trenton, was agreed upon as the time and place for holding the convention at which the Republican candidate for Governor will be nominated, and Chairman Murphy issued his call showing the following appointment of delegates by counties:

County.	Delegates.	Districts
Atlantic	30	44
Bergen	50	78
Burlington	33	46
Camden	76	105
Cape May	12	19
Cumberland	25	34

Gloucester	21	25
Hudson	173	194

Salem	16	18
Somerset	18	30
Sussex	9	25
Union	54	69
Warren	16	28
Totals	973	1,267

The chairman also appointed two committees of one of which he is the head, the head of the other being Senator Edmund W. Wakelee, to prepare statements on national and State legislation, which will be issued rom time to time.

Although all the candidates for Governor with the exception of Senator Wakelee were conspicuous by their absence, the candidates for United States Senator were out in force, every one of them being present. These are David Baird, Mr. Murphy and ex-Governor Stokes, and Senator Kean, and hopes that he will be chosen again. There were also present Senator Briggs, Winton C. Garrison, treasurer of the State committee; Congressman John J. Gardner, of Atlantic; Theodore Strong, of Middlesex; John Rotherham, of Hudson; C. Asa Francis, of Monmouth, and Henry M. Doremus, of Essex.

There was considerable gossip as to who the next Republican candidate for Governor would be, and Vivian M. Lewis, of Paterson, had a number of warm advocates, among them being Senator Briggs, Theodore Strong and Congressman Gardner. Many of those at the meeting, however, refuesd to tell whom they favored, among them being David Baird and Alfred N. Dalrymple, chairman of the Essex County Republican Committee.

The name of ex-Judge Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, was mentioned, too, but the opinion was advanced that Senator Kean and Mr. Murphy were the ones back of Mr. Collins' candidacy.

JUNIOR DEPT. OF TRINITY REFORMED SWELLS FUND

Another contribution of five dollars was received this morning for the King's Daughters baby camp on the mountain. This sum, which comes from the Junion Department of Trinity Reformed church, brings the total received to date up to $134.

Everything points to a successful outcome from the bridge whist party which will be held at Truell Hall on Saturday night for the benefit of this worthy charity. The indications point to a large attendance and a consequent swelling of the fund. Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that more money is needed, and the Daily Press will cheerfully acknowledge any contribution sent in for the work.

Received to date:

AUTOISTS TO HOLD BIG MASS-MEETING

The very strong resolutions passed Monday night by the board of trustees of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club have aroused considerable enthusiasm amongst the members, as may be evinced by the numerous telephonic communications received by the officers of the club during the day.

It is expected that the action of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club in calling for a mass-meeting of motorists for August 17 will be the forerunner of the State-wide campaign that will be inaugurated to changing conditions in New Jersey.

Every candidate for political office in the fall will be requested by the club to state his views on the motoring laws.

President Bissell, in speaking on the matter, said:

"The New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club stands for reciprocity and wants reciprocal arrangements with its neighboring States. We want to afford every tourist an opportunity to travel over our excellent roads and we want the tourist to be enabled to do this easily."

The New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club, by the resolution adopted, places itself on record as favoring more liberal automobile laws and also advocates that the present system of double taxation on automobiles shall be removed. They contend that the present State fees on motor cars should be the only tax.

It is expected that at the mass-meeting of the club J. B. R. Smith, commissioner of motor vehicles, will be present and that there will be representatives sent from every other motoring club and organization in the State.

This action on behalf of the club will be hailed with joy by the many motorists of New York, Pennsylvania and the New England States and will tend to lessen their feeling of animosity toward New Jersey, and the outlook is that the meeting of August 17 will be one of the largest ever held by the people interested in the motor vehicle.

Atlantic City in Line.

It is not alone Plainfield that is urging the protection of foodstuffs. In Atlantic City the most rigorous measures have been taken by the Board of Health to enforce the provisions of the law enacted in 1909. Prosecutions will be begun on Monday next against all dealers in that city who have not complied with the orders of the board.

Next Excursion to the Shore.

The next excursion from this city to Asbury Park will be that of Hope chapel on Saturday, August 13. This is one of the most popular excursions of the season and a large crowd is sure to accompany the chapel to the shore.

RAINFALL MAKES RECORD

In Thirty-eight Minutes Yesterday Afternoon 1.91 Inches Fell.

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE.

House on West Third Street and Another in North Plainfield Lost Some Shingles—Other Pranks.

The elements not satisfied with one deluge evidently decided to rub it in on those who have been longing for rain and yesterday cut loose a downpour which for intensity and copiousness more than beat anything of the kind for many a day. In thirty-eight minutes yesterday afternoon 1.91 inches of rain fell in this city which is more than twice the quantity of the day before and a record. The lightning, too, cut up "scandalous" at the height of the storm.

When a particularly brilliant flash came shooting out of the dense clouds at about 4o'clock it paid a visit to the home of Lee Booker, on West Third street, tearing off part of the front of the roof and skimming along the top of the house to the rear slapped a few shingles off as though trying to level the little protuberances in its way. Shortly before this a bolt tried to unshingle the home of Joseph B. Mills, at the corner of Summit and Westervelt avenues, in the borough. Here a number of shingles were ripped off, but fortunately none of the occupants was injured.

Trees in several of the outlaying districts were struck, but no damage worth mentioning was done. The electric service was out of business for ten minutes by a short circuit leaving many who were working under electric light temporarily in darkness and stopping the electric power in use in some establishments.

Out of town stories of the storm of Tuesday afternoon continue to come in. Bernardsville reports having some hail storm which was so severe that the streets were filled with slush for an hour after the first downpour and enough ice was on the ground to make a change of twenty-five degrees in the temperature. Several cows were killed by lightning while three or four houses were struck, one of them narowly escaping destruction by fire.

In Hackettstown the crops were entirely ruined. Many fields of corn were flattened to the ground and fruit trees denuded of their product and foliage as though done with the knife. At Budd Lake three cows which were browsing under a tree on the farm of Aaron D. Hulse were instantly killed by a bolt of lightn'ng which split the tree from top to bottom.

COUNTY TO GET SHARE OF OF STATE MOTOR TAX.

Union county is to receive its full share of the State motor vehicle fund for the improvement of its highways. The apportionment for this county is $12,000, the State Road Commission announces. Of this sum $6,000 is to be expended in the improvement of North Broad street, from King street, Elizabeth, to Newark, and the same sum for the improvement of Westfield avenue from Elizabeth to Cranford.

County Collector N. R. Leavitt has just been notified of the apportionment by Col. Frederick Gilkyson. It is an increase over last year, when the apportionment was $10,000. The State motor vehicle fund includes all the money that is derived from the tax on motor vehicles of all descriptions, and the law requires that the money must be expended in making repairs to the roads throughout the State.

Haymakers Initiate.

Four candidates from Somerville were initiated into Wetumpka Hayloft of Haymakers at the meeting of the Hayloft last night. The four candidates were: Hugh F. Cary, Charles Peterson, J. A. Melt, Jr., and L. C. Davis. In addition to the initiation, routine business was transacted and a general discussion of the convention on Saturday was held.

Mastering the Arabian Language.

Dr. Paul Witherforce Harrison, the missionary sent out to Arabia, by Trinity Reformed Church on January 29, has written to a friend in this city. In the letter Dr. Harrison speaks of his first efforts being directed to the mastery of the Arabian language. When this is accomplished active missionary work among the Arabians will not be so difficult. The letter was written on June 25 and just arrived today.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. MARY E. FLANNERY

Funeral services of Mrs. Mary Ellen Flannery were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston, at Scotch Plains. The house was filled with relatives, friends and neighbors, who had known and loved the departed during her many years' residence there. Rev. Franklin K. Matthews, pastor of the Baptist church, of which Mrs. Flannery was one of its oldest members, had charge of the services and spoke kindly words of sympathy to the relatives and extolled the many virtues of the dead woman, which had endeared her to all.

During the service "Abide with Me," and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung by Judge William N. Runyon. The floral tributes from friends and neighbors were many and beautiful, including a pillow from the son, J. E. Flannery, with the inscription, "Mother," and a tribute from the Ladiees' Aid Society of the Church.

Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist Cemetery. The bearers were Robert Walpole, Augusta L. Frentz, Dr. F. W. Westcott, Henry Keuhn and Alexander MacCauley.

WEST END PEOPLE ENJOY TRIP TO BOYNTON BEACH.

A party of thirty "West Enders" went on a picnic to Boynton Beach yesterday. The trip was made by stage, leaving here at 8 a. m., and returning to this city at 9 p. m. While at the beach the party enjoyed bathing and dancing. During the heavy rain the dance hall proved to be a desirable shelter.

Among those in the party were: Mrs. George Gray, Mrs. Jacob Smith, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. John Emery, Mrs. D. Emery, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Cullen and niece, Mrs. Pennington, Mrs. Bulmer, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. J. Cross, Mrs. Thomas Keenan, Mrs. Keenan, and the Misses Mary Hines, Bertha Bendor, Rosella Harkins, Cathleen Harkins, Miriam Emery, Madaline Pennington, Lizzie Brown, Margaret Keenan, and Netty Bulmre, and George Gray, Charles Cullen, Joseph Smith, William Smith, Theodore Brown, George Brown and Brit Martin.

WAS NOT AFRAID OF POSSIBLE EXPLOSION.

Carelessness oftentimes is the cause of dire disaster and at other times, if we are to believe some historians, leads to fortune, but what would you think if you happened to see a man seated over a two thousand gallon tank of gasolene smoking a pipe.

This spectacle was provided to a couple of citizens this morning not more than a few hundred yards from a garage in the center of the city and the complacent driver of the tank wagon seemed to be oblivious of his surroundings, plunged in deepest thought. "S'posin' the thing bu'sted, what then?"

Business Manager at Hospital.

M. Harrison, who was formerly connected with the business management of a Brooklyn hospital, and who was recently appointed to a similar position at Muhlenberg Hospital assumed his new duties on Monday. Mr. Harrison will have charge of only the business end of affairs at the hospital, and will have nothing to do with the patients or nurses.

Caught in the Storm.

Fifty children in charge of Miss Sara Curry, who arrived at Netherwood station yesterday afternoon were caught in the sudden shower while on their way to the fresh air camp and drenched. On their arrival at the camp immediate steps were taken to prevent sickness by supplying the children with dry clothing. No ill results are feared.

Honored at World's Convention.

At the recent world convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union held in Glasgow, Scotland, New Jersey was honored in many ways. The principal honor coming to this State was in the appointment of Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street, as World's Superintendent of Social Meetings and Red Letter Days.

Rescue Mission Meeting.

F. E. Smith, of Central avenue, will lead the meting at the Rescue Mission tonight. The service begins at 8 o'clock.

TROLLEY RIPS OFF ROOF

Bound Brook Car East Bound Scalps Ferd Dencklau's Restaurant.

PASSENGERS THROWN DOWN.

All Escape Injury Excepting Conductor, Whose Arm is Bruised. Rear Trucks Take "Y" Instead of Main Line Track.

An accident to a main line rolley car at about 7 o'clock this morning, occurred at the Dewey Park car barns which for a few moments looked as though it would have serious consequences. However, nobody but the conductor was injured and he but slightly. The car was crowded at the time and many of the passengers who were compelled to stand were thrown off their feet. The rear trucks of the car took the "Y" at this point instead of following the forward trucks on the main tracks and ripped the roof from the dining room and cigar store of Ferdinand Dencklau, causing $200 damage. The accident was a peculiar one and had never been feared by the employees of the Public Service Railway.

The car, which caused the trouble, left Bound Brook at 6:15, being operated by Motorman Jenson. As the car approached the "Y" at the car barns, the front trucks continued on the straight track, but the wheels of the rear truck followed the "Y". The rear end of the car was naturally thrown around and in so doing it tore the extension roof from the lunch room building as clean as if cut off purposely. The rear platform of the car was damaged considerably and was taken to the shop for repairs. The passengers were transferred to another car and they arrived in Plainfield only ten minutes late.

The accident was probably caused by the switch at the "Y" being set after the wheels of the front truck had passed over it. When the accident occurred, all the passengers in the car, except two, immediately jumped out, fearing that the car would topple over on its side. If the rear trucks had gone a foot further on the "Y" the car would have fallen on its side and the passengers been severely injured.

PATRIOTIC SONS OF AMERICA WILL MEET AT HOBOKEN.

Gala arrangements are under way for the annual State convention of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America. The affair this year will be held in Hoboken and the members of the committee that has full charge of making all the preparations for it are working like beavers in their endeavors to make it one of the most successful as well as enjoyable sessions in the history of the order.

The convention will last two days and the scene of it will be in Odd Fellows Hall, between Fourth and Fifth streets. The affair will take place on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 16 and 17, and indications are that hundreds of visitors will be in Hoboken on those two days. The headquarters of the executive committee will be at Naegel's hotel, Third and Hudson streets.

One of the features will be a long street parade, which will take place on the evening of August 16. There will be fully 1,000 men in line and all residents along the line of march will show their patriotism by decorating their homes in honor of the occasion.

P. S. C. ISSUES AN ATTRACTIVE FOLDER-MAP.

An attractive folder of thirty-six pages has just been issued by Public Service Railway. It is of handy pocket size being four by nine inches. The outside covers are done in four colors, the front showing a view of Broad and Market street, Newark, and the back a pretty bit of scenery along the upper Passaic river near Singac.

A general map nine by twenty-four inches gives one an idea of the extent of the company's system, and the lines in Newark, in Jersey City and Hoboken and in Camden and vicinity are shown in separate detail maps. The folder contains a large number of illustrations, a description of trolley routes and other information about distances and rates of fare between the various cities and towns served by trolleys.

TRINITY EXCURSIONISTS LEAVE FOR THE SHORE

Despite the threatening weather and heavy clouds, two trainloads of happy excursionists started this morning for Asbury Park and Ocean Grove on the annual outing of the Sunday schools of the Trinity Reformed, Netherwood Reformed, Marconnier, and Mount Pleasant churches. It was a brave crowd of nearly a thousand people that started off for the shore in the face of such a dismal day. But from present indications, it looks as though the fears of the excursionists of being caught in the rain would be entirely dispelled, for by ten o'clock the clouds broke away and the wind shifted to the southwest.

At eight o'clock, when the excursion was scheduled to start, Plainfield was in the grasp of an April shower. The excursion committee learned that there was no rain in Asbury Park, so the trains were ordered to start.

The first section, composed of nine cars, was quickly filled and got under way at 8:21. Five minutes later the second section left the station. This train was made up of nine cars, but only six were filled. The empty cars were occupied by Netherwood excursionists. Baggage accommodations were offered in both sections. Upon returning from the shore tonight the trains will leave Asbury Park at 7:10 and 7:15, arriving in Plainfield at 8:45.

A feature of this excursion is the comfortable accommodations offered by the railroad company. Both sections were made up of new steel cars—something unusual for excursion trains. One coach was reserved for the employees of A. E. Force & Co., of the White Store.

The committee on arrangements was composed of: Chauncey F. Colthar, chairman; Charles M. Dolliver, Harry C. Van Emburgh, Clarence Rittenhouse, William J. Trembath, William Wyman and Sidney Frazee.

AID OF POLICE TO BE INVOKED

Unless water users throughout Elizabeth heed the request of the officials of the Elizabethtown Water Company and stop watering their lawns with a garden hose before next Monday, Mayor Mravlag will be asked to issue a proclamation making hose players liable to arrest and fine. This is the ultimatum of the water company, according to John W. Whelan, secretary of the company.

This will not only apply to private residents who delight in watering their lawns morning, noon and night, but will take in owners of garages, stables and factories, who persist in wasting hundreds of gallons of water a day. The water situation in Elizabeth, according to Secretary Whelan, has reached such a stage that the waste must be stopped even if the city police have to be called on the job.

It will take at least two days of hard, driving rain to bring the water supply back to normal, according to the company official, and even then, if the waste goes on, it will be the same in a week or so. The situation has passed the stage where the promiscuous use of garden hose and other mediums of waste will cause a scarcity. An actual water famine will be the result, the secretary states, unless the waste is stopped.

The failure of the Robinson branch of the Rahway River to supply water for Elizabeth and adjacent towns has brought matters to a crisis, the water officials say. This plant alone supplied Elizabeth with 3,000,000 gallons of water a day, and if the waste continues there will not be enough water for domestic uses. It will also bring about a serious scarcity of water for fire hydrants.

John O. Wallberg.

John O. Wallberg, an old resident of Mt. Bethel, died yesterday afternoon at his home after a lingering illness. Mr. Wallberg was sixty-four years old. Funeral services will be held from his late residence in Mt. Bethel, Friday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. Peter Gibb officiating. Interment will be made in the Mt. Bethel cemetery.

Service in S. A. Hall Tonight.

The service, conducted by the Salvation Army tonight, will be held in the hall on East Second street and not in the tent on account of the rain. The leader will be Adjutant Mrs. Jackson, who will be assisted by Captain Gallagher and Captain Hewitt. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

FLAMES CAUSE BIG LOSS

Five Thousand Dollars Added to Amount of Damage Done on July 19.

RIGID INVESTIGATION ON.

Same Firms as Those of Previous Blaze Suffer Loss of $1,500—Mostly from Water—Katz Discovered Blaze.

The second fire within two weeks to break out in the Schepflin building started this morning at about 9.50 and gave the firemen a good fight for an hour. It broke out in the same elevator shaft in the center of the building and before it was extinguished had done about $5,000 damage. The merchants on the floors below were the chief sufferers from damage by water. It was found necessary to throw tons of water on the blaze, two streams from the rear and one in front being used, besides the chemicals.

When the firement arrived in response to a call from box 42, sent in by Charles Smith, an employee of J. W. Gavett, they found smoke in dense volumes pouring through the crevices of the roof and sweeping out through the windows. When the windows were smashed in it was almost impossible for a few moments for the smoke eaters to get fresh air enough to permit them to fight the flames, but the draught finally cleared the top floor of the densest part of the smudge and work began in earnest.

As soon as the source of the blaze was discovered a concerted effort was made to get at it. With axes and picks the ceiling and sides of the hall were quickly opened and the streams of water soon extinguished the blaze.

On the top floor where the fire started Thomas Egany formerly conducted a dance hall, but it has not been in use for that purpose for some time. Hence the belief that the electric wires which run through that part of the building were responsible for the blaze.

Fortunately the blaze did not extend to the eastern portion of the building where John Winzenried has storage warerooms the party walls probably saving this part from catching fire.

S. Katz, manager of Schiller Brothers, underwear factory, which occupies the third floor, discovered the fire. He smelled smoke and traced it to the elevator shaft. He opened the door to the elevator and hastily closed it on discovering flames shooting upward. He shouted fire at the top of his lungs and the cry was heard by Smith, who turned in the alarm.

Much damage was done by water to the occupants of the floors beneath the underwear factory, but the extent of this damage cannot be accurately ascertained until later today. Acting Chief Jennings, of the fire department, estimated the loss on building at $3,500 and on stock of the tenants $1,500, partly covered by insurance. Among those who lost by water were R. B. VanArsdale, H. E. Hanson, Schiller Brothers, Surprise Store and the armory of Company K, although in the last named place the damage is not great owing to the fact that most of the company's belongings were under cover.

A rigid investigation is being made to determine the exact cause of the blaze.

Chief of Police Kiely and his detectives and the insurance adjusters from New York were busy all the morning trying to ascertain the cause of the fire, and their findings will probably be known in a day or two.

It was said this morning that the insurance companies have not yet adjusted the losses from the fire of July 19, when upward of $3,000 damage was done to the same building and firms.

A pleasing feature of the firemen's work this time was the splendid water pressure. Absolutely no fault could be found with the streams which were turned on the blaze front and rear.

WESTFIELD.

As business was a trifle quiet Tuesday morning in E. D. Woodruff's office on North avenue he made no objection when a little gypsy girl came in and offered to tell his fortune. He obligingly crossed her palm with silver and gave her the silver, but she, seeing signs of greater fortune in the lines of his hand, wanted his palm crossed with paper money. He was willing to oblige her in this, as good fortune seemed in sight for him. Just how it happened he did not understand, but after the gipsy girl had departed after telling all kinds of good fortune, he had occasion to count his roll and found that there was five dollars missing. The matter was immediately reported to Police Officer Caulfield, who, after a hot ride on his wheel about town, found the girl and brought her to the police station. After she was arrested the girl's friends visited Mr. Woodruff and made restitution, and he declined to make a complaint against her.

A conviction was found Tuesday afternoon in the case of Thomas Doud against John H. Frazee in proceedings to hold to keep the peace, and Frazee was directed to give bonds in the amount of $100. Twelve witnesses were examined in the hearing, which took up the best part of the day. Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., conducted the case for the State and W. R. Wilson made the defense. The matter was tried before Justice of the Peace Collins.

Chief of Police Thomas O'Neill started on a two weeks' vacation Tuesday. While he is away the department will be in charge of Sergeant Martin Caulfield.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The mid-week prayer meetings were held last night in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. The series of Bible school lessons which Dr. Knox, of the Methodist church is taking for the subjects of these meetings during the summer months, are being much enjoyed by his congregation.

Roy Zimmerman from Pennsylvania, has been engaged by the borough Board of Education to fill the position of teacher in Grade five in the Whittier school. Mr. Zimmerman comes from the same town in Pennsylvania that School Supervisor Guy Rertschler hails from.

The borough fire department did not go out to the fire in Harris' barn on Tuesday night. Their services would have been of no avail, however, since there was no water with which to fight the fire. The total loss due to the fire is estimated at over $1,000.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Preserving Kettles

We want to show you our complete line of Preserving Kettles both in aluminum and agateware—all sizes.

Both kinds are made by two of the most reliable concerns in the country.

The prices are very reasonable as upon all that we sell.

Plainfield, N. J., August 4, 1910.

HERE AND THERE.

The Boston News Bureau has obtained estimates that 350,000 automobiles are now in use in the United States, as against 7,000,000 horse-drawn vehicles.

In automobile plants are invested $400,000,000, and in these works and accessory trades are employed 200,000 persons.

Automobile-makers, it is estimated, pay $60,000,000 annually for rubber, steel, iron and aluminum, and to the railroads $25,000,000 in freight charges.

These are tremendous figures as applying to an industry not yet fifteen years old. They bear upon the question that is repeatedly raised after a day heavy in motor-car fatalities, whether or not the automobile has as yet justified itself economically in the face of its long mortality record. Presumably we shall meet this question less frequently when the balance of interest between pleasure and business in the dvlopment of automobiles is modified; when the motor-car is less conspicuously the travel luxury of the rich and the ruthless instrument of the speed-mad.. Toward this change and toward ultimate high standard of safety and utility there is daily progress based on sound laws, business demands and returning sanity among drivers.

Of course it is a fact that some people think that "Information" at the telephone exchange must be an animate encyclopaedia, but can you beat this?

"Is this Central?"

"Well, give me information."

"This is information, is it?"

"Well, say, last year when I came out here to visit I hired an expressman to take my trunks from the station to the house. There were two men on the wagon, one being a short stout man and the other fellow rather slender and tall. I would like to know their names so that I may get them to take my trunks to the North avenue station. Can you tell me who they were?"

The resulting shock to Information is not recorded, but who could blame her for feeling weary?

This went slipping over the wire to Information yesterday.

"Say, Information, this is Mrs. Blank, of Steenth street. A letter was left here by the postman this morning, but it is not for me, what shall I do with it?

"Give it back to the postman," said the patient girl. Click, went the receiver at the other end.

The men are: Alfred H. Benson and Richard Allerton, of Company H, and James Bell and Lawrence McManus, of Company I. All four parties hail from Orange.

The case of William H. Crowley, of Company H, who was charged with using profane language, was laid over until some future date.

The court convened shortly after 8 o'clock, and it was only a half-hour before it adjourned. Lieutenant-Colonel Van Walraven presided, with Major John L. Griggs, judge-advocate of the regiment, as the prosecuting attorney. Samuel Lewis acted as recorder. The judge-advocate had all his witnesses on hand, Police Commissioner John N. Lindsley, of Orange; Captain William A. Lord and First Sergeant Harry J. Philpot, of Company H, and Captain Nathan C. Horton and First Sergeant John Keaster, of Company I, and was ready to prove his case when the four guardsmen pleaded guilty.

The punishment of the four men is to be meted out by the presiding officer, Lieutenant-Colonel Van Walraven, and must be approved by the commmanding officer, Colonel Edwin W. Hine, before being made public. In cases such as these on hand, however, the punishment can be either dismissal from the National Guard without honor or the assessment of a fine, according to the weight of the crime.

The circumstances under which the four men became drunk and disorderly took place at Orange immediately before the two companies left to join the remainder of the regiment on its way to the annual tour of duty at the State encampment at Sea Girt. Police Commissioner Lindsley, of Orange, declared the men acted disgracefully prior to leaving, throwing whiskey bottles from the armory windows upon his property, blocking up the sidewalks of the town, getting drunk and otherwise becoming offensive. He says he refrained from calling police for fear the soldiers, armed with bayonets and guns, might fight back. He therefore bided his time, and wrote a letter to Governor Fort.

TURTLE IN THE STOMACH.

Pittsburg, August 4.—William Douglass, of the North Side, is dead as the result of a turtle's egg hatching in his stomach. A few weeks ago Douglass partook of some turtle soup. Four days after taking the soup he became ill and numerous physicians were unable to diagnose his disease. Yesterday he died. An autopsy was performed and a partially formed turtle, almost as large as a hen's egg, was found in his stomach.

NEWARK EDUCATORS TO ESTABLISH NEW CLASSES.

Five classes for defective children are to be established by the Newark Board of Education at the opening of the school year next September. This is to be the beginning of a work that has long been urged upon the school authorities and which has almost no limitations in its peculiar field if properly administered. Remarkable results are being obtained in other cities where defective classes have been put in operation. The afflictions of the children sent to these classes embrace all manner of ailments, both physical and mental, all of which are closely studied by the school physicians. In many instances surgical operations of an almost trifling character have restored a child to normal brain power, and have thus made it possible for the child to become an intelligent and efficient pupil, ultimately becoming self-sustaining instead of a heavy burden upon the family or a care to the State. Specialists are finding out that a close study of defective children makes them surprisingly skillful in eradicating mental and physical draw-backs, letting in floods of light to young brains that otherwise would have remained in semi-darkness through life, if not lapsing into complete imbecility. Unnumbered thousands have in the past dragged out dreary lives because their brains and bodies were not properly administered to in early childhood. Thousands of men and women who are doing their work in the world now, and doing it well under the almost crushing handicap of poor or indifferent health, might have been spared very much of the struggle had their peculiar afflictions been corrected in their incipiency.

Aspires to Shrievalty.

The Democrats of Bound Brook have a candidate for sheriff in Chas. J. McNabb, who for ten years has been borough tax assessor. Mr. McNabb is the night freight agent of the Jersey Central at Jersey City, a position he has held since he was twenty years old, and that was thirty-five years ago. There is only one other aspirant for the nomination, and he is Frank Mobus, of North Plainfield.

The Democrats had not been active up to last Saturday, when the executive committee met. The campaign has since taken on some life. M. W. Scully, the county chairman, has sent out a letter to all Democrats throughout the county asking them if there is any one in their respective communities who has ambition to become a candidate for member of Assembly, and if so to send their names to him that he may get the proper petitions started. Mr. Scully says that for the past four years the party has been in factional differences because men in one part of the county or another felt that there was no chance to get representation from their section and they have bolted the ticket.

Girl Victim of a Bonfire.

Bayonne, N. J., Aug. 4.—The fourth child to die from burns received at bonfires within the last few months was Minnie Samuels, 5 years old, of 93 West Twenty-first street, whose death occurred yesterday in Bayonne Hospital. The child was playing about a bonfire in the rear of her home several days ago, when her dress caught fire.

Contract to Build Firehouse.

The contract for building the new fire department house at Westfield was awarded to John Goltra by the Building Committee for the council last night. The contract price is $19,000. The old building was sold to Robert Woodruff for $160. He has ten days in which to remove it.

POINTERS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

The best housekeeper is the one who passes less time in making things clean and more thought in keeping them clean as she goes.

Keep camphor in cupboards where clothes are stored, for not only will it keep away moths, but also mice, which dislike it exceedingly.

When using stale bread for puddings, always soak it in a cold liquid. Bread that has been soaked in cold milk or water is light and crumbly, whereas that soaked in hot liquids is heavy.

The best way to extract the juice from an onion, when needed for flavoring, is to cut a slice from the root and press onion on a coarse grater, using a rotary motion.

When boiled mutton has served its purpose as a dinner meat in one family, it invariably returns at luncheon or supper as a salad, and always with sandwiches filled with mayonnaise mixed with chopped capers.

An alarm clock kept in the kitchen may be set to ring at the time the vegetables should be put over the fire, or the hot bread or the cake or pudding is due to be done, and as a guide to time in many other matters.

Raisin Puffs.

Two eggs, half cup of butter, three teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, two cups flour, one cup milk, one cup seeded raisins chopped fine. Steam half hour in small cups.

Duty to Self.

Do what thy manhood bids thee do, from none but self expect applause; he noblest lives and noblest diest who makes and keeps his self-made laws.—The Kasidah.

Garment Trimming.

Coarse Russian braid, row upon row, soutache in intricate patterns and soutache in hanging knots constitute a trimming for outdoor garments.

COMPELLED TO FURNISH FREE RIDES

Trenton, Aug. 4.—Following a conference with the attorney-general, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners has decided that the act which took effect on July 4th would relieve a corporation coming under the provisions of the act from the obligation of furnishing free transportation to members of a municipal body. The question was raised by the fact that prior to July 4th a municipality enacted an ordinance granting privileges to a public utility corporation, one of the conditions being that the members of the municipal body enacting the ordinance should be carried without charge.

Without passing upon the legality of the condition the Commission held that the Company is relieved of the burden imposed upon it by Section 9, of the new public utility law.

NEW YORK'S AUTO LAW NOT UNJUST TO JERSEY.

New York's retaliatory law regulating automobile traffic became operative Monday and, according to Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Smith of this State, it is not so bad as many motorists believe.

At first it was supposed that motorists of this State would be required to take out an annual license in New York before being permitted to operate in the State because of the New Jersey law which requires all foreign motorists to register and pay a license fee of $1 for eight days' use of the State roads in one period of eight days or four of two days' each.

An examination of the New York law by Mr. Smith shows, however, that resident motorists of this State will be subject to no more restrictions in New York than residents of the latter State are here. This is shown in the following except from the law: "The provision of this (penalty) section, however, shall be operative as to a motor vehicle owned by a non-resident of this State only to the extent that under the laws of the foreign country, State, territory or Federal district of his residence like exemptions and privileges are granted to motor vehicles duly registered under the laws and owned by residents of this State."

FAMOUS U. S. CRUISERS MAY GO TO JUNK HEAP.

A naval board, headed by Rear-Admiral Thomas, began the task at the Philadelphia Navy Yard of passing upon the fate of three cruisers, which but a few years ago were the undisputed leaders in their classes. The vessels are the armored cruiser Brooklyn and the protected cruisers Columbia and Minneapolis, built as the commerce destroyers of the navy.

The three cost over $8,500,000, exclusive of their armament. The Columbia and Minneapolis, sister ships, in the opinion of officers at the yard, are most in danger of being consigned to the junk pile, as they are in bad shape.

The Brooklyn, Admiral Schley's flagship in the Spanish-American War, and the vessel which played a very active part at the battle of Santiago, is in better shape and is more likely to be overhauled and modernized.

The fate of several old monitors, including the Miantonomah, which also took part in the Spanish American War, likewise will be decided.

Farmer's House Blown Up.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 4.—Dingman Reyngoudt, a farmer living on the river road, reported to the Garfield police yesterday that an attempt was made Tuesday night to blow up his house, and that it had almost succeeded, not a window remaining unbroken in the building. About thirty-five feet from the house was found the remnants of a bomb. Reyngoudt admits having had considerable trouble with neighbors on account of cattle trespassing on his land.

Belcher's Affairs Settled.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 4.—The financial affairs of William H. Belcher, former Mayor of this city, and now a convict at Trenton, have been settled. The total claims against Belcher amounted to $67,000, and after all his property had been sold under the hammer there was only enough to pay the creditors 12 per cent. Belcher was sentenced to prison after his conviction of embezzlement.

BANKING INDUSTRIES INCREASE RESOURCES

Trenton, Aug. 4.—During the past twelve months the net resources of the financial institutions coming under the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department have shown a net increase of nearly $21,000,000. A statement just issued by Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis shows that at the close of business on June 30 last, the total resources of the trust companies, savings banks and State banks were $350,718,033.16. The deposits on the same date aggregated $284,160,492.20.

The reports include returns from eighty-three trust companies, twenty-six savings banks and nineteen State banks. The trust companies had resources aggregating $221,019,930.10; the savings banks $111,870,316.13, and the State banks $17,827,786.93. The returns from the State banks showed a decrease in resources of $1,426,470, this being due to the fact that during the year two of this class of institutions had ceased operating.

LIFESAVERS PROMOTED.

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 4.—Following an exhibition drill yesterday, several members of the local branch of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps were notified that they had been raised in rank. The corps is composed of residents of this city and Ocean Grove, and it has done valuable service during the last three years.

Captain Crawford was raised to the rank of vice-commodore, as was Wilbur Vanderslice. Other promotions were William McNaire senior lieutenant, to be captain; R. E. Skelton, junior lieutenant, to be senior; R. Nittenger, boatswain, to be junior lieutenant, and Clifford Henning, surfman to be boatswain.

The Asbury Park Aero and Motor Club yesterday hired Captain Milliman, of Newark, and his dirigible airship, to give daily exhibitions during the aviation meet on August 10 to 20 at Interlaken Field. The dirigible will be operated by Frederick Owens. John Mack, also of Newark, has been secured for balloon ascensions.

The City Board of Education has decided that another school is necessary in Asbury Park, and plans and estimates for a new building, to be located in the Springwood avenue district, will be submitted to the Board of Estimate in the near future. There are now six school buildings in the city's system, with a total valuation of more than $500,000.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink paid her annual visit to the Ocean Grove Auditorium Tuesday night. She was greeted by 10,000 persons. Her numbers were: Recitative and aria from "Sapho," "The Erlkin," "Ah, Love, but a Day" "Mavourneen." "Our Father," "The Rosary" and "Abide with Me." She responded to many encores. She was assisted by Franz Kohler, a violinist. In the afternoon, at Mme. Schumann-Heink's special request, Tali Esen Morgan's children's chorus of one thousand voices sang in the Auditorium.

COLLEGE MEN GOOD SOLDIERS.

Camp Fort, Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 4.—Men who have been graduated from colleges and universities—members of the signal corps—may be seen this week currying their horses, digging trenches and performing many of the duties incident to the life of a soldier in camp. These college men have demonstrated in the signal corps that this class of men make the very best soldiers when they take hold of the work for they aim to excel in everything they undertake.

There is some doubt as to the working out of a problem this week, even on a limited scale, as was done last week. Owners of property in this neighborhood do not relish the idea of the men tramping over it, and the facilities afforded by the public roads are so limited that the opportunity for working in that fashion is of little value.

It is expected that Governor's Day will be a big affair. The 4th Regiment will have an excursion here from Jersey City. Governor Fort will have a lot of guests to luncheon, and the three organizations in camp will be reviewed by him.

Three army officers are in camp this week. They are Captain Frank W. Weed, of the medical corps; Captain Tiemann N. Horn, 3d Artillery, and First Lieutenant Shelby C. Leasure, of the signal corps. They are giving the troops much valuable instruction.

Miss Edith Gibson is entertaining Miss Avis I. Aldrich, of this city, at her summer home at Keene Valley, Adirondacks, N. Y. Miss Aldrich and Miss Gibson were classmates in this year's graduating class at Vassar College.

Always Happens.

You fool around your flat
For half a day;
No neighbors come to chat
Or visits pay.
You think you'll take a bath,
Discard your things;
Whereat, unto your wrath,
The doorbell rings.
No use to rave or groan
Or bite your nails,
For when a chap's alone
It never fails.

ELIZABETHTOWN IN 1830

A Summer Resort in the Early Days—Written About by W. Jay Wills.

CAP. VANDERBILT'S SEA HORSE.

History of the Ancient Society Rendezvous Where Celebrities of Early Part of the 19th Century Gathered.

"Elizabethtown, an Old Summer Resort, Which Was the Home of Many Prominent New York Families in 1830," is the subject of an interesting article in Town and County of July 16. The writer, Weymer Jay Wills, has revived a period full of fascination in the history of this community. By courtesy of the magazine The Daily Press is permitted to reprint the article, though without the interesting illustrations:

Our ancestors who journeyed to Lady Carteret's green name place in the first decade of the nineteenth century generally left New York in the swift sailing Bellona, now remembered for its captain, Cornelius Vanderbilt, or Governor Ogden's rival Sea Horse. Ladies hid bottles of salts in their reticules, and gentlemen bottles of brandy in their coat tails, for in those days when steamboats were novelties and everybody remembered the terrors of the small sailing craft, even short water trips were regarded with suspicion. At the Point there was the public Flying Wagon, but the quality had their own carriages with liveried negro coachmen, and even an outrider or two, tradition says.

There was a distinctly aristocratic flavor about the life of this ancient community, especially the summer life. Jane Austen, if she had been suddenly transported from Bath and set down in the midst of that Creek society, could have found many an American replica of her haughty squires and their ladies. What could be called the flower of the old South and the flower of Gotham met there every spring.

Made Strong Appeal.

Why Elizabeth Town should have made such a strong appeal to the dwellers below Mason and Dixon's Line no one knew. Almost on the footsteps of the Revolution the first of them began to migrate there, mingling with the French West Indian Colony, once a feature of the place. In the old graveyards we read many of their names—the Mayos—the Carrolls—and the Bethunes. The first Colonel Mayo was the father of the beautiful Mrs. Winfield Scott. Among them we find, in more weather-beaten lettering, those of Due Buc de Marencille, De Tauchimbert, Malherbes, Terrier de Laistre and De Clot. It was the last named family who entertained Jerome Bonaparte and his Baltimore bride. "What a world of lost romance, we sigh, as we push back the flowering myrtle." There are tales that some of them died without disclosing their real identity. Old Madame Lapray, who taught Mrs. Scott as a little girl, had gazed upon Louis XVI going to the guillotine. No less a personage than Talleyrand had driven over from Newark in order to visit her and other of his compatriots.

In one old Elizabeth Town house several of the likenesses of these forgotten inhabitants line the faded wall. One is of Chevalier Joseph Louis, Chevalier D'Anterroches, born at the Chateau of Puydarnac, near Tulle, Limousin. He came to America in 1777 with the British Army, and was taken prisoner about the time of the battle of Saratoga. After his capture he begged for pen and paper and wrote to his cousin, the Marquis de Lafayette. Through the influence of this enthusiast for liberty he changed his colors and joined the American cause. He married Mary Vanderpoel and lived most of his life in Elizabeth Town, returning to his home in 1780 to show his parents their grandson Pierre. This John Peter, who sleeps in St. John's churchyard, was presented at court, and the quaint brocaded dress he wore is still preserved in the same old mansion.

Famous Ballroom.

But to journey on to the thirties, when French names were fading into memories, the old de Casse mansion passed into the possession of Charles King, of New York. Cherry Lawn, the family called it, and throughout the Jerseys it became noted for its hospitality. Charles King had been partly educated in Paris under M. Thurat and he was in sympathy with the Elizabeth Town that had French affiliations. The ballroom, destroyed some time ago, where all the older belles and beaux of the surrounding country have danced, was hung with mirrors and portraits. Among the latter were the likenesses of his wife, Eliza Gracie, with her music, and his youthful picture as a Harrow boy done by Colonel Trumbull, the pupil of West. He was a very handsome boy and as a man he was dubbed "the Pink" of good society. A charming anecdote is related of him at Madame Brugiere's famous fancy ball. He changed his costume three times, and the last appearance was greeted by the musicians with "God Save the King!"

All the world of New York visited Cherry Lawn and the equally famous mansion of Archibald Gracie, once owned by the Salters. Mr. Gracie married Elizabeth Bethune, of Charleston, when she reached the mature age of 17. The family letters to the girl wife are still preserved, telling her to be good—and pious—and to mind her manners. She was one of the favorite friends of General Winfield Scott, and on occasions when Mrs. Scott was ill, or gave way to what the town termed her whimsies, she often came to rescue. On one occasion, when Henry Clay was expected at Hampton place, and no preparations made, she sent her own entire dinner and butler over as a favor to the general. The Scott house, which has rather a famous history, is still standing. It was the work of the Colonial architect, William Brittin, who erected Golden Hill, the home of the eight Misses Chetwood, the beautiful bluestockinged Chetwoods. Dr. Barnet was its original occupant—an eccentric personage, always loyal to little Aaron Burr, who used to romp in Elizabeth Town gardens.

Famous Summer Parties.

In 1805 the property was sold and conveyed by Elizabeth Gilman to Colonel John Mayo, guardian of Jonathan Hampton, presumably a son of the purchaser, from Dr. Barnet. The witnesses of the deed were Jonathan Dayton, Matthias Williamson, George C. Barber and Aaron Ogden, all notables in their day. The Mayos brought with them all the traditional elegance and splendor of the old South, and the summer parties they gave, and the lovely belles who drove up from Richmond to visit them, are among Elizabeth Town's most bedraggled anecdotes and afford entertainment for the imaginative.

As far back as those Livingston graces, living at their farm (Liberty Hall their father called it, but its later occupants had the bad taste to change the name), the place was noted by its gay society. Every house and every shy sequestered alley has its tale to tell. Time may have let the gardens run wild, filled the creek with refuse, and swept away fine dwelling after dwelling, yet it has not destroyed all the charm of the place. In many a weatherbeaten summer house, made gay by climbing roses, we can picture to ourselves the girls and youths of the ante bellum days. When the Civil war came it cast a gloom over Elizabeth Town. Party feeling ran high and there was enough Southern feeling to hurl forth the air of Dixie into many a burning ear. Friends were friends no longer and young Archibald Gracie, who had married one of those Southern girls, came home to be greeted by a yelling mob and to be burned in effigy. After the war the place lost its interest as a summer resort. "Elizabeth is changing," old residents whispered among themselves. "Quality Hill's not what it once was!"

New, Bright and Fresh-looking Dresses

$2.00

The manufacturer ended his season's business by cutting up his piece goods and trimmings and fashioned them into dresses which he sold us without profit, and, if the truth were known, he probably took a loss on them.

Of course, he gave them the latest effects in regard to style. The materials are lawns, chambrays, ginghams, etc.; all plain colors, as well as stripes and checks; they are mostly all trimmed, some very neatly.

Earlier in the season dresses like these from this maker would have sold at from $3.98 to $5.98; all sizes for misses and women, from 14 to 44; choice.....$2.00

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

"Seven Days," sole survivor of the season's successes on Broadway, is not only surviving the summer but is getting stronger each week of its phenomenal run at the Astor Theatre. The tremendous success of this exceedingly brilliant comedy furnishes an interesting object lesson in theatricals. It shows that the American public will pay its money more cheerfully and in bigger chunks and keep handing it out longer for a play that makes it laugh than for any other form of stage entertainment. And "Seven Days" provides the laughs, or rather, one laugh which starts the first moment of the play and lasts till the audience is home and in bed. One goes to sleep laughing over "Seven Days" and wakes up still grinning. A play that spreads the brightness and happiness and good cheer that "Seven Days" does is a public boon. Undeniably this is the best comedy and the jolliest entertainment the American stage ever has had. See it and you'll say so. The Wednesday matinee is at reduced prices. Of course there is a Saturday matinee. Matinee or night, "Seven Days" is a week of gaiety compressed into two hours and forty-five minutes of delirious joy.

RARITAN.

Miss Phillipa Webb, of Rocky Hill, returned on Monday from New Brunswick, where she spent two weeks with Mrs. R. Y. Sutphen.

Walter Crery and Henry Garretson, of Trenton, returned Tuesday, after visiting their uncle, A. V. Garretson, at Green Knoll.

Miss Clara Ayres, of Trenton, returned Tuesday after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Staats at Belle Mead, for a week.

The Misses Kathryn Gallagher and Sadie Purcell are spending two weeks at Lake Hopatcong.

Silk Seams.

The making of a silk blouse is rendered all the more difficult, where the home dressmaker is concerned, by the fact that the seam to lie flat must be ironed, while the hot iron is only too apt to mark the silk indelibly. By far the best course to pursue is that of passing each seam, open or closed, over the upturned edge of a warm iron. With both hands the seam should be pulled taut and slowly passed over the iron, care being taken to avoid touching more than the seam with the point or side and thereby marking the material underneath.

AN ORDINANCE

To Prescribe Conditions to be Complied with Before any Private Streets or Roads dedicated or Offered for Dedication Shall be Accepted by the City.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That any person or corporation contemplating laying out or locating and constructing any street or road in the City of Plainfield shall before beginning such construction submit to the Street Commissioner, the proposed plans therefor, in which shall be included an accurate designation of the location and grades of such street or streets, road or roads, and the sidewalks thereof, as proposed to be laid out as aforesaid, and the proposed manner of construction. Upon receipt of such plans by said Street Commissioner, together with a petition for their approval, said Street Commissioner shall consult with the Committee on Streets of the Common Council, and thereafter give a hearing to said petitioners, if they so request; after such hearing said petitioners may alter such plans if they so desire, and request the approval of said Street Commissioner of the plans so altered.

If said original or altered plans shall be approved by said Street Commissioner, he shall so indicate thereon in writing signed by him and file said plans in his office, and endorse thereon the date of such filing. Unless monuments properly defining the lines of the proposed street or road on any such plan have been already set, hard stone monuments, at least four inches square on top and at least two feet long, shall be forthwith set in sufficient numbers to definitely locate the lines of the proposed street or road. All curved streets or roads shall be laid out with regular curves, and sufficient data shall be shown on the maps to enable the streets or roads to be accurately located. Such approval of said plans or any other action by said Street Commisioner with respect thereto, or with respect to said proposed streets or roads, shall not operate as an acceptance of the same as public streets or roads, and acceptance of the same as public streets or roads shall not be effected except by ordinance of the Common Council, the Common Council hereby reserving full discretion in the premises, and the powers fo the Common Council in regard to streets and roads shall not be abridged by this ordinance in any manner.

Section 2. After the passage of this ordinance, no proposed street or road in the City of Plainfield shown on any map filed and approved by the Street Commisioner as aforesaid shall be laid out, located anew, altered, widened, or changed in grade, except in accordance with said plans, and no street or road heretofore or hereafter offered for dedication or acceptance by the City shall be accepted otherwise than by ordinance of the Common Council. If any person or corporation shall hereafter construct or open for public travel any private street or road the location, direction, width and grades of which and the manner of construction thereof have not previously been approved in writing by said Street Commissioner in the method provided in this ordinance, then no public sewer, drain, fire hydrant or street lamp shall be laid or placed in or upon, or any public work of any kind done upon, any such private street or road so constructed or opened for public travel except by ordinance of the Common Council.

Section 3. The Street Commissioner may in his discretion cause a suitable sign to be erected at any place where any private street or road intersects any public street or road, to indicate that such street or road is not a public highway, but no damages shall be recoverable by any person against the City for any injury alleged to have resulted from any failure to erect such a sign.

Section 4. Nothing in this ordinance shall prevent the Common Council or Street Commissioner from permitting suitable sewers laid or to be laid in such private streets or roads by private property owners to be connected with the sewers of the City.

Asbury Park, Aug. 4.—Asbury Park's big aviation meet, to be held at Interlaken Park from Aug. 10 to 20 under the direction of the Asbury Park Aero and Motor club, probably will bring out the most notable gathering of expert birdmen in the history of aviation and is expected to surpass in many ways the exhibitions at Los Angeles, Atlantic City and Indianapolis. The field in which the exhibition will be given is a large one and arrangements have been made to accommodate 50,000 people. There will be grandstand seats for 15,000 and parking space for 3,000 automobiles. Band concerts and special vaudeville attractions will be given at the park each afternoon of the meet, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The aeroplane operators will appear in exhibitions each afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock and in addition to their contests there will be races by dirigibles and exhibitions by competent operators of this type of air craft. Twenty thousand dollars in prizes will be given for records and performances of amateurs. Friday afternoon, Aug. 12, will be Governor's day when Gov. Fort and his staff will be present to witness maneuvers by troops from the State camp grounds at Sea Girt. On this day a demonstration of the practicability of aeroplanes in warfare will be given. Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania and Governor Hughes, of New York also have been invited.

BASEBALL.

The new team in Paterson, which is playing in that city on Sundays, is practically a revision of the old New Brunswick nine. The entire infield of the Paterson club is made up of the infield players that formerly wore the New Brunswick uniforms.

Jack Martin, the popular short stop of the Plainfield team, is putting up a fast game of ball with the Paterson nine. He is clouting the horsehide for keeps and gobbling up every thing that comes his way. Jack says Paterson is a good baseball town and that an Eastern league team ought to pay in that city.

Why not have a league next year of the teams in this vicinity. A fast organization might be formed between the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville, Garwood, Scotch Plains, Rahway Y. M. L., and perhaps the Plainfield B. B. C.

Every member of the Dunellen team is playing fast ball and the nine members are playing together like clock work. It was too bad that the Dunellenites couldn't have gotten a crack at that Marathon A. C., on Saturday, but other days are coming.

Looking at the National league race, it seems as though nothing could stop "them Cubs." George Wiltse, who use to be a Somerville citizen, was on the mound against them for the Giants yesterday and although he only allowed them six hits, they scored three runs, shutting out the New York team.

Roger Bresnahan, the catcher-manager of the St. Louis team went in the box himself yesterday against the Brooklyn nine. After using three pitchers, everyone of them being as wild as a hawk, the former Giant detrmined to show up those would-be box artists and so he went on the slab himself. Brooklyn only made one run while he officiated but their lead was great enough to enable them to win by a score of 5-3.

Piddington, the center field phenom of the Duhellen nine, is certainly putting up a first class article of baseball. His hitting is almost in major league style.

Here is hoping that a decision will be reached about the superiority of the East and West Front street merchants on the diamond this afternoon.

Hand, the nervy catcher of the Y. M. C. A. nine, is improving greatly in his batting. If he would put a shade more care in his heave to second, he would be among the top notchers of the city in the backfield.

Dudley Wilcox, the association centerfielder, fell down badly in his batting in Saturday's game. It is very seldom that Dudley doesn't manage to land a brace of singles.

Boyd, of the Plainfield B. B. C., is one of the fastest runners on any of the local teams. It is said that he has a mark of ten flat for the century. And that is going some, you know.

GOLF.

With the appearance of the official program the amateur championship tournament of the United States Golf Association, to be held over the links of the Country Club of Brookline a trifle more than a month hence, is again brought to the attention of the players throughout the country. The exact dates are September 12 to 17, inclusive. This competition for the country's amateur title is open to all golfers who belong to clubs which are members of the United States Golf Association and to those foreigners visiting this country who may be invited by the executive committee of the association. The Havemeyer Cup and four medals will be competed for under the association rules.

According to the conditions the winner of the competition will be known as the champion amateur golfer for the year, and the cup shall be held for that year by the club from which the winner shall have entered. He will receive a gold medal outright, the runner-up a silver medal and the other semi-finalists bronze medals. There will also be a special prize for the player making the lowest score in the thirty-six hole qualifying round. The method of play will be the same this year as last, as follows:

Monday—Eighteen holes, medal play, 64 to qualify. Tuesday morning—Eighteen holes, medal play, the 32 players having the best scores for the 36 holes to qualify for the championship. Tuesday afternoon—First round, 18 holes, match play. Wednesday—Second round, 36 holes, match play. Thursday—Third round, 36 holes, match play. Friday—Semi-final round, 36 holes, match play. Saturday—Final round, 36 holes, match play.

There are many dinner parties scheduled for he Plainfield Country Club, this week, and Superintendent John Hilton, has been kept busy preparing for them. This has been an unusually busy season at the club and the place is more attractive than ever.

AUTO NEWS OF THE DAY.

There will be enough automobile racing for the next few weks in the vicinity of New York to satisfy the most enthusiastic followers of the sport.

Encouraged by the success of the recent matinee of races at Brighton Beach, the Motor Racing Association will give another matinee on Saturday, August 13. The entry blanks are out and already several cars have been entered.

A. B. Cordner, chairman of the Brighton Beach committee of the association, is authority for the statement that a force of men was engaged in further cement laying to make the corners faster and safer.

The next week there will be a twenty-four-hour race. This will start at 8 o'clock on the night of Friday, August 19, and finish at the same time Saturday night.

W. H. Pickens, who manages Barney Oldfield, was in town the other day, and is talking about Barney racing at Brighton on September 3 and 5 for a prize of $1,000 to meet all comers and a $500 sprint cash prize.

There is talk also of Oldfield taking part in a twenty-four-hour race in September.

Must Appear at Trenton.

Jersey City, Aug. 4.—A new move on the part of Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and his associates on the special Senate School Investigating Committee, against County Register John J. McMahon and the other North Bergen school officials, who defied the committee last week and refused to answer questions put to them regarding the purchase of lands for school purposes, was taken yesterday, when subpoenas were served on the recalcitrant witnesses, summoning them to appear in Trenton tomorrow morning. If they continue their silence at that time, the matter will be submitted to the Mercer County Grand Jury, rather than to the Hudson County Grand Jury, which, the committee feel, would be inclined, perhaps, for political reasons, to ignore the complaints.

Trolley Line Sold Again.

Mount Holly, N. J., Aug. 4.—Announcement was made yesterday by I. Snooden Haines, cashier of the Mechanics' National Bank, of Burlington, that as chairman of the bondholders of the Burlington County Railway Company, who three weeks ago purchased the road for $120,000 and reorganized it under the name of the Burlington County Transit Company, he has sold the property over the above figures to a company of capitalists who recently purchased the Burlington Electric Light and Power plant.

WEST ENDERS VICTORIOUS

Defeat East Front Street Merchants in Hotly-Contested Ball Game.

FINAL SCORE WAS 26 TO 11.

Business Men Celebrate Mid-Week Half-Holiday—Another Game is Scheduled.

In a hotly-contested game of baseball yesterday afternoon on Crescent Oval, the butchers, bakers and candlestick-makers, of West Front street chalked the East Front street merchants up on the cash register to the tune of 26 to 11. As can be learned from the score, the game, referred to above, was due entirely to the heat. But two things were accomplished by the great diamond battle; the East Front street nine will no longer boast of prowess in the national game, and secondly, everyone had a good time and a happy half-holiday.

When the game started, and that was at 2.30 (not saying when it finished) the East Front streeters won the toss and thus obtained "last raps." But this did not phase Weinbergers's cubs for they went to bat with a will. Captain Lohrman was up to scratch in the first inning anyway and he froze those West Front street batters just as though he was giving the cold bath to a pail of ice cream. In other words, the Weinberger aggregation only fanned the air in the first round. Mr. Lohrman, who runs a confectionery store, was the real candy kid in this first inning—but then, well the score board will tell the tale.

Wilson was on the mound for the West Front streeters and he pitched a strong game although batted hard at times. His support however was even and not all bumps, as was the backing up of the East nEders. But even then the errors on his side were uncountable.

In the scond inning Lohrman's arm began to resemble a chocolate caramel but he wouldn't desert the ship even upon advice of his many kind friends, who were just dying to get a crack at the pitcher's box. After a cannonade on his delivery for eight runs in the fourth inning and eleven more tallies in the next round, Mr. Lohrman decided to beat it to the tall grass in center field and employ Mr. Mundy to deliver his goods. And this same Mr. Mundy was all there, too, for the West Front streeters only scored two runs while he officiated in the box. Twice he won the applause the ten thousand (?) fans by sending three batters to the club house in one, two, three order after they had fanned the air three times in vain.

It would be hard to pick out any stars on the West Front street team—so excellent was the playing of every member that no one overshadowed his partner in the manipulation of the five ounce spheroid. Shirley carpeted everything that came his way down the third base line and then drove the ball over to first as if he had been driving tacks. Linke was a chain of strength at shortstop while Vail covered up a multitude of errors at his position on first base.

James McCarty was the only member of the East Enders who played the entire game without an error to his credit. Post distinguished himself by scoring nearly every run for the Easterners. The reason for this phenomena is that Mr. Post was so obliging that he ran the bases for nearly every one who managed to reach the initial sack.

The East Front street team took its defeat in a sporsmanlike manner and again challenged their contemporaries to another deadly battle. It is expected that the next game will be played on Tuesday, August 11.

A box score would have been an utter impossibility so the reporter has done his best to give the readers all the sporting news of the day that is fit to print.

The teams lined-up as follows:

West Front street—Vail, 1b.; J. Wilson, l.f.; M. Wilson, p.; Cammack, 2b.; Lewis, c.; Young, r.f.; Shirly, 3b.; Linke, ss.; Bogart, cf.

Knights Excursion Next.

The third annual excursion of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, to Asbury Park, is scheduled for Thursday, August 11. Unusual interest is being shown in this outing for the excursionists will have the rare privilege of attending the big aviation meet at that place. This will be the next excursion from this city to the shore.

TRINITY EXCURSIONISTS ENJOY DAY AT SHORE

After a long, happy day at Asbury Park, the Trinity Reformed church excursionists returned to Plainfield last night shortly after nine o'clock. Those who had been optimistic and had braved the inclement weather yesterday morning were more than repaid when they reached the Park, for here they found the skies clear and a cool breeze blowing from the ocean.

The weather man only frowned once during the day, and that was at noontime when a gentle shower kept the excursionists under shelter for half an hour. There were very few bathers on the beach, for the temperature of the water was 62 degrees and a heavy surf was running. But at about four o'clock in the afternoon the water warmed up to 68 degrees, an dmany of the excursionists took a short swim before train time.

The excursion was free from any accident, and the only disagreeable remembrance of the day for the excursionists will be a few sore arms and necks from sunburn. The new steel cars, of which the excursion train was composed, made the trip a delightful one.

The employees of A. E. Force & Co. went on the excursion as their annual outing, the store being closed for the day. Dinner was served to the party in a private dining room in the Hotel Brunswick. After the repast, the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed for nearly two hours. Muisc was furnished by two pianos.

FIRE CHIEFS MEET TO DISCUSS ASSN. BY-LAWS

At a meeting of the special committee of the Firemen's Relief Association held yesterday at Sea Girt, Chief T. O. Doane, who is a member of that committee, attended and besides being present at the relief committee's session he also was present at the meeting of the executive committee and of the Board of Governors of the home held at the same place.

The special committee which was appointed at the Atlantic City convention last year, met to confer on some changes to be put before the next convention in September relating to the by-laws of the association. The revision of these laws was necssary because of the discussions arising from time to time in which objections have been made. This committee will recommend the elimination of the law providing for the election of life members, over which much feeling has been expressed. The convention to be held at Atlantic City on September 8 will pass upon the desirability of doing away with this particular law.

At the meeting of the governors of the Firemen's Home it was decided that the only chance for Charles Zuchsworth, the only Plainfield fireman now at the home, would be to have his leg amputated in order that his life may be saved. Mr. Zuchsworth has been suffering much from a disease which makes amputation practically necessary to save his life, and it was agreed that this should be done.

There will be delegations from all over the State at the convention in September, preparations being made for at least 800 members of the organization.

The conference yesterday was held with Bird Spencer, the president of the organization. Mr. Spencer has presided over the deliberations of the association for the past twenty-seven years.

PLAINFIELDERS WILL ATTEND CONCLAVE OF TEMPLARS.

Henry Liefke, of this city, starts tomorrow for the grand conclave of Knights Templar, which is to be held in Chicago from August 8 to 13. This conclave will probably be the greatest gathering of Knights that has yet been held. It is expected that over 400,000 members of the order will attend. Mr. Liefke will be accompanied on his trip by several Knights from the Newark Commandery. The entire stay of the Knights will be made a happy one by the comitmtee on arrangements, as elaborate plans have been made for every day of the conclave.

Judge John Ulrich, of this city, is in Chicago at present, and will also attend the affair. Both of the Plainfield representatives will remain through the entire conclave.

REV. EDWIN SHAW HOME

Returns to Plainfield After 10 Weeks' Trip Among Co-religionists East and West.

CEREMONY AT MILTON, WIS.

Much Missionary Work Accomplished in Western Cities—Will Tell of Trip to Congregation Tomorrow.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, who returned from a two anda half month's trip through the West on Tuesday, during which he combined pleasure with work of all sorts in connection with his denomination, has furnished The Daily Press with an interesting summary of the trip, which will be found below. During the pastor's stay at Milton Wis., he officiated at the wedding of his sister, Miss Adeline A. Shaw, who became the bride of Herbert Lewis Polan, of Milton.

On May 21 and 22 Mr. Shaw was at Snow Hill, Pa., where he attended the annual meeting of the German Seventh Day Baptists, representing the American Sabbath Tract Society. Here Mr. Shaw preached a sermon and made another address. On May 26 to 29 Mr. Shaw addressed and preached to the annual session of the Eastern Seventh Day Baptist Association at Rockville, R. I., as delegate from the Plainfield church.

From Rockville Mr. Shaw proceeded to Adams Center, N. Y., where the Central Association was in session. Here a sermon and an address was given and he represented the Eastern association as their delegate. On June 8 and 9 Mr. Shaw attended the commencement exercises of Alfred University at Alfred, N. Y.

From Alfred Mr. Shaw turned his face westward and on June 10 and 12 represented the Eastern Association at the Western Seventh Day Baptist Association as a delegate from the Eastern Association. On June 13 Mr. Shaw arrived at Milton, Wisconsin, and while there attended the commencement exericses of Milton College, making an address to the graduates. He afterwards was toastmaster at the Alumni luncheon at the college, and on June 21 performed the wedding ceremony for his sister.

On June 18 Mr. Shaw preached twice. In the morning at the church in Milton and in the evening at the church in Albion, Wis. While attending the convention of the North Western Association, June 23 to 26, Mr. Shaw preached one sermon and made an address at North Loup, which is the home of his brother, Rev. George B. Shaw, a former pastor of the Seventh-Day church in this city.

During the month of July Mr. Shaw's efforts were directed in the way of missionary work, preaching, baptizing, etc. In the early part of the month he was at Farnam, Nebraska, and later took up this same work in Denver and Boulder, Colorado, and at Cosmos, Texas County, Oklahoma. On July 29 and 30 he visited the lone Sabbath keepers at Tulsa, Oklahoma, and was hospitably received. The missionary work was under the direction of the Joint Committee of the Seventh Day Baptist Missionary and Tract Societies, the time being allowed to him by the church in this city. Mr. Shaw returns in good health, and tomorrow morning he will give his congregation an account of his trip at the regular service. It will no doubt prove more interesting than this mere outline of the trip and will undoubtedly call out a large congregation.

Celebrated Birthday Anniversary.

"Little Miss" Bernice Kister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Kister, of West End avenue, celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary yesterday, and Mrs. Kister gave her a party to twenty-five young friends during the afternoon and evening. Games were played and supper was served to the guests at 6 o'clock. Bernice was the recipient of many handsome gifts in honor of the event.

TUBERCULOSIS CAMP SURE

Report of Special Committee Approved by Board of Freeholders.

WILL COST ABOUT $50,000.

No Site Yet Secured, but Several are Under Consideration—Bonds to be Issued for First Cost.

Union county is to have a tuberculosis camp, and that immediately, if the present plans of the committee from the Board of Freeholders go through as fast as they believe they will. Yesterday the committee made its report on the subject, and it contains interesting information.

According to Messrs. J. Hervey Doane, Henry J. Krause and Thomas F. Haviland, the members of the committe, they have visited the tuberculosis camps in and around Boston, accompanied by Dr. J. H. Carrington, the expert in such matters, and are thoroughly convinced that a camp on similar lines to those visited is an imperative necessity in this county.

It is suggested in the recommendations of the committee that an administration building and four lean-tos be built at the start, and that ground be purchased having an area of fifty acres, so that room may be had for additional lean-tos as they are required by additional patients. It has been estimated that the primary outlay for the ground and buildings will not exceed $50,000, and that the cost of maintenance per patient will not exceed $10 per week.

At present no definite site has been located for the proposed camp, but sveral places are under consideration, and the committee will have the assistance of Dr. Carrington in selecting finally the location of the new enterprise.

The committee has been empowered to engage a competent architect to draw plans of the administration building which will have accommodations for physicians, nurses, etc., which will have to be submitted to the State Board of Health for approval. The county attorney has also been notified to draw up the necessary papers for the issuance of bonds in the sum of $50,000 to cover the initial expenses for the project.

J. Hervey Doane, the chairman of the committee, was out of town today so that it was impossible to ascertain what sites had been under consideration of the committee.

"IN MEMORY" INCREASES BABY CAMP FUND

The King's Daughters' baby camp fund was increased today by a contribution of $1, given by an interested person "In Memory." This makes a total of $135 contributed through The Daily Press. It is expected that the bridge whist at Truell Hall, tomorrow night, will net a large sum for this charity as indicated by the many people who have signified their intention of attending the affair.

PLANNING HOT CAMPAIGN

County Chairman Smith, Who Returns Monday, to Take Charge Personally.

ARRANGE G. O. P. OUTING.

Judge Runyon to Formally Open Campaign at Elizabeth, Tuesday Night, and Will Declare His Position.

New impetus to the approaching campaign will be given by the home-coming on Monday of County Chairman Frank H. Smith. Friends of the chairman say he never felt better in his life and that his vacation in Rhode Island has prepared him for the hottest campaign of his career. Mr. Smith is expected to take hold of the political reins immediately upon his return. With his return, the big Republican rally downtown in Elizabeth and the outing of the Republican County Committee next week promises to be banner events politically.

Judge William N. Runyon, who will make a strong fight for the Congressional nomination, will have a statement to make at the meeting in Elizabeth, Tuesday night, at which time he will formally open his campaign. Those who know the Judge know that whatever he has to say will be straight and above board, and his statement is likely to open the eyes of the voters of the Fifth district as regards his campaign against Representative Fowler for the nomination.

Republican leaders from all parts of the State will attend the outing. State Banking Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis, candidate for Governor; State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, United States Senator John Kean and Asa Bird Francis are among those who are expected to attend. Practically all of the arrangements for the event have been made.

The Fowler supporters and the organization men are already on the job lining up their men. That Mr. Fowler has been busy building fences in the different districts is well known. In Fowler's own ward, the Eleventh, the contest for delegates promises to be the hottest, and it is not certain by any means that the Elizabeth man will be successful in getting a majority in that ward.

While Plainfield Republicans appear to be passive, such is not the case. There has been something doing all the time and will be until after the primary and election: Judge Runyon has a host of friends, not only here, but throughout the whole district, and they are all interesting themselves in behalf of his candidacy.

MAIL COLLECTOR GLAENTZER RESIGNS FROM POSTAL JOB.

Charles Glaentzer who, for many years was a letter-carrier at the local postoffice, and who for the past year or two has ben engaged in collecting mail from the boxes of the city and borough, has resigned his position, and he will probably be succeeded by Augustus Van Arsdale, who stands in line for the position.

Mr. Glaentzer was one of the oldest employes at the postoffice. Shortly after his appointment he had the business part of the city, succeeding the late Edward Hann. The work was too much for him, and afterward Postmaster Bird gave him the work of collecting mail. Mr. Glaentzer has not announced his plans for the future.

Got Suspended Sentence.

CARNEY'S NEW CONTRACT; WILL HE MAKE GOOD?

August has always been a slow month for news, but there are always to be found those who will furnish at least something amusing, and Dave Carney must sure be one of them. Mr. Carney is fond of automobiling and likewise is proud of his knowledge of history, especially that brand of history as relates to the vicinity of Hunterdon county.

On a recent trip in the machine of a friend whose itinerary carried them through Whitehouse, Mr. Carney and his friend decided to eat their dinner at a well known hostelry. During the conversation which arose from old associations being brought to mind, Mr. Carney made the assertion that a certain man was postmaster at Whitehouse during the Civil War. This was contradicted by the landlady of the hotel and immediately there was a wager made.

Mr. Carney was so positive of his knowledge that he offered to wash the dishes and do the cooking for the balance of the summer at this hotel if he was found to be wrong. The landlady immediately called in the veterans of the town and put the question to them, and each and every one of the old residents declared that the man named by the woman was the correct name of the postmaster during the struggle between the North and South.

It was rumored yesterday that the estimable winner of the wager was in town looking for Mr. Carney to fulfill his contract.

TROLLEY JUMPS TRACK ON RICHMOND STREET

At a little before 11 o'clock this morning, as the Netherwood trolley car, in charge of Motorman O. Johansen and Conductor Thomas Dorgan, approached the curve between Putnam avenue and East Seventh street on Richmond, it jumped the track and, running at a tangent for twenty-five feet, struck a tree with terrific force, smashing a tree with and breaking several panes of glass in the windows.

There were ten passengers in the car, all of whom were considerably shaken up, but none seriously hurt. Motorman Johansen stuck to the controller until the car struck the tree, and escaped injury by a miracle.

According to the best information obtainable the car was going at half-speed, which is a circumstance to which the passengers and crew probably owe their safety from serious if not fatal injury. It is believed that a stone lying in the track threw the forward trucks off the rails and, losing the control of the brake from the sudden shock, the motorman was unable to bring the car to a stop before striking the tree.

The damaged car was removed to the car barn for repairs, but before taking it away it was examined for the purpose of ascertaining if it was fitted with wheels which were in any way defective. Nothing was discovered that would point o tdefective equipment.

EDMUND RUSHMORE AND DR. BACHE CAMPING OUT.

From away up in the Adirondacks comes a message from Edmund Rushmore, who has been camping out there in which Mr. Rushmore says he and Dr. Bache, of Bound Brook, started on Wednesday for a long tramp through the woods, camping and fishing as they go, taking in the principal lakes and trout streams and that they will be gone for two weeks or more.

Mr. Rushmore also says that they had a twenty-eight mile drive from Northville to Speculator, in Herkimer county, which took them nearly eight hours to accomplish. The country is wild and pretty, but promises lots of good fishing.

Guest of Elizabeth Elks.

City Judge William N. Runyon was the guest of the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks, last night, but he did not talk politics. His visit was purely a social one and he refrained from a discussion of political matters, reserving his talk for next Tuesday night, when he will formally open his campaign at Elizabeth.

STOLE WATCH AND MONEY

James Morehouse, of Metuchen, Held Up by Highwaymen Near Home.

TOO FRIGHTENED TO PURSUE.

Three Men Take Rig After Robbing Farmer—Then Abandoned It—Probably Got Away on L. V. Train.

After a visit to this city yesterday and while on his way home last night, James Morehouse, a farmer living near Metuchen, was stopped by a trio of toughs at a little after midnight, and after being relieved of all his cash and a gold watch was forced to stand aside and see the three men depart with his rig.

The men, of whom but a meagre description can be given by Morehouse, drove the horse about a mile down the road toward Metuchen, where they tied the horse with a halter to a tree and made good their escape. Morehouse was too frightened to make a move until along toward daylight, when he managed to pluck up courage to walk on toward his home. He espied the rig standing beside the road, apparently none the worse for a hard drive, and immediately started for his home.

Morehouse called up Plainfield police headquarters, notifying them of the holdup and giving as good a description of the highwaymen as he could. The police have watched the approaches to the city with extraordinary vigilance since 5 o'clock this morning, but have not yet seen a suspicious character, or any men answering to the description furnished by Morehouse.

It is believed that the three desperadoes made their way to South Plainfield and there jumped a freight and made a clean getaway. The ringleader is described as being nearly six feet tall and heavily built, while the other two were average-sized men. The only distinguishing feature given was the fact that two of the men wore straw hats of an ancient vintage, while the other wore a derby. Mr. Morehouse said that it was too dark to see the features of the robbers or to give a description of the clothing they wore. The amount of money claimed to have been taken is $15 in bills and some small change. The watch was worth about twenty-five dollars.

MISS FLORENCE SMALLEY GIVES A DELIGHTFUL DANCE.

Miss Florence Smalley, of East Front street, entertained a number of her friends, last night, at an informal dance and party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Smalley. The evening was spent in dancing on the veranda which was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns. Music was furnished by a three-piece orchestra. The dancing was enjoyed until an early hour this morning. During the evening, a collation was served.

Among those present were: Miss Florence Smalley, Mrs. D. C. Smalley, Miss May Cogan, Miss Minnie Serrell, Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Lawrence, Howard Craig, Charles McCormick, David Ogden Rogers, D. C. Smalley, Jr., and Harold Smalley, of this city, and Miss Florence Moore, of Elizabeth, Miss Elizabeth MacCrosson, of Birmingham, Alabama, George Elliott, of Philadelphia, and William Germann, of New York.

"Poor Bob's" Almanak.

"Poor Bob" (R. F. R. Huntsman), of East Front street, advertising manager of the Brooklyn Standard-Union, seldom fails to provide The Daily Press with a copy of his "Almanak," and August is no exception to his generosity. The little book is full of truisms anent Mr. Huntsman's views of newspaper advrtising and among the sapient things full of the wit and wisdom of the versatile writer and manager we find this terse and pointed hint:

"Halley's comet was a good deal like the darkey's definition of a train of cars. 'Dar she comes, dar she goes, where am she?'"

"Like some newspapers' circulations she was a disappointment, being scarcely visible to the naked eye."

Stopped Ball with Cheek.

While practicing for the coming baseball game with his brother Elks, John Nicol, a genial reporter of the Courier-News intercepted a batted ball with the side of his face and today is nursing a mighty sore cheek. The recent rains washed the turf from parts of Delacy Field where the practice was being held and many little stones dotted the surface. While set to stop the ball it was deflected by one of the stones and struck Mr. Nicol a frightful blow. He was lucky that his jaw was not broken.

If You Are Fat and Hot Read This Article

There is no necessity of fat people suffering as they do. Most fat people are so good-natured they do not care how they look or how they get along during the hot weather. As a matter of fact there is a natural fat reducer that in the past several years has been demonstrating that it will reduce fat and not tear down the body or leave big, flabby rolls of skin and wrinkles. This method is the famous Marmola prescription, which is now prepared in tablet form to meet the demands of fat people in the summer and to enable them at all times to take their fat reducer after each meal. One of these little tablets taken after a meal turns that meal into good food for the blood and stops all fat-producing elements from going into the system. Marmola Tablets has an army of men and women who testify to its success, and you would tire reading what they say of its triumphs. Marmola tablets not only stop producing fat in the body but they reduce flesh at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. They are harmless and do nothing but assist nature to give to the body the nourishment it requires. They are sold at all drug stores, price 75 cents, or you may write The Marmola Company, 988 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

A Kitchen Necessity—

BOYNTON'S

Single Oven

Newport Range

Undoubtedly, Mrs. Housewife, you know the disadvantages of the ordinary kitchen range, but do you know the advantages of the famous Boynton Single Oven NEWPORT Range?

We haven't space for the whole story, but will tell you part; and first—as a cooker, the "NEWPORT" is the "best yet." Its design is classical (see cut) with smooth, perfect castings and highly finished nickel parts. This means a clean stove and less kitchen work.

Some cooks like the fire box on the right side of the oven, some on the left—"NEWPORTS" are fitted both ways. "NEWPORT" dampers are convenient—the "NEWPORT" water back is large and effective. Every good feature of other ranges is incorporated in the "NEWPORT" and some that are exclusive. Don't buy a range until you see the Boynton man in your town and learn about "NEWPORT" Ranges.

From present indications there will be a large delegation of local fans to make the trip to Bound Brook tomorrow to see the Dunellen team cross bats with the Bound Brook nine. A hot game is sure to be expected, for the rivalry between these two clubs is as keen as it always has been.

Two Summer Hints to Housewives

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Preserving Kettles

We want to show you our complete line of Preserving Kettles both in aluminum and agateware—all sizes.

Your choice of either depends upon whether you want the lightest weight, aluminum—or medium weight, agate.

Both kinds are made by two of the most reliable concerns in the country.

The prices are very reasonable as upon all that we sell.

There is one best bet that those West Front streeters would never have won the game yesterday if Mundy had been in the box for the entire nine innings.

Those games are certainly good Thursday afternoon pastimes.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will have one of the hardest games of its schedule this Saturday when the team bucks up against the strong Y. M. L. nine on Crescent Oval.

Frederickson and Hand are to be in the points for the association.

Dunellen is all excitement (catch the humor?) for the game tomorrow between the Dunellen team and the nine from Bound Brook. A large and enthusiastic crowd of Dunellenites are going to the B. B. village to help their team to win.

Here's hoping that Nelson, the big catcher of the Plainfield team will get back into his batting stride in tomorrow's game.

Brit Martin showed last Sunday that he can play any position on the map. His work at first base against New Brunswick was all that could be asked for.

Reports have it that Harry Giddes, the classy little shortstop of the Dunellen team, is slightly off his game. We hope this report will prove false in the game tomorrow.

Can Slocum "come back?"

THE FORUM.

Editor of The Daily Press:

I was interested in reading in your July 13th issue an article in reference to "Ice Cream Cones" being condemned by the Pure Food officials on account of their containing, so called, injurious substance such as saccharin and borax.

The cones in question were made with flour, eggs, sugar, saccharin and borax. The quantity of saccharin used was one to 4,000 parts. (The definition of saccharin shows it to be a white crystalline compound derived from toluene, a constituent of coal-tar. It is 300 times sweeter than cane-sugar, and finds use as a sweetening agent, especially for persons who cannot eat sugar, owing to disease, as diabetes.) This clearly demonstrates the fact that saccharin is less injurious to the human system than sugar. The quantity of borax used to prevent the sugar and eggs from fermenting while exposed to a moist atmosphere, was one to 4,000 parts; one pound of saccharin and one pound of borax to 4,000 lbs. of flour, eggs and sugar.

There is not a scientist in the country who could prove that such infinitessimal amounts of saccharin and borax could produce the slightest injury to the human system. Ice cream eaten from cones preserved with an infinitessimal amount of borax or boric acid is far more healthful than ice cream served in small glasses and licked out by the consumer, or ice cream served on plates and eaten with a spoon. The small glasses and dishes were never thoroughly cleansed and many of them were cracked and chipped, thus creating conditions suitable for the propagation of disease germs.

In reference to borax being an injurious substance, it is a well known fact that England, which is one of the most intelligent nations in the world, orders cargoes of hams, shoulders and bacon preserved with borax or boric acid. She also permits ½ of 1 per cent. of boric acid in butter and ¼ of 1 per cent. in cream. By so doing, the meat is not saturated with brine; the butter is not loaded with salt, and the cream is kept in a sweet, hygienic condition.

England has consumed borated foods for twenty-five years. If foods preserved with boron compounds were as injurious as many Pure Food officials in the United States claim them to be, the English nation would have been wiped out of existence years ago.

There is no scientific data to prove that either saccharin or borax is injurious to the human system, when used on food. There is ample scientific data, however, that sugar and salt are chemical substances that should be used sparingly, otherwise, nutrition and digestion are greatly impaired, and in many cases of illness both sugar and salt are forbidden in the dietary.

Yours very truly,
H. L. HARRIS.

HERE AND THERE.

I entered the department store and said to a sleepy young man behind the velvet counter:

"I want to buy a piece of velvet nine inches wide and twenty-six inches long, to match this sample. It can be a little darker without doing any harm, although not more than half a shade. It is for a collar for a lady's coat. Very likely you sell a great deal of velvet for such a purpose and you know what I want better than I could tell you if I stood talking for half an hour. You are the expert and I will trust your judgment."

The clerk looked dreamily across the store and answered:

"What?"

I turned to the floorwalker, who happened to pass just then, and I said:

"I am trying to buy a piece of velvet to match this sample and I have explained my needs with absolute frankness to this drowsy clerk, but he has not listened to me, and now he wants me to tell it to him all over again. I should think you would have your clerks stay awake in business hours, and not force their employer's customers to turn themselves into phonographs in order to make their wants understood. A good clerk will anticipate a patron's wishes. This young man should help me get what I desire, but he hinders me instead. He is an obstacle between me and what I want to buy."

The floorwalker looked at me with dull eyes and sighed deeply.

"What?" he asked.

I hastened to the office and said to the girl at the outer door:

"I want to register a complaint against one of the departments of this store. I have tried my best to spend my money here and my efforts have been received with utter indifference. Your clerks seem to think this is a sanitarium instead of a business house."

"What?" asked the girl.

"They seem to think this is a place to rest, not to work," I explained.

The girl drew a pad of paper toward her, took her pencil out of her puff and assumed a writing position. After a moment she looked up with a puzzled expression.

"What was it you said you wanted?" she asked.

"Shakespeare never repeats," I replied sternly, and started to brush past her into the superintendent's office. But she interrupted me.

"Book counter on the first floor, third aisle to the left," she said.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Chance to Show Sense.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company has decided not to depend on the good sense and intelligence of the people of Plainfield any longer. After making an earlier public appeal through the Mayor of the city, it has been found necessary to shut off the water sprinklers with the threat of removing the water supply entirely if orders are not obeyed. It is to be hoped that the people of this and other cities will not be so foolish as to follow Plainfield's foolishness. Doubtless the water companies which have issued warning to their patrons about wasting water by using sprinklers and otherwise would not have taken this precaution unless it had been necessary. It is thoroughly unintelligent, therefore, for people to ignore the warnings which have been given. At bottom the question of whether water shall be wasted or not is not personal; it concerns the general welfare and should be looked at from that point of view. Sharp orders as to water wasting ought not to be necessary in any municipality in New Jersey in view of the fact that there is no let-up in sight from the drought.—Elizabeth Daily Journal.

NEARLY ALL FOR CHARITY.

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 5.—The will of the Rev. Joseph Ascheri, rector of the Church of St. Frnacis de Sales, Lodi, was filed yesterday. Father Ascheri left about $25,000. Among the beneficiaries are the Lodi church, which gets $2,900; an orphan asylum he established and endowed at Melino, Italy, $12,000; to each of his two sisters, $1,000; Joseph Ascheri, a nephew, $1,500; Eugic Bianshi, a cousin, $1,500; Little Sisters of the Poor of Passaic County, $2,500, and the Catholic Protectory at Arlington, $2,500.

He also left $1,000 with Bishop O'Connor to be used for masses for the repose of his soul, to be said by poor priests of the diocese.

Novel Act at Proctor's.

"The Swankiest Swanker of the Swanks," is what they call Eugene Mason in London, and he is having no trouble in entertaining the patrons at Proctor's theatre, this week. There is something doing every minute he is on the stage. Ye Olde Home Choir, an attractive musical act, in old and new songs, is a winner. Mr. Malin's artistic playing on the 'cello and violin, is excellent, while Mrs. Malin's "Moon Song," is well worth hearing. Gilson and DeMott, in "Manes Don't Count," are a clever pair. The skit is witty and full of laughs.

A New Device.

A double-faced cupboard or pass pantry built in the wall between dining room and kitchen is a time and labor-saver. On the dining room side when closed it looks like a bookcase. The lower part is divided into different sized drawers, and is used to hold the heavy silence cloth, tea towel, soiled linen, kitchen towel, aprons, etc. In the middle, or table height, is a drop door which is opened on the dining-room side. Through this the dinner is served to the dining table and soiled dishes are returned. Above this, closed by separate doors is a series of serving shelves for salads and desserts.

Potato Cakes and Maple Syrup.

Press enough boiled potatoes through a ricer to make two cups. Add two level tablespoons of butter, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two level tablespoons of flour, two level tablespoons of sugar and one beaten egg. Make up into flat cakes and bake in quick oven. While hot split open; butter and serve with maple syrup.

Porch Cushions.

A porch cushion of extremely coarse, square-meshed burlaps is finished with a spide-web pattern of dark raffia, held in place with red silkateen. It is durable and has just enough color to look attractive among the other porch cushions. The raffia ends can be thrust through the material, thus hiding rough points.

Strawberry Face Lotion.

A good vegetable lotion to soften and whiten the skin is made by hulling a quart of strawberries, mashing them through a sieve, then add two tablespoonfuls of strong vinegar to each quart of berries. Let it stand until it draws plenty of juice and strain through a fine muslin. Bottle tightly and keep in a cool place.

General Tendency.

"Even if you can't enjoy best sellers!" said the meditative person, "there are books in the running brooks, you know."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "but even the brooks are getting dryer every year."—Washington Evening Star.

Red raspberry syrup, juice of one lemon, juice of two oranges, pint of boiling water, one-fourth cup maraschino, one fourth cup curacao. Strain a can of red raspberries, and to the syrup add the juice of the oranges and lemon, then the boiling water and wine.

No Great Fun.

"I dare say you wouldn't like to work all day in a sweatshop."

"No; I don't think it would be much of a lark," said Miss De Style. "And I am sure my chaperon would be horribly bored."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TRUSTEE OF HOME FOR GIRLS ACCUSED

Governor Fort announced yesterday that he would take up without delay an inquiry into several features of the management of the State Home for Girls in Trenton. Following the report of Mr. Drake, State Auditor, to the trustees of the home as to alleged irregularities in the purchase of supplies, the Governor will consider a reported implication of one of the trustees in an affair of graver impropriety.

This is said to have been brought to the attention of Governor Fort through a recent trial in a church in Trenton, which resulted in a trustee of the home being dropped as superintendent of the Sunday school and his name dropped from the church rolls. This matter, it is said, involves one of the inmates of the home. Evidence will be laid before the Governor, it is understood, by the pastor of the church, who will be summoned to the inquiry.

It is believed now by State officials familiar with the situation that the resignation some time ago of Mrs. Stewart Hartshorne, of Essex county, as a trustee of the home, was due alone to this scandal. Mrs. Hartshorne would not announce a reason for leaving the Board, contenting herself with the statement that she was justified in resigning. It is said that the Board, or at least a majority of the members, knew of the matter for several months.

Governor Fort stated that he proposed to give consideration to the contents of the State Auditor's report and in connection would take up the more serious charge.

"I haven't had time to read the communication from Mr. Drake," he said, "but the new matter of which I have just heard will cause me to take up the subject without delay."

ORGANISTS IN CONVENTION.

Ocean Grove, N. J., Aug. 5.—Several hundred delegates from all over the country are in attendance upon the second annual convention of the National Association of Organists at the Auditorium. Mark Andrews, of Montclair, is president of the association. At the session yesterday morning a paper on "Hymnals and Their Use" was read by Charles T. Ives, of Montclair. This was followed by five-minute talks on musical topics by Henry Harding and Rafael Navarro, of New York City; Tali Esen Morgan, of Ocean Grove; Henry S. Fry, of Philadelphia, and Chester Beebe, of Provident.

A popular concert was given in the Auditorium last evening by Musical Director Morgan. Those who took part were Miss Alice Mortens, soprano; Leon Rice, tenor; Miss Norma Sauter, violinist; Miss Edna White, trumpeter, and Clarence Reynolds, organist. Tomorrow evening Mme. Bernice Pasquali, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing in concert.

The final sessions of the Woman's Home Missionary Society were held yesterday and were in charge of the deaconesses of the society. Yesterday morning there was a deaconesses' conference in the Temple, conducted by Miss Bertha Fowler, superintendent of the Philadelphia home, who also delivered an illustrated lecture in St. Paul's church last evening on "City and Deaconess Work."

Thursday morning the thirty-eighth anniversary of the Ocean Grove Auxiliary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was opened in the Temple.

WILL DISREGARD SUBPOENAS.

County Register John J. McMahon of Hudson county, and members of the present and former North Bergen School Board, who are alleged to be concerned in the now famous real estate deal, the facts of which the New Jersey State Senate Investigating Committee desires to learn, will refuse to answer the subpoenas served upon them to appear at the State House in Trenton today. Francis A. McCauley, counsel for McMahon and the Board of Education would not discuss the matter yesterday, but it is said that a law safeguarding the men in their refusal to go to Trenton has been found.

The Senate Committee, after a conference with Attorney General Wilson, decided to transfer the scene of further hearings on the school situation to Trenton. Eugene F. Leake, counsel for Constable John Daly, whose name has been mentioned in the testimony taken, also advised his client to disregard the subpoena.

RAINFALL YESTERDAY .20; SINISTER CLOUDS TODAY

While the skies this morning presented an ideal aspect it does not mean that the recent storms are at an end. For even as this item goes to press clouds are gathering in the west promising a further installment of rain. Yesterday's rainfall was about one-tenth of the previous day's effort, but in some other places it was more. The actual measurement as given by Weatherman Naegle was .20 inch.

From Westfield comes a story of damage of the day before which would seem to indicate that that town had received more than its share of trouble from the elements. Lightning struck the spire of the First Presbyterian church and set the church on fire. The flames were quickly extinguished by the fire department, but the damage to the spire from lightning and fire will amount to close on $200.

The homes of J. H. Cherry, of Harrison street, Westfield, and Mrs. Julia Brigham, of Dudley avenue, were struck. At the Brigham home only the bricks of a chimney were torn out, but in Mr. Cherry's house the fluid played pranks. It ripped off of the house the casings of two windows as cleanly as though done with the tools of a mechanic and not a light of glass was broken from either of the windows. Neither was the house ignited.

Fair and cooler weather has been predicted by the Washington weatherman for tomorrow and Sunday and everybody is hoping his foresight may be good.

Chief to Attend Convention.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, will attend the annual convention of fire chiefs to be held at Syracuse, N. Y., August 22-26. He will leave here Monday morning, August 22, and the convention will continue until the following Friday. The Common Council has appropriated $75 to cover the chief's expenses.

For Eyebrow Growth.

It is said that growth of eyebrows may be promoted by applying the following lotion: Lavender vinegar, one and one-quarter ounces; glycerine, five ounces; fluid xtract jaborandi, one dram. Apply with camel's hair brush at night. Care should be exercised to avoid the liquid reaching the eyes.

GOV. FORT REVIEWED NEW JERSEY TROOPS

Camp Fort, Sea Girt, Aug. 5.—Memorable was the last Governor's day of the year. Hundreds of visitors were here to see the Fourth Regiment, Signal Corps and Battery A reviewed by Governor Fort.

The excursionists arrived early in the morning, and by noon the camps of the different organizations were thronged with sweethearts and wives of the members.

The "extended order" work of the Fourth Regiment was watched with interest, while the firing of Battery A and the cavalry charge of the Signal Corps, fairly thrilled the visitors. The drills were in a way exhibitions of what might be done by each organization. The Signal Corps interested the visitors by its flag signalling, and messages were "wig-wagged" to a great distance with ease.

Proudly the men of the Fourth Regimnt marched out in readiness for the review in the afternoon. Proudly the men of Battery A and the Signal Corps rode out and took their places. All felt that they were in readiness for the inspection of the Governor, and all did their best when passing the commander-in-chief. It was a splendid sight as the three organizations stood at attention and the Governor and his staff rode down the field while the guns gave the salute in his honor. The big crowd which witnessed the review was more than pleased.

Colonel M. R. Margerum, who is interested in the aviation meet at Asbury Park next week, has arranged for Brooks, one of the aviators to land on the camp ground with one of the dirigible balloons, which will be in use at the meet. Brooks will also land at the clubhouse of the Spring Lake and Sea Girt Country Club, a mile away.

The Governor and Mrs. Fort entertained a distinguished party at dinner last evening. Those who were their guests were: Senator and Mrs. Briggs, Senator Kean, Miss Kean, his sister; William M. Johnson, former First Assistant Postmaster General; Brigadier General W. F. Sadler, Jr., the adjutant general, and Col. Austin Colgate.

Hundreds of persons gathered at Mace's pier at Anglesea, Tuesday to witness an immense catch of fish. Six fishing smacks of the Anglesea fleet brought in over four hundred barrels of weakfish. The boats that brought in this great catch were C. Harvey, Captain Peter Munson; the Holly, Captain Oscar Elmquest; the Lenora, Captain John Leonard; the Monmouth, Captain Frank Gallagher; the Hildur Mabel, Captain Charles Colberg, and Captain Harry Monroe's skiff. The catch amounted to 91,125 pounds, or over forty-five tons.

The authorities of Atlantic City have been asked to locate ten-year-old Willie Ward, of 1912 Eleventh street, Philadelphia, who has been missing from the home of his aunt, Mrs. Wilson, 515a Morgan terrace, Atlantic City, since last Friday. He left his relative's house to go down to the beach and did not return.

TO MET FIANCE IN ORIENT.

New Jersey Woman Will Make Trip Alone to Wed Clergyman.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 4.—Miss Lavinia M. DuMond, one of the best known young women of this city, will leave this country on August 27 for the Orient to meet the man she is to marry. She will make the trip alone to the other side of the world, where her fiance, the Rev. William Honegger, is in charge of a church. The young women, who was graduated from Barnard, met Mr. Honegger while they were both engaged in church work, and it was a case of love at first sight.

Then the minister was ordered away to the Orient, but they had made such rapid strides in their love making that before he bade her adieu he had received her promise to marry him. Now he is settled in his new field and has written to Miss DuMond to join him, and she has made arrangements to leave this city at the end of the month.

Tuesday night the women of the First Reformed church gave a farewell reception for Miss Du Mond.

Six Young Men

Were applying for a position, only one vacancy was to be filled.

"How many of you young men have saving accounts?" asked the merchant.

Only one answered in the affirmative.

"The position is yours," said the employer.

He knew that the young man who saves is apt to have other qualities which will make him useful and reliable, he knows what thrift and self control are.

Pianos and Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

ORANGE MAYOR REFUSES NEGRO THEATRE LICENSE.

The negroes of Orange have not desisted in their efforts to have a moving picture hall of their own and some of them are loud in their denunciation of Mayor Arthur B. Seymour for his refusal to grant the license asked for. The negroes held a meeting last night at which it was decided to continue efforts to get a license.

The negroes who are interested in the entertainment project say that they have gone to considerable expense to make the hall meet the requirements of the fire department. The hall is a comparatively new one and is located in Oakwood avenue in the centre of the negro section of Orange. The negroes say that they are discriminated against by the existing theatres and that they want a place for themselves such as those in some other cities, where no objection can be made to their presence.

Mayor Seymour said yesterday that his refusal of the license was final. His one reason, he said, is that he believes the three existing shows are more than sufficient for the needs of the city. He was not actuated by race prejudice, he said, and added that he had refused a license for a place in the "valley" on the same day. He has refused a dozen applications, he said, and for the same reason that he refused a license for the Oakwood avenue place. The existing shows were all running when he took office, he said.

The new playhouse has a seating capacity of 800 and the shows to be put on are controlled by managers who have a chain of negro theatres, including one in Jersey City and two in New York.

The negroes said yesterday that if they were unsuccessful with Mayor Seymour they would try their luck in another administration.

THINKS FATAL FALL WAS DUE TO SLEEP WALKING.

That he leaped or fell from the window while walking in his sleep is the only theory the family of Ezekiel Schoonover, of Bushkill, Pa., can advance to explain Mr. Schoonover's death Tuesday. At first it was said that he had committed suicide, but the absence of any cause for self-construction makes the sleep-walking explanation more tenable. Schoonover was sixty-eight years old and well known through this section of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. He was well to do and, so far as is known, had no troubles of a business or other nature.

He came here Tuesday night and took a room at the American House, it being too late for him to get a train home. He shared the room with George Gallon. Early in the morning Gallon heard him rise and go to the window. He climbed to the sill. By the time Gallon reached him he was toppling over. Gallon caught him by the leg but could not hold him. He struck on his head, smashing in his skull and dying instantly.

The body was taken to his hotel at Bushkill. Schoonover is survived by a wife and six children, all grown.

REPORT P. R. R. IS AFTER ELIZABETH PROPERTY.

It is reported in real estate circles in Elizabeth that the Pennsylvania is quietly negotiating with the Elizabeth Ice Company for the purchase of the whole or part of the ice company's plant on Sterling place, Elizabeth, with the intention of using the land which adjoins the railroad for erecting on it the two additional tracks which it is said the Pennsylvania intends to construct through Elizabeth. The company now has four tracks running through the city. Senator Kean is said to be one of the largest if not the largest holder of preferred stock of the ice company. There are several persons, however, who still hold shares of common stock which they purchased under the Reeve and Williams regime, and who do not wish to part with their shares. It is said that some of these old stockholders have been approached with offers for their stock.

SHOCKED TO DEATH AT ELIZABETH CARNIVAL.

To be shocked to death by a live wire was the fate Tuesday night of Peter Russo, of 313 John street, Elizabeth. The accident happened at an open air carnival for the benefit of the Alexian Hospital.

The carnival grounds are lighted by electricity. In some way Russo's hand came in contact with the wire and he was knocked unconscious. The victim was hurried to the hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness. Another man also received a slight shock. He was able to leave there in an hour. His name was not taken. Russo was twenty-three years old.

WESTFIELD.

During the thunder storm Tuesday afternoon the spire of the Presbyterian church was struck by lightning. The fire department put out the blaze. Not much damage was done by the fire, but the building will be inspected to ascertain if any of the timbers were shattered by the bolt. The steeple was splintered on the outside for about fifteen feet. The house occupied by William Cherry on Euclid avenue was also struck and a part of the roof torn off.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company Tuesday mailed to its patrons a circular letter asking them to refrain from using water for lawn sprinkling, and offering to return one-half of the money received for their use. The letter explained that the water in the Middlesex reservoir has been exhausted and that the wells at Netherwood would be taxed to the utmost to supply water for domestic use. An increased supply is promised on October 1.

Names Negroes to Force.

Yielding to the urging of the colored race in East Orange, the Board of Police Commissioners Tuesday appointed Charles L. Peaker, of 7 South Sixteenth street, and Beecher Clark of 9½ Jones street, both colored, chancemen on the force. There have been no colored chancemen since the removal of Chanceman Charles Lackland, last winter, after his conviction of disorderly conduct.

HIS THUMB PRINTS BETRAYED HIM

Through the medium of the thumb-print system of identification, Robert Edwards, colored, who was arrested in Montclair on suspicion of being the person who tore out a gas meter in two houses in that town, was identified, the police say, as a man who committed several other robberies in Montclair.

Edwards was arrested Tuesday, and yesterday morning was arraigned in Montclair charged with ripping gas meters from the homes of George Courter, Sr., of Lexington avenue, and Mrs. William Nickens, 188 Bloomfield avenue.

The meters were torn from the gas pipes and the fumes endangered the lives of fourteen persons. Edwards denied stealing the gas meters, but admitted robbing two stores. He was also suspected of other burglaries.

The man was taken to police headquarters to be photographed. While being Bertillioned, Capt. Carroll recalled that the Montclair police had sent him the photographs of finger prints discovered in several houses that had been robbed in Montclair, about a month ago.

Edwards' finger prints were then taken and Superintendent Edward Schwarz, of the Bertillon system, announced that they tallied with the ones taken in the Montclair houses.

When confronted with this evidence, Edwards is said to have admitted the robberies. He was taken back to Montclair by Detective Reilly, of that town.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

In "The Great Divide", which is playing at the Academy of Music, New York City this week, Corse Payton has found not only a play which appeals powerfully to his patrons, but one for which his company is peculiarly well suited. Claude Payton's manly presence is excellently displayed in the rugged role of Stephen Ghent, the big-hearted but uncultered miner, and Minna Phillips is quite at home in the emotional role of Ruth Jordan, the Eastern girl, whose environment becomes that of a rough western camp.

The next week, beginning with the matinee on Monday, August 8, Mr. Payton will present "The Christian," in which Viola Allen and Edward Morgan played so successfully. New York playgoers showed how well they thought of Hall Caine's stirring drama, with its intense heart interest, when it was originally produced by Silber & Co. at the Knickerbocker Theatre and afterward for a long run at the Garden Theatre.

Minna Phillips will, of course, play Glory Quayle, the impetuous daughter of the old vicar, who leaves the Isle of Man fishing village to become a Music Hall singer in London, and Claude Payton will have another rare opportunity as John Storm, the son of a nobleman, who has been Glory's childhood sweetheart, and who, against his father's wishes, becomes a clergyman and then follows his love to the city and rescues her from the allurements of her many wealthy admirers.

FORMER DOMESTIC IS CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Accused of grand larceny, Grace McNamara, formerly of Stroudsburg, Pa., was arrested Wednesday night by Detective Sergeants Henry and Brogan, of Elizabeth, at 1151 East Grand street, where she was boarding. She is charged with stealing jewelry and clothing valued at $36.75 from a family in Stroudsburg, where she was employed as a domestic.

The missing goods were all found in her boarding house. The prisoner will be held pending extradition.

RARITAN.

Charles Koehler, aged eighty-six years, died on Tuesday at the State hospital at Trenton. Mr. Koehler was employed for many years in the mill at Raritan and had been a familiar figure on the streets, being always accompanied by his small dog. Besides his wife the deceased is survied by a daughter. Burial took place today from St. Bernard's church.

Daniel Sherwood and family, of Garwood former residents of Raritan, have been guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kitchen, on Canal street.

Frederick Purcell is substituting at the American Engine Works at Bound Brook during the absence of some of the office force.

The Raritan Juniors will go to Neshanic on Saturday afternoon and play the team from there on their own field.

BASEBALL.

It does look now as though nothing could stop them Cubs. Thrice hath the New York Giants striven and failed.

But let he pennant fly any place but in the smoky breezes of Pittsburg, Pa.

The five words, which should be set in a rubber stamp and given to every sporting writer are: Tinker to Evers to Chance.

We are still waiting to see Man Eater Mullin, of the P. B. B. G. nine earn his laurels. The terrible Man Eater hasn't had many chances to shine in the field but he certainly hasn't shone up at all well with the stick.

GOLF.

The recent championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association seems to have stimulated interest in that department of the game, judging by the exhibition matches that have taken place since then and others that are "in the air." Plans are making for a four-ball affair to be held at the Dunwoodie Country Club some time in the near future. Jack Hobens, of Englewood, and Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills, have been mentioned as a probable pair to team up against Jack and Dan Mackie, of Dunwoodie. There is also talk of having Will Anderson at Dunwoodie later on. He will figure in a foursome with an amateur partner against Jack Mackie and some Dunwoodie member.

Jerome D. Travers, who severed his connection from the Montclair Golf Club a few weeks ago, has joined the Upper Montclair Country Club. This will make Travers eligible to compete in the national amateur championship at Brookline next month if he so desires. Little has been heard of him since his disappearance from the Apawamis tournament.

After every championship tournament the question is often asked, What are these affairs for? In answer it has been said that championships are held evidently to persuade the ordinary player of the folly and futility of his efforts.

The good sized galleries in attendance during both days of the Eastern professional tournament at Salisbury last week caused general comment. In comparison, however, with the turnouts on the other side the Salisbury gatherings were small enough, for it is a matter of record that six thousand persons followed James Braid in his final round at St. Andrew's recently. Braid's winning totals in the five chcamponships that he won were 309, 318, 300, 291 and 299.

BASEBALL GAMES TOMORROW.

Games to be played by local teams tomorrow:

Y. M. C. A. vs. Rahway Y. M. L. on Crescent Oval, at 3:30.

Plainfield B. B. C. vs. Morristown, at Morristown

Scotch Plains vs. Rahway, at Rahway.

Dunellen vs. Bound Brook, at Bound Brook.

Will Enter Big Tournament.

The Plainfield Country Club will be represnted at the Metropolitan and Amateur Championship golf tournament at the Deal Country Club, August 19, by S. Durrell Lounsbery, amateur, and "Marty" O'Loughlin, the club professional. Some of the best golfers in the country have entered this tournament. "Marty" will doubtless prove a strong factor in the play, as he is now at the top of his game.

"Marty" Playing a Fine Game.

Though kept very busy with his many duties as professional at the Plainfield Country Club, "Marty" O'Loughlin is playing a fine game of golf. His scores for six rounds in the past few days show that he is going strong. He posted these scores: 67, 68, 69, 68, 69, 70. The figures indicate that "Marty" is playing an even game. Despite the recent dry spell, the course and greens are in remarkably good condition.

Will Play Foursome.

Frank Reinhart and "Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, have arranged several foursome matches with golfers from New Brunswick and Atlantic City. They will be played on the links of out-of-town clubs during the month.

Pastor Shaw Returns.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, has returned from an extended trip in the west and will occupy his pulpit tomorrow morning, when he will tell something of his trip. The quarterly business meeting of the church will be held Sunday night.

GAVE CARNEY THE LAUGH

The North Avenue Gang Beat Him to It and Have a Bath Anyway.

ICE CREAM CONES BRIBED BOYS.

They Cleaned up the Hole Filled It With Water and Gave "the Boss" the Merry Ha! Ha!

They gave Dave Carney the merry ha! ha! so they did, but not because he got in bad on his history but because they took a bath in his cellar and didn't care who knew it, not even Dave himself. And this is the reason:

Mr. Carney had removed from his cellar the large printing press which sat in a depression about two feet deep. After the press was removed there remained a lot of debris, including dirt and remnants of mortar. To clear this out was a problem soon solved. Getting together the North avenue bunch, which included "Babe" Paoli, otherwise known as "Little Taffy"; Johnny Cody, the midget; "Second Street E. Smith; Arthur Laury, whose sobriquet is "Little Newsy"; Little Mullen, "Maneater's" brother; "Kid" Murphy, the scrapper; "Greenbrook" Wicht, the ball player, and several other lads of about the same calibre, Mr. Carney, with a judicious use of ice cream cones and a few con. words got the bunch into the cellar and the dirt was quickly flying; in a trice the twelve-foot hole was cleaned out.

During the breathing spells Dave confidently assured the young workmen that he was going to cement and otherwise fix up the depression for a swimming pool and he would invite the gang in to have baths in it when finished. For some reason, occult or otherwise, the kids didn't propose to await the boss's pleasure in the matter of a bath, for no sooner had Mr. Carney gone to lunch than they began to fill up the hole with water, and when a few moments later he returned the sounds of hilarious joy emanating from the cellar caused him to descend to the depths to investigate. And oh! what a sight met his wondering gaze! There they were splashing and pretending to swim and incidentally throwing the water in all directions, to the destruction of piles of paper. Persuasive measures were immediately taken to get the boys out of the pool, and finally they accepted Mr. Carney's invitation for more ice cream cones.

This all happened before the rain of Wednesday. On that day the torrential downpour caused the water to seep in through the back of the cellar and the pool filled up and overflowed. Had the kids forgotten the spot? Not a bit. Cody, the midget, was first to remember the newest swimming hole in town and, gathering the rest of the bunch, they soon were splashing away for dear life, clothed only in what nature had provided them with. The noise produced by the little bathers again caused Mr. Carney to descend to the cellar. When he was discovered by the boys the merry Ha! Ha! mentioned above was given the boss, and he is laughing about it yet. Not because of what he saw, but because of the way the little fellows fooled him by sneaking in without his knowledge.

DEMOCRATS PLAN ANNUAL OUTING AT WITZEL'S GROVE.

The committee in charge of the annual outing of the Union County Democrats at Witzel's Point View Grove, on Wednesday, August 17, will meet tonight at Democratic headquarers, Elizabeth, for the purpose of completing arrangements and countersigning all tickets.

It is the rule of the committee that the holders of all tickets must have them countersigned before they will be allowed to board the boat. They can be countersigned at the dock on the morning of the excursion; but time will be saved by having this done tonight. Secretary Fred Zior will be on hand to attend to the countersigning, and much time and trouble will be saved by having it done tonight.

BOOM IN OAK TREE PROPERTY.

Eugene VanCourt, of Oak Tree, has just sold his forty-acre farm at Oak Tree to Elston M. French, of this city. The consideration is said to be $15,000. It is said that Mr. French plans to cut the property up into building lots and develop the tract at once. This deal, together with other recent ones at Oak Tree, has caused a big boom in real estate in that section.

CLEVER FOX-TERRIER FRIGHTENS OFF BURGLARS

The barking of a clever little fox-terrier prevented robbers from looting the residence of A. G. Thorn at 620 East Front street, shortly before two o'clock this mornig. The burglar or burglars left their job quickly and beat a hasty retreat when the dog started to bark.

Upon investigation this morning, Mr. Thorn learned that the robbers had taken a wood-fibre water pail from the back porch and, turning it on end, had used it to reach the rear kitchen window. When the burglar stepped on the pail the bottom fell through, and the noise awoke the dog. The family heard the canine bark but thought little of the affair until this morning, when the broken pail was discovered.

The window by which the robbers attempted to gain entrance is in the rear of the house and was open at the time. A screen, however, was over the window. Many footprints were discovered around the broken pail, this leading to the supposition that there was more than one robber. A partly emptied whiskey flask, with the label of a New York firm on it, was found near the window. Further than this, no other clue has been obtained as to the identity of the would-be intruders.

EDSON WOODHULL'S BOAT FINISHES THIRD IN RACE

Visitors at Lake Hopatcong yesterday, among whom were many Plainfielders, witnessed the novel race between the power fishing boats, commonly known as "kickers." The events took place over a five-mile triangular course, starting and finishing at Nolan's point. There were twelve contestants and the winner was "Benny H.," owned and operated by Benjamin Hummer, of Lake Hopatcong. The owner received a handsome silver mounted fishing rod and reel. "Close Shave," owned by Frank Loughlin, of Princeton, was second and "Woody," owned and operated by Edson Woodhull, of Plainfield, was third. A large number of the spectators rooted enthusiastically for the Plainfield boat and Mr. Woodhull was greeted with cheers when it crossed the line.

Another Plainfield boat, "Chotola," owned by J. A. Haynes and Clarence Teel, of Craig place, was entered in the race, but did not start owing to a break down in he engine.

The contest was the first of its kind ever held at Lake Hopatcong and proved so successful that it will be an annual event. The idea originated with Frank Loughlin and Jas. Rishor, of Princeton, both of whom are well known in this city. There are about forty "kickers" now at the lake and it is believed that the number will be increased to 100 by next season.

RECTOR STEVENSON WEDS. MISS EDITH L. JORDAN

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, was married yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to Miss Edith L. Jordan, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Jordan, at the home of the latter, "Glen Toft," Grand avenue, Newburg, N. Y. The wedding was a quiet one, owing to the fact that the couple made up their minds suddenly to go to Scotland.

Rev. Melvale K. Bailey, of Grace church, New York city, an intimate friend of Mr. Stevenson, performed the ceremony. Rev. Dr. Searle, former pastor of Mrs. Stevenson, was also present and gave his formal benediction to the union. Rev. and Mrs. Stevenson left this morning for Scotland on the Steamship California, of the Anchor Line. They will be abroad about two months.

TREASURE SHIP HUNT.

Believing they have a $400,000 treasure in their grasp, men are guarding night and day what is believed by them to be the wreck of the steamer Atlantic, off Long Point, in Lake Erie. The Atlantic was sunk in collision in 1852 by the steamer Ogdensburg, and 150 lives were lost. Many were drowned in their berths.

The wreck lies in 158 feet of water. In the hold, it is believed, divers will find two safes containing $400,000 in gold. The wreck of the Atlantic was found virtually intact. No skeletons were found in the superficial examination.

BOROUGH TAX BUDGET

Council Decides That $32,925 is Needed for the Coming Year.

SCHOOL APPROPRIATION LESS.

Tax Rate, it is Said, Will be the Same—New Shade Tree Commission Named—Adjourned to Aug. 12.

The fixing of the tax budget for the coming year and the adoption of the sewer ordinance on third reading, comprised the principal business at the August meeting of the Borough Council, last night. The budget for the year totals $32,925, which includes $1,000 for a contingency fund. It is estimated that the borough will receive $6,625 in license fees, thus bringing the net budget up to $26,300. While the budget is $1,300 more than last year, it is believed that the tax rate for the coming year will remain about the same, as there is a decrease in the school appropriations.

The budget is made up as follows: Borough, $5,500; bond and interest, $2,025; fire, $3,500; water, $1,500; police, $4,000; streets, $6,900; Board of Health, $600; sewer, $800; poor, $1,200; light, $5,900; contingency fund, $1,000.

There was an increase of $800 for sewers, $400 for streets, $200 for the poor, $300 for the Board of Health, $200 for the general borough fund, $150 for lights, $150 for water, but there was a decrease of $1,000 in the fire appropriation.

The sewer ordinance was brought up for a third reading and discussed at length. The Council took up the clause in the ordinance regarding the pipe to be used in the system. As the ordinance reads, the engineers are allowed to accept bids on vitrified pipe only. Mayor Smalley thought that there were other kinds of pipe which might be cheaper and which could be used just as well. A letter to this effect was read from Mr. Buttfield. The Council was unable to decide about the pipe question and so the sewer ordinance was laid on the table until the next meeting. This will give the Council a chance to become better informed on the question of pipe and allow them to look into the legality of the matter. An adjourned meeting of the Council will be held on Friday August 12.

In addition to the budget and sewer questions, routine business was transacted. Bills to the amount of $2,700 were ordered paid. The report of the recorder showed forty-one arrests during July and $66.50 collected in fines during the month. Councilman Stahl reported $183.63 expenses for the fire and water committee. During the meeting the twenty-fifth annual report of the Mayor was distributed among the councilmen in booklet form.

A new shade tree commission was appointed under the new State law. As the old commission had been appointed under the old law, it was no longer vested with power. The same commission was appointed by the Mayor with the exception of the street commissioner, whose other duties forbade him accepting any other work. The commission is now made up of: H. C. White, Hughes Fawcett and Charles Faber.

Permits were granted to the following people: John I. Brower, for a garage on Fairview avenue; J. E. Fergerson, for an addition to his blacksmith shop on Lincoln place; Miss Anna Fitzgerald for an addition to her house on Somerset place; C. V. Smith for a bungalow on Greenbrook road near Maple avenue; George Daly for a house on Mountain avenue near Verdon street; Addie N. Laing for an addition to her house on Fairview avenue; Edward Brokaw for a barn on Regent street.

Rev. Dr. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn., will be the preacher at the First Baptist church, tomorrow morning; also at the union service to be held in the same church in the evening. The churches uniting with the First Baptist, are the First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed and First M. E. Church.

W. G. Besler Returns.

W. G. Besler, vice president and general manager of the New Jersey Central, who has been abroad attending an international convention of railway officials, will return home tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. Besler.

John Winzenried, who has spent the last two months in Germany, during which time he visited the home of his youth and attended the Passion Play at Oberamergau, has returned to his home on Lee place.

W. M. CLARK PRESIDENT

Chosen as the Head of the New State Trust Company.

E. F. FEICKERT VICE-PRESIDENT.

New Directors Hold Organization Meeting—Modern Safe Deposit Vaults to be Used.

At a meeting of the incorporators of the State Trust Company, held on Wednesday evening, the following directors were elected to hold office until the annual meeting in January: William M. Clark, George S. Clay, Dr. J. H. Cooley, Frederic Coriell, Dr. A. H. Dundon, E. F. Feickert, George M. Holstein, Alexander Milne, Nelson A. Miller, Judge William Newcorn, A. W. Ransome, Morris C. VanArsdale and J. V. E. Vanderhoef.

These directors held their organization meeting last night, at which time the following officers were elected: President, William M. Clark; first vice-president, Edward F. Feickert; second vice-president Morris C. VanArsdale; secretary-treasurer, Frederic Coriell.

The alterations to the banking room, which are to be located in the Marsh building, 201 Park avenue, are now under way, and when the company takes possession in September its equipment will be complete in every detail.

Its safe-deposit vaults will be of a more modern type than any at present installed in this city, and in every department of the company's business it will be its policy to give its patrons the advantage of thoroughly up-to-date facilities. Inasmuch as the company does not intend to rely entirely on Plainfield for its business, but will reach out over the State for "banking by mail" deposits, and as its stock is to be widely held by individuals of the community, its success seems assured.

The Manganese Safe Company has been given the contract to furnish the new vaults for the company, and it is said that they will represent the very latest in banking equipment.

MEETINGS RESUMED AT KING'S DAUGHTERS' CAMP

The Sunday afternoon meetings, which attracted so many visitors last summer to the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, on the mountain, are to be resumed tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. This service will be in charge of friends from the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school, led by Superintendent George E. Hall. Music is to be made a feature of the meeting and the public is cordially invited to be present.

Many friends interested in the work of the Camp, take this opportunity of visiting the house and grounds, and becoming more familiar with the splendid work carried on during the summer months upon the summit of this mountain where so many children have been brought back to health by means of the life-giving air and good care.

Several improvements have been made at the Camp this year, which greatly facilitate the work and add to the comfort of all concerned. There are now 55 children at the Camp, and among them some very interesting cases. The greater the number of children, the greater the demand upon sympathy, hearty co-operation and financial assistance. There is still another month in which to do what is desired to help among this practical Christian work which should appeal so strongly to the people of Plainfield. Let a visit to the Camp convince you. Mrs. Bird, the matron, will give you a cordial welcome, and will gladly answer any questions in regard to the details of the work.

Improvement Society to Meet.

The North Plainfield Township Improvement Society will hold a meeting Monday evening at eight o'clock at Texler's Mills. General business will be transacted and Mayor Newtown Smalley, of the borough, will make a speech.

Engagement Announced.

Rev. and Mrs. Albert Francis Newton, of Leominster, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Beatrice Newton, to Warren Wallace Weseman, of this city.

—The butter, tea, coffee, fruits and vegetables sold by Neuman Bros. are the very best produced and the prices are reasonable.

JAMES PANGBORN ALIVE

Former Borough Resident is Identified on Blackwell's Island by Chief Weiss.

WAS SUPPOSED TO BE DEAD.

Wife, it is Said, Recognized His Dead Body and is Alleged to Have Claimed Insurance of $1,000.

James Pangborn, formerly of the borough, who was supposed to be dead, and whose insurance was being claimed by his wife from the Prudential Insurance Co., was positively identified yesterday afternoon as being one of the prisoners on Blackwell's Island by Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force. Chief Weiss identified Pangborn at the prison among a group of twenty-four convicts in their striped uniforms.

Upon Chief Weiss' positive identification of Pangborn rests the entire clue to the mystery surrounding the one thousand dollars insurance, which was claimed by Pangborn's wife, who stated that her husband was drowned near Newark some four months ago. Mrs. Pangborn went to the Newark morgue last May and identified the body of a man found as that of her husband. The body, it is said, had been in the water for four months and was badly disfigured. But Mrs. Pangborn was positive of her identification, it is said, and immediately demanded the $1,000 insurance, which her husband had carried on his life. Pangborn had not seen his wife for eleven months, it is said, but he told Chief Weiss yesterday that he had been writing letters to her up to a few weeks previous. From this it is believed that she must have known all the time that her husband was alive for the drowned man had been dead for over four months. In addition to this, the body held in the morgue was of a man nine inches taller than James Pangborn. The drowned man measured six feet, five inches in height, while Pangborn is only five feet, eight inches tall. This fact could scarcely have been overlooked by Mrs. Pangborn in her identification at the morgue, it is believed.

Soon after the identification of the body at the morgue and the application for the $1,000 insurance by Mrs. Pangborn, the Prudential company began to suspect the truth of the identifier's statement and started an investigation. Pangborn was formerly a resident of North Plainfield, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pangborn, who formerly lived on Linden avenue, but who now reside on the Baldwin farm near Warrenville. William J. Rutledge, one of the company's detectives, was immediately sent to the borough and took Chief Weiss, who knew Pangborn well, with him yesterday to identify the man at Blackwell's Island.

At the time of Pangborn's residence in the borough, he was employed as a harness marker in Huff's harness shop on Somerset street. He married Miss Cora Dunlap, of East Fifth street, this city, and shortly afterwards the couple removed to Newark. The pair never got along well together, it is said, and Pangborn had been arraigned in the borough court several times on non-support charges. Eleven months ago Pangborn, it is said, deserted his wife and a few weeks ago was sentenced to a term in prison on the charge of grand larceny.

HAD 500 PET RATS.

While nearly 500 white pet rats squeaked in their cages Miss M. C. Metzger, owner of the animals, who had just been evicted from the second flat at 1704 Franklin avenue, St. Louis, Mo., patrolled the sidewalk Thursday, and with the assistance of two patrolmen, protected her pets and household goods. Some of the animals were killed and wounded during the removal to the street.

The rats which attracteed a large crowd of the curious, are of imported stock, according to Miss Metzger. Most of them are Persian and Japanese animals and there are some of the Chinese variety. All are pure white except the Chinese, which have a broad black stripe running down the middle of the back.

ALBERT JENSEN HAS MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Albert Jensen, of Little Creek, Delaware, who is employed as a lineman by the New York Telephone Company, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon, when a pole on which he was working on Jackson avenue broke off at the base, causing the lineman to fall thirty-five feet to the ground. It was expected by those who witnessed the accident to see the man dead when picked up but he had miraculously escaped such a fate. A carriage was immediately summoned and the injured man was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital. Here it was found that his injuries consisted only of sprained ankles, a sprained back, and a general shaking up.

Jensen had been sent up the pole to remove some telephone wires which were interefering with the removal of a house on Jackson avenue. This house is owned by U. B. Crane, of East Second street, and is being moved from Jackson avenue to Brook avenue. The pole had rotted away at its base and when Jensen removed the wires, the pole went down with a crash, carrying him with it. That the lineman escaped death and even a broken bone is regarded by those who witnessed the accident as miraculous.

More than 150 Haymakers from all parts of the State arrived in town this morning, animated with the best ideas of promoting the interests of the order. They met with considerable encouragement from the local members of Wetumpka Hayloft No. 229½. The Stillman Building was the scene of the convention, as well as the banquet which followed. The parade, which was scheduled to start from the convention hall at noon did not start on time.

W. F. WILLIAMS IS NAMED FOR SHRIEVALTY

W. F. Williams, of the borough, who is more familiarly known among his friends as "Barney" Williams, is being urged to seek the nomination for Sheriff in Somerset county. A quet but lively boom for Mr. Williams was started in the borough, last night, and although he declared that he does not want the office, his friends, it is said, will insist upon his running for the nomination at the primary. Mr. Williams is not only well known in the borough, but throughout Somerset county.

Just what bearing the candidacy of Mr. Williams will have on the aspirations of other local Republican candidates cannot be foretold. Chas. P. Sebring, who has been prominently mentioned for the office, is said to have the backing of the leaders and to have received assurances from friends throughout the county that they will support him. Like Mr. Williams, Mr. Sebring is one of the best known men in the county.

HIS FEET "HURTED" HIM

Patrick Quinn Therefore Helps Himself to a More Comfortable Pair of Shoes.

COBBLER IS VERY GENEROUS.

Prisoner Declared He Was a Discharged Regular Army Soldier—Mr. Pollock Makes No Complaint.

When Max Pollock left his shoe repairing shop this morning for a few minutes he left the door open. This was the opportunity that Patrick Quinn, of Brooklyn, was looking for. With an old overcoat over his arm he entered the store, appropriated a pair of oxfords which had just been repaired and made off toward Fifth street and Watchung avenue. Mr. Pollock happened to see Quinn leaving the store, and, becoming suspicious, entered his store and discovered that he had been robbed of the shoes.

Following Quinn to a house on Fifth street, Pollock found the shoes hidden in the folds of the overcoat, and when he demanded their return from Quinn the latter asked for a dime for them, refusing otherwise to give them up. Chief Kiely was passing at the time and Quinn was handed over to him on a charge of stealing made by Pollock.

Quinn's arraignment before Judge Runyon developed some amusing stories from the glib-tongued Quinn. He said that he was sixty-seven years old and never had been arrested before. For twenty years he had served Uncle Sam in the regular army, having seen service in Cuba during the Spanish-American war; was a cook and orderly at Forts Slocum, Hamilton and Wadsworth in New York harbor and at the time of the placing of the body of Uulysses S. Grant in the tomb on Riverside Drive he was one of the guard of honor.

This story was accompanied by the largest sized crocodile tears, and when put to it Quinn could scarcely remember a single military term nor the names of the regiments in which he served. His answers to the judge's questions were given with that irresistible brogue, which provoked the court to broad smiles and the spectators to laughter.

"Me feet hurted me so after walkin' from Lake Hopatcong yistherday thot I wanted a pair av ould shoes to aise me fate" said Pat. "It's a good thurty-two miles to this town from there and I wus feelin' the pains in me fate somethin' awful. I did not intind to sthale. I jist wint in to ask the man for an ould pair and as he wusn't in I tuk thim shoes he has there."

Judge Runyon appeared to not want to punish Pat very severely, and after Mr. Pollock had obtained the shoes he generously refused to prosecute and the judge allowed the prisoner to go to Hackensack, where he claims to have a brother.

EDWARD MAYNARD AMONG INJURED PASSENGERS.

Edward Maynard, of North avenue, who was injured yesterday when the Netherwood trolley car jumped its track and crashed into a tree, is confined to his bed today suffering severe pain from bruises on his legs. He also received a deep cut on his right arm, which he raised to shield his eyes from flying pieces of glass.

Mr. Maynard said this morning that he regarded it remarkable that the motorman wasn't killed, and that more people were not injured. Mr. Maynard, who is a frequent traveler on the Netherwood line, said that the trolley car was running at a high rate of speed on rounding the curve. When the car struck the tree, Mr. Maynard said, he was thrown forward on his knees and several of the passengers were thrown back toward him in a heap. Mr. Maynard's injuries, although keeping him in bed, are not serious.

The trolley car had to be taken to the repair shop.

DREAMED HE HAD DIED; SUCCUMBED NEXT DAY

A cablegram was received by Felix Fuld at his home in South Orange Thursday night announcing the sudden death Thursday morning of Louis M. Frank, member of the firm of L. Bamberger & Co., of Newark, who went abroad in June in search of health.

Mr. Frank died in the Palace Hotel at Lucerne, Switzerland, of apoplexy, and according to cable advices received here his demise came as a sequel to a dream he had the night before, the circumstancs of which he is said to have related to his friends a few hours before he was fatally stricken.

Mr. Frank, according to the cablegram, dreamed he had died and as he told of it to his companions in the hotel yesterday morning, it is said they noticed evidence of its depressing effect on him.

With Mr. Frank when he succumbed besides his widow were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bamberger, who accompanied them on the trip abroad. A cablegram was received from Mr. Bamberger this morning at the firm's office in Newark, stating that he would sail for this country on Tuesday with the body. Until the travelers reach home no arrangements will be made for the funeral.

Besides the widow, Mrs. Carrie B. Frank, Mr. Frank is survived by his father, Mayer Frank, who is ninety years old, and who is summering at Atlantic City; Jacob M. Frank, a brother, and Mrs. Charles Heidelberger, a sister, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Frank was troubled with a stomach disorder when he sailed for Europe but his condition was not such as to cause any alarm. The party intended to tour the continent and expected to spend almost another month on the other side of the Atlantic.

Letters received by Mr. Fuld and other friends of Mr. Frank in Newark indicated that the trip had proven beneficial, and as late as Wednesday word reached Mr. Fuld that his business partner had practically regained his health and was one of the merriest in the party of tourists. Having met some friends in Lucerne, the communication stated that Mr. Frank was enjoying the trip immensely and that his illness had entirely passed away.

Following the letter came a cable message which reached Mr. Fuld Thursday morning conveying the information that Mr. Frank had been again stricken. The dispatch stated he was seriously ill. Mr. Fuld tried to get into communication with Mr. Bamberger by cable to learn more about Mr. Frank and was anxiously awaiting a reply when the death message reached him about 5 o'clock Thursday night.

Mr. Frank was fifty-four years old and was born at Lewistown, Pa. He removed with his parents to Philadelphia, where he received his first business training. About seventeen years ago, with Mr. Bambergar, he came to this city and founded the business with which he was identified at his death.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre August 10. George Ade once designated the present day—in everything that is miles ahead of anything—as "zippy", and that is an uncommon good term by which to describe the splendid minstrel show which George Evans is this year providing with the Honey Boy organization of which he is now sole owner as well as star.

"Minstrelsy idealized" is one of the claims for this splendid entertainment and it seems an apt phrase when mental recurrence is made to the Christy Minstrels of '49; the Norris, Pell and Trowbridge troupe of the '50's; Sam Sharpley's fun makers of '69, and the Haverly Mastodons of '79. All these good old memories are awakened by the illustrations shown prior to the present spectacle and then "Fairyboy" Evans circles his wand and as the "Crimson Trellis" first part is displayed to the audience, with its terraced blaze of crimson, green and gold life—the Honey Boy troupe of today shows the idealization of America's time honored amusement diversion. To quote from the criticism of Montgomery Phister, the eminent critic of the Cincinnati Tribune, "It is minstrelsy idealized, magnetized, and endowed with picturesque life, beauty, gorgeous environment and a breath of appeal such as the black face world of fun and foolery never dreamed of in the ancient days. In other words, it is the best minstrel show, here, there, or anywhere, anyone has ever seen."

Among guests registered this week at the Manhattan Hotel, Asbury Park, are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Holden, of this city.

Gilbert S. Martin, an employee in the composing room of the Westfield Leader, is enjoying a vacation of a week in visiting various nearby points of interest.

RIKER & HEGEMAN MAKE DRUG COMBINE

Officials of Hegeman & Co. and the William B. Riker & Son Co., of New York, completed negotiations Thursday afternoon for the merging of the two large drug concerns into a new company, to be known as the Riker & Hegeman Company, and which is to be capitalized at $15,000,000.

No statement was given out as to when the combination will become effective, but it is undersood that the details of the arrangement will be made public soon. No radical change in the policies of the present organizations is contemplated, and it is said the new company may sell its drugs at a still lower margin of profit as a result of the economies of administration which will obtain due to the combination.

At the present time the Riker company owns and operates twenty-five retail drug stores in Greater New York and vicinity and several in Boston. Eighteen are located in Manhattan, five in Brooklyn, one in Newark and one in Mt. Vernon.

The Hegeman corporation owns twenty stores, having two in Brooklyn, one in Jersey City and one in Yonkers. The new concern will probably do away with some of the stores and open up new ones in other sections of the city. It is quite likely that the new company will expand its retail business to other cities, with the ultimate view of owning a chain of stores throughout the United States.

John H. Flagler, president of the Hegeman company, will be president of the new organization; Alfred H. Cosden, now president of the William B. Riker & Son Company, will be first vice-president, and George Ramsey, vice-president of Hegeman & Co., will be selected second vice-president. Frederick H. Pouch, who is treasurer of the Hegeman company, will be treasurer of the new corporation, and Edward D. Cahoon, treasurer of the Riker concern, is to be secretary.

The capital of the Riker & Hegeman Co. will be divided into $5,000,000 preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock. It will probably be incorporated under the laws of New York State.

WESTFIELD.

There was a small race riot on the work of the Methodist church Thursday afternoon. The trouble started because a colored man did not place a load of stone where an Italian asked him to. This led to words and blows, and in a few minutes colored men and Italians were engaged in a general fight. Police Officer Rosencrans was called to quiet the fighters and made five arrests. Fred Johnson, employed by W. Willoughby, and four Italians.

A boy watching the demonstration of an electric washing machine Thursday afternoon got his fingers caught in the cog wheels and they were badly mangled. He went to Dr. Kinch for treatment.

There will be a matinee race meet at Fair Acres track today.

CASHED PHOTOGRAPH OF A GENUINE CHECK

Photography as an aid to check swindling has worked successfully in at least one case. In a bunch of canceled checks, which he had received from the bank, Seth H. Ely, manager of the Dover gas company, this week found a photographed check, which had escaped detection by three banks through which it had passed. It was a clever swindle, the photographed copy so closely resembling the original that but for a difference in the weight of the paper the fraudulent character of the check might never have been noticed.

The original check was drawn by the Dover, Rockaway and Port Oram Gas Company in favor of the Lee Furnace and Burner Company of New York, manufacturers of oil burners. It was for $15, and was given in payment for a machine. The check was paid in due time, and when it was canceled and returned was filed with others.

As Mr. Ely was checking up the canceled vouchers which he had received from the bank Wednesday his attention was attracted by the thickness of the paper on which one was printed. On closer inspection he noticed that the edge, where it should have been attached to the check book, was smooth, and that the edges were clouded. He also found his records where the original had been paid.

The name of the indorser on the back was that of a former employee of the Lee Furnace and Burner Company. Presumably the employee secured the original, photographed it and then returned it to the rightful owner. The photographed copy he indorsed and cashed.

The check was cashed in Trenton and forwarded through a New York bank to Dover for collection. When it reached the Dover Trust Company it was closely scrutinized on account of its thickness, but as the signature appeared to be genuine it was paid and turned over to the gas company. Mr. Ely at once returned the check to the local bank, and an investigation is now being made.

Two Summer Hints to Housewives

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Preserving Kettles

We want to show you our complete line of Preserving Kettles both in aluminum and agateware—all sizes.

Your choice of either depends upon whether you want the lightest weight, aluminum—or medium weight, agate.

Both kinds are made by two of the most reliable concerns in the country.

The prices are very reasonable as upon all that we sell.

D., L. & W. TRAIN IN A RUNAWAY.

A freight wreck, in which two men met death and two others were badly injured, occurred at Analomink on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad about four miles north of Stroudsburg early yesterday.

Injured—John Benton, Binghamton, N. Y., scalp badly cut and terribly bruised; Thomas Cannon, flagman, of Scranton, shoulder dislocated and body bruised.

The cause of the wreck was the running away of the train composed of sixty-two loaded cars, on the Pocono Mountains, the steepest grade on the road. The air on the engine gave out, and the engineer could not hold the train.

The train at times ran at the rate of a mile a minute. There are thirty-seven cars burning in a narrow cut, and a half mile away there are nineteen more cars piled up and the wrecked engine.

The loss to the railroad company will run up into many thousands of dollars.

TRAINING FOR CITIZENSHIP AT ROCHESTER UNIVERSITY

This week's Examiner, published in New York, which is an education number, gives a list of Baptist universities, among them the University of Rochester, which is attracting much attention at the present time by a change of curriculum to make room for special training for citizenship. For many years at Rochester the students have been taught to regard education as something more than training for the full development of the students own manhood. That conception falls far short of training for the full development of the students' manhood, for the sake of the community.

The new course of practical citzenship, taking the city of Rochester as a labratory in scientific observation of political life, will aim to guide students in a practical study of modern political methods and organization, to observe diligently the actual conduct of a city's immense business undertakings and to guide students in a careful consideration of the many social and humanitarian aspects of city life, the problems of public health, public education, care of the poor, treatment of criminals, trade, industry and the like.

Plainfielders' interest and pride in this advance movement are heightened by the fact that at the head of the Rochestr University is President Rush Rhees, L.L.D., who was a Plainfield boy and a graduate of the High School as well as a nephew of two of our prominent citizens, Charles W. and Samuel St. John McCutchen. A good picture of Dr. Rhees accompanies the article on the university.

GOVERNOR TO SEE FLYERS.

Asbury Park, August 6.—Friday of next week will be "Governors' Day" at the aviation meet, which begins on August 10 and continues for ten days. Governor Fort, with his military staff and a number of officers of the New Jersey National Guard, will be present, and invitations have also been forwarded to Governor Hughes of New York and Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania. Fred Owens, the Newark aviator, arriced here yesterday with his dirigible, and, weather permitting, he will make his first flight in this vicinity today.

The anual casting tournament of the Asbury Park Fishing Club will be held today on the square adjacent to the ocean, bounded by Park, Grand and Eighth avenues. Visiting and local anglers will compete all day for the prizes offered by the club.

One hundred matrons and maidens started out bright and early this morning on a tagging expedition for the benefit of the local hospitals and charities. Mayor Appleby has issued an official proclamation sanctioning the tagging scheme and the taggers expect to collect $10,000 during the day. This evening the tag day committee, of which Mrs. D. E. Sisson is the chairman, will give a carnation ball in the Arcade on the boardwalk.

Entries for the annual baby parade, which is to be held on September 2, now number nearly two hundred. The parade will be in seven divisions and over one hundred prizes, including a number of silver loving cups and a pony and cart, will be awarded the winners.

Rev. Dr. E. W. Roberts, pastor, will preach at the Shiloh Baptist church, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, on the topic, "The Childlike Simplicity," and in the evening at 8 o'clock on the subject, "The Beauty of the Heavenly Mansion." The Sunday schol will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

BATTERY A, LIGHT ARTILLERY SHOOT WELL AT SEA GIRT

Camp Fort, Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 6.—Shooting at a target more than a mile out at sea, the men of Battery A, Light Artillery, of East Orange, yesterday, gave a demonstration of their skill and proved that in time of actual warfare the organization would be of some value in coast defence work. The different guns of the battery, each manned by its own crew, did some firing at the target, and the numerous hits reflected credit upon the marksmanship of the men.

The signal corps tried some signalling Thursday night with a searchlight, and the tests were satisfactory. Messages were flashed for several miles with the use of the lights, and its utility as a means of signalling was demonstrated. The wireless work of the signal corps was also continued yesterday, and the usual drills kept them men busy all day.

The Fourth Regiment spent the day in the usual routine drills. "Extended order" drills and the "shelter tent" drill gave enough variety to keep the men from complaining.

There was an "invasion" of the camp and "Little White House" yesterday by half a hundred pretty girls. They were the clerks and typewriters from the State House, who were entertained yesterday as the guests of the Governor. Luncheon was served on the lawn for the party.

When Brigadier General Murray started in pursuit Thursday night of an automobile which had injured two soldiers within the confines of the camp ground he had no idea that it was one of his own machines he was after. The machine was taken by Clarence Skinner, a negro, his stableman, with the intention of having a "joy ride."

Skinner was sneaking out of camp without lights. He ran into a crowd of soldiers near the postoffice and struck wo of the men, knocking them senseless. Panic stricken, Skinner put on more speed and fled toward Belmar. The injured men were removed to the field hospital. They were James J. Carmelitano and Chas. P. Ttate.

Carmelitano's jaw was fractured, and he may lose his right eye. Ttate's right leg was broken. Skinner was arrested and taken to the county jail, at Freehold. Had he been in camp when apprehended it might have gone hard with him, for the guardsmen were indignant at the accident.

Real Extremes.

"Don't you think Mr. Roosevelt is a man of strange opposites?"

"I do indeed. There is, for instance, his friendship for Catches-'em-Alive Abernathy and Catches-'em-Dead Taft."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MISS CURRY WILL TELL OF HER NEW YORK WORK

At the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp tomorrow afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, an interesting time is promised to those who attend. The meeting will be led by the president, J. D. Louiseaux, and Rev. William B. Hamilton will talk to the little folks.

The feature of the meeting will be a musical service in which the children of the camp will be the principals. It is certain that the children of this camp know how to sing. They appear to have been endowed with peculiarly sweet voices and it is a pleasure to hear them.

Miss Sarah Curry will tell in a short speech of her work among the poor of the East Side in New York. Anyone who has ever visited the Day Nursery conducted by Miss Curry will readily recognize the importance of this work and the bearing it has had on the lives of those whom she cares for. There ought to be a large attendance tomorrow.

James McIlreavy, who has organized the play of the boys of the camp, announces that this afternoon his boys will cross bats with camp boys from Roselle.

WRAPS OF CHIFFON.

In line with the fancy for transparent tunics and polonaises is the fad for chiffon wraps which reveal all the elaboration of the dainty frock beneath.

Uusually there is some arrangement of trimming about the shoulders which affords a light protection, but the body of the wrap is of the most transparent stuff, and is a cloak in name only.

Not a Burden to Her.

Little Bessie—Mamma, how'll I know when I m naughty?

Mother—Your conscience will tell you, dear.

Little Bessie—I don't care about what it tells me—will it tell you?

DR. WILSON WON'T TALK ON PLATFORM TOPICS

In response to a request that he express his view on the public questions that are paramount in New Jersey, Dr. Woodrow Wilson states in a letter to the Trenton Evening Times that to grant an interview now would clearly open the interpretation that he was seeking the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination.

Dr. Wilson says that in his statement announcing that he would accept the nomination, if "a majority of the thoughtful Democrats" of New Jersey wanted him, he meant exactly what he said, and that is all he cares to say now.

The letter of Dr. Wilson, written at his summer home in Connecticut, is as follows:

"Allow me to acknowledge with thanks your letter of July 30. I am sorry to be obliged to say in reply that I am granting no interviews just now.

"To do so would be inconsistent with the statement I have published with regard to my attitude toward the Democratic nomination for Governor. I, of course, meant exactly what I said in that statement. I spoke entirely without reservation of any kind. To grant interviews to the newspapers now would clearly be open to the interpretation that I was seeking the nomination."

The questions submitted to Dr. Wilson by The Times were as follows:

Do you favor a public utility commission, with ratemaking powers?

Do you favor the direct primary for Governor and Congressman, as well as for the county and city officers?

Do you favor an employer's liability law, and along what general lines?

Do you favor the election of United States Senators by the people?

Do you favor stringent legislation against campaign contribution by office-holders, including judges?

In the event of your home county being against you in the State convention, would your position as a receptive candidate remain unchanged?

RARITAN.

There will be no services in the Third Reformed Church the next two Sundays, as the pastor is on his vacation.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William H. De Hart, of Somerset street, are spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

Miss Pearl Coleman has returned from a three weeks' visit with her aunts, at High Bridge.

John Perlee, who has been laid up for some time with a broken hip, will soon be able to be out.

James Martin, of New York has been spending a week with his sister, Mrs. Oscar Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zannetto, of Rhode Island, are visiting relatives in Raritan.

Mrs. Eugene Bamforth is entertaining relatives from Philadelphia.

Misses Kathryn and Emeline Conklin are at Atlantic City.

Joseph J. Purcell has been visiting this week in Bayonne.

The Raritan woolen mills will start up on next Monday.

REDUCING THE HIPS.

There is no better exercise to reduce the waist and hips than to stand erect, feet squarely on the floor, raising the hands high above the head and bringing them down with sweeping motion so the finger tips touch the floor. The knees must remain rigid. Should they bend the exercise is useless.

You will not succeed at first in touching the floor, but with practice you will. Of course, no tight-clothing is worn when doing this work. This exercise is alternated with lying on the back and lifting the foot high into the air, bringing it over as near the head as it can be made to go. No bend is to be made at the knees, as the pull must come from the hips.

Another thing is to hug the knees, trying to bring them to the chest. These exercises should be done for ten minutes daily night and morning, increasing the time to fifteen as muscles become stronger. Take care that you sit on the end of the spine, not putting the weight several inches from the top, as many persons do.

A Hint to Hostesses.

Don't give parties—except actual masquerades—where you must ask your guests to appear in any special costume. They dislike the trouble and rightly feel that they are coming to be entertained and not to help in the performance. Sometimes the command to "wear a white shirtwaist and skirt" or "represent a famous book" really means a great deal of trouble to its recipient. If the success of your party depends on this co-operation on the part of your guests, by all means give another kind of party.

Percy's Unusual Hobby.

Percy Minnis, who had a finger cut off the day after New Year's, has had another cut off.—Mercyville aBnner.

SASHES.

There is a great deal of art in the wearing of a sash. One can increase one's height or one's breadth, adorn a plain gown, tone down an elaborate one, give a touch of distinction to one's whole appearance, simply by the way in which the sash is draped and adjusted.

Try wearing the sash in shawl style over the shoulders, caught by a stitch in back and tucked over the girdle, to fall in diagonal lengths to just above the ankles.

Or wind it twice around the waist, like a girdle; cross it in front and fasten with a knot at the sides of the skirt below the knees.

Then there is the Scotch tartan effect, especially attractive with a plaid scarf, where there is a broad band over the left shoulder, a narrow draped one over the back and the right, and a knot at the waist on the left side, so that the sash falls in a broad width almost to the bottom of the frock.

The adjustment of the sash may well have reference to the concealment of some defect in the garment it covers—a tiny tear, perhaps, or an ineradicable stain. It should emphasize the good points of the figure and hide the bad. That is why the old fashion of the stiff bow at the back was so bad; it made every woman look stout.

Give a little thought to the draping of your sash and half your battle for beauty of appearance is won.

TIMELY HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Cocoanut matting may be cleaned with a large course cloth dipped in salt and water and then rubbed dry.

Knives which have been used for onions, and smell of them, can be cleaned by drawing them though a piece of carrot two or three times.

To remove hot water marks from japanned trays use sweet oil. Rub in well till all marks disappear, then polish the tray with dry flour and a soft cloth.

When gilt frames or moulding of rooms have specks of dirt from flies and other causes upon them they may be cleaned with white of egg applied with a camel's-hair brush.

Pour hot fruit into glass dishes is very likely to result in breaking the latter. To prevent this, stand the glass dish on a cloth wet with hot water and then pour the fruit into it.

To soften hot water put one ounce of quichl'me into four gallons and a half of water. Still it thoroughly, and allow it to settle. Then pour off the clear solution, which will be enough to add to four barrels of hard water.

To avoid soiling paint when cleaning brass take a piece of cardboard about ten inches square, and in the cenre cut a hole through which the knob will pass. When about to polish hold the cardboard tightly against the door, and keep it so while polishing.

THE WOMAN WHO KNITS.

If you would make a sensation with your knitting on the hotel porch this summer start one of the new Roman scarfs in fine Shetland wool. They are the most fetching thing in light, warm wraps that have appeared for many a day.

These scarfs are about a yard wide and as long as one likes, from a yard and a half to two yard is the average. They are knit loosely with large woolen needles, and any one who can knit need not fear to attempt one.

The chief beauty lies in the coloring, which copies closly the Roman silk scarfs of an earlier generation. The stripes are knit across and are formed of four colors, each outlined on both edges alternate stripes of white of varying width.

Full directions can be had for kniting this scarf, but a practised knitter can easily arange her own coloring and spacing.

The colors chosen are blue, pink, violet and green, each color outlined by a warm yellow for a row or two. Eight hanks of the wool are needed, three of the white and one each of a color—if the set directions are followed.

SANITARY PAD FOR CORSET.

During the dog days it becomes rather a problem to keep the little pad worn under one's corset steel fresh and sanitary.

One girl has solved the prbolem satisfactorily by discarding the usual scented wad of linen or other material and substituting one of tissue paper, which is discarded at the end of each day.

For the covering of it she uses the softer and better quality of paper napkins, which are made of real rice paper.

One of them is folded lengthwise over a strip of sanitary cotton goods, which is sprinkled with any sachet preferred.

Misplaced Reticence.

"It was a great mistake," sighed the man who was sued for breach of promise.

"What do you mean?"

"I used a nom de plume in my literary work instead of disguising my identity in my love letters."—Washington Evening Star.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 7, 1910.

Topic.—Christ our Friend.—John xv, 9-16. (Consecration meeting.) Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Friendship has been the theme of philosophers and poets throughout the generations. It has been one of the choice subjects of the Christian pulpit. Marked illustrations of friendship have been recorded both in sacred and secular history, and men have been charmed with the stories of these sacred ties that have bound men to men. Every human being craves a friend, one with whom it is "knit together," one from whom no confidences are kept and no betrayals dreamed of, one who extends the helping hand in the hour of need and seems almost like one's other self, without whom life would be a dry and dreary waste. Such friendships are not unusual even between brave and strong men, illustrated by that between Jonathan and David, Damon and Pythias and, as lately revealed in the papers, Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson.

But human friends cannot always fulfill the demands and needs of the human heart. Therefore each one needs to have the one friend who is completely able to do even this—Jesus Christ, "the friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

1. Christ is a friend in need. "A friend in need is a friend indeed." Jesus shows His friendship best at such a time. When humanity was in need as the result of the entrance of sin into the world He manifested the greatest friendship possible toward the human race by dying for it. "For greater love hath no man than this—that a man lay down his life for his friends." In the darkest hour of God's church Christ appeared, and in her darkest hour then, as at all times, He has been the church's friend. In individual lives the same has been true in millions of instances. To Mary and Martha He came in their dark hour of bereavement and proved a great friend in restoring their brother Lazarus to life again. In proving by His own resurrection from the dead that our departed loved ones and ourselves shall rise again He has also brought profound comfort to the human race and to individual human hearts.

What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear!
What a privilege to carry
Everything to God in prayer!

2. Christ is a divine friend. What force this adds to His friendship! It assures its constancy. The best of friends will often fail, but Christ, being divine, can never do so. It would disprove His character of Deity. In this character also Christ possesses the power to meet every want and need in our lives. Abraham was the friend of God, and God blessed him. So Christ can and will bless us if we are His friends.

3. The condition of friendship with Christ is obedience to His will. "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." But why shirk such a condition? "His yoke is easy, and His burden is light."

BIBLE READINGS.

Deut. xiii, 6; I Sam. xviii, 1-5; Prov. xvii, 17; xviii, 24; xxvii, 9, 10; Zech. iii, 1-7; Luke vii, 31-43; xv, 1-10; John iii, 16; xi, 1-3, 36-44; xv, 1-8; Heb. ii, 14-18; iv, 14-16.

Enthusiastic Christian Endeavorer.

The Texas Christian Endeavor union is indeed fortunate in obtaining the services of Miss Tyler Wilkinson for the difficult work of the field secretary. She is well known for sound judgment, winsome personality and enthusiastic energy, all of these backed up by a substantial experience in Christian Endeavor work. In the first place, as president of the Bell County Christian Endeavor union she made a brilliant success. Soon she became secretary of the state union and afterward its president. When the pressure of other duties forced her to retire for awhile she was not allowed to remain long out of the service, but was called to be the field secretary of the Oklahoma State Christian Endeavor union, doing splendid service as a Christian Endeavor pioneer in that state. Miss Wilkinson devotes all her time to traveling, corresponding and organizing new societies, visiting conventions and in other ways building up Christian Endeavor in the great state of Texas.

Why Sign the Pledge?

Christian Endeavorers should need no argument for pledges. We understand the importance of setting up a standard. We know that if a thing is worth doing it is worth promising to do. We have learned how a promise strengthens one in a good course. We see pledges required of the strongest men in all occupations—of our judges, of our executive officers, our lawyers. We use pledges in the marriage ceremony and when men join the church. Why not, then, in regard to this matter, of so great importance sign a pledge? Let us show our colors; let us take a stand. However able we may feel ourselves to remain strictly temperate without a pledge, let us remember that we may not always be so strong and that in any case there are many that are weaker. Let us set them a good example.—Amos R. Wells.

The C. E. Convention In India.

In speaking of the Christian Endeavor convention held in Agra, India, the Outlook says: "The whole body of delegates constituted an evidence of the interchurch, international and the interracial character of the Christian Endeavor movement. This occasion was, in fact, a realization of the dream of that cobbler missionary, William Carey, who foresaw a hundred years ago the time when missionary stations would form a chain from northern India to Ceylon."

VIRGINIA OF THE AIR LANES

A Romance Of Flying

By HERBERT QUICK

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

A romance of the air---what could be more timely and appropriate in these days of aerial conquest? Thrilling situations crowd one another in this gripping narrative of a courageous young inventor's fight for fame and love against unscrupulous monopolists. It falls not to the lot of many men to have to combat among the clouds to win a bride, as does Theodore Carson. Read of his death struggle in an airship against a submarine boat in charge of the jealous rival inventor Wizner---read of Craighead, the erratic, who rallied humorously but effectively to Carson's support; of Shayne, "controller of the powers of the air;" of Florida coast smugglers, of battles in the air and of lovely Virginia Suarez, a heroine of the future in a story of the future, who faced fearlessly the unnerving dangers of a courtship above the clouds. No one can fully appreciate what the complete mastery of the air will mean to humans just like us until he reads this fascinating novel.

CHAPTER I.

WHEN MAIDENS FELL FROM THE SKY.

FOR twenty shimmering miles the gulf beach lay in the sun, a white straight edge against blue. Mistily through the surf haze glimmered the tower of Sand island light save when obscured by the smoke plume of a fruiter standing in past Fort Morgan for Mobile. It was early forenoon. The yellow globe of the mooring balloon at the fort shone in the sun like a dome of some audacious new architecture flung high into the pulsating air. Two men far down the coast toward Pensacola caught the faroff splendor and noted in the very act of casting off from it a long, cigar shaped aeronat—an immense, elongated bubble of quicksilver. It floated seaward, rounded to, stood a moment end on, librating like a balancing top.

The speaker was a typical gulf fisherman, long bearded, soft of speech, courteous as a diplomat, barefooted, weathered in garments and skin. Over his cheeks and nose were scattered broad brown blotches which had it not been for their size might have been called freckles. He rolled a cigarette, lighted it, turned his eyes on his more youthful companion, repeating, "She's sho' boun' fo' N'Yawlins."

In the mien of the younger man there was something of kinship to the elder, as there might be in a New England chemist or engineer something that is like his forty-second cousin fishing on the Newfoundland banks. The softness of speech was modified to a subtle firmness and a subdued decision. The slight, tall frame was arrowy and erect, as if the youth had imbibed from some winier air a latent self esteem expressed in the hint of incisiveness in speech. The boy also had the areas of mottled freckling, overlaying a pink glow. He wore a blue flannel shirt with a bright silk cravat. His shoes were scoured gray by the beach sand, and his well shaped hat was powdered with it. His trousers were of cadet gray and were striped down the side; seemingly they were a part of some obsolete uniform. He sat on a great square timber half buried in the sand and had been studying a blue green Portuguese man-of-war cast ashore and rolled up before the breeze, dragging its yard long tentacles. On the beam lay a steel square, a brace and bit, a roll of blueprints, some steel drills and a book of logarithms. The speech of the old fisherman made him look up. He picked up a pair of binoculars from a cast-up crate and studied the distant airship.

"Mo' likely bound for Pensacola, captain," he said. "She's coming this way—a Condor with bow rudder."

The aeronat, drawing nearer, swelled like a great silver moon. The men admired her as they walked inshore through soft trodden sand down to a lower level of yellowed palmettoes and scaled a steep dune slope thicketed with curious scrub oaks. Here was hidden a cabin of rough boards with a wide veranda or gallery, on the columns of which were to be seen bleached barnacles, telling of the storm tossed voyage which had brought them hither. Abutting on the cabin by one end was a spacious shed without visible door or window. So thoroughly was the edifice concealed by the oak scrub and the low growing stunted spruce that one might have passed a dozen times within a stone's throw of it without seeing it, and even from the airships its drab roof powdered with blown sand was well nigh invisible. Under the gallery was perfect safety from observation from aloft.

As seen through the glass, the airship was swelled to impressive bulk now. Her rudder stood aslant, a stripe of brown against the silver foil of her bilge. On the seaward side ran the darker line of a toy aeroplane—a matter of appearance more than use—and slung beneath by a gossamer nacelle, steady as the deck of a liner, hung her roomy car, the engine room astern, the three great screws half invisible, like the vibrant wings of bees. She veered to the north and stood inland as if to cross the Little lagoon, that beautiful salt lake which for ten miles lies within sound of the gulf surf, but separated from it by a little wilderness of dunes, then by a majestic swooping movement she threw her whole vast sweep of broadside open to their gaze. The captain's dimmer eye now made out the woman and the two men on her deck, while Theodore Carson's, keen for such a sight and armed with the glass, observed that the woman wore a broad hat of vivid red, a scarf of the same color and—a woman would have told him—a pique gown.

"They bette' moor," said the fisherman. "They's a norther comin' out. What they doin' now, Miste' Theodo'?"

"Why," said Carson, studying the aeronat with the glass and clipping off his sentences as the astounding evolution of the incident far up there in the blue rendered every utterance obsolete before it was finished. "why, they have thrown off a package of—it's mechanism—of some sort—in operation, and— They're making a tow of it. They're reversing and rounding to. See them drift off! They're excited and all aback about something. Heavens! See that thing shoot up! It's some sort of helicopter, I believe—and the girl's alone in it, captain! Alone, I say! Why did they— She's lost control—she's lost! It's shooting over this way and coming down! It will—it will— My God! My God!"

The thing parted from the great aeronat was a little speck topped with a broader, mushroom shaped shimmer which Carson knew for the revolving blades of a helicopter, that insidious toy that promised so much for the conquest of the air. Then, as though released from the pull of gravity, it shot skyward, leaving the silver airship far below, as a fly might speed from a floating bubble. The two spectators drew their breaths sharply in, their hearts frozen in fascinated apprehension.

They saw it rise skyward like a boy's dart until they shuddered at the abyss that yawned between it and the earth; saw it struck by the far advanced loftier vanguard of the north wind predicted by the fisher captain; saw it hurled southward before the blast like a feather.

The Condor had a name. She was the Roc, owned by Mr. Finley Shayne, and her home port was Shayne's Hold, in the Catskills. Those who are familiar with the scope, power and spectacular success of Mr. Shayne's operations in aerostatic power stocks in the latter part of the first quarter of the present century will surmise that the Roc was the finest product of the art of aviational construction up to that time.

This fateful morning she had moored in the aerial harbor at Mobile, in her berth hard by the lift near the Bienville statue. Mrs. Shayne, a native Mobilian, pleaded indisposition, but went out to see some old houses dear to her youth. Mr. Shayne and their guest, Mr. Max Silberberg, had insisted upon the presence of Virginia Suarez, Mrs. Shayne's niece, on a trip down the bay in the Roc to witness the demonstration of a new flying machine, and she had yielded. The inventor, Wizner, a suspicious, foxy, middle aged man, proved objectionable to Miss Suarez because his thumbs turned back so far that the sight of them made her feel creepy, and as he gesticulated freely while denouncing all devices for aerial navigation except his his thumbs were much in evidence.

Virginia wished Wizner at her side, crooked thumbs and all, for no thumbs or voice could be so offensive as the unrelieved presence of Mr. Silberberg, the head of the Federated Metals concern, controlling the copper, gold and silver output of a continent.

She felt herself thrown at his head by her aunt.

"So you think, Aunt Marie," she had said, "that Mr. Silberberg is one of the great ones of the earth?"

"Most certainly," rejoined Mrs. Shayne. "He is retaining and increasing the enormous wealth and power he inherited. To do what he is doing takes a great man. Your uncle will tell you so."

Silberberg made the hay of courtship in the sun of opportunity. Virginia pondered on her aunt's standard of greatness.

"Where's Uncle Finley?" she asked. "We are getting a long way south."

"Giving the helicopter a private examination," replied Silberberg. "It is a happiness to me that he is. But the inventor would go wild if he knew the sort of expert his precious machine is alone with."

"Wild!" repeated Virginia. "Listen even now."

Above the purr of the screws came the angry voice of the inventor in the engine room abusing the Roc's second engineer for some remark derogatory to helicopters. Already he was quite wild enough, Virginia thought.

"Why don't we try his machine?" she asked. "Must we go out over the gulf? Isn't the bay big enough?"

"Mr. Shayne wants to pick up a specialist at the fort," replied Silberberg, "the man who wrote up the Chinese war aerostats. He's here on some aeronautical business for the army."

The Roc circled to the west to avoid the inhibited passage over the batteries and stood east along the beach. Wizner abandoned his quarrel and came forward to make the test. He set the helicopter on the deck, where it stood unsteadily on its slender bamboo legs, its painter hanging over the rail, its top crowned by the screw wings, slanted a little outboard for the launching.

"How will you get her off, Wizner?" asked Mr. Shayne.

"Easy enough," answered Wizner tartly.

"Maybe we'd better make a descent for you," suggested Silberberg. "It may be one of these terrestrial helicopters."

"I'll ask when I want you to go down," replied Wizner, glaring. "You will see whether it's a ground machine or not. May I take down a section of that rail?"

"Certainly," answered Mr. Shayne. "But don't let the helicopter topple off. It might fall on a fisherman. What are you doing, Virginia?"

The girl had stepped forward as if to take a seat in the little cane car of the helicopter.

"Let me sit in it," said she. "I want to imagine how you feel when you get out into space."

"I wish you would," said Wizner. "It will hold her still. It's perfectly safe."

Virginia, laughing at playing paperweight, entered the car.

"Which is the clutch lever?" she asked.

"This," said the inventor, pointing. "I'm going to the engine room. When I come back I'll show you how it works."

Mr. Shayne went aft with Wizner in animated conversation, leaving Virginia in the throbbing car. The rail had been removed, and a little push would have been quite sufficient to shove the girl and the machine overboard into the empty air. The thrill of the vibration, the sense of risk or the intense gaze of Silberberg made her face flush. He had never seen her so charming. She laid her hand on the clutch lever.

"I could move this lever a little," said she, "and fly away. I feel as if I should fly."

"I shall not let you," said he. "I shall hold you!"

"Mr. Silberberg!"

The rebuke was evoked by his putting his arm about her. One white, jeweled hand was slipped behind her, the other laid on her arm, the oily perfumed curls stooping until the red lips approached hers. Perfectly aware of what she was doing, but quite reckless of consequences, Virginia pushed the lever, threw in the clutch—and the wings started. The pull of the vivified mechanism drawing him out to death made Silberberg's very fingers tingle with terror, and he let go girl and car and leaped backward. Under the lift of the wings the car dragged to the edge, slipped off with a grating sound and swung there in midair, the painter dangling almost within reach 300 fathoms in the air, supported only by the spinning helices driven by an engine that one man only knew how to manage, and he as far removed from it potentially as if he had been in Mars!

The girl's hand trembled so that she could not hold to anything, no matter how she tried. At last—it was over in a moment—more by accident than design, she moved something. With appalling velocity the thing shot upward; the aeronat fell away toward the earth; the fisherman's house far beneath was whisked down to the littleness of a toy. The air struck her face, blowing downward more and more chill. Overhead the screws hummed implacably, the only sound she heard.

She studied the machinery, trying to apply her picked up knowledge of engines. Here was the thing with which to stop it, she felt sure of that, but to stop it suddenly was mere suicide, a swift fall to death.

She was growing calmer now. It would surely slow down of itself, she reasoned, and if it did not—well, she had escaped from Silberberg anyhow.

And then the north wind struck. The puff smote her cheek. The helicopter yielded to it and swept southward like a feather before a fan. She was blowing out to sea. She reached out to stop the engine, but the vision passed through her mind of falling—falling like the stick of a rocket, being dashed to pieces on the earth.

Then a voice seemed to speak in her ear from the chill solitude, senseless words, as of one stammering, like the phantasms of voices heard in the delirium of fever, finally growing distinct and repeating over and over a command. "Retard the spark!" it said. "Retard the spark!"

The Roc was far below and to the north now. The gulf breakers foamed nearer and nearer and still rang in her ears the ghostly command, "Retard the spark!" She tried to remember about engines, but this one was so different! Aimlessly she put her hand out, touched a little sliding thing and paused. She moved the sliding thing and thought the buzz of the helices less strenuous. The roar of the breakers swelled in her ears like the crescendo of some tremendous, uprushing music, and she realized that she was falling in a great parabola that might carry her into the sea or might dash her upon the driftwood and wreckage of the beach.

Suddenly the machine careened, and she thought she had struck, to be dashed broken on the ground, lost. She had not seen Theodore Carson on that highest dune, but he had grasped the painter as it dragged over him, and it was he who had thrown the flying machine from its level swoop, even as it jerked him down the dune, with Captain Harrod clinging to his legs, dragging them almost to the water's edge. The car swung horribly, and finally, spilled from it by its careening, there fell out of it a mass of red hat, crimson scarf, pique and silken fallals. The helicopter tore loose and fled out to sea before the gale.

CHAPTER II.

A HOSPITABLE BANDIT.

THEODORE CARSON stared for a moment in amazement at the prostrate girl, then took her tenderly in his arms, carrying her toward the hidden cabin. At the steepest spot Captain Harrod overtook him. But the young man paid no heed to offers of aid, wading steadily on to the door, which the captain unlocked and opened, standing aside for Carson and his interesting burden. Theodore took her into the large single room and laid her softly on a clean looking bed.

"She is dead!" said Theodore in a hushed voice.

"Is her heart beatin'?" the captain inquired.

"I don't know!" cried Carson.

Carson laid his ear lightly to the white blouse. Some fluttering he seemed to feel, but he could not be certain. Harrod brought water in a watering pot, which he seemed to have planned to use as upon a lily or rose.

"Do it beat?" he asked.

"I can't tell," said Carson, "nor whether it's my pulse or hers that beats. Oh, I wish—what do they generally do, captain?"

"They's some paht o' they frock that always has to be unrove, ain't they?" inquired the captain anxiously.

"Captain," said Carson, the perspiration standing on his brow, "I'm going out on the gallery for air. You do what has to be done, captain—or she may die!"

"Put some watah on huh face, suh," said the captain, in judicious avoidance of extreme measures. "Ah don't reckon this hyah's a case fo' vi'lent o' onconse'vative remedies. I'll oncork that ha'tsho'n bottle!"

Carson pressed a wet towel to the girl's face. The captain held a bottle labeled "ammonia" to her nostrils. She gasped, drew a quivering sigh and opened her eyes. The older man was looking at her in a fatherly way, and the young one was sponging her forehead, his face near hers. She sat up suddenly.

"You have had a fall, madam," said Carson, "and are shaken up a little. But you are safe and among friends."

"Oh, thank you," she said, in a tone of the most correct formality. "It's ever so kind of you, sir. I—I—I— Oh, I thought I was lost! I thought I— Oh! Oh! Oh! Oh! O-o-o-h!"

Suddenly, from the polite commonplaces of speech, she broke into hysterical screaming. Captain Harrod poured a stiff glass of red liquid from a bottle, diluted it and took it to the shuddering girl, who looked pathetically up into his face for a moment, swallowed it obediently and coughed as if strangled by it.

"And now," said Mr. Carson, "we will leave you, if you will excuse us. Please feel at ease. You are quite safe, and the cabin is yours. We are in all ways at yo' service. The captain here is my friend, and we belong to a race that sees a sister in every helpless lady. I think you will desire to sleep, and I hope you may awake refreshed, after which we shall place ourselves mo' definitely under your command."

She looked at him questioningly. The softness of his voice, his little inconsistent lapses into dialect as he uttered the old fashioned chivalric sentiments, won her trust.

REPUTATION and VALUE

EXEMPLIFIED IN THE

Hallet & Davis

It goes without saying that a piano with a fine reputation must have merit to sustain that reputation.

Reputation is not, can not be matter of chance. The exacting and critical demands of artists, musicians and a discriminating public must be met with real merit in the piano, and this takes many years to accomplish, for it must stand the test of time.

To have complete Piano Satisfaction you should have the Hallet & Davis for your piano.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

I have just been reading with interest the report of a Methodist Social Union dinner, down in New Jersey, where the topic discussed was "What Three Things Does Our Church Need?" The Rev. Dr. Anderson said the first need was "a positive experience of the New Birth as taught by Nicodemus (!) and enjoyed by St. Paul; the second, a belief in the Bible; and the third, loyalty to the Church as recorded in the Book of Discipline. Pastor Shoop specified a vital sense of personal responsibility, the assurance that the work of the Church is a man's job, and growing evangelism. The Rev Charles S. Kemble desired more people like those at present numbered among Methodists, larger activity, and an inspiring preacher. One layman demanded consecrated men, consecrated women, and consecrated children, as the three greatest needs, while another layman said that "nothing gave greater satisfaction than to be with God on the job." Mutatis mutandis, I think we can sympathize with all these utterances. You know the tale of the two American priests, discussing their Bishop in a railway train, oblivious to the Roman parson behind them; he leaned over, as they were entering the Broad Street Station, and said: "Gentlemen, you've convinced me of the validity of Anglican Orders by what you've been saying, which I couldn't help hearing, for 'tis plain that your Bishops are just like ours!"—The Living Church.

MOTOR CARS
Announcement of 1911 Models

IN announcing the Chalmers models for 1911, the most noteworthy fact is that in all vital features they remain the same as the cars that have created world's records for efficiency, endurance and speed—such as winning the Indiana and Massapequa trophies—blazing the way from Denver to Mexico City and mapping the path for the Glidden Tour of 1910. Trade papers last year gave the Chalmers the title of "Champion Cars."

The best evidence of Chalmers merit, however, is not the trophies won in tests of all kinds, but thousands of satisfied users, the majority of whom have the means to purchase cars of any kind.

Look over the list of automobile buyers in your own community and see if this statement is not true. Talk to some of the Chalmers owners; their enthusiasm will prove our claims.

In general, the greatest improvement on the 1911 Chalmers consists in refinement of detail, like the artist's final touch to the masterpiece. Lines have been beautified in body and fender, so that—viewed from any angle—no car, whether it costs $5,000 or more, affords more eye-delight than the Chalmers.

In detail—the curves just back of the tonneau doors have been straightened out, making the low, rakish, straight-lined bodies which every maker strives so hard to obtain. The seats have been lowered, adding materially to the riding comfort.

The tonneaus of both "30" and "Forty" have been made longer and wider. The fenders have been changed slightly, adding to the graceful appearance of the car and at the same time affording greater protection from water and mud.

The angle of the steering post has been changed slightly so as to allow more space between steering wheel and driving seat.

The battery box has been placed under the rear floor and a tool box big enough to hold a pump placed on the left running board, a change that every driver will praise.

New style carburetors are used on both motors and their economy and uniformity of operation under all conditions will surprise every buyer,

On the "30" we furnish a Bosch magneto, big new-style gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank and a special Chalmers top— all for $200 additional.

As in former years, the Chalmers principle is not to make as many cars as possible, but to make them as good as possible. Chalmers cars are built on a quality, not a quantity basis. We regret that we could not furnish cars of the 1910 models for all who wanted them. We fear that some may have been offended at being told they could not get the cars they wanted: It is sometimes harder to tell a man he can't have a thing than to show him why he ought to have it.

We would like to take care of everyone who wants a Chalmers car, and yet it is not our ambition to build cars in very large quantities; hence we would advise you to place your order early.

Deliveries to customers begin August 1st.

THE WORKINGS OF SATAN

Rev. Dr. Nicholson Tells Congregation How to Avoid the Evil One.

CHRISTIANS MUST BE UNITED.

Union Service at First Baptist Church is Largely Attended—Rev. E. G. Read Offers Prayer.

The first union service for the month of August was held in the First Baptist Church last night with the usual large attendance. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. George W. Nicholson, of Bridgeport, Conn., who was the supply at the Baptist church at the morning service. Dr. Nicholson was assisted in the service by the Rev. Dr. E. G. Reed, former pastor of the Second Reformed church of Somerville, who occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning. On ascount of the absence of the choir of the First Baptist church, there was no special music.

Dr. Nicholson took for his text the 31st and 32nd verses of the 22nd chapter of the Gospel according to Luke: "And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat. But I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not, and when thou are converted strengthen thy brethren." His remarks were in part as follows:

"The difference between a sinner and a saint is that a sinner must look out for his sins but a saint must look out for himself. And this is just what we find here in the case of Simon, who was a good man and whom the Devil was tempting with all his power. Christ always thanks people for their fidelity to him and, as we see here, the Saviour is admonishing Simon to be faithful. Lack of appreciation is one of the greatest sins in the world today and the world is suffering from the lack of little courtesies. Throughout His entire life, Christ always noticed any inattention in courtesy. And so it behoves us to be constantly on guard of our politeness.

"Satan had desired to have Simon to sift him as wheat, but Christ told him to firm in the faith for God never forgets his children no matter how hard the trial or how severe the tribulation. Do your little best. Tears from trials are bottled up by God and become sweet perfumes in the life beyond.

"Christ knew the Devil as a personality and knew his every plan and temptation. As in the case of Simon, Satan always aims to destroy the man through whom the most damage can be caused. So look out for yourself and constantly be on your guard for the Devil is a sly fox and never sleeps. Dr. Talmadge once said that more people fell after they were forty years old than under that age. Only 12 per cent. of the people of the world, who are over 65 years of age, are able to take care of themselves. If we Christians were only one half as shrewd as the Devil, we would have many times more converts for the Devil is constantly working for his aims, but we, I fear, are not.

"Like the boy in the water who is safe as long as he can keep his head above the surface, so are we Christians safe as long as we stand united with Christ, the head of the church. The brightest of characters are usually hewn from the rough edges of tribulation. Get out of Satan's company, live the only life worth living—the life of humble trust and faith in Christ, and everything will work out for good and the advancement of the kingdom of God."

SUPT. CONDICT REQUESTS CO-OPERATION OF PARENTS.

The annual excursion tickets were distributed at Hope chapel Sunday school, yesterday, for the outing on Saturday, August 13. At that time the superintendent, G. Herbert Condict, requested that unusual precautions be taken regarding children, especially about allowing them to go from car to car while the train is in motion. He asked that the parents co-operate with the committee in this respect.

Mr. Condict also spoke of the aviation meet to be held at Asbury Park at that time. The Plainfield Baseball Club will play the Asbury Park team that day, and the local team will accompany Hope chaped to the shore.

Mrs. A. H. Wilson, of Craig place, is registered at the Park View, Ocean Grove.

Miss Ethel Hudson, of Somerset street, has returned from an extended visit with relatives at Roslyn, L. I.

REV. MR. FINN GREETED BY FORMER PARISHONERS

Rev. A. E. Finn, former pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, but now of Rochester, Pa., preached in his former charge here, yesterday, and was given a cordial greeting by his former parishioners at both the morning and evening services. Last night there were more than two hundred worshippers at the service. Mr. Finn expressed his pleasure over the privilege of again talking to his friends.

Mr. Finn's morning topic was "A Name With a World-Wide Fame", and the evening topic was "Empty Vessels and How to Fill Them". The preacher is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore, of Grove street, for a few days. On Wednesday he will go to East Orange and from there to Jeffersonville, Pa., where he and Mrs. Finn are spending their vacation.

EDWARD M'NEE IN THE LEAD FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Edward McNee, starting from the half-minute mark, captured the fifth bicycle race held under the auspices of the Plainfield Cycle Club, yesterday morning. This puts McNee in the lead for the championship with 12 points to his credit. His time yesterday was 13 minutes and 15 seconds, which was fast considering the condition of the road. The race was run on the Mountain avenue course, the distance being five miles. William Drake, also with a handicap of one half minute, finished second to McNee.

George Simon, starting from scratch, won the time prize, doing the five miles in 13 minutes and 3 2-5 seconds. John Todd, also a scratch man, punctured his tire, but finished fifth, next to George Simon.

It was extra point day again yesterday, the winner making six points, the scond man three, and third and fourth men, one each, with two points for the time winner.

Robert Burns had a bad fall during the race and was forced to drop out. He har started from scratch and was going well at the time of the accident.

The summaries: First—Edward McNee (1½ min.); second, William Drake, (½ min.); third, Albert Brokaw, (1 min.); fourth, George Simon (scratch). Referee, Caspar Waglow; judges, Tony Perretto, Harry Hook, Percy Caruso and Herbert Alberts. Handicapper and timer, Jack Horner; judges of time, Frank Sheppard and Thomas Smith.

BORO. RECORDER DOLLIVER HAS A BUSY SESSION.

Aaron Reed, age 42 years, a laborer, living on Fritts place, was arrested Saturday night by Marshal Culver for being drunk and disorderly on Duer street. Reed put up a hard fight when arrested. In the borough court this morning Recorder Dolliver recalled the number of times he had been arrested for the same offence, and so Reed was given 30 days in the county jail.

Joseph Doyle, age 43 years, of 36 Warren street, was arraigned in the borough court this morning for being drunk and disorderly on Saturday night. He was arrested on Somerset street by Chief Weiss. Recorder Dolliver made it $3 fine or 3 days. Doyle took the days.

Clarence Smith, age 29 years, a machinist living in New York, was arrested in the borough Saturday night by Marshal Reinmann, for being helplessly drunk. He was released on five dollars bail, but failed to appear in court this morning.

Charles Westmann, age 33 years, who gave his residence as Madison avenue, was arraigned before Recorder Dolliver this morning on the charge of drunkenness yesterday. It was his first offence, and sentence was suspended.

SOMERSET COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING.

The August number of the Journal of the Medical Society of New Jersey contains among other interesting things the report of the June meeting by Secretary Dr. F. E. DuBois, of the Somerset county society, in which several member practicing in North Plainfield make reports on peculiarly trying cases of disease.

A memorial was presented by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan to the society on the death of Dr. H. M. Weeks. The memorial was ordered inscribed on the society's minutes and a copy sent to the family of the dead member.

Y.M.C.A. DEFEATS RAHWAY

Local Team Victorious in a Fast Game on Crescent Oval.

FREDERICKSON'S GREAT WORK.

Young Twirler Fans Twelve Batters and Does Not Give a Pass—The Contest Played in Seventy Minutes.

In one of the shortest and cleanest played baseball games that has been seen in this city for many moons, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team kept up its winning streak at the oval Saturday in taking the number of the Rahway Y. M. L. nine by the score of 2-1. As the score will indicate the game was an exciting one but it really should have been seen to have been fully appreciated. To be sure there were errors in the playing of both teams but they were not of the costly variety. There was nothing to delay the good clean playing and the time of the game was only seventy minutes.

The credit of the victory must certainly be handed to Frederickson. The "kid" was right there with the box work and the result might have been entirely different, if this young pitching phenom, that hails from the wilds of Netherwood, hadn't kept his head and arm working to their uttermost in the tight places. As it was Plainfield held its own after the first inning and when the Rahway pitcher eased up a bit in the seventh, the local association boys got to his delivery for three hits, two runs and the game. After that one bad inning, Hoblitzel was invincible and struck out the last three men in the eighth as though the Plainfield team had never gotten a smell of the horsehide.

Rahway started things moving in the first round. After Atkinson fanned the air three times, F. Hoblitzel reached the initial bag by beating out an infield hit, and then stole second. His brother came up and caught one of Frederickson's slow in-drops on the nose and sent the sphere riding out to left for a clean single, bringing his brother

J. C. WENDELL DIES AT SOUTH STIRLING

John C. Wendell, aged seventy years, and for more than sixty years a resident of Warren township, died at 9.20 o'clock last night at his home in South Stirling. He had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Wendell was born in New York City, and at the age of seven years removed with his parents to South Stirling, then known as Smalleytown. When he became of age he bought his father's farm, which he continued to work for many years. He sold it three years ago.

Mr. Wendell was a prominent Republican politician in the days of Culver Barkalew, and was also several times chosen a member of the township committee, as well as a delegate to various conventions. He was admired and respected by all who knew him. He was a member of the Mt. Bethel Baptist church for many years. Besides a wife, Mr. Wendell leaves two sons, John Wendell, Jr., and David Wendell; also two daughters, Mrs. Clark Mundy, of the borough, and Mrs. H. A. Moore, of Millington. The funeral will be held from the Mt. Bethel church, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the pastor, Rev. Peter Gibb will officiate. The burial will be at Mt. Bethel.

LARGE GATHERING AT NETHERWOOD CAMP

One of the largest audiences of the season attended the meeting yesterday afternoon at the pavilion in the Netherwood Fresh Air camp. So great was the attendance that many were unable to get into the building. The service, which began at 3:30 o'clock, was in charge of Benjamin F. Hadley, and the speaker of the afternoon was Rev. W. B. Hamilton, the assistant probation officer, of Elizabeth.

An innivation which not only surprised but pleased the audience was a choir of about twenty boys and girls of the camp. Their singing was one of the most touching things about the service. The familiarity of these children with the gospel hymns shows that this part of Miss Curry's work is carried on with hearts to appreciate their meaning and is developing some pretty voices.

Rev. Mr. Hamilton's talk to the young people was along the line of habits, the correction of evil ones and the cultivation of the best. Mr. Hamilton spoke with the feeling of one whose experience as assistant probation officer has taught what things young boys and girls ought to avoid.

Miss Sara Curry in a short address told of the sustaining power of Jesus Christ in the tremendous work of saving the little ones. The doubts and fears of the undertaking are burdens which He assumes and bears with her and her assistants.

The musical part of the service included a duet by "Patsy" Gleason, and Angelina Blakely assisted by the chorus, a duet by Mrs. John Manley and Master Raymond Manley and a solo by E. D. Young.

EARLY SUNDAY MORNING BLAZE ON PARK AVENUE.

A fire broke out in the basement of Louis De Brigard's store on Park avenue, Sunday morning at 1 o'clock. The blaze was discovered by G. T. O'Malley, who was passing by the store and who immediately turned in an alarm from box 13. The blaze which was among a pile of picture moulding, was put out after half an hour's work with a stream from the chemical engine.

The fire did no damage to the building and the loss to the stock was slight. The origin of the fire is unknown, although the blaze started in the rear of the cellar near the dark room.

Arrested on Assault Charge.

On complaint of Conductor John Kiely, of the main line trolley, LeRoy Gwyer, of 21 Albert street, was taken into custody by Roundsman Higgins at 10:15 Saturday night, and this morning, on request of Gwyer's counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, the case was put over until next Monday morning for a hearing before City Judge Runyon. Kiely claims Gwyer assaulted him.

PLAY ANOTHER TIE GAME

Plainfield and Morristown Teams Engage in Twelve Inning Contest.

BOTH SIDES SCORE TWO RUNS.

It was a Pitchers' 'Battle After the Second Inning—McLaughlin and Nelson's Work Prevented Defeat.

Not content with a sixteen inning drawn battle last Saturday the Plainfield Baseball Club played the Morristown A. A. to a twelve inning tie at Morristown Saturday with the score at the end 2-2. As in the game with the McNulty team, darkness stopped the contest, after three extra innings to decide the outcome. It was a battle between southpaws and as far as statistics are concerned, Warry McLaughlin was worsted. But statistics do not decide the result—that is counted in actual runs. Geo. Lacey, the Morristown slab artist was in rare form, allowing only three hits, four bases on balls, and striking out 17 of the Plainfielders. Even with all this, the local boys managed to tie the score and hold the score for three extra rounds.

As was the case last Saturday, Warry was a bit off form in the opening inning and the Morristown team squeezed in two tallies before the local boys and Warry had gotten themsives warmed up. It happened like this: Doyle was hit on the knuckles by one of Warry's speedy in-shoots and reached first in safety. Maloney then singled and Doyle came in with a run when Dempsey grounded to short. Dempsey then stole second and reached third when Maloney was caught at the plate. Lyons brought Dempsey in with the second tally when he sent a screaming hit into left field.

In the next inning, the Plainfield boys came back with one tally. "Big Six" Nelson, the star catcher of the Plainfield team and the hero with the bat at the Scotch Plains game, banged out a long hit into the tall weeds, thus losing the spheroid and trotting home with the bacon and gravy. Jim Emery came across with

BABY CAMP SERVICES LARGELY ATTENDED

The meeting at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp yesterday afternoon took the form of a service of song conducted by friends from the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school. Superintendent George E. Hall was in charge of the service, which was enjoyed by the children and mothers now at the Camp, and the visiting friends from Plainfield.

Mr. Hall talked to the children in his usually happy wal, after which was rendered a program of music including two solos—"Face to Face" and "Suffer the Little Children"—sung with marked sympathy and sweetness by Mrs. Robert Humpston; Whitney Frazee gave two cornet solos—"Somewhere" and "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown"—while several selections were rendered by a chorus choir including Mrs. Robert Humpston, Miss Adelia Runyon, Mrs. Gerald Ollif, Miss Arline Brown and Miss Florence Hawkins and Robert Hunpston presided at the piano.

The service was held on the spacious porch, which made it much easier for both speakers and singers It was an ideal day for a mountain climb, and a number of people manifested their interest in the service by walking to and from Plainfield. Mr. Hall made two trips up the mountain with his automobile to convey friends to the Camp who were to participate in the meeting This was the first service on the grounds this summer and was greatly enjoyed by the children.

These meetings are to be continued throughout the August, and next Sunday's program is to be in charge of Mrs. J. A. Powlison and others from the First Baptist Sunday-school.

Rahway, 16; Scotch Plains, 3.

The Rahway Baseball team took the masure of the Scotch Plains nine at Rahway, Saturday afternoon and did the trick up in good shape to the tune of 16-3. It was a decided off day for the Scotch Plains players. In the absence of Slocum, Manager "Joe" Alberts did the twirling for the Scotch Plains boys and he got his bumps for fair. Poor support also helped along in the defeat of Albert's team.

Runyon, who seeks the nomination for Congress to succeed Charles N. The meeting will be held in German Parish Hall, Third street and Broadway, and the committee in charge has planned an interesting time. Important issues will be discussed not only by Judge Runyon, but by Mayor Victor Mravlag, Assemblyman A. W. Schwartz and Llody Thompson and R. B. Cissel and W. B. Timms. There will be music by the Dixie Quartet, of this city.

PLAN TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION SEPT. 21

Trenton, August 8.—According to present plans, the Democratic State convention to nominate a candidate for Governor will be held in Taylor's opera house in th's city, September 21, the day following the Republican convention. Charles H. Gallagher, Mercer county member of the Democratic State committee, who was appointed chairman of a sub-committee to arrange for the meeting of the State convention, has found that the twenty-first is the only date open and available for the Democrats.

The chairman has advised James Nugent, chairman of the State committee, of this fact, and it is expected that the call for the convention will be issued before the end of the month. The understanding is that the State committee will not meet again until the night before the convention when the members will decide upon the temporary organization of the convention.

GAVE PATROLMAN A RUN AFTER ASSAULTING FRIEND.

John Jordan and James Saunders, of the West End, got into a dispute on Saturday night over what was alleged to be a game of craps, with the result that Saunders was the recipient of a cut over his left eye. Each was fined five dollars this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon.

Jordan gave Patrolman Flatley a run for his prisoner but he was finally landed at Rockview avenue, in North Plainfield, where he almost fell from exhaustion. The race started at the corner of West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue, and led through New street to Front to Somerset and through various thoroughfares in the borough.

Neither man appeared to want to tell what the fight was about. In fact, Saunders said that he and Jordan had always been friends and never, never disputed with each other. But the patrolman learned afterwards that the two men had been engaged in crap shooting and that they came to the fighting point when Saunders taunted Jordan by jingling the coin won and using insulting language.

SALVATION ARMY WILL WELCOME ENSIGN JEHU.

The meeting at the Salvation Army tent tomorrow evening will be in the nature of a welcome meeting to Ensign and Mrs. Jehu, who have recently taken charge of the work in Elizabeth.

The ensign and his wife are very successful officers and are highly esteemed wherever they go, and a very profitable time is looked forward to on this, their first visit here. They are both musical. They will be accompanied by several members of the Elizabeth corps.

CAMP BOYS VICTORIOUS

IRISH HELPED THE DUTCH.

Many Spectators, Much Enthusiasm, Rollicking Fun and Watermelons Galore—On Saturday.

The Fresh Air Camp at Netherwood was a lively spot Saturday afternoon. The Young Giants from New York, guests of the Camp, defeated the Roselle Stars in a baseball game by a score of 8—2. At the end of the eighth inning it sounded as though Bedlam had broken loose, and there was good cause for all the noise, for the Netherwood boys had won a second victory over the Stars.

It must be said, however, that the young "Stars" from Roselle are no mean players.

When Umpire MacIlravy, Spuperintendent of the Boys' Camp, and coach of the baseball team, called for "batter up", it surely was a sight long to be remembered by those not familiar with the manner and methods of these young New Yorkers. It didn't take long for the Giants to shut out the Stars. "Shorty" Ott, the Tom Thumb of the team, was first at the bat. The clever young pitcher from Roselle, Charlie Black, kept Shorty guessing for a while, but soon Shorty managed to slam out a two-bagger and then it sounded as if all the gods of happiness had bestowed their richest gifts on the young people of Netherwood Camp. They hugged each other, rolled on the ground and laughed and cried for joy when young Goldschmidt, captain of the team, made a two base hit which brought Shorty home and gave the Giants their first run. Enthusiasm ran high and even the babies seemed to know that their big brothers had done something clever.

The pitcher evidently sized up the next man at the bat as easy, but he didn't know the qualities of the Irish lad, Patsy Gleason. As he stood at the home plate, his orange and black stockings showing up brilliantly, but over his shoulder, Patsy had a determined expression on his freckled pug-nose face, as much as to say, "Who said the Irish couldn't beat the Dutch?" Patsy soon proved that the Irish can't be beat and put the ball out in the field, which brought his "Dutch" friend home.

Mary Miller, one of the girls of the Camp, a typical East Sider and official score-keeper and bouncer of the team, declared that the ball was afraid of Patsy's face, saying nothing of the Orangeman's colors on an Irishman's legs, and so just flew away of its own accord.

The next batter, Charlie Ott, the "Master of the Horse" did some great sliding when he stole from second to third. The shock he received would have stunned any ordinary boy, but then the spectators recalled that he is an "East Sider", one of Miss Curry's boys, and the only thing that will hurt one of his kind is when they realize that "Mama Curry" feels badly because they have disobeyed her or betrayed her confidence, which is very seldom, from all reports.

It is on such occasions when these boys prove how deeply rooted is their love for their "Little Mother". They too feel badly and their usual smile and happy voices give way to looks and tones of sincere regret and grief until they have made amends and been forgiven. It was remarked by several spectators how little arguing there was among the boys. They knew the rules, were well trained and insisted in a gentlemanly manner that their rights be respected.

"I never realized what a great work this Fresh Air Camp was until this summer," said one prominent man from Plainfield. "Just think! here are nearly three hundred and fifty boys and girls from the congested sections of New York city whose surroundings are such as to make the ordinary man shudder, and yet there hasn't been one profane word pass their lips and little or no slang. I can hardly believe it and yet I see it every time I visit the Camp."

When the last inning was finished the Netherwoods gave the Roselle boys a hearty yell and both teams were anxious to show their regard for each other. A swim in the swimming tank and a watermelon feast concluded the day's jollification and well might Miss Curry and her associates say "Lord if we may, we'll serve another day."

The teams will play a return game next Saturday at Scotch Plains.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Thomas Sellers captained a ball team of pick-ups from town, who journeyed to Snug Harbor, Staten Island, Saturday afternoon. All kinds of stories were reported as to the score, but none seemed to agree. The score was said to have been 19 to 1.

Pleading guilty of robbing the Pennsylvania Railroad station at Pensauken of about $15 in cash and railroad tickets, Simon Clark, colored, was sentenced to the State Home for Boys in the Camden criminal court Friday.

An ice wagon of John S. Collins & Son, driven by John Keeley, backed into a Long Branch train while it was going through Morristown, Friday. The train, in charge of Conductor Harry Robbins sustained more damage than the ice wagon, the steps being torn off one of the day coaches and a portion of a vestibule was ripped off a Pullman car. In a few minutes the wagon was on duty again delivering ice to patrons, as if nothing had happened.

When a horse he was riding stepped in a ditch in that part of Camden known as "The Hill," Friday, Mounted Policeman Greenan was thrown on his head, but paid little attention to his injuries until his nose began to bleed. Even then he continued his duties for more than an hour before he consulted Dr. F. J. Bickers, who found internal injuries and ordered the policeman home. His legs and arms were affected by the shock and his spine injured.

Plans for the new municipal hospital in Camden were adopted at a joint meeting of the Board of Health and City Council, Friday. It will be a one-story brick building, 50 by 45 feet, connected by corridors with two wards each 80 by 13 feet, the wards running at right angles to the covered ways. All contagious diseases will be treated in the building except smallpox.

At the installation Friday evening of Rev. Dr. John Frederick Nicholas, as pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Haddon Heights, Rev. Walter L. Steiner was moderator. The invocation was delivered by Rev. H. Preston McHenry and the sermon by Rev. Dr. Frank J. Milman. Others who participated in the service were Revs. Henry Irvin Nicholas, Francis J. Collier and John W. Bischoff.

Pianos and Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually,

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

Newark's Most Important

August Sale of Furs

Quality and Style ¼ to ⅓ Less Than Regular

Special prices on good furs—¼ to 1-3 less than will prevail in regular season. Embodying every element of approved style or design by the leading fashion designers of Paris, London or Berlin, for the Winter season of 1910 and 1911. We cannot emphasize too strongly the need of exercising great care when selecting furs, so that one will secure essential quality and finish in so important a garment. At this store one can select with the assurance that nothing is skimped in order to grind the price down, to the ultimate lesser satisfaction of our customers. The keystone of our success in August sales for the past thirteen years has been set rather to a maximum of high finish and style at a minimum of profit to ourselves and manufacturers, in order to create a buying furore in a season ahead of actual wear.

BOUND BROOK WALLOPS DUNELLEN TEAM, 7-2

The Dunellen fans, who went to Bound Brook Saturday afternoon to see their team win, were bitterly disappointed, for the Bound Brookers swamped them to the tune of 7—2. It was a case of fielding errors by Dunellen and opportune hitting by their opponents that turned the tables on the boroughites. Both Ortlieb and Montross were effective but poor support lost the game for Montross.

Dunellen had sevral opportunities to bring over tallies with the bases full, but the necessary hit was not forthcoming. The six hits gleaned by the Dunellen team were far apart while Bound Brook clustered its swats at critical moments.

The featuers of the game were a home run swat by Pitcher Ortlieb and a throw from deep center by Nolan, a Plainfield boy, catching the runner at the plate. Shaw distinguished himself by clouting out three safeties.

The score:

home on the swat. The next two batters were easily retired on pop flies. After this one inning, the Plainfield box artist had his opponents completely at his mercy, striking out twelve men and allowing only three scattered hits. He had evrything that could be wished for in the line of curves and speed.

It looked very blue for Plainfield until the sixth inning, when the association boys began to find Hoblitzel's delivery. Then in the seventh round the winning runs were scored. Fritts, the first man up, laced out a screeching single through short stop. Then Ben Adams uncorked another safety into short center, Fritts taking third and scoring on a poor throw, drawn from the centerfielder. Taylor was also there in the pinch and brought Adams home on a Texas leaguer into short right. Of course, the fans went wild with ectasy and jubilation.

In the whole nine innings not a single base on balls was given by either pitcher. The support given by both teams was all that could be asked for when the pitchers were in tight holes. The work of both outfields was especially commendable. Peacock, of the Y. M. C. A. team, was the star batter of the game gtting a brace of singles, while pitcher Hoblitzel of the Rahway aggregation called forth the plaudits of the gallery gods for his fielding work. He had two put outs and five difficult assists to his credit.

PLAY ANOTHER TIE GAME

the other tally in the sixth. He reached second on Maloney's error, and then Jack Martin came up to the plate. Without asking any questions, Jack ripped out a two-base swat into deep center, bringing Emery home and tieing the score. But no one could bring Jack home with the winning run.

Warry McLaughlin improved as the game grew older and struck out fourteen of the Morristown batsmen. He only gave four free trips to the initial sack and kept the other side's hits few and far between. Jack Martin had a big day for keeps, with three put outs, six assists, and only one error. Emery seemed to have another off day, making two errors and failing to get a safety. Boyd played his usual fast game in center field, causing five Morristowners to die in his hands.

SHAVED MEN ON SUNDAY; FINED FIVE DOLLARS.

William Burns, a barber of Watchung avenue, contributed five dollars to the city treasury this morning for violating the ordinance which prohibits tonsorial diligence on the Sabbath. Burns tried to evade the law by doing the work in the hallway of his home, but Patrolman Andrew Saffron was not to be fooled by any such hiding place, and caught the barber in the act.

Patrolman Saffron told Judge Runyon that numerous complaints had been made against Burns for the offense and only through watching was he able to catch the barber at work.

The Youthfulness of Maud

"Not if I know it," said Maud with an unaccustomed flavor of slang in her voice and words. "Never again will I venture back to the home of my early youth."

"Why not?"

"Didn't you have a good time?"

"What was the matter with Glenville?"

The bachelor girls, who had gathered in Maud's pleasant rooms to welcome her on the evening of her return from a holiday visit to the country, asked these and other questions in chorus.

"Tell me, do I look very aged?" Maud inquired of them in turn.

"Aged!" repeated the chorus with the proper air of amazement.

"Our blooming Maud look aged! What a preposterous idea!" said one.

Maud smiled appreciatively at the author of this last reassuring remark. "Thank you, dear," she said. "Now I feel better. I was afraid that what I have recently gone through might have left traces of decrepitude. You see, my mind is now on the subject of age. Gray hair, round shoulders and dotage seem dangerously imminent. I only hope I'll be a real cheerful, nice-looking old woman."

"What nonsense are you talking?" "I'm not talking nonsense. On the contrary, I'm quite serious," she protested.

"You'd be serious," explained Maud, "if you had suffered an experience like the one I've had. You see, girls, I've been so awfully busy and so happy in my work that I never noted the passing years or reflected upon the fact that I am no longer 16. Even my birthdays haven't meant anything less delightful than candy, flowers and matinee tickets. I seem to have been singularly neglected about watching the flight of time. But all is different now—I've been to Glenville.

"The first blow I received was at the railway station when I was looking around for the man Aunt Sarah had promised to send to drive me over to Glenville proper, which is a few miles from the railroad.

"'You ain't Maud Stearns, are you?' doubtfully asked the only man in sight.

"'Yes, I am,' I answered, joyously.

"'Well, I seen you when you got off the train, but I didn't speak to you, because I wan't expectin' to see such a young-lookin' person. Ain't you Jedge Abel Stearns' girl?'

"'Yes,' I said.

"'I thought so. I was figurin' up your age as I was drivin' over here and as near as I could reckon it you was born in '76, the summer of the great centennial show in Philadelphy. I remember your pa went to it, but your ma couldn't go, 'cause you were too young to leave at home.'

"'You have a wonderful memory,' I remarked weakly, and earnestly hoping that the other inhabitants of Glenville were not so gifted in that direction.

"'Mercy on us, Maud!' said my dear old Aunt Sarah as she embraced me. 'You're a perfect wonder. I never saw any one change as little as you do. I declare, you don't look a day older than you did when I was in Chicago six years ago, and then you looked mighty young for a woman of 28. I don't see how you keep so fresh.' She held me off at arm's length and gazed at me admiringly and I could only smile and thank her—thank her for making me feel older than I ever had felt before in all my long life."

"You poor dear!" said her sympathizing friends.

"Oh, that was only a beginning. Every old settler remarked at my marvelous youthfulness until I began to feel like a centenarian. One of the neighbors asked me confidentially how I kept the wrinkles out of my face. Wrinkles, indeed! And the dear old doctor who took care of mother when she was a little girl said it did beat all how well preserved I was.

"But the last straw was the night that a cousin of my aunt's came in to ask me to 'look on' at a young people's dance. 'Not that you don't look as if you could still dance yourself,' she said when my face, I suppose, betrayed a little surprise at the invitation. 'You certainly are mighty girlish and spry for your age. Dear me, how times have changed! You know your mother's mother was a grandmother at 37, and you ain't even married at 33—or are you 34? But with your young looks you needn't give up hope yet.'

"I don't see how you stood it," said one of the girls, sympathetically.

"I didn't. I fled the place, inwardly vowing never to go back until my hair is snow white. Now, girls, if you love me, don't ever tell me how young I look. It would be more than I could endure—at my age."

Victorious Youth.

At 29 Scipio gained the battle of Zama, Watts revolutionized the industries of the earth by making steam the most powerful agency in the progress of mankind, Josiah Wedgewood discovered the secret of making the china which bears his name, and Shelley died after enriching the world of literature with his unrivaled poetry.

IS THE PRICE SOME PAY FOR LOVE WORTH WHILE.

Somewhere a poet has used the phrase that clings in the memory, "The price of learning to love." It in a phrase to ponder over. We pay a price for so many things—freedom, health, happiness. Must we even pay a price for learning to love?

Some women seemingly pay no price. Love comes to them without obstacle or fret. He stays with them happily and it seems to the outside world as if trouble or misfortune never comes to their door.

With others, however, sorrow comes with love. They pay a heavy price for learning to love. Is it worth the price? Or do they pay too much?

Many a woman has given a man all the love of her heart and devotion of her life to awaken some morning to find him gone with another woman and her life's happiness a wreck.

Another discovers the one whom she honors and trusts and loves to be dishonest, to have dishonorably appropriated other people's money. Her home is a ruin, herself and children are disgraced; worst of all, she has broken her box of precious ointment unworthily.

The years bring to another a drunkard in place of the man she has loved—a man who debases himself to all that is low and disgusting, who, perhaps, even abuses her, whose sin is visited on their children in the form of disease, perhaps for life.

Have these women paid too high for love? Would it have been better enrich and ennoble any life it enters.

If they look at the immediate present, when they sit among the ruins of their life, they may say yes. But love in itself is so pure and beautiful a thing that it cannot but nrich and ennoble any life it enters. The nature of the woman who loves is broadened, deepened. She touches the experience of all mankind. She gains a greater human sympathy. She knows through love the heights and depths of life. It has taken her to the mountain tops. If it also takes her to the valley she should not repine. It is worth while, provided that when it does depart she does not let go the good and the beauty it has brought into her life. If she sits among the ruins and sees nothing but ruins, if she lets the experience warp her life, then, perhaps, she might have been eventually a better woman not to have loved. But if, in spite of all the trouble that may come, she clings to the good that love has brought, she cannot but be a finer woman for love's coming, no matter how great the price she paid.

YOUR WINDOW DRAPERY.

The better the curtains the better the case. All window curtains require the personal supervision of the housekeeper at this season of the year, whether they be of lace or merely some plain sheer material.

In the eyes of the artistic home decorator those of plain surface are more to be desired, and certain it is that they need just as careful laundering as lace.

The first thought in taking down of sheer curtains is that little brass rod, which will tear the hem unless the housewife's own hands remove them from their position.

They are now soaked in cold water and then wrung out and put into a second clean bath of clear cold water to take out the collection of soot and dust that was scarcely noticed while the curtains hung.

Now lukewarm soapy water, several baths for the constantly changing waters take the place of the washboard. Curtains should be persistenly soused up and down in their several waters, squeezed rather than rubbed.

Rinsing in clear cold water is again in order, and drying in bright sunlight is a necessity.

After the sheer stuffs have been well dampened and tightly rolled overnight they are ironed on a very large flat ironing table, with all possible thoughts for the grain of the goods.

The ordinary laundress will rarely take the trouble to renovate curtains with any degree of feeling for their material or for their future smoothness of outline.

It is altogether possible to so straighten the damp material, while beneath the iron, that it will hang in long straight folds instead of puffed ridges.

Curtains are folded or rolled. Lace curtains need a long roll on which to rest them over summer. Less expensive plain materials are folded and placed in a drawer or rehung, and invariably they should be pressed into long narrow folds and then lapped once across their length.

Length of the Limbs.

According to the result of many measurements made at the anthropological labratory in London, the right arm of human beings is, in a majority of cases, longer than the left arm, while, on the contrary, the left leg is longer than the right leg. Sometimes, however, the relative proportions are exactly reversed, but very seldom does perfect equality exist between the two sides. The tendency of the right arm to exceed the left arm in strength in somewhat greater in men than in women, while equality of strength in the two arms occurs almost twice as frequently with women as with men.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company.

"Ah'd lie down, ma'am," suggested the captain. "Ontil that medicine gits a chance to wuk. Goodby, ma'am."

Virginia lay back and closed her eyes, but the potion brought no drowsiness. Her face grew hot, and she knew her eyes would shine if she opened them with a brilliancy quite fascinating to the young man with the little black mustache. The fact that she thought of this startled her. Was she growing flighty with fever? Why this abnormal hilarity of spirits, in the exaltation of which all anxiety departed?

She rose and walked out unsteadily upon the veranda and saw Mr. Carson and the captain sitting idly just beyond earshot of the cabin. They came to her respectfully.

"I came out to thank you, sir," said Virginia flightly, "for your heroic behavior—heroic, romantic, mediaeval behavior!"

"I beg of you not to mention it, madam," urged Mr. Carson, with infinite solicitude. "But may I not insist upon your allowing me to escort you back to your room?"

The girl assented, and she was soon asleep.

Theodore made broth of one quail, peeped in to see if his guest were awake, served the broth to the captain and made more. The sun wore to the west, the last quail was cooked, the captain was providently gorged with alternate courses of bird and broth, when Virginia, very stately and very reserved, opened the door and walked out upon the gallery. Carson shrank back into the kitchen and shoved the captain into the breach.

SHE ROSE AND WALKED OUT UNSTEADILY UPON THE VERANDA.

"How do you do, ma'am?" he inquired solicitously. "Ah sho' hope yo' bette' aftah yo' sleep."

"Much better, thank you," she replied.

"We have some pahtridge broth, ma'am," he went on, "with rice, and a baked yam, and a planked green trout from the lake back hyah, and some coffee. Sit down, ma'am, and Ah'll suhve it."

The little table was spread on the gallery, its top made of the head of a derelict cask, its legs of barnacled sections of a boom. Virginia's head ached in dreadful similitude to the traditional feeling of the morning after, but the coffee fragrance was pleasant.

"You are too good," said she, accepting the chair. "I shall be glad to eat a little. Where is your—your friend?"

"He's sorefoot about," replied the captain. "Ah really don't know, ma'am. Won't you please take yo' coffee?"

The coffee was black and strong. The broth was a temptation, and she sipped with increasing appetite. Buttered yam and planked trout brought the meal to a triumphant end. Yet where was she, and how should she depart? Where was the Roc? Who were these men? The guns, the brass instruments that looked as if they pertained to navigation, the big windowless shed, all suggested things nautical, bold and nefarious. The kindness and courtesy of the rough looking fellows reassured her as to her personal safety. Yet if they were smugglers or freebooters how could they safely return her to the civilization of coast guards and constables? It was deliciously romantic—but how creepy!

She turned to Captain Harrod with an expression so agitated that he was somewhat startled.

"I wish you would say to the lieutenant," said she, "that I must see him at once if possible."

The fisherman analyzed this speech for perhaps a minute in absolute silence, then he said, "Yes, ma'am," and instantly produced Carson, who, so far as Virginia could judge, had been within the captain's sight when she had been assured that his whereabouts were unknown.

"You are," said the young man, avoiding any reference to her recovery, "doubtless wondering where your companions may be and thinking it strange that they have not returned?"

"It is strange," said she. "Something must have happened to the engines."

"No," said Theodore, "not that. They all but blew out to sea. They simply had to fight their way off toward Pensacola, where they must have made harbor. It was almost half a gale."

"And so—they went—and left me?"

"They really couldn't help it," urged the young man.

"It shows the sort of man Silberberg is," she cried hotly. "And now perhaps you will be so good as to help me to some conveyance to Mobile?"

"I have a boat on the lake," said Carson, "half a mile inland. There is a channel to Palmetto Beach. The boat and crew are at your service."

"I should prefer to walk, if you please," said she.

"Unless you have a day or two to spend in the journey I should not recommend the attempt."

"I know some people," said she, "at the Yupon Hedge inn at Palmetto Beach. Can you"—

"If we go at once," he replied, "you may be there for dinner."

"I am ready," said she, rising. "Let us go, please, immediately."

Captain Harrod led the way easterly alongshore to a spot where the shrub grew well down toward the beaten beach. They walked back between clumps of dark green rosemary, over a low place in the dunes, down to the dry, hard bottom of a former pool. They emerged upon a little irregular hillock and looked forth upon a strange tarn of inky water, its black waves crested with foam, like white plumes on funeral crape. The shores of this sinister lake were densely wooded by sullen ranks of pines and cypresses. Virginia gasped at sight of the somber mere. It seemed such an eery spot in which to be cast away with these strange men who lived behind closed doors and walked the sands as to leave no footprints!

"Haul out the launch, captain."

Why was the trim, speedy looking launch so completely hidden in the tall cane? The puldoos puddling in the reeds made sounds like prowling accomplices.

Miss Suarez swept haughtily to her place in the boat. Carson, with his eye steadfastly fixed on his engine, quickly shoved off.

"Evenin' to yeh," said the captain, still with one foot in the water, like a heron.

"Good evening," responded the young man.

Virginia said nothing. Carson, stealing a look at her, saw the flush dying out upon her face and a smile taking its place—a dimpling, spasmodic smile, accompanied by little quick dilations of the nostrils, as if Miss Suarez was desirous of indulging in a laugh, but saw no citable reason for so doing. She waved her handkerchief at the captain.

"Do you see," said Carson, pointing to the receding shore, "that the little hill at the landing is just a mass of shells?"

"Why, so it is, I believe," she exclaimed. "How came so many there?"

"It's a prehistoric kitchen midden," said this most extraordinary young pirate. "So many people lived there that they literally made a hill of the shells of the mollusks they ate."

"Indeed!" ejaculated Virginia, and after a long pause she added, "How odd!"

Mentally her speech was, "How odd that this young outcast should know about archaeology, or is it paleontology?"

It was easy to study him because he looked so religiously away from her. He was rather interesting.

He threw over the tiller to round into a little reedy cove, but instead of running ashore he entered a narrow creek, which he followed through such amazing tortuosities that the sun, low in the west, was now on the right, now on the left, sometimes astern and again dead ahead.

Their talk was verging upon the personal and therefore to be discouraged. How keenly observing he must be to detect in her cosmopolitan English the old home accent! She had supposed herself to be quite rid of it. She was quite recovered from her alarm and looked bewitching as they emerged from the narrows and shot out into the lagoon, the blue waves of which had subsided into round rolling short swells.

"Goodby," cried Virginia, looking back into the enchanted marsh. "Goodby! This is the world again!"

Carson was looking the other way with less persistence now. There was something mysterious in the charm of this girl's manner. Her goodby to the narrows seemed a subtle rapprochement to him. They were in the world, and therefore, figuratively, she let him come closer.

The lights of the hotels and villas along the north shore swept by them in a panorama of fairy illuminations.

"We have been very impersonal," said he. "May I introduce myself? My name is"—

"Oh, please don't!" she exclaimed. "Forgive me, but I'd rather not know."

"It is mo' interesting," said he, with a slow smile, "not to know. I shall always think of you as"—

"As the girl from Mars," she suggested. "I came tumbling down to you in a heap out of the sky."

"THE HOME GUARD"

We will exhibit this week a fine painting by that celebrated artist, Astley D. M. Cooper—"The Home Guard"—portraying Indian life as only Mr. Cooper can do it. See it by all means. Free lectures every little while.

We Are Selling Tremendous Quantities of

A. P. C. Washable Fabrics at 6½c Yard

They are melting away like mountains of snow—these thousands of yards of the product of the famed American Printing company's looms. The Fall sale began with 175,000 yards. The first day's selling broke all August records in numbers of yards. The second day beat the first in volume and in attendance. Tomorrow we should have another great day—one that you and we can be proud of.

The American Printing Company has attained a degree of perfection in the printing of cotton cloths that has been the wonder of the fabric world, and which has created a new era for cotton goods.

Hold up these fabrics alongside of their silken or woolen sisters and you will be astonished at the similarity—the printers have worked miracles in duplicating the most elaborate patterns and the most exquisite colorings.

And while so much art and beauty have been wrought into these cotton cloths, the great resources of the greatest print works have enabled them to accomplish the result wihout increasing the cost.

So it is possible for a woman to buy an entire dress of these beautiful printed fabrics for the trifling sum of 65c.

A. P. C. Fabrics are now most extensively used, not only for the simpler house dresses, wrappers and children's clothes, but for pretty kimonos and handsome princess and jumper dresses

UNFADABLE FABRICS

The colrs are absolutely unfadable, and can be washed over and over again without harm. The blues are dyed with pure indigo. The soft, brilliant colors are a delight to all who use these fabrics, and the patterns are so widely varied—there being no less than 420 staple and novel designs in this enormous collection.

Mission Furniture at Half

There seems no doubt but that the popularity attained by the mission type of furniture will be permanent, and that the mission pieces will always find favor in the homes of the moderately well-to-do as well as the wealthy. This does not mean exactly that we are going back to the simple life—as it was known in the days of the California Missions, which gave birth to the plain mission furniture—but that we appreciate the simplicity and utility of this kind of furniture, and that it appeals to the economical because of its durability.

We recently effected a purchase of about $2,000 worth of Straight Line Mission Furniture from a first-class manufacturer. The parts were all cut and outlined, but not made up. These have been put together especially for us and made up into Arm Rockers, Arm Chairs, Side Chairs and Settees. The quantity is limited—about 200 pieces—and they will be placed on sale Tuesday morning at half their real worth and will remain on sale until closed out at half price. You should come early and get best choice. Following is a brief description of what there is:

LEIGHTON CALKINS PLAYS FINE GOLF AT P.C.C.

Leighton Calkins played some fine golf at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, when in competition in the 18-hole match play handicap, he covered the last nine holes in 34, three better than bogey. He was tied with Dudley H. Barrows for first place, each posting a net score of 71. The match was watched with considerable interest. Mr. Calkins has just returned from his outing and while away, was several trophies in golf competition. These scores were posted Saturday for Class A and B players:

Dudley H. Barrows, 75, 4-71; Leighton Calkins, 79, 8-71; E. A. Lyon, 97, 25-72; P. C. Langdon.83, 10-73; E. P. Goodwin, 91, 15-76; R. G. Morse, 95, 13-82.

CLOSE COMPETITION AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

While there was a large field out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, only a few posted their scores in the weekly competition for the President's and Golf Club trophies. The point winners for the President's Cup were W. V. Bayard, Charles B. Morse and W. R. Faber, while the same trio scored points for the club trophy, scratch competition. Dr.H. K. Carroll, who recently returned from abroad, failed to score a point. The leading scores:

W. V. Byard, 96. 21-75; Charles B. Morse, 95, 19-76; W. R. Faber, 99, 22-77; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 97, 16-81.

NORTH BRANCH DEFEATS WEST END A. C. 9—1.

The West End A. C. baseball team, of this city, was overwhelmed on Saturday by the North Branch nine at North Branch. The score was 9—1. The local team was completely outclassed and its ragged work in the field, coupled with the heavy batting of the North Branch boys, are the causes of the disastrous defeat.

Riker, of Elizabeth, twirled for the North Branch aggregation, and only seven scattered hits were made off his delivery. Conshea, the Plainfield box artist, did good work, but twelve hits and seven errors were too much for him.

The score by innings:

West End A. C.—

North Branch—

GESANG AND TURN VEREIN BEAT ORIOLES HANDILY.

The baseball team of the Gesang and Turn Verein had an easy game with the Orioles on the Cricket field, Saturday afternoon beating them by the score of 14 to 6. Van Zandt, the old P. H. S. pitcher, was touched up for 16 hits. Eight errors registered by the Orioles made matters just so much the worse for Van Zandt. Luthman pitched good ball for the Turners after the second inning.

Score by innings:

"LET THERE BE LIGHT," DECLARES REV. SHAW

"Let There be Light" was the subject of an interesting discourse delivered at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning, by Rev. Edwin Shaw, of the Seventh Day Baptist church. He took his text from Gen. 1:3, and during the course of his remarks presented some forcible truths. Pastor Shaw made an earnest plea for light in the conduct of all municipal affairs, especially in the examination of all accounts, which he declared should be made public. He also made a plea for the removal of all screens in saloons and hotel bars, adding that the business should not be conducted behind screens.

Referring to the conduct of all public officials, Pastor Shaw said that their actions should be above board and all the publicity possible given to their acts. The preacher then made a strong religious application of his text. His remarks as regards municipal affairs were not personal in any sense, being general.

Joseph M. Sweeny, of 107 Liberty street, and Matthew D. Sweeny, of New York, were registered at the Poland Springs Hotel, Poland Springs, Maine, the past week.

Chalmers MOTOR CARS

Announcement of 1911 Models

IN announcing the Chalmers models for 1911, the most noteworthy fact is that in all vital features they remain the same as the cars that have created world's records for efficiency, endurance and speed—such as winning the Indiana and Massapequa trophies—blazing the way from Denver to Mexico City and mapping the path for the Glidden Tour of 1910. Trade papers last year gave the Chalmers the title of "Champion Cars."

The best evidence of Chalmers merit, however, is not the trophies won in tests of all kinds, but thousands of satisfied users, the majority of whom have the means to purchase cars of any kind.

Look over the list of automobile buyers in your own community and see if this statement is not true. Talk to some of the Chalmers owners; their enthusiasm will prove our claims.

In general, the greatest improvement on the 1911 Chalmers consists in refinement of detail, like the artist's final touch to the masterpiece. Lines have been beautified in body and fender, so that—viewed from any angle—no car, whether it costs $5,000 or more, affords more eye-delight than the Chalmers.

In detail—the curves just back of the tonneau doors have been straightened out, making the low, rakish, straight-lined bodies which every maker strives so hard to obtain. The seats have been lowered, adding materially to the riding comfort.

The tonneaus of both "30" and "Forty" have been made longer and wider. The fenders have been changed slightly, adding to the graceful appearance of the car and at the same time affording greater protection from water and mud.

The angle of the steering post has been changed slightly so as to allow more space between steering wheel and driving seat.

The battery box has been placed under the rear floor and a tool box big enough to hold a pump placed on the left running board, a change that every driver will praise.

New style carburetors are used on both motors and their economy and uniformity of operation under all conditions will surprise every buyer,

On the "30" we furnish a Bosch magneto, big new-style gas lamps, Prest-O-Lite tank and a special Chalmers top— all for $200 additional.

As in former years, the Chalmers principle is not to make as many cars as possible, but to make them as good as possible. Chalmers cars are built on a quality, not a quantity basis. We regret that we could not furnish cars of the 1910 models for all who wanted them. We fear that some may have been offended at being told they could not get the cars they wanted: It is sometimes harder to tell a man he can't have a thing than to show him why he ought to have it.

We would like to take care of everyone who wants a Chalmers car, and yet it is not our ambition to build cars in very large quantities; hence we would advise you to place your order early.

Deliveries to customers begin August 1st.

FRELINGHUYSEN ACCEPTS

State Senator Wants to Be the Republican Nominee for Governor.

TELLS VOTERS HOW HE STANDS.

Issues a Statement Setting Forth His Views on Public Questions —How State Affairs Should be Conducted.

State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan, known as the author of the automobile law bearing his name, issued a statement yesterday accepting the indorsement of the Republicans of Somerset county as the Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey this fall. The Senator's friends have been quietly booming him for the nomination, and they believe he has a good chance.

In deciding to accept the nomination, the Senator gave out this statement, setting forth his views on public questions:

It is my belief that the Governor should exercise as much, if not more, care in the administration of the affairs of the State as he would in the conduct of his own business

That the affairs of the State should be conducted in a business-like and economical manner.

That the transactions of every department, State, county and local should be checked and audited as carefully as a prudent man would his private business of similar magnitude, so as to deter, if possible, unscrupulous men from engaging in the service of the public.

That the laws should be strictly enforced to prevent individuals or corporations from resorting to improper methods to further their selfish ends.

That the industries of the State should be encouraged and its government should be such that it will be viewed with confidence.

That corruption or unfair conduct on the part of any public official should be exposed and all guilty parties punished.

That judicial appointments should be based solely upon ability and integrity, that the judiciary should be absolutely divorced from politics, and that political help or contributions by any of the judiciary should not only be condemned, but made a cause for removal from office.

That the selection of grand and petit jurors should be absolutely divorced from politics.

That the educational funds should not be decreased, but that negligence, extravagance and dishonesty in their disbursement must be stopped.

That the powers of the Public Utilities Commission should be enlarged, so that it can thoroughly investigate public service and quasi-public service corporations, determine all matters of difference between them and the public, including those relating to rates, and enforce such conclusions, as it may reach, subject to the right of the courts to determine if due process of law has been observed.

That methods should be devised to encourage the people to take a more active and direct interest in the selection of candidates and genrally in all public matters.

That the number of saloons should be restricted in each locality to a certain proportion of the population. that the excise laws should be revised so as to correct evils disclosed by the investigation of the Excise Commission, and that the laws should be fairly and impartially enforced.

Experience shows that revenues now derived from automobiles are not sufficient to repair the damage caused by them to our roads. Should we relieve residents of other states from the payment of any license, our revenues would decrease, the use of our roads would increase, and as a necessary result unless the automobilists of this State were called upon to pay a higher license, or unless the people at large were called upon to pay more for road repair than they now do, our roads would deteriorate and they would soon lose the reputation which they now enjoy.

That automobiles do serious damage to our roads is not open to dispute. All owners of automobiles should pay a fee and all who operate them should be licensed.

No change should be made until the people at large show a willingness to pay more than they now do for the maintenance of the roads, and until they express a desire to grant to automobile owners of other states the free use of our roads.

Schiller Brothers Resume.

Schiller Brothers, manufacturers of underwear in the Schepflin Building, resumed work yesterday with full force, following the recent fire.

FRANK SMITH RETURNS; PREDICTS G.O.P. VICTORY

County Chairman Frank H. Smith returned last night from his vacation spent in Rhode Island, and he is looking fine. He says that he never felt better and that he is ready for a hot campaign, the hotter the better it will suit him. While away, Mr. Smith has been keeping in close touch with political affairs in the county, and expressed the opinion today that the regular Republican ticket would be successful this fall.

Mr. Smith said that he was particularly well pleased with the chances for success of Judge William N. Runyon, who seeks the Congressional nomination, and felt sure that he would be the choice of the Republicans. Speaking of the entire ticket, Mr. Smith said that he was confident of success although he realized that the fight would be a hard one, not only in the county, but the Fifth Congressional district. Mr. Smith will attend the Republican rally at Elizabeth tonight when Judge Runyon will make his first speech of the campaign.

MANY NOTABLES TO ATTEND G.O.P. DINNER

The Republican dollar dinner to be held in Elizabeth in October under the auspices of the Downtown Republican Club, acting in conjunction with members of the Union County Republican Committee, will be the biggest and, according to members of the committee of arrangements, one of the most notable events of its kind ever held in the State. Those arranging for the big event feel confident that the chief speaker of the evening will be either United States Senator Lodge or some other Republican of equal National prominence.

Some of those present at a meeting held last night at which the various committees were appointed suggested that an effort be made to get Colonel Roosevelt to come to Elizabeth. Whether the former President will consent to honor the city by his presence at the dinner is a question. All the Republicans of note in the State, however, including Governor Fort, are expected to be present.

It was decided to hold the dinner on Thursday, October 6, at Turn Hall. Tickets will be sold only by members of the general committee of arrangements and will be placed on sale shortly after the Republican outing. Because the seating capacity of the hall is not more than 700, the committee has decided not to sell any more than 700 tickets.

The officers of the general arrangements committee are: Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, chairman; Edward Bauer, secretary; James White, chairman; Edward Bauer, Dr. J. B. Rowe, William Randolph and J. W. Crane.

Committee on arrangemnts—Sidney W. Williams, chairman; Henry Young and Charles Cox.

Printing—Georg Stewart, chairman; Edward Bauer and William Randolph.

Speakers' committee—Frank H. Smith, chairman; Robert J. Kirkland and Charles Wagner.

The reception committe will consist of the various committees, including the county chairman and the president of the Downtown Republican Club.

THE MISSES FARLAND ENTERTAINED LAST NIGHT.

The Misses Helen and Sue Farland, of East Front street, gave a farewell party at their home last night to Miss Jessie Billing, of East Front street, who sails for England in about two weeks. Fourteen young people enjoyed the evening, which was spent in games and music. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Among those present were the Misses Helen Farland, Sue Farland, Florence Yaeger, Barbara Peacock, Kathyleen Peacock, Jessie Billing and Helen Smalley, and Alfred Farland, Clarence Smalley, Ralph Taylor, Stanley Robins, Louis Van Zandt, John Britton, and James Peacock.

SEBRING NOT ENDORSED

North Plainfield Township Improvement Society Cannot Approve Candidate.

NOT A POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton and Mayor Smalley Address the Meeting—Lively Discussion About Telephone Service.

There was a large gathering of enthusiastic citizens at the meeting of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society at Texier's Mills, last night. Important business was transacted, several municipal affairs were discussed, and two stirring speeches were made, one by Mayor Newton B. Smalley and the other by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton.

William de La R. Anderson, president of the Society, called the attention of the members to the inefficient service offered by the New York Telephone Company, the so-called "Farmers' Service," which is put in at the reduced rate of $18 a year. According to Mr. Anderson, the telephone company had given practically no attention at all to complaints and had placed an unlimited number of instruments on each line. The president also said that the company had obtained its subscribers under the old system and had then changed over to the new system without proper explanation. Mr. Anderson said that he "escaped" this new idea and fortunately still continues with the old system.

Upon being asked to make some suggestions for the work and welfare of the society, Mayor Newton B. Smalley said that the principal thing for the improvement of that section was to have a good approach from Plainfield. The "Gap," according to the Mayor, is a natural beauty spot for such an approach and that with a broad smooth road built through this section, there would be little trouble in getting new residents there. The extension of Watchung avenue through David Mundy's place would bring innumerable benefits to the community. Mr. Smalley said that the township had been asleep for the past fifty years, the men holding office in that time, having used methods of two hundred years ago. And so there was much to be accomplished. The Mayor promised the society that if there was anything in the power of the borough or himself, which would be of aid in improving the conditions of the township, it would not be overlooked.

Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton made a forcible address on the subject of good roads in general. He told of a visit recently made to the mountains of Kentucky, where it has ben found that good roads are as essential as schools and churches.

President Anderson said in the course of his remarks that articles had appeared in the newspapers, which gave the impression that the society had indorsed Charles P. Sebring for sheriff. This was not so, Mr. Anderson said, for while the society wished Mr. Sebring success, it could not engage in political affairs.

The Greenbrook section claimed that it was not properly represented in the society, so a committee, composed of Messrs. Tetlow, Beetham, Fuchs, Shotwell, Sebring, Svolnack and Trust, was appointed to investigate the matter. A committee was appointed to look after the extension of Watchung avenue in the township. It is composed of O. B. Coates, Dr. C. A. Eaton and W. de La R. Anderson. The committee in charge of the road work at the end of the Somerset street trolley line, reported the work done.

Of four colored men who were arrested for fighting in the street only three were apprehended, John Jordan, one of the quartet having suddenly disappeared. Lacked a Quorum.

Owing to the lack of a quorum at the special meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which was called for yesterday afternoon no business was transacted.

EXPLAINS THE ATONEMENT

"Local Pastor" Parallels Mrs. Eddy's Words with Those of the Bible.

QUOTES "SCIENCE AND HEALTH"

Declares that Christian Science Denies the Bible Teaching of the Atonement and Every Christian Doctrine.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In a recent issue of The Daily Press, Mr. Coulson Fairchild wrote his second reply to the Rev. Mr. Broek, in which he stated that the "atonement" is a cardinal teaching of Christian Science, so much so that Mrs. Eddy has devoted forty pages of "Science and Health, etc.," to a consideration of it. It would have been less misleading if Mr. Fairchild had told us the exact meaning of "Atonement" in Christian Science. Even a Hindoo would very truthfully be able to say "I believe in the atonement, or the at-one-ment," but the at-one-ment would mean to him the losing of his individual life in the great ocean of existence. Atonement to the Christian means the very opposite. It means to him the eternal preservation and intensification of his individual life.

Let us then parallel the exact words of the Bible with the exact words of Mrs. Eddy on the atonement.

Mrs. Eddy in "Science and Health, etc.," says: "The material blood of Christ was no more efficacious to cleanse from sin when it was shed on the accursed tree, than when it was flowing through his veins as he went daily about His Father's business."

The Bible says:

"Without the shedding of blood there is no remission." Heb. 9:22.

"Having made peace through the blood of His cross." Peter 2:24.

"We are redeemed with the precious blood of Christ as of a lamb without blemish and without spot." 1. Peter 1; 18,19.

Note the contrast. Mrs. Eddy says she believes the Bible, and claims that it was her only text book. And yet she teaches that the shed blood of Jesus was of no special efficacy, whereas the Bible says that Jesus shed His blood for the sins of men.

Again Mrs. Eddy says: "One sacrifice, however great, is insufficient to pay the debt of sin." S. and H. 328.

The Bible says: "We are sanctified, through the offering of the body of Christ, ONCE for all." Hebrews, 10;10.

"But now ONCE at the end of the age, hath He appeared to put away sin by he sacrifice of himself." Hebrews 9;26.

That the atonement is something achieved through the sacrifice of Christ is the teaching fo the Bible." "We are sanctified through the offering of the body of Christ ONCE for all," but Mrs. Eddy says that ONE sacrifice, however great, is insufficient to pay the debt of sin."

Can anyone of even ordinary intelligence deny that in this there is a great contradiction?

Mrs. Eddy says. "Atonement requires constant self-immolation."

The Bible says: "We also joy in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom now we have received the atonement."

The atonement, then, according to the Bible is something we RECEIVE, but according to Christian Science it is something we WORK OUT. The clear teaching of the New Testament is that we receive the gift of the atonement and then grow in grace.

Mr. Fairchild says that the atonement in Christian Science means the reconciliation of men to God and not God to men.

Mrs. Eddy says: "That God's wrath should be vented on His Beloved Son is divinely unnatural. Such a theory is man-made."

The Bible says: "He made Him to be sin for us," i. e., a sin-offering, who knew no sin." 2. Cor. 5;21.

"He that spared not His own Son but delivered Him up for us all." Roman 8;32.

God, then, according to the Scriptures made His Son to be a sin for us. The Son was sinless but "it pleased the Lord to bruise Him," Isa 53;10. And we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God and afflicted." Why? That men might be healed of sin.

I am not anxious to prolong this discussion on Christian Science, but Mr. Fairchild has asserted so strongly Mrs. Eddy's belief in the atonement, that it seemed to me only fair to the general public that they should know the radical difference etbween the atonement as Christian Science teaches it and the atonement as taught in the Bible.

Christian Science not only denies

MISSING YOUTH FOUND

Tony Del Cippo Discovered Wandering in Fanwood by Deputy Sheriff Wright.

TAKEN HOME YESTERDAY.

Meeting Between Father and Son Pathetic—Boy is Slightly Demented—Just Wandered Away.

Tony Del Cippi, the partially demented youth who has been missing from his temporary home at Rahway, was picked up by Deputy Sheriff William Wright, of that city, yesterday, near Fanwood and was returned to his parents shortly afterwards by Chief of Police Kiely.

Tony was working on a farm near Potters Station on the Lehigh Valley road when he disappeared and rewards had been offered by his father for information leading to his recovery. Although not mentally sound, the boy is harmless, and was of considerable help to his parents. He disappeared on July 27 and up to yesterday no trace of him could be found.

While driving through Fanwood yesterday morning Sheriff Wright saw Tony emerge from the woods directly in front of him near Fanwood and, stopping his horse, asked the boy if he knew where his father was. The boy appeared dazed and could give no coherent answers to the question, but understood when asked if he was hungry.

The boy declared that a kind woman had recently fed him and that he was feeling all right. After a while Mr. Wright coaxed the youth to get in the buggy beside him and then drove direct to police headquarters in this city where Chief Kiely took care of him until he was taken care of.

Chief Kiely immediately communicated with Tony's father, who hastened to this city to recover his lost son. The meeting between father and son was pathetic, and the elder Del Cippo appeared to be overjoyed at recovering his wandering offspring.

On Saturday, July 30, late in the afternoon, Del Cippo was discovered by the sexton in the cemetery connected with the Presbyterian church at Woodbridge. The young man had slept in the cemetery the two previous nights. Del Cippo was taken before Justice Dunn. When questioned by the justice as to what he was doing in the cemetery, Del Cippo said, "I live there." Justice Dunn then asked, "Are you alive?" Del Cippo answered. "I took poison." Justice Dunn next inquired, "What have you been drinking, Moxie?" He then ordered that Del Cippo be put on a trolley and sent to Rahway, but did not send anyone with him or communicate with the Rahway police.

KNIGHTS ADOPT NOVEL PLAN TO AVOID CONFUSION.

The committee in charge of the annual excursion of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, to Asbury Park on Thursday, has arranged to have the excursion trains identified in a new and effective manner, so that excursionists on returning home will find it easy to tell their train from among the other excursion trains at the Asbury Park station. Two large signs in black and white, are being printed and they will be placed on the pilot or cowcatcher of the engine. The signs will bear the words, "Plainfield Excursion" and smaller cards will be printed for the passenger coaches, so there will be no delay waiting for the brakemen to announce the proper train.

This innovation was suggested to the railroad company by a member of the committee and appealed to the company strongly, so much so, that in the future all excursion trains will be designated in the same manner. Those who go on this excursion will have the rare opportunity of attending the aviation meet at Asbury Park, which opens tomorrow and will see many notable "bird men" flying through the air in the afternoon.

The excursionists will leave the shore at 7 o'clock instead of 6:30, as originally announced.

Outing Committee to Meet.

The committee in charge of the Republican outing to be held on Saturday will hold a meeting tomorrow night, when it is urged that a settlement be made for all tickets. Final arrangements will be made for the annual trip to Rockaway.

KLUGMAN AND CLEMENT ARE LET DOWN EASY

The case of J. S. Klugman and H. T. Clement, who, it was alleged, had attempted to defraud the City National Bank of the sum of $141, was heard this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon, and the two men were allowed to go on their own recognizance, subject to the inquiry of the October grand jury.

In addressing the court, W. S. Angleman, who appeared for Klugman, said that there was no intent to defraud the bank inasmuch as Klugman had visited the bank twice on the same kind of a mission, that of exchanging a check of Clement's for money, the first check having been cashed.

Judge Runyon took that view of the case and disposed of it as above noted. F. P. McManus, a lawyer of Jersey City, was on hand to look after the interests of Klugman, notwithstanding the fact that his case was in competent hands. Francis J. Blatz represented Clement.

The $200 cash bail which was put up by a New York reporter for Klugman was surrendered.

NETHERWOOD CHURCH TO BUILD A PARSONAGE

The Consistory and the advisory board of the Netherwood Reformed church, at a meeting held at the church, last night, decided to purchase the lot on the northwest corner of Leland and Midway avenues, and erect a parsonage thereon for the occupancy of the pastor, Rev. Royal A. Stout. The decision has been received with much pleasure on the part of the members of the church. When completed the parsonage and land will aggregate a cost of about $4,500.

The lot was formerly owned by George W. Cole, and is 50x166 feet, a good size for the kind of a dwelling to be erected. The house will be two and a half stories, the plans now being drawn by Fred Lancaster, the architect. It will have eight rooms, with all improvements. The pastor's study will be on the first floor to one side of the main hall, the parlor being opposite.

The Board of Domestic Missions of the Reformed Church in America will contribute $1,000 toward the building fund, which has been started. John Johnston, of 935 South avenue, is the treasurer of this fund. As the church is now a corporate body, the Consistory purchased the land and is arranging for the erection of the parsonage in conformity to the provisions of the corporation.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR PRESTON DUNNING.

"A miss is as good as a mile," the old saw says, and it was proved a fact last night at about 7.30 when Preston Dunning, the special delivery messenger of the postoffice slipped on his wheel in front of a main line trolley car near Proctor's theatre.

Dunning in trying to get across the street in front of the car started rather fast. His wheel skidded on the wet brick pavement and in a second he was nearly under the fender. Retaining enough presence of mind to roll out of the way he escaped injury. His bicycle, although it rolled under the fender appeared to have been undamaged, for as soon as Dunning could regain his feet he was up and away riding for dear life, none the worse for his mishap.

JACOB BERGEN A "DESERTER"; SO SAYS MRS. BERGEN.

Mrs. Kathryn Bergen, colored, of Grove street, appeared in Justice Snape's court this morning against her husband. Jacob Bergen, on the charge of non-support. Mrs. Bergen told a pitiful story of how her "hubby" refused to give her his weekly earnings, and was a deserter in general. Justice Snape decided the matter by telling Jacob that he would have to give his wife at least $3 a week hereafter.

Dismissed the Complaint.

A brawl between half a dozen Polanders occurred yesterday in which John Concor claimed he was struck with a pair of brass knuckles by John Kuzman. After hearing all the witnesses and an interpreter this morning Judge William Runyon dismissed the complaint made by Concor.

Will Attend Wedding Anniversary.

Mrs. Selma Klasen, of West Third street, wife of John Klasen, will leave tomorrow for Saxony, Germany, where she will attend the silver wedding anniversary of her father and mother.

NEW YORK'S MAYOR SHOT

Disgruntled Discharged Employe of Dock Dept. Attempts Assassination.

DEPRIVED OF LIVING, HE SAYS.

James J. Gallagher Fires Bullet Which Lodged in Mr. Gaynor's Head and Which May Prove Fatal.

Mayor William J. Gaynor, of New York City, was today shot four times by a crank, who said he was John J. Gallagher, as the city's chief stood on the forward upper deck of the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, at its pier in Hoboken. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken, where he is in a precarious condition. His assailant was beaten down and captured by a half-dozen men who hurled themselves upon him after Commissioner Katz wrenched the revolver from Gallagher's grasp.

The most instense excitement reigned on the steamer deck as the Mayor's friends wrestled with the assailant. Mr. Robert C. Adamson, secretary to the Mayor, warded off the first shot by the man, but Gallagher succeeded in breaking away and firing two shots at Mr. Gaynor before he was overpowered. Mayor Gaynor was removed to the stateroom he was to have occupied and the ship's surgeon treated him there until the arrival of the ambulance which removed him to St. Mary's Hospital, Hoboken. He was conscious when carried in a stretcher from the ship.

Happy in the prospective enjoyment of a respite from official duties for the next thirty days, Mayor Gaynor had made all the preparations for his trip abroad, and was bidding adieu to his friends on the pier at Hoboken, on board the North German Lloyd steamship, Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, when John J. Gallagher, a former employee of the dock department of New York, stepped up from behind some people close to the Mayor and fired four shots at his victim in rapid succession. Only one of the missiles took effect, but this was enough. The bullet struck New York's chief magistrate behind the right ear, and he fell to the deck.

Gallagher was quickly surrounded, and before he could make a move to get away was handcuffed and a prisoner. A call for an ambulance was sent in to St. Mary's Hospital in Hoboken, and in a few moments the injured man was upon the operating table, where the hospital staff endeavored to locate the bullet.

Gallagher made a statement to the police, which is in substance as follows:

"I came over to Hoboken this morning at about twenty minutes after nine and went immediately to the steamer pier. I went on board the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. There I met a clergyman and I asked him to point out Mayor Gaynor to me. He did so and shortly after I fired a shot at the Mayor. I do not know if I fired more than one or not. Knowing that Mayor Gaynor was going to Europe this morning to enjoy himself after depriving me of my bread and butter, not a porterhouse steak, I was irritated to the point of committing the act. The revolver which you show me is the revolver I did the shooting with. I don't know how many shots were in the revolver when I used it. I have had this revolver a long time in my possession. I carried it when I was in the employ of the city." The confession is signed "James J. Gallagher." Robert H. Bell and Daniel J. Kiely, of the Hoboken police department, are witnesses to the signature of Gallagher.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was stated by the surgeons at St. Mary's Hospital that the bullet had been extracted and that Mayor Gaynor now stood a better chance for recovery.

The shooting occurred on the port side of the upper deck of the big German liner and that it did not have immediately fatal results was due to the quick action of Robert Adamson, the Mayor's private secretary, who was standing nearby and who grabbed the would-be murderer's arm just as the first shot was fired.

Several friends of Mayor Gaynor who were standing where they could see the attempt on his life sprang forward at the first pistol shot and overpowered Gallagher, but not before the latter had had time to squirm around with the revolver still in his hand and fire two more shots at Mr. Gaynor.

The surgeon of the ship attended to the wounds of the stricken man until the hurriedly summoned surgeons from St. Mary's Hospital ar-

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Miss Kathryn Moynihan proved herself a heroine at Lake Hopatcong last week when she rescued Frederick J. Schleicer and Charles W. Thompson, of Brooklyn, from a watery grave. After an Italian wedding in the hall of the William G. Holton Council, Saturday night, the bridal party mixed up in a free-for-all scrap with some drunken Polacks at the loop near the car barns. Nearly twenty-five people were engaged in the fight, the origin of which is a mystery. The trouble ceased before anyone was injured but matters looked like warfare and bloodshed there for a while.

The Finderne baseball team took the measure of the Lincoln nine at Finderne Sunday morning and trimmed the sons of Abraham to the style of 11-5. Conover and Benson were the battery for the Lincolnites and Johnson and Elliott were in the points for the Finderne team. Two Summer Hints to Housewives

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

Preserving Kettles

We want to show you our complete line of Preserving Kettles both in aluminum and agateware—all sizes.

Your choice of either depends upon whether you want the lightest weight, aluminum—or medium weight, agate.

Both kinds are made by two of the most reliable concerns in the country.

The prices are very reasonable as upon all that we sell.

Use TIZ-- Smaller Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time. TIZ Makes Sore Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet—smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions can quickly make their feet well now. Here is instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy—it's called TIZ. TIZ makes sore feet well and swollen feet are quickly reduced to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes a full size smaller with perfect comfort.

It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists 25 cents per box or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended and sold by

CANDIDATES MUST FILE PETITIONS BY AUG. 24

But three weeks remain for the filing of petitions of candidates for State and county offices. All these petitions must be filed by August 24. Heretofore the candidates were not obliged to file the petitions until fifteen days before the primaries. Those intending to run for ward, township or borough officers must file their petitions with the municipal clerks fifteen days before the primaries, instead of ten days, as heretofore. The delegates to the State and Congressional conventions must also file petitions fifteen days before the primaries.

The above changes have been brought about through supplementary election laws passed last winter. Another change brought about by the same acts is that every municipal clerk shall deliver the ballot boxes at his office. Heretofore the law was simply that he had to deliver them, and it was never clear as to whether he was to take them to the election booth or merely give them out at the office. The new act does away with any uncertainty as to the intention of the law.

The primary elections will be held on the second Tuesday in September this year, instead of the fourth Tuesday in that month. The primaries are always held two weeks earlier when a Governor is to be elected, which accounts for the change this year. It fixes the date for September 13, instead of September 27.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Morgan Ashley, rector of St. Stephen's church, who is spending his vacation along the Hudson river, returned Sunday to take charge of his services. He left town again yesterday.

Rev. C. W. F. Attllee, the reporter-preacher, of this city, occupied the pulpit at Warren chapel, Sunday morning and evening, preaching two interesting sermons to large congregations. In the morning his subject was "Kept by the Power of God," and in the evening, "Strength Renewed."

The William N. Runyon Bible class of Hope chapel, is making a record in the way of attendance during the summer months. Sunday's attendance was thirty-two, the average for the past month being thirty-four. G. Herbert Condit, the chapel superintendent, taught the class Sunday. A business meeting has been called for tonight at the chapel at 8 o'clock.

Miss Bruguirere's Visitors.
Miss Mathilde L. Bruguiere, the vocal teacher, is entertaining at her home on East Front street, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Meyer, who have just returned from a tour of the artistic centres of Europe, including Italy and France, and Miss Emilie Bruguiere, of New Orleans. Miss Bruguiere's guests will remain with her during the month of August.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

DELEGATES OF UNION MAY SUPPORT LEWIS.

The outlook at present is that State Banking Commissioner Vivian M. Lewis, Republican candidate for Governor, will receive the suport of most of the Union county delegates to the State convention to be held in Trenton on September 20. Mr. Lewis is popular with the Republican leaders of Union. He was their guest on the outing of the county committee last year and will again be a guest of the Union leaders on the outing next Saturday.

Mr. Lewis, so far as can be learned, has the endorsement of nearly all the organization Republican leaders in this vicinity.

MEET AFTER SIXTY YEARS.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 9.—Mainly through the efficacy of a little advertisement in a Hartford newspaper, two long separated brothers have been reunited after the lapse of sixty years.

The principals in the reunion, which was held yesterday, were the Rev. Dr. Edgar F. Clark, of Providence, formerly of Taunton and Elwin Clark, of Butte, Mont., who is now eighty-one years old.

When Edward Clark left Hartford for the West, sixty years ago, he was one of eleven children, and now he has no relative but his new found brother.

Early in this year the Western miner, having made his "pile" and retired, began to think of his old home and his family. Then he inserted the advertisement, which was seen by some of his former acquaintances, and forwarded to the clergyman at his summer home at Martha's Vineyard.

Laughs and More Laughs.

The new show at Porctor's theatre is full of comedy, and the large audience last night enjoyed it to the limit. Anderson & Burt in "Home Sweet Home" present a drama of domestic bliss. Mole & O'Neill, comedy cyclists, are unusually clever. Frey & Fields, in "The Wrong Man" convulse the audience with laughter and the whole bill is one of the best yet seen at this popular house. Cool breezes constantly float through the theatre.

Dog Bites Postman in Foot.

While trying to separate a couple of vicious dogs that were fighting in front of his residence, 1029 Magnolia avenue, Saturday night, William P. Neafsey, an Elizabeth letter-carrier, was badly bitten in the foot by one of the animals. He wore only a pair of slippers and in making a kick at the dogs the slipper came off and the animal buried its teeth in the postman's foot.

HAYMAKERS' CONVENTION

Results of Seventeenth Annual Meeting Held in This City on Saturday.

LINWOOD H. SMITH, CHIEF.

A. E. Willard and E. I. Bowen Elected as Trustees—Street Parade and Vaudeville Performance Enjoyed.

The seventeenth annual convention of the State Haymakers' Association of New Jersey was held in the Hayloft of Wetumpka Haymakers' Association No. 229½, at 212-214 West Front street, this city, on Saturday last, about 400 visiting Haymakers from all over the State being present. Large delegations came from Bound Brook, Red Bank, Atlantic City, Trenton, Camden, Phillipsburg, Clinton, Somerville, Bayonne, New Brunswick, and among others, Chief Haymaker Francis J. Oughten, of Ahwaga Hayloft No. 88½, of New Brunswick.

After the convention had been called to order by State Chief Haymaker L. H. Smith, the representatives and alternate representatives of the various haylofts were admitted by official credentials; were ceremoniously presented with handsomely created watch-fobs and seated. State Chief Haymaker Smith then very ably extended a cordial welcome to all present. The official roll of State officers, representatives, alternate representatives, etc., was then called by State Collector of Straws Alfred Haley. The annual report of the national representatives was read by Past Chief Haymaker Emil W. Schabilon, of Hackingeshackey Hayoft No. 189½, of Hackensack, by vote receved and placed on the minutes of the convention. By vote of the convention a continuous session was ordered until the finish of business.

Nomination of officers of the State Association for the ensuing year was then made as follows: For State Past Chief Haymaker Linwood H. Smith; for State Chief Haymaker, Lewis P. Day; for State Vice-Chief Haymaker, Walter Farrell, Alfred E. Willard and Edward I. Bowen; for trustee for three years, Thomas Tootsell; for State Collector of Straws, Alfred Haley; for State Keeper of Bundles, Clark Cole; for State Representative to the National Association, Wm. A. Adkins, John Laughlin, Emil W. Schabilon, Henry C. Axen and E. K. Sherrer.

By vote it was decided that when voting for representatives as above, the Companion receiving the lowest number of votes should be considered elected for one year. By vote, where but one nominee appears for an office, it was also decided that the State Collector of Straws should cast the ballot.

Companion Joseph M. Snyder was then appointed Judge, and Charles J. Harper and G. J. Edwards, tellers. By the casting of the ballot by the State Collector of Straws the following were unanimously elected: Past State Chief Haymaker, Linwood H. Smith; State Chief Haymaker, Lewis P. Day; Trustee for three years, Thomas Tootell; State Collector of Straws, Alfred Haley; State Keeper of Bundles, Clark Cole. Companion Edward I. Bowen then declined to run for State Vice-Chief Haymaker. 112 ballots were cast for the two remaining nominees for State Vice-Chief Haymaker, of which one was spoiled. Walter Farrell received 22 and Alfred E. Willard 89. State Chief Haymaker L. H. Smith therefore declared District Deputy Alfred E. Willard, of this city, elected State Vice-Chief Haymaker. 111 ballots were then cast for Representative to the National Association, of which Companions Wm. A. Adkins received 82; John Laughland 103; Emil W. Schabilon 94; Henry C. Axen 53 and E. K. Sherrer 73. Wm. A. Adkins was accordingly declared by the State Chief Haymaker to have been elected for two years; John Laughland for two years; Emil W. Schabilon for two years, and E. K. Sherer for one year. The report of the State Collector of Straws was then read, stating the number of Haylofts in the State in good standing to be 73; the present membership to be 2,828; the receipts for the year to be $672.70; expenditures, $434.39; balance on hand, $238.31. Both of the said reports were received and placed on file.

By standing vote the place for the convention to be held in 1911 was decided to be Asbury Park.

After considerable discussion, the amount expended for mileage by the finance committee was ordered refunded to them. The State Keeper of Bundles was then ordered drawn upon for 100 Bundles for the expenses of the representatives and officers of the State Association to the National Association. Matters relative to the nomination, election and installation of officers were then by vote referred to the committee on laws. The new officers were then installed, Past State Chief Haymaker Charles J. Harper acting as installing officer: Linwood H. Smith, State Past Chief Haymaker; Lewis P. Day, State Chief Haymaker; Alfred E. Willard, State Vice-Chief Haymaker; Alfred Haley, State Collector of Straws; Clark Cole, State Keeper of Bundles. The newly installed State Chief Haymaker, Lewis P. Day, then made the following appointments: E. Strife, First Farmer; E. Madley, Second Farmer; D. Scully, Guard of Hayloft; and H. Patten, Guard of Barn Door. State Collector of Straws Alfred Haley read appointments as follows: J. E. Nowery, R. W. Osland and Harry Weeder, on the finance committee; E. D. Schafey, Charles Williams and Joseph M. Shyder, on the committee on constitution; Joseph A. Mear, Joseph Baumeister and D. Kurts, on the committee on appeals.

After the street parade the Haymakers adjourned to the banquet hall in the Stillman Building, where they enjoyed, besides a bountiful repast, a splendid vaudeville entertainment.

TERMS OF INSPECTORS WILL EXPIRE SEPT. 3

Trenton, August 9.—The terms of office of six inspectors employed by the State Bureau of Labor at a salary of $1,500 per annum each will expire September 3, next, and Governor Fort will be called upon to name their successors. Under the law the Governor is the sole arbiter of who shall serve as inspectors, as he does not have to submit the names of appointees to the Senate.

The inspectors whose terms will soon expire are Heber Wells, of Paterson; Joseph Milburn, of Trenton; Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield; Jas. E. Stanton, of Sussex; Mary F. Van Leer, of Camden, and Mar. McKean, of Trenton. With the exception of Miss McKean all the present inspectors are candidates for reappointment. The former has decided to retire from service at the end of this month and does not want to be reappointed. Her successor will have to be a woman, as the law requires that at least two of the inspectors shall be females. The terms of Edward McClintock, of Newark, and William Slachter, of Orange, will expire, October 2.

The vacancy in the labor department caused by the death of Neil McCarthy, of Elizabeth, who for several years has assisted Inspector McCardell, in the Plainfield-Elizabeth district, will probably not be filled by Commissioner Lewis T. Bryant, owing to the lack of funds.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Praises James E. Martine.

To the Editor of the Newark Evening Star:

That the time has arrived for the discontinuance of Republican rule in this State even the most casual observer can have but little doubt. Reactionary policies, failure to truly represent the common people, and glaring failure to give relief from intolerable conditions, have fanned the prevailing political unrest to fever heat.

Such being the case, the public eye has turned with considerable interest upon what the Democratic party will do as regards a suitable and worthy candidate for Governor in this crisis, for back of all laws and all schemes of government lies "The Man."

The Democratic party has a man to whom all may safely look for a square deal—a man, who, if given the opportunity, would be fair to capital, considerate to the toiler, asking only that each obey the laws—a man who is rugged and honest—one who would be quick to frown upon injustice and oppression.

Will the Democratic party overlook this man whose conscience is as clean as his character, whose ability is unquestioned, whose sympathy is open to those with a just cause? I think not, for if ever there was a man fit to meet the requirements of a good Governor of the State of New Jersey that man is James E. Martine, of Union county.

THE ONLOOKER.

HARRIS DEFEATS CRAIGIN IN FINAL TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

The challenge round of the White Mountain lawn tennis championship was won Saturday by F. H. Harris, the intercollegiate champion, who defeated W. B. Craigin, of this city, the holder of the title, by 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2, in a decisive match.

Harris played a fast game all the way and lost most of his games to Craigin on error. In the doubles Jones and Henshaw met defeat at the hands of Carl and Foster, a Boston pair, who have been playing well.

MAYOR FISK FOR GOVERNOR?

"The news that Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield, is in a receptive mood, so far as the Republican nomination for Governor is concerned, has been received with much interest throughout the State," says the New York Tribune. "According to Mr. Fisk's friends, he is now looking over the ground, and if he feels that conditions are suitable, he may go into a contest for the capture of the Union county delegates.

"Senator Kean lives in Union, and if a candidate for Governor were nominated in that county it would have an embarrassing effect on his chances of being chosen to the United States Senate again."

Will Give a Dinner.

H. C. Corsa, of this city, agent for the Mutual Profit Realty Company, of New York, is arranging to give a dinner at the Hotel Waldorf, Wednesday night, August 17, at 7 o'clock. There will be about thirty guests.

Katydid vs. Katydidn't.

Those who passed by the Grace M. E. church Sunday night heard the same old argument between Mr. and Mrs. Katydid for the first time this year.

Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Tex., who has been visiting relatives here for several weeks, returned home Saturday.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Independent Fire Company of Westville will hold its fourth annual carnival on August 26 and 27.

Thorofare is to have gas, the New Jersey Gas Company having obtained a franchise to run mains from Mt. Royal.

The Gloucester City Democratic Club has issued invitations to many prominent Democrats throughout the State to attend its annual picnic next Monday.

Fire of mysterious origin early Sunday morning destroyed the bleachers and grand-stand at the Morgan baseball field, Trenton, entailing a loss of $3,500. Joseph Morgan only recently established the field.

Little hope is held for the recovery of Laura Francis, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Francis, of Philadelphia, who have a cottage in Atlantic City, who was run down Saturday by John Messmer on a motorcycle near the Children's Seashore Home in Chelsea. The fracture of the child's skull is more serious that first suspected and her condition is critical. Witnesses say that Messmer did everything in his power to avoid striking the child, but his brakes failed to work.

Telling a tale of an alleged attack made on her by an unknown man, Minnie Briscoe, ten years old, of 1113 Mt. Ephraim avenue, Camden, had the police and her friends on the go Sunday for several hours. Crowds of men scoured the neighborhood in an effort to locate the alleged assailant, while the entire detective force along with the police sought to arrest him. While the excitement was at fever heat it was learned by the police that the girl's story was without foundation.

While in bathing at the head of North Second street, Camden, Sunday afternoon, Otto Stetenisch, nine years old, son of Hugo Stetenisch, of 940 North Second street, got beyond his depth and was drowned. The body was recovered by Policeman Barnett. Coroner Wingender gave a certificate of accidental death.

More than 1,000 barrels, amounting to nearly 115 tons of fish, consisting of weakfish, black sea bass, bluefish and porgies, were hauled into port by a dozen large fishing smacks of the Anglesea fleet Sunday off North Wildwood. All night long the crews, reinforced by those of boats that did not go out, were unloading and carting the fish to the fish platform, where scores of men were busy packing and icing them for the market.

In order to raise money to send Solomon Young, a negro, to the mountains, his friends of Beverly and vicinity gave several lively boxing bouts in the hall of the Pastime Club Saturday night. Young is in the last stages of consumption, and for a number of years has been in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. In the days of bicycle racing he was an undefeated colored champion, but was debarred from competing with white champions.

John O'Tool, twenty-one years old a Philadelphian was murderously assaulted by a foreigner in a saloon brawl on Arkansas avenue, Atlantic City, late Saturday night, according to the police, who are searching for his assailant. O'Tool and his assailant became involved in an argument, and O'Tool was stabbed twice in the back, his assailant making his escape in the excitement that ensued.

Hotel men, cottagers, and especially the housewives of Anglesea, were incessed Sunday forenoon when they wanted to cook their noon meal and found no gas forthcoming. Those who waited for fuel either had to eat a cold lunch or go without anything, as most of the cottagers had put away their stoves and ranges for the summer. No explanation of the shortage of gas was given out.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels will make the usual street parade at noon on the date of their appearance here, which is at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow night. While it is the usual minstrel parade, it will be found unusual in that the members of the company and big band will be dressed in modern clothes and not like circus performers. The Honey Boy show this year is said to have been given a new scenic investiture throughout, but in other respects it will be almost the same splendid entertainment in minstrelsy which Cohen and Harris last year provided for the Honey Boy. George M. Cohan's minstrel comedy "The Fireman's Picnic", has been retained for this year, and its tuneful melodies and rapid action mark it as a decided improvement on the usual senseless minstrel finale.

Rev. Dr. Wilding Preaches.

Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding, of Perth Amboy, preached a strong sermon to a large congregation at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning. Dr. Wilding is one of the foremost ministers in the Newark Conference, and he was heard with much pleasure and profit.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Isn't there an asteroid named Psyche?" he inquired. "I'm going to assume that there is and name you after that."

"A purely telescopic star"—

"Because of its distance only, Psyche."

The boat quietly passed out across the woven threads of light that webbed the water from a thousand points about Strong's bayou and gently came to at the dock of the Yupon Hedge inn. The promenades were crowded with people in evening clothes and waiters with trays. It was a gay scene, and Carson felt the pull of it as they stepped ashore.

"Can I do anything mo' for you?" he asked.

"No, no; you must go now! But thank you a thousand times," said she.

"Psyche," said he fervently, "I shall never escape from the toils you have lured me into. Never!"

He carried her hands to his lips, kissed them passionately and leaped into the boat. Virginia watched him amazedly as he darted away like a frightened tarpon, not toward his cabin in the dunes, but out through the entrance of the bayou and off across the bay toward Point Clear. One more mystery to ponder over.

CHAPTER III.

CARSON'S LANDING.

It has always been a point of genealogical dispute as to whether or not Theodore Carson's father was of kin to the founder of the old Carson place up Fish river.

General Carson in his lean years used to sell turpentine to his namesake at the dingy ship chandlery on the wharf near the Eslava street oyster dock. On these commercial occasions the general, when mellowed by juleps, with his foot on the brass rail and his elbows on the bar, used to call the ship chandler "cousin." At other times, however, he made no bones of his opinion that the Mobile Carsonses were dashed common people and branded as impudent any fool claim of kinship between the humble tradesman and the Carsonses of Marengo county. Theodore was a little bitter sometimes as he recalled the phantoms, the pursuit of which had ruined two successive owners of the estate—the general's breeding maggot and his father's curious pride in a mere name—whereupon he gave chase to a phantom of his own, with what success we shall see, and followed what his friends called a rainbow with such true Carson enthusiasm that when he left Virginia Suarez on the dock at Strong's bayou, on that sandy, deliciously dreamy, southern shore of Mobile bay, he steered through the night for a house very nearly dismantled, on an estate growing up to persimmon thickets, dewberry beds and palmetto slashes, the very title to which was about to pass to his creditors. His ignis fatuus was in the cabin among the gulf beach dunes, but neither that nor the precarious state of his fortunes could account for his alternate joy and gloom as he fared north in the night. The sky maiden was the thing that really mattered.

He wondered whether her people knew of the chance by which he and Captain Harrod had rescued the fair castaway. Probably they believed her lost. The helicopter had scarcely paused when she struck the dune, but had shot out over the gulf like a flying gull. They must mourn the girl as lost, and he had the girl's name to discover.

The Roc came coasting back in the same tardy dawn that lamped that young somnambulist to his home. Mr. Silberberg lighted and smoked countless cigarettes. Mr. Shayne nervously walked the deck and debated the question of letting Mrs. Shayne know of her niece's tragic death at once or of waiting for a personal interview. For the Roc had had no word of either the helicopter or the girl, and they saw no gleam of hope for her. She was a dependent and something of a problem for Mrs. Shayne. Any ordinary circumstance that would have separated the aunt and niece would not have been mourned inconsolably by either of them. In fact, Mrs. Shayne had expressed to her husband some wonder as to what Silberberg saw in the girl. But to lose her like this, with all the unpleasant publicity of the terrible affair!

"Marie will never get over it," said Shayne. "What the devil ails that fellow aft?"

The fellow aft was Wizner, inventor of the lost helicopter, discoursing to the crew in pure assorted maledictions which he heaped on all concerned in the loss of his machine.

The light found them far down toward the lagoon, flying high for safety in the darkness. The long, straight beach lay white, cold looking and solitary in the pure light, which touched the great gas holder to silver while the earth and sea were still in gloom. Away south in the offing were two steamers, and from the wireless overhead could be heard the discharge

This Is the Biggest Sale Ever Held.

Fuller Appreciation of Values This Year.

Maybe it is due to the high cost of living. Maybe it is due to the prevalent desire to economize. Maybe it is due to the winsomeness of the goods or the attractiveness of our advertising.

We don't know.

But we do know that hundreds of people have been coming every day since we opened our Fall Sale of A. P. C. Wash Fabrics for these splendid unfadable printed stuffs and have been buying in larger quantities than ever before. It looks like a mark of appreciation of the art and skill of the American loomsmen and printers who have produced such beautiful goods to sell at such a diminutive price. 6½c

The selling will go right along briskly throughout the week.

"SHE'S ABOUT BO'DIN' THE BOAT F'R MOBILE."

when the operator was making a last despairing effort to obtain news of the lost girl.

The buzzer from the engine room was sprung with a sharp rattle. Mr. Shayne went to the speaking tube.

"We all think, sir," said the engineer, "that we've about reached the place where the young lady went out to sea."

"Mr. Silberberg thinks so, too," replied Shayne. "But I think it was west of here."

"There's a man on the beach, sir," said the engineer. "Shall we speak him?"

"Do," replied Shayne. "He may know something."

The Roc circled about like an alighting swan, all the time descending. The man seated himself on a log to await her libration. Mr. Shayne spoke. Had he seen anything of a flying machine which went out to sea yesterday?

"It was right close hyah, suh," replied Captain Harrod.

"Did you see the young lady?" asked Shayne.

"Yes, suh."

"Was she still clinging to the helicopter when you last saw her?"

"No, suh. She wasn't clingin' to nothing—with the han' to'ds me—when Ah lost sight on huh, suh."

"Let down the lift," commanded Mr. Shayne. "I'm going down."

The three taen, Shayne, Silberberg and Wizner, gathered about the fisherman on the beach.

"Do you think," queried Silberberg "that there is the slightest chance for her to—to be saved, my good man?"

"Ah'm slow spoke, an' it would take a half houah to tell all Ah knows, gen'ly speakin'. But if it's jist about the young lady, she tumbled out on the sand in fair shape, an' if she's made good weathah she's about bo'din' the boat f'r Mobile. We was raght proud to hev huh as ou' guest."

"There!" shouted Wizner triumphantly. "Didn't I tell you that machine would stand grief? Struck the ground"—

"Keep out of this!" commanded Mr. Shayne. "Was she hurt seriously?"

"But, I say, Mr. Shayne," protested Wizner, "don't you see that with my machine you've got the business coopered? Put your money on the helicopters and you'll"—

"Ah you Mr. Shayne?" inquired the captain.

"Yes, yes," replied Shayne. "What have you done with her?"

"A gentleman Ah'm employed by," replied the captain, "has done carried huh ove' to the inn. Axin' yo' pahdon, ah you the Mr. Shayne that's called the prince o' the powers of the aiah?"

"I reckon I am," replied Mr. Shayne irritably. "But tell us of the rescue of this dear girl. Tell us!"

While Silberberg and Shayne listened Wizner began scouting up and down the beach. At once they signaled the Palmetto Beach wireless station, and in a moment the news came in that Miss Suarez had sent messages to Mrs. Shayne that morning and had taken an early boat for Mobile. Mr. Shayne grasped the hand of Mr. Silberberg, who sat on a log, burying his face in his handkerchief.

"I know how you feel, old fellow," said Shayne. "And I want to say to you, my good man, I can't repay you, you know, but so far as money can go I hope you will ask, or, rather, accept"—

"Ah couldn't accept anything, suh," said the captain. "Thank'ee kindly. But maght Ah ask whar you all's goin' now?"

"Straight to Mobile," replied Shayne.

"Ah unde'stand," went on the captain, "that you ah int'rested in all sohts of flyin' craft."

"Well," answered Mr. Shayne, laughing, "got a machine that solves the problem? Most every one has."

"No, suh, but a friend o' mine raght on yo' way Ah'd pow'ful well like to hev you stop by an' see. He's got something. It's Mr. Theodo', my employah."

"The gentleman who took my niece to the beach?"

"Yes, suh."

"We are in a hurry," urged Mr. Shayne. "We are about starting for Chicago. Won't any other time do?"

"It's raght on yo' way, suh," persisted the captain, "an' it's all the fav' Ah'll ask of you all. Ah leave it to you, suh, of co'se, but"—

A HOT CAMPAIGN IN UNION COUNTY

There has never been a campaign in Union county within the last twenty years when the political situation, both as regards the Republican and the Democratic party, has been in such a mixed and unsettled condition. Factional fights in both organizations will make the coming political struggle one of the most bitterly fought in years. The early start given the campaign by Representative Charles N. Fowler through his open letter attacking United States Senator John Kean and the Republican organization in the Fifth congressional district has given the fight in the Republican ranks great impetus.

Lined up with Fowler in his fight against the Kean forces in Union county are James T. MacMurray, city clerk of Plainfield; William Carr, Harry Hooley, Robert J. Aljoe, Freeholder Henry Krouse and Excise Commissioner Thomas Y. Bye. The latter is a candidate for the assembly and has been brought into the fight, it is claimed, to exert such influence as he has through his membership in the excise board to elect Fowler delegates in the lower wards of the city. The Fowler faction in the county until this year lacked an organizer. Several years ago the late Mayor John C. Rankin was the pilot of Mr. Fowler's organization. Since his death, however, the Fowlerites have been without an organizer, until the congressman's fight in the present campaign was taken up by Mr. MacMurray, assisted by Census Supervisor Louis J. Hoagland.

For weeks past the Fowler followers and supporters have been busy perfecting different ward organizations. The work of banding together the Fowler men in the various wards has been carried on secretly. Little was known as to what the plans of the insurgent's men were until a meeting was held last week in the Dix building, when a temporary organization was effected for a political club to be known as the Republican Organization of the Fifth Congressional District. The leaders mentioned above were present. It has been learned that the chief object of this organization which will embrace Warren and Morris counties, is to put up a fight for the election of Fowler delegates in every district in the Fifth congressional district. The battle between the organization and Fowler delegates in the thirty-two election districts in the city has already been started.

Arrayed against the Fowler forces is the Republican organization with its leaders, Hamilton F. Kean, County Chairman Frank H. Smith, James White, chairman of the Elizabeth Republican city committee; County Clerk James C. Calvert, Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield; Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, former Assemblyman Peter J. Tillman, Freeholder Peter Meisel and Deputy Sheriff Wright. These supporters of United States Senator Kean compose what has lately been called "The Court House Ring."

The real clash between these warring political organizations will come at the primaries. The regulars will strive to elect delegates pledged to support Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield. The Fowler forces will work for the election of Fox delegates, pledged to the insurgent congressman. It is generally conceded that the organization will control the delegates selected for the State convention, and that the delegates will give their support to the strongest Republican candidate for governor. By this plan the "Court House Ring" may control the appointments to be made in Union county by the governor. The organization leaders, even at this early stage, do not hesitate to predict that the Fowler forces will be beaten for delegates in all the Elizabeth election districts and in most all the wards in Plainfield and Rahway.

FOWLER LITERATURE BARRED FROM CITY OFFICE.

Fowler campaign literature is being spread around this city by his agents and some of it received by City Clerk James T. Mc Murray. According to report this reading matter encumbered the office of the clerk to such an extent that Mayor Fisk objected to it being stored there.

The story goes that the Mayor directed the removal of the stuff saying that the city office was not the place from which to distribute campaign literature.

Delightful Vacation Experience.

Miss May Vincent Whitney and Mrs. Mary McNeil Hopcraft, who who closed their musical studios in the Babcock building early in July, are spending the summer at Queen Terrace, Digby, Nova Scotia. Mrs. Hopcraft writes to a friend that "the green and beautiful summer land is without heat, with cherry trees bending with fruit, peopled with the thrifty and honest householders. Roads that never get muddy and gardens that are ever green." Mrs. Hopcraft and Miss Whitney will return home in September.

BASEBALL.

That game between the Plainfield team and the Morristown nine had a sort of a queer ending. You see it happened like this—the Plainfield boys were getting stronger all the time, and "Warry" espcially was improving with age, so no one could tell what they might do before long. And then that Morristown bunch was beginning to slacken in speed and matter began to look kind of dubious for them, so the bst plan was to have the game stopped by darkness in the broad daylight.

The game on the Oval Saturday between the Y. M. C. A. and Rahway Y. M. L. teams was the finest game of baseball that has been played in this city in many a day.

And perhaps that Frederickson boy isn't a comer. He's a southpaw, but that's nothing against him. He has plenty of speed, good control, and some of the prettiest curves you ever saw.

Neither Hoblitzel or Frederickson gave a base on balls in Saturday's game.

"Tommy" Mullin saved the game for the Plainfield Baseball Club in the tenth inning Saturday by a beautiful running catch of what looked like a sure hit. The "man eater" is beginning to show his class nowadays.

"Bill" Piddington, the crack Dunellen centerfielder, had an easy time Saturday against Bound Brook. Not a single fly came out his way. And Bill was there with the stick too.

Manager Joe Alberts, of the Scotch Plains team, jumped in the swim with the other baseball managers Saturday by going in the box himself. But alas Joe got his bumps for 16 runs.

Wilcox, the Y. M. C. A. centre fielder, did what might be called some bone head base running in that game Saturday. It happened in the sixth inning when Wilcox was on second and Platt Adams laced out a single to short center. Dudley immediately started for third and when the ball was already back in the diamond, he made a break for the home plate. Of course he was nailed with a cinch.

That boy Shaw, of the Bound Brook team was clouting the ball some on Saturday with three clean safeties.

It seems to us as though the Dunellen team has too strong a battery for the speed of the other seven players. It certainly looked that way in Saturday's game but then Dunellen had an off day so we mustn't judge too severely.

Extra inning games are beginning to be Warry McLaughlin's favorite pastime. He always starts out a little wild but he soon settles down and before the ninth inning comes around, he's usually going at top speed.

"Ty" Cobb, in a letter to the sporting public, says that his team can "come back," and that another American league pennant will fly in Detroit this year. Well it looks as though Uncle Ty's prophesy would hold by the way those Tigers are playing now.

The Plainfield team has two hard games on for this coming week end; on Saturday the local boys line up against the strong ex-collegians, of Asbury Park, and on Sunday they tackle the Red Bank nine. Both games are scheduled for out of town.

Harry Van Zandt, the old P. H. S. pitcher, got his from the Turners on Saturday. The Verein boys banged him for sixteen clean hits.

rived. The removal to the hospital was but a question of minutes and the surgeons did everything possible to allay the pain of the sufferer at the same time trying to locate the bullet. The Mayor's last word as he was carried into the hospital were: "Say good-bye to the people for me."

At 2.30 this afternoon the reports from the hospital were that Mr. Gaynor would probably recover.

PROFANITY COSTS AN OFFICE.

East Orange N. J., Aug. 9.—Found guilty last night of having more than a year ago called Mr. and Mrs. John Apgar, of Grove place, this city, "damn fools" and "damp cranks" Playground Commissioner Joseph P. Schiller thereupon was rejected by the city council for reappointment.

Mr. Schiller was nominated on June 27 by Mayor Cardwell and the investigation into the charge made by Mr. Apgar at that time has consumed the interval. The council failed to sustain the Mayor's nomination by a tie vote.

Schiller, who is a New York business man, had been deputized a committee of one to settle differences that had long existed between the Playground Commission and Mr. Apgar. The two men got into a dispute and the alleged profanity resulted. The commissionership pays no salary, but is an office of honor prely.

ELKS GAME TOMORROW

Antlered Invaders from Burlington Will Get Warm Reception Here.

GEORGE JOHNSON TO UMPIRE.

Great Preparations Made for Visitors—MacLaughlin and MacNaughton Local Battery—Game Starts at 3.30.

What the local Elks' baseball team intend to do to the visiting team from Burlington tomorrow is a secret yet, but judging from the practice and preparations which have been going on for the past three weeks a warm reception awaits the antlered bunch from the big county.

BURLINGTON ELKS BASEBALL TEAM.

That the Burlington ball tossers are a formidable aggregation there can be no doubt. They come to peaceful Plainfield with a reputation for prowess on the diamond second to no fraternal organization in the State. Hence sparkling play is looked for from them.

It is expected that the visitors will arrive in this city at 12.45 o'clock tomorrow accompanied by a large delegation from their lodge. They will be hospitably received by the local representatives and escorted to the club rooms on West Second street where they will be entertained until the hour for the game to begin at the oval. More than five hundred tickets have been sold for this game and they are still selling like hot cakes, so a big crowd will be on hand to root for the home team.

Everything points to a fast and hotly played contest. None of the local boys has dropped his interest in the playing and preparation of his muscles and it is said that the way some of them have rounded into shape will astonish even their most intimate acquaintances. MacLaughlin, who will occupy the mound for Plainfield, can toss 'em over with benders to 'em which would put Big Six's slants in the has been class.

As for the receiving end of the battery it is only necessary to say that MacNaughton will don the mask and protector.

Manager Mooney, of the Burlington club has announced his line-up as follows: Perkins, 3b.; Morgan, p.; Kettler, c.; Donnelley, 2b.; Stecher, ss.; Lawrence, 1b.; Satterthwaite, lf.; Mitchell, cf.; Thomanson, rf.

Plainfield's line-up will probably be as follows: MacNaughton, c.; MacLaughlin, p.; Blimmy or Woolston, 1b.; Hoyt, 2b.; A. Van Arsdale, ss.; Harry De Meza or Cadmus, 3b.; A. Smith, lf.; McCullough, cf.; Nicol, rf.

Special trolley cars will be furnished by the P. S. C. to accommodate the crowd before and after the game so that there will be no unnecessary crowding, the only thing that remains to be looked after is the weather. If the dealer in the elements can be induced to turn out a clear sample of Jersey dryness there'll be a warm time at Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon. The game starts promptly at 3.30 and George Johnson will be judge of the play.

Major Martin on State Rifle Team.

General Bird W. Spencer has picked a squad of 12 men and 4 substitutes to represent the State in the national rifle tournament at Camp Perry, Ohio. Major William B. Martin, former captain of Company K, is a member of the regular team, which will leave Sea Girt on August 17, arriving at the tournament grounds the following day. The tournament will begin on August 21.

ROBBED HIS EMPLOYER; HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Morris Deutch a cobbler, of 326 Watchung avenue, caused the arrest of Axel C. Johnson, a Swede, who had been in his employ for the past few months, today, on a charge of stealing between fifteen and twenty dollars' worth of rubber heels and shoe blacking. At the hearing before Judge William N. Runyon, this morning, Johnson was held under $100 bonds for the action of the October grand jury.

In telling his story to the court, Mr. Deutch said that Johnson had taken the rubber heels and disposed of them he knew not how, but that he had traced two pair of the heels to the son of Mrs. Lundstrom, a neighbor of Johnson's and when accused of this theft Johnson acknowledged that he had taken them.

Johnson, who was not represented by counsel, declared that Deutch would have to prove that he (Johnson) had stolen more than the two pairs he acknowledged taking before he could be prosecuted. Judge Runyon took a different view of the matter and held the prisoner.

ENSIGN AND MRS. JEHU LEAD SALVATION ARMY SERVICE.

The services of the Salvation Army last night in the tent were in charge of Ensign and Mrs. Jehu, of Elizabeth. They were accompanied by Edward Hall, the ex-saloon keeper, and William Meyers, both of Elizabeth. Mrs. Jehu spoke and played the cornet. Ensign Jehu rendered several solos on the guitar.

Mrs. Jehu took for her text the thirty-sixth Psalm, speaking on the "Love of God". She said in the course of her remarks that God should be served through love and not through fear.

The local corps took advantage of the crowd, which turned out to see James J. Crobett parade, and held an open air meeting at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. The meeting in the tent was well attended.

HOLD A SECRET SESSION

Fowlerites Meet Behind Closed Doors and Bar the Newspaper Men.

CONGRESSMAN MAKES SPEECH.

"We'll Have to Clean Up this Court House Crowd and Get Men in There—"—That Was All the Reporters Heard.

Behind closed doors the followers of Representative Charles N. Fowler held another meeting at Elizabeth, Monday night, with Mr. Fowler present. The session was not open to newspaper men and according to the county seat newspapers not a word as to the proceedings was divulged after the session, although two reporters waited patiently outside until everyone had dispersed.

The only information forthcoming was that an advisory committee to make a canvass of Elizabeth in an effort to get men in line for Fowler delegates were appointed. When Census Supervisor Louis V. Hoagland was asked for the names of those on the committee, he said: "There'll be no names published, I'll tell you that."

A newspaper man got a tip that the Fowler forces were to get together. He was in the little room adjoining that of the census supervisor when the clans gathered, and when Mr. Fowler, amid the applause of a score of his admirers, took the platform, the scribe, fearing his identity would be known got into a corner. He pulled down his cuff and gripped a stub lead pencil between his thumb and index finger. But something happened. Someone whispered, "Who is that?" and the game was up. The reporter was courteously informed that he would have to leave as the meeting was of a private nature and what Mr. Fowler had to say was not for publication. When he left Mr. Fowler began.

The reporter could hear the voice of the insurgent Congressman from the sidewalk below, where he stood for two solid hours. It was not clear to him what Mr. Fowler and the others were talking about. He waited just the same in the hope that something might happen. Nothing did.

At 10 o'clock along came another newspaper man. The waiting scribe called him to one side. "Fowler's upstairs," he said, "but I can't get in; they put me out. It's private." The late arrival said he'd try anyway, and scaled the two flights of stairs to the meeting room. The door was partly opened and through the aperture came the words of a Fowler man, "We'll have to clean up this courthouse crowd and get men in there ——" that was all.

JERSEY AUTOISTS WANT EFFECTIVE LAMPLIGHT LAW.

Those Jersey automobilists who are engaged in stirring things up in a political way on account of motor vehicle legislation in this State are anxious not only to have the present law amended in so far as it applies to have the lamplight legislation made clearer and more effective than in its present form.

The present law provides for an immediate arrest and a $10 fine and collection in cases of violation by automobilists. The caluse in the same law in regard to the lighting of horse-drawn vehicles provides for a $1 fine, and that must be prosecuted and if collected it goes to the township and not the State.

Auto Club Must Fix Road.

The North Plainfield Township Improvement Society has taken up the matter of the damages done to Johnson's Drive by the last hill climbing contest. The Plainfield Automobile Club agreed to repair the road after the contest, but as yet nothing has been done toward fixing the torn-up roadway. A committee from the society has the matter in hand and will take it up with the Automobile Club.

Governor's Summer Plans.

Governor Fort has arranged to leave Sea Girt and close the "Little White House by the Sea" on August 20th, following which he will enjoy a vacation from official cares until the first of September. After Labor Day he will be in the State House every Tuesday and Friday until his term of office is finished in the second week of next January.

St. Peter's Lawn Fete.

The Young Ladies' Society of St. Peter's German Lutheran church will hold a lawn fete at the home of the Misses Ruschke, 431 West Sixth street, on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, August 18. There will be on sale home-made cakes, ice cream, tea, coffee and fancy articles.

EDWARDS AND KOENIG THREATENED BY CRANKS

Threats have been received by several of the heads of departments in New York city today, among them one directed to Commissioner Edwards, whose efforts to subdue the shooter in yesterday's assault on Mayor Gaynor in New York probably saved the Mayor's life. The letter received by Mr. Edwards this morning reads as follows:

"Beware! You big ——. You will be where Gaynor is in forty-eight hours. A friend of Gallagher."

The letter was regarded as the missive of some harmless crank by Commissioner Edwards, but his friends are keeping a close watch upon him as well as upon Secretary of State Koenig, who also received an intimation that he would be the next victim of "discharged city employes".

JERSEY EDITOR WILL EXPRESS HIS OPINIONS

Looking back over his trials and tribulations in the field of politics, not as a politician but as an editor, Henry T. Hagaman, publisher of the Lakewood Citizen, has declared a new policy for his paper in the approaching campaign. Noting that candidates for offices are bobbing up on every side in Ocean county, Mr. Hagaman opines:

"It will be impossible for me to support them all and I have come to the following iron-clad conclusion. In the past the newspaper editors have given their time and money and in return have received nothing but kicks and cuffs if they dared to have an opinion that differed from the bosses. Thousands of dolars have been spent for rum and other things that deprive and deprave. Hereafter the editorial columns of my paper will reflect what the editor has to say from time to time on political matters and nothing else will appear in the interest of any candidate unless it is bought and paid for at the regular advertising rates. The politicians can buy space or buy whiskey just as they wish."

WORK BEING DONE BY STREET DEPARTMENT.

The Public Service Corporation has rebuilt its tracks on East Second street from Richmond street to Netherwood avenue. The road has been macadamized eighteen inches on each side of the track and the city men have been working on the remainder of the road.

The Richmond street storm sewer is almost completed. The 33-inch and the 24-inch pipe toward Second street is nearly finished. The work on this sewer is being done by contract, Edmund F. Saxton, of New York being in charge. The laying of the pipe is being done by members of the city gang, who are being employed by Mr. Saxton.

Woodland avenue is being scraped and rolled by the steam roller. This is a much needed improvement and will make the approach to the Plainfield Country Club considerably better.

Found Lost Pocketbook.

Mrs. C. J. Van Ohl, of Central avenue, lost a long black leather wallet, containing several dollars worth of change and a check book, on Somerset street last Thursday. She immediately made known her loss through the Daily Press lost column and received the pocketbook yesterday. The missing wallet was found by Mrs. J. A. Powlison, of Fairview avenue, who reads the Daily Press, and she immediately turned the discovered article into the Daily Press office.

Merchants Postpone Game.

On account of the Elk's game on the Oval tomorrow afternoon and the Knights of Columbus excursion, the baseball game scheduled to be played tomorrow afternoon between the East and West Front street merchant nines, has been postponed. A double header will be played on the oval between these teams next Thursday afternoon.

Sane Advice.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Daly, of Summit avenue, are parents of a boy, born Monday night. Mrs. Daly was formerly Miss Clara Smith, of the borough.

MAYOR GAYNOR IMPROVES

Latest Reports from Surgeons Would Indicate Recovery.

THE BULLET SPLIT IN TWO.

Messages of Sympathy Received From President, and Mayors of All Big Cities in the Country.

That Mayor William J. Gaynor, chief executive of New York city was not killed outright by the bullet which struck him yesterday is a miracl according to reports from the surgeons who have the Mayor in their care and who have issued bulletins every hour since early this morning. A half-inch deviation from the course the missile took would have caused instant death. The bullet split in two pieces after entering the skull and it is not believd that an operation is imperative at this time. Dr. Ernest J. Lederle, Mayor Gaynor's physician, declared this morning that no symptoms of poisoning had developed and that every indication of recovery was present.

The graphic story of the shooting which appeared in all the New York dailies this morning conveyed but a faint impression of the feeling aroused throughout the country at the attempt on Mr. Gaynor's life, but it served to show in what high esteem he is held in every section where his splendid administrative abilities have become known.

The surgeons of whom there were four with the patient all last night declare that the Mayor was conscious all the time he was awake and that his sleep was a natural one. He was able to eat some ice cream and take iced brandy at intervals.

When the mayor was shot he was standing on the deck of the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which was to have taken him to Europe for a month's vacation. About him were many members of his official family to bid him good-by. President Pedro Montt, of Chile, who was to be a fellow passnger, had spoken with the Mayor not half a minute before the shooting, and appeared to be glad that they were to be fellow passengers; and they were going to swap experiencs on the way over. Mayor Gaynor said to President Montt, "You know that running a big city is pretty near like running a big country. We have much to tell each other."

President Montt expressed his pleasure at the promised tete-a-tete and went below, missing the tragic end to the conversation.

Street Commissioner "Big Bill" Edwards, who was nearest to the Mayor when the shots were fired jumped upon the would-be murderer bearing him to the deck by mai strength and weight. But even while lying prostrate Gallagher managed to discharge his revolver twice and it was the first of these shots which struck the Mayor. Mayor Gaynor's private secrtary, Robert Adamson, made the first grab at Gallagher and was trying to take the smoking revolver from the man when Mr. Edwards interposed his bulk and downed Gallagher. All was confusion in a moment and at first it was reported that the victim of the assault was dead. Happily this proved untrue.

Messages of sympathy for the Mayor and his family were received in quantities all day yesterday and long into the night. Some of those who wired their messages were Governor Hughes, of New York; and nearly every mayor of a large city in the country. President Taft was one of the first to telegraph and his message read: "I am greatly shocked to hear of the outrage of assault upon you. I am very glad to hear that the wound inflicted upon you is not serious. I earnestly hope and pray that your recovery may be rapid." All other messages were of a similar import.

The case of James J. Gallagher, who shot the Mayor, will probably be heard by the Hudson county grand jury today.

The penalty attached to Gallagher's crime is stated to be twenty-two years in prison and a fine of $6,000.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was stated by Dr. E. J. Lederle that Mayor Gaynor was resting quietly and that his chances for recovery are now very bright.

"Fish?

WARNING AGAINST THIEF WHO ROBS IN DAYLIGHT

Chief of Police Kiely has issued a warning to residents of this city to be careful at and during the lunch hour. A sneak thief is doing the rounds, and yesterday made an entrance through the front screen doors of two residences on West Seventh street, securing some money and a gold watch, getting away without being either heard or detected.

At the home of Otis E. Hovey, 307 West Seventh street the thief secured eleven dollars in money. At 705 in the same street four dollars in money and a gold watch belonging to a Miss Lee, a visitor, were taken, and in neither place did thei ntruder leave any trace of his visit. It behooves residents in the light of these events to securely lock their outside doors during the hours they spend indoors.

NETHERWOOD C.E. SOCIETY ENJOYS LAWN SOCIABLE

After the business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Netherwood Reformed church, last night, the young people adjourned to the lawn at the home of the Misses Florence and Maude Disbrow, of Columbia avenue. The lawn was beautifully decorated and Japanese lanterns shed a pretty glow over the grounds, which were used for playing games and other entertainment.

It was practically decided to organize a lawn tennis club among the members of the society, and to that end a plot of ground adjacent to the church will be secured and a tennis court laid out.

Another thing which was taken up seriously by the young people was the raising of money to help along the parsonage building fund. It is the intention of all to do something to further the project, and before long some definite steps will be taken to raise money.

There were upward of seventy-five young people present last night, and after the adjournment of the business meeting a couple of hours were spent in enjoying suitable outdoor games and refreshments. This society is enjoying great prosperity and bids fair to become one of the strongest in the city. The pastor of the church, Rev. Royal A. Stout, was present and entered heartily into the spirit of the evening.

BOARD OF ELECTIONS READY FOR BUSINESS.

The Union County Board of Elections met yesterday morning at the courthouse, Elizabeth, and organized. The only change made was the election of Peter J. Tillman, of Rahway, as clerk, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of S. Rusling Ryno. Robert H. McAdams was again named chairman, and George Stewart, secretary. Oliver Conlon is sergeant-at-arms. The other two members of the board are Frederick Zior, of Elizabeth, and Ralph L. Morrow, of this city.

It is expected that the board will receive the names of the election officers for the various polling places throughout the county by August 15. Mr. McAdams said this morning that he expected a very busy season. Because of the primaries being held two weeks earlier than usual this year, the members of the board are compelled to "get on the job" a few weeks earlier.

Position in Postoffice Filled.

Warren Chapel's Excursion.

One of the most popular excursions of the season is that of Warren chapel to Asbury Park. This year Thursday, August 18, is the date for the trip to the shore and, of course, a large crowd will enjoy the outing.

F. E. Smith and son Fred, of Central avenue, leave Saturday for a trip through Lake George and the St. Lawrence River.

RUNYON OPENS CAMPAIGN

Popular Plainfield Candidate Clearly Defines Issues at Big Republican Meeting.

STANDS BY ADMINISTRATION.

Congressional Nominee Denies That He Indorsed Fowler's Open Letter and States His Platform.

Judge William N. Runyon, who is the candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Fifth district, opposing the present incumbent, Charles N. Fowler, formally opened his campaign at a meeting of the Downtown Republican Club, of Elizabeth, last night, and judging by the large number of people present, some of whom could not get in the hall, and the enthusiastic reception given, the Plainfielder will be one of the most popular candidates in recent years.

William N. Runyon.

The meeting marked the opening of the campaign in Union county and there is every indication that Judge Runyon will set a pace from now on that will be exceedinly difficult for his opponents to follow. He opened his batteries against Congressman Fowler, denied frankly that he had indorsed the latter's recently published letter and presented his platform in a clear, concise and convincing manner. Everyone agreed that the judge made himself solid with the voters, last night, and is sure to conduct a whirlwind campaign throughout the district.

Plainfield sent a large delegation to the meeting, and, in fact, there were notables present from all parts of the county. Charles Wagner, president of the club, presided and introduced the speakers. County Chairman Frank H. Smith was also present and during the evening held a conference with leaders of the party.

In his speech Mr. Runyon said that there was no truth in the reports that attempts had been made to bribe him, or that he had sold out to bosses."

Mr. Runyon's speech, in part, follows:

"Since announcing my candidacy for Congress I have heard reports that there is someting sinister about my stand which makes it dishonorable.

"One insinuation is that in running for Congress I have forsaken every principle that I formerly stood for, that I have sold out to the bosses. In reply to this I have to say that not a man in the Fifth Congressional district has suggested to me a bargain of any sort. I am impeded in no way and am free to do as I want.

"Another insinuation is that I am not a bona fide candidate. If I live until Septembr there will be at least one vote cast in the Second ward of Plainfield for Runyon delegates.

"Another insinuation is that someone is paying my freight, meaning that my nomination and election is being bought and that someone is doing the buying. Has the time come when a man as poor as I am is not allowed to seek public office? Must I earn a goodly competence and then say to my constituents that I am eligible for candidacy?

Another insinuation is that I am guilty of heresy. When did the time arrive when any free man lost the right to announce his candidacy for a public office? There may be two or there may be 100 candidates, but I have just as much and no more right than any of them.

"At the present time my position savors of dishonor, probably because of my reputed qualified endorsement of an open letter recently published. Until now I have taken no steps to deny this report.

"On the Friday preceding the publication of that letter I was asked to meet the gentleman who is now my opponent for the Congressional nomination.

Principal vocalists with George Evans' "Honey Boy Minstrels," Plainfield theatre, tonight, Vaughn Comfort, James Meehan, Tom Kane, Clarence Marks, Wilson Miller.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

George Evans' Honey Boys Minstrels will be the offering at the Plainfield theatre, tonight. This big organization has gained an enviable position in the minstrel world and this year promises to maintain the standard of excellence so firmly established by its past record. Of course, Honey Boy Evans is at the head of the big list of minstrel favorites and this means that America's brightest monologist will be heard in a new line of patter and laugh producing songs. Evans is original in all his offerings and always has something new up his sleeve. He is an epitome of laughter. He follows no one. He has no followers. The production is one of magnificence from a scenic point of view and its pictures follow in rapid succession. From "The Crimson Trellis" first part to the elaborate settings of George M. Cohan's new minstrel comedy "The Fireman's Picnic," all is action and spectacular extravagance. Numerically, artistically and musically the entertainment of the Honey Boy Minstrels will be found in a class by itself. In the big company with George Evans are John King, Sam Lee, Clarence Marks, Wilson Miller, Pierce Keegan and Master Leo Fagan. The entire productions has had the careful supervision of James Gorman, general stage manager of the Cohan and Harris forces and "The Fireman's Picnic" has been rehearsed and staged by George M. Cohan, the author.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Squiers, Miss Nellie Squiers, and Munro Squiers, of Astor place, spent the week-end with George Squiers, of Springfield.

Mrs. Charles Vincent and daughter, Miss Ethel Vincent, of West Third street, are visiting Miss Jennie Edwards, of Shelton, Conn.

CYCLING.

George Simon is certainly doing some consistent riding nowadays. He has won the time prize in the last two Sunday races, but being a scratch man, he has had to be content with fourth and fifth places.

"Eddie" McNee has also been showing up in the long run. He is the only contestant for championship honors that has managed to "cop" two first places. McNee now leads the race for the medal with 12 points.

The Plainfield Cycle Club is planning a big five-mile race for Labor Day morning. The entry list is already a long one and includes some of the classiest cycling material in this State and New York.

Poor roads have prevented the racers from making any records so far, but hopes for improvement are being fostered.

It looks from present indications as though that Labor Day race would be run over the Mountain avenue course. The judges, however, decide this matter the morning of the race.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Tuberculosis Hospital.

The plan of the Union County Board of Freeholders to issue bonds for $50,000 to erect a tuberculosis hospital means that sooner than many had expected the fight against consumption in this section of the State is to be put on a thoroughly scientific basis. Everybody who has studied the situation, even though very superficially, has realized that the crying need of the hour in the "white plague" campaign is a place where those afflicted with the disease can be treated to the very best advantage. It has been seen clearly that it is imperative that some place shall be found to care for those who are wasting away in homes where proper care is often lacking, and where the danger of spreading the disease is too often unceasing—as well as for those who can be cured.

The committee of the Board of Freeholders which has had the task of investigating the problem of erecting a county hospital ahs proceeded vry cautiously and intelligently with its work. It inquired carefully into the need for such an institution as the freeholders had been asked to build; it got into touch with public opinion all over the county; it investigated personally what has been done elsewhere to obtain relief for the tuberculosis victims through the specially adapted hospital. Certainly the committee is to be congratulated on the results of its labors, which, it is believed, will put Union county in the front rank among the communities in New Jersey which are persistently and intelligently battling to down a common enemy.

Fifty thousand dollars is a large sum of money to spend for fighting a single disease, but in the end the expenditure means economy. It has been estimated recently that there is one death in every ten in Elizabeth from tuberculosis, and that one person dies every third day from the disease. On the other hand, it has been shown that tuberculosis is a preventable and curable disease. What kind of economy would it be, therefore, to permit this awful sacrifice of human life to go on without taking advantage of the most effective methods of fighting the menace? How fortunate that our county government has realized, notwithstanding the expense entailed, the immediate necessity of coming to the rescue of the people within its jurisdiction! —Elizabeth Journal.

Former Governor George H. Utter, of Rhode Island, who is prominently mentioned as a successor to the Hon. Nelson Aldrich, as Rhode Island's United States Senator, is a former Jerseyman, having lived for a number of years in Plainfield. He is a Seventh-Day Baptist and is the publisher of the Westerly Sun, an afternoon paper that skips publication on Saturday but appears regularly on Sunday.—Elizabeth Journal.

NEW CHURCH ABLAZE AS MINISTER ARRIVES.

As Rev. William A. Harris, pastor of Bethsaida Colored Baptist church, approached the congregation's newly acquired edifice at Bloomfield and Clifton avenues, Sunday morning, to conduct the initial service, he was greeted by flames which burst from the steeple. The minister started to run and as he did fire apparatus arrived.

Up to last week Mt. Zion Tabernacle had occupied the structure for thirteen years, under the pastorship of Rev. Martin Hancox, assisted by Miss Grace Platt and Wilbur Reynolds. The headquarters of the organization, which is an undenominational faith cure cult, is in Jersey City. By the terms of the deal the colored congregation took possession of the property yesterday.

The signs, which bore devout inscriptions, were erected by the Mt. Zionists. Sparrows had built nests in the wooden framework and whether crossed electric wires ignited the straw in these nests or whether one of the feather tenants carried a lighted cigar or cigarette to the nest is a matter of speculation, so the firemen say.

Miss Margaret Van Deventer, of East Fifth street, has returned home after a visit with Miss Queena Tillotson in New York City.

Samuel Hayser, of South avenue, sails on the Celtic of the White Star line Saturday, for Europe. He expects to remain abroad two months.

I met him in New York and we had luncheon together. During luncheon the letter was read to me. After it was concluded I was asked what I thought of it, and was told in a few days it was going all over the State.

"I answered that the letter was going to cause a great deal of trouble if published, saying that the men attacked would have to fight or else lie down like dogs. I told Congressman Fowler that if the letter was not put before the public he would be the unanimous choice of the Republicans for the Congressional nomination, as all ill thoughts of him would pass away in the meantime.

"No attention was paid to my remarks. I was asked if I had any suggestions to make, but repeated my former statements. That is my so-called indorsement of that letter. I suggested no changes in it and not a line of it was of my making."

Mr. Runyon declared himself to be in favor of the present tariff. He read statistics showing, as he said, that high tariff was levied only on luxuries.

In conclusion he urged his followers to do away with the former mud-slinging campaigns. He asked them to vote for him, to work for him, and he would thank them, "but," he added, "do not say an unkind word that will leave after it a cut or a scar."

Judge Runyon announced his platform as follows:

To the citizens of the Fifth Congressional District of New Jersey:—

As heretofore announced, I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for Representative in Congress from this district.

Already in a general way, I have intimated the principle which shall govenr me in the eevn of my election, but I believe that the citizens of this district are entitled to know in detail the views of a candidate upon current matters of public importance, and accordingly I herewith present my own.

In the first place, I believe in upholding the administration of President Taft, and in doing whatever is possible to aid him in placing such laws upon the statute books as shall fulfill all the promises contained in the last Republican National platform. It was that platform which commended itself to a great majority of voters throughout the country at the Presidential election in 1908, and to carry out its provisions is to obey their mandates.

I am heartily in favor of the conservation of our public lands and resources. Congress is directly responsible to the people for the stewardship of these vast and immensely valuable holdings, and under no circumstances, except those which provide homestead sites for bona fide settlers, should individuals or corporations be allowd to acquire leasehold or fee rights therein, without giving for the same a full and fair equivalent.

I believe in such federal regulation of corporations doing an inter-State business as is based upon equity and justice to all concerned, and in the honest and impartial execution of all laws relative thereto. I likewise favor the framing and passage of such additional laws as shall remedy any shortcomings in existing laws dsigned to regulate the said corporations.

I believe that the tariff upon imports should be sufficient to provide adequate revenues for the needs of the government, and should, in addition thereto, as scientifically as may be, best conserve the combined interests of the producer, the consumer and the workingman. I believe that the membrs of the Tariff Board, appointed by the President for the purpose, will ascertain and compile such facts as will best serve as a basis for any future revision, and when their work is sufficiently complete to warrant a general revision along scientific lines, it should be made.

I am opposed to any legislation which may be designed to favor the so-called "special interests" at the expense of the public welfare. Such legislation is repugnant to the very spirit of Democracy, and not to be tolerated under our free institutions.

With reference to the rules and management of the House of Representatives, I am in favor of such system as shall best secure fairness and equal rights for all members. The founders of our government intended that the House should be, both in spirit and fact, the popular branch of the national legislature, and with the policy of maintaining it as such I am in thorough accord.

I am unqualifiedly in favor of the gold standard. I am, however, in favor of such changes in our currency system as will make it more easily adaptable to the ever growing needs of business, as well as to the requirements of sudden changes in economic and social conditions.

I believe in independence of thought and action, and if elected, my highest aim as a Republican representative shall be to attend faithfully all sessions of the House; to give my best study to every public question; to deal fairly and honestly with every proposition brought forward for the consideration of Congress, and to make the affairs and interests of my own district matters of prime importance.

In my opinion a question in all respects as vital as any heretofore discussed, is that of a large minded but no less real economy in the management of our national appropriations and expenditures. I thoroughly approve the action of our President looking to this end, and if elected, shall do all in my power to help further his purposes. This, I believe, is conservation of the broadest character.

Finally, I believe that this country needs to be pervaded with a greater spirit of optimism than is at present prevalent; that it is high time for those who really have its welfare at heart to draw inspiration from the glorious past; to look forward hopefully and with confidence to the future; to cease charging adverse opinions and methods with corruption in all cases, and instead, to make the uplifting, the betterment and the progress of this noble land of ours the common purpose of all.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM N. RUNYON.

FACES WATER FAMINE.

Branchville, Aug. 10.—Unless rain falls in the meantime, the water supply of this place will be exhausted within the next two days, the authorities say, and the residents will have to go back to wells and springs for the precious fluid. Not since the water plant was first installed has the situation been so acute. It was due in part to the dry weather and in part to the fact that for the last month the water has been leaking faster than it could be got into the reservoir. The mains leading from the reservoir to the borough limits are built of wood and they are giving out apparently all at once.

A gang of men is at work now trying to stop the leaks, but the leaks are so numerous and so large that the work is not likely to prove effective in the present crisis. When the water in the reservoir has lowerd two feet more the last drop of water will have passed into the pipes.

$1.00 Lake Hopatcong and Return.

Every Friday and Sunday via New Jersey Central. Special train leaves Plainfield, Sundays, at 9:50 a. m., Fridays, at 9:18 a. m. 8 10 2 w f

LIFE STORY OF MAYOR W. J. GAYNOR OF NEW YORK

Victim of Attempted Assassination Was Strong Probability For Presidential Nomination.

Rose From Farm Boy to Head of Greatest Municipal Government In the World.

MAYOR WILLIAM J. GAYNOR of New York had served but seven months of the four year term to which he was elected when he was shot down and seriously wounded by James J. Gallagher just as he was starting upon his first vacation from the multifarious cares of his office. In that brief period he had demonstrated that he, and not Tammany Hall, was mayor of the metropolis. He had effectually disposed of the pre-election prophecies that he would be merely Murphy's man, the puppet of the Tammany chief. Gaynor himself has been indisputably the entire mayor of New York, with no overlord or understudy.

The new mayor attracted much attention throughout the country by walking to the city hall from his home in Brooklyn every morning and walking back home every evening, no matter what was the state of the weather. He made the three mile walk at a swinging gait, and, despite his fifty-nine years, there were few men who cared to undertake the pedestrian trip with him as pacemaker. Having been reared on a farm, he determined to get as much outdoor exercise as possible, even though plunged by the ballots of his fellow citizens into the midst of the activities of the most exacting municipal office on earth.

Mayor Gaynor is the son of a farmer and was born at Whitestown, Oneida county, N. Y., in 1851. After receiving his education at Whitestown and in Boston he went to Brooklyn in 1873 and worked on Brooklyn and New York newspapers while he was studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1875. He became nationally known for his work in breaking up rings in the local Democratic party. He secured the conviction and imprisonment of John Y. McKane, the Gravesend and Coney Island boss, for election frauds. He was elected to the bench of the supreme court of New York and served two terms. Twice he declined the Democratic nomination for governor of New York. He also declined to run for judge of the court of appeals and for mayor of Brooklyn before the consolidation which made that city a part of Greater New York.

Elected Mayor In 1909.

Judge Gaynor was nominated for mayor of the greater city in 1909 and was elected over William R. Hearst, Independence league, and Otto T. Bannard, Republican. He was supported by Tammany, which years before had turned him down as a prospective candidate for the same office. Mr. Gaynor was one of the first American public men to speak against discrimination in freight rates. He made many addresses on the topic.

Mr. Gaynor was divorced from his first wife, but remarried and has a large family of children, living happily for many years at his Brooklyn home and on his farm at St. James, Long Island, where he spends much time in the summer.

The farmhouse is a stately old fashioned one that fills the eye. Around it is a well kept lawn of five acres with pleasant gardens. The barn, wagon houses, henhouses, corncrib and stables are across a road and 200 yards away. The air that blows from the sound is brisk and bracing.

Mr. Gaynor Loves Horses.

Mr. Gaynor takes much pride in his horses. He likes to stroll into their stalls and rub and pat them. "This one took a prize this year," he always tells his visitors, patting the flanks of a beautiful creature that bears the unromantic name of Lemons. Then he stood with his hands in his pockets and contemplated Lemons for minutes at a time.

"You see," he is fond of telling his visitors, "I was raised on a farm. I have always been fond of farm life. So I got this place to live the 'simple life.'"

Mayor Gaynor has a big library, two rooms of his house in Brooklyn being crowded with books. And the books are not for ornament, but for use. His favorite reading is in the direction of political economy and history. He has a pretty extensive acquaintance with novels, but never read modern fiction very much. He is fond of Fielding and has followed the great novelists from Fielding's day.

Of late years he allowed even his relationship with the old novelists to lapse and did very little reading in that line, although he regretted it. There were a lot of old books that he read time and again. The list of those books makes a curious juxtaposition. They are "Don Quixote," the works of Rabelais, Shakespeare, "Paradise Lost," Franklin's autobiography and the autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini.

Mayor Gaynor has a liking for old clothes. Why he should want to wear a pea jacket in the house may be difficult to figure out, but he has used it as another man would use a smoking jacket. The golf cap is no beacon light to the links; Gaynor wears it not because of golf, but because of its comfort and its appropriateness to a long walk.

Unemotional, but Polite.

During his campaign for the mayoralty it was said by Gaynor's opponents that he was a cold, unresponsive person, with little of the human in his manner, but the correspondents who visited him at his city home and at his farm painted a far different picture of his personality. One of them wrote:

"You are immediately at ease with him, not because of any effort on his part to put you so, but rather the contrary—rather because he receives you in so matter of fact a fashion that it seems like the resumption of a conversation ended an hour or so ago.

"He is neither demonstrative nor impolite. He hears what you have to say, considers it with that contemplative look and either refuses in an unemotional manner to do what you want or tells you to wait until he has got rid of the visitor in the next room. Then he goes into the next room, and, despite the closed door, you can tell by the sounds that proceed from it that he is doing all the talking. While his voice is not piercing, it has a certain resonant tang to it that makes its way through doors, and there is no mistaking that slow, dispassionate, deliberate delivery for that of any other man on earth. If Mr. Gaynor had to call anybody a liar to his face it is very doubtful if his tone of voice or his freight car delivery would change an iota."

Immediately after Mr. Gaynor succeeded George B. McClellan as mayor of New York in January, 1910, the general public began to sit up and take notice that an interesting individualist was in the executive chair. As a jurist and a citizen he had criticised most caustically the police system of the city, and he soon began to get after this system in strenuous fashion. Plain clothes men were sent back to pound sidewalks in uniform. District and precinct commanders were transferred, and the police were given to understand that they were the city's servants, not its masters. The mayor "snooped around" considerably, seeing with his own eyes how the patrolmen and their superior officers were executing their duties or assuming authority which the law did not allow them. He visited the night courts and took notes, as a result of which he published a letter declaring that most of the arrests of persons brought into these courts were wholly uncalled for and that the policemen making the arrests were utterly ignorant of their duties. This utterance of the mayor was in line with his well known attitude as to the government of men. He is for the least possible government consistent with order and civilization. He espouses the cause of personal liberty, and nothing makes Mayor Gaynor more indignant than the unwarranted arrest of a citizen by an ignorant or vicious policeman.

Early in his mayor's term Mr. Gaynor created a national sensation when he arose at a meeting of publishers and read a fierce denunciation of W. R. Hearst and his newspapers, charging Mr. Hearst with having falsified a city record in reproducing it photographically after certain alterations had been made reflecting upon the mayor's administration.

Gaynor has attended many dinners and public functions, and in every instance where he made a speech he said something that attracted wide attention. For many months he has been looked upon as a strong prospective candidate for the presidential nomination by his party in 1912. Mr. Gaynor supported Bryan in 1896 and has been always a regular Democrat. He always resents any imputation of being "Tammany's man," and his administrative acts indicate that he is controlled only by an earnest desire to execute his duties in the interests of the four millions and several hundred thousand people of his city.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

... By ...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"Will you go and pilot us to the place?"

"Ah cain't ve'y well leave hyah, suh," replied the captain, "but if yo' pilot knows these piny woods as well as he orto do, suh"—

"Come and tell him the place," said Shayne incisively. "We'll go. But I tell you, my friend, your man might have spent a lot of car fare reaching Finley Shayne!"

"Ah reckon that's so, suh," replied the captain, stepping into the lift. "He's been a-stud'in' ve'y heavy about the mattah, suh, fo' a long tahm."

The discovery of the methanose mixture, with ten times the explosive force of gasoline, had made ascensional and depressive screws an efficient adjunct of the aeronaut with its barely buoyant gas bag and, with the improved propellers which followed, made the old fashioned "dirigible" a fairly dependable craft in ordinary weather. It was along this line rather than by way of the heavier than air aeronefs that development had marched, to the enormous enrichment of Finley Shayne, who controlled the Keewatin methanose marshes.

Theodore Carson often thought of Shayne. Carson's barren estate lay under the lane between Pensacola and Mobile, and above this ran the sparser drift from Atlantic and Appalachian forest points to the Mississippi sound resorts. He knew the type of every airship. Most of these huge objects dropping like swifts into the chimney of the aerial harbor at Mobile were Shayne's Condors, of which the Roc was the type, modeled after the early creations of Count Zeppelin. The smaller, quicker, low flying ones without the gas holders were the still unsuccessful aeronefs of the Wright and Farman types. The scene was varied by an occasional orthopter with flapping wings or by helicopters. The problem of life was in these various vessels, and he studied them wistfully, so wistfully that the Roc's wild honk sounded thrice before he heard it. He stepped out upon the Bermuda grass, saw a retractile telephone spinning down from the great silver fish balanced in the calm sky, caught it and put it to his ear.

"Oh, Aunt Chloe!" cried he, running in for his hat and coat. "Here's some one above the house asking for me, and who do you suppose it is?"

"Mout be the angel Gab'el," replied Chloe, "f'm whah he is an' de way he blow dat ho'n, but Ah reckon it's jes' some trifin' sky hooter. Who is dey?"

"The greatest luck you ever heard of," cried Theodore. "Where's that new parachute? Never mind, I've found it."

Mr. Theodore ran out, stepped into the lift and was whisked up to the Roc's polished deck with his new parachute over his shoulder.

CHAPTER IV.

A LEAP INTO SPACE.

MR. SHAYNE met Carson with something less than the steely coldness with which he was wont to freeze the vitals of the man representing an undeveloped business opportunity.

"I am under great obligations to you, Mr. Theodore," said he, "for your service to my niece. To be entirely frank, I should not have appropriated the time to call on any business account."

Mr. Carson felt repelled. He traced the "Mr. Theodore" to Captain Harrod's mode of referring to him.

"I am sorry," said he, "that you have gone even an inch out of your way on account of any fancied obligations. I prefer the basis of business."

"By Jove," said a voice at his elbow, "you ought to be able to meet him on that basis, Shayne."

Carson's ear was affronted, his nerves tautened by the voice. Shayne waved the man away.

"But," went on Silberberg, "it seems to me, old chap, we'd vastly better put the whole thing on a basis of breakfast first. Send this good man aft and let's fall to."

Carson wheeled round and stared Silberberg in the face curiously, with the impersonal disfavor of one studying the picture of some noxious thing, like a Gila monster or a feast of vultures.

"Thank you," said Theodore, "I have breakfasted, and in good company."

"By glory, my man," shouted Silberberg, "if you say another word"—

Carson turned upon him, and Silberberg sank into a seat. Carson walked back to the engine room, saying that he would look the craft over and see Mr. Shayne after breakfast.

Silberberg conceived himself vastly insulted by this fellow they had picked up and gave his host rather a bad half hour.

"We owe it to him to allow him to be a little nasty," said Shayne. "Think what he did for Virginia, you know, Silberberg."

"By Jove," cried Silberberg, "I would rather she had—er—that is, I would not allow any service even to her to atone for such an insult. I don't allow any one to— He must leave the Roc, Shayne, or I will."

"But his machine may be worth while," urged Shayne, using what he judged would be a valid argument with his guest. "An idea is an idea, Max, and this art of flying needs improvement."

"No idea," insisted Max, "is worth that much. Suit yourself, Mr. Shayne, but as for me"—

Silberberg waved his hand, closing the debate. As they rose they detected Wizner standing behind them, hat in hand, as if awaiting a word with them, or eavesdropping, as the case might have been.

"Well," said Shayne rather angrily.

"I just wanted to say," replied Wizner, "that I know what this young fellow's proposition is. And if you don't find him reasonable to deal with come to me. I've seen his model. It ain't protected, of course, and I can build one like it in a few weeks—with money enough. I'll learn him to butt in and take a customer from me!"

"When inventors fall out," began Shayne.

"Monopolists get their hooks in," supplied Silberberg. "Let's take the fool north and see what he's got."

"Most sensible thing you've said," replied Shayne.

Carson waited in glum silence until the second descent of the lift, refusing to occupy it along with Silberberg. Shayne urged him to stay aboard for the night trip to Chicago.

"The weather north," said Shayne, "is the mildest known for March. We can discuss your project, Mr. Theodore, over our highballs going up. Come with us."

Very well, said Mr. Theodore, he would go, with many thanks.

He wondered about the niece and Silberberg, but he asked no questions. He strode directly to the lift and went aboard the Roc. It was late in the afternoon when they took on two ladies—Psyche and Mrs. Shayne. The ladies vanished into the cabin with Silberberg.

"What do you think of the weather?" asked Shayne of Carson.

"The low has reached Omaha," replied Carson, "and has deepened rapidly. We ought to get into stiff south winds soon, increasing all the way."

"Let 'em increase," rejoined Shayne. "We'll make port quicker. If it should be northerly weather, now"—

"We'd have to moor?" queried Carson.

"Naturally."

Two Summer Hints to Housewives

Oil Stoves

Cook in as cool a room as you would sew or read in, by using a New Perfection or a Quick Meal Oil Stove.

Here are three other big advantages of these stoves:

They burn that most economical fuel—Oil.

Take up very little room. Can be used wherever it is most convenient. And—

They are absolutely safe. The oil tank is out of the way of all flame.

The New Perfection is built upon a stand, while the Quick Meal can be set upon the range or a table.

STATE CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS ON SEPT. 15.

State Chairman James R. Nugent announced on Monday that the Democratic State convention for the nomination of a candidate for Governor will take place at the Taylor Opera House, Trenton, Thursday, September 15, beginning at noon the usual hour. The date was selected by Mr. Nugent, acting with a special committee named at the recent Asbury Park meeting of the State convention.

The selection of September 15 was made in accordance with the opinion expressed by the State committee that an early nomination would be advantageous to the Domocracy this year. As the primaries will be held September 13, at which delegates to the State convention will be chosen, the 15th was the earliest day possible for a convention. The apportionment as to counties has been made in accordance with the fixed requirements.

"We will take the lead in placing the Gubernatorial candidate in the field, as the Republican convention will not take place until September 20," said Mr. Nugent. "I am very hopeful that we will maintain that lead through the campaign and finish ahead on election day."

TAFT TO VISIT PANAMA; CAN'T BE IN JERSEY CITY.

President Taft is unable to keep his tentative promise to be present at the celebration in October of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Bergen, now a part of Jersey City. He has sent a letter to Frank Stevens, chairman of the committee of arrangements, in which he says:

"One of the very great executive responsibilities of my administration is that of the Panama Canal. I hold a rapid and efficient development and a prompt completion of this great enterprise to be of the highest national importance. Experience has shown that nothing stimulates the work so greatly as a visit by the President. For this reason I expect to take twenty days out of the month of November, in going to the Isthmus and personally inspecting the progress which has been made there and setting some questions of importance to the administration that await my coming."

Mail Carrier in a Quandary.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 10.—Harvey F. Roebach, the mail carrier in the State House, was much perplexed yesterday over a letter he received for delivery. It was addressed to Governor Joel Parker, and in one corner of the envelope was the word "Personal," while just below the address was written: "If not in Trenton, please forward." As Governor Parker has been dead for twenty-two years, the mail carrier is in a quandary as to what to do with the letter. It was postmarked Pine Bluff, Ark. but there was no return address on the envelope.

BASEBALL DAYS OF YORE

BIG SCORES WERE COMMON.

Paul Collier Discovers an Old Photograph of Famous Team and a Record of Games.

While many of the residents of Plainfield ar glorying in the victorious achievements of the Plainfield baseball team, during these days of sixteen-inning ties when the score is two to two, perhaps, they will be interested in learning a few facts about the champion baseball team, which represented this city in '67, '68, '69, '70, '71 and '72. These facts were brought to light a few days ago by Paul R. Collier, who conducts a photography business on Front street, while hunting over some old pictures. He found among them the picture of the old Central baseball team which is shown above. Shortly after this, he found the official score book of this team, which was in possession of his father, Asa Collier, the crack player and champion slugger of the nine.

The old score book speaks for itself and tells in black and white (though the pages are nearly yellow with age) the glorious achievements of the Central Baseball Club of Plainfield. It shows in its lists of records how the Plainfield team was the terror of all contemporary nines, not only in this county but also from all over this State and New York. Seldom was the local team compelled to bite the dust at the hands of its opponents and its record of victories is enough to make the Chicago Cubs turn white with fear and make Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics take another hold on the American league rag, which they have almost within their grasp. And the teams which the Plainfield boys bucked up against in those days were speedy ones too, their schedule always including the Atlantics, of Elizabeth, a club which at that time belonged to the National League.

But the game at that time was far different from the baseball which we know today. The ball, in use then, was made with more rubber than the present day sphereoid, and of course, this made it much livelier. The bat at that time was considerably broader and longer than the official Ty Cobb stick of 1910, and this helped materially in fattening the batting averages of the fathers and grandfathers of the boys who now frisk around the local diamonds and fight with the umpire when they make poor decisions. This is the only feature of the game of baseball that has not been altered in the last forty years, for the position of umpire has always reminded one of criticism, and it is likely that it always will. The pitcher in those games of the past was a real pitcher, according to Asa Collier, for the ball was delivered to the batter with a pitch and not with a throw, as it is now. And then gloves were unknown and unnecessary articles on the baseball diamond, even the catcher being without protection of any kind. But pitchers were not as speedy in those days and the curve ball was an unheard of thing. All of these attributed to the baseball game of forty years ago served to increase the number of runs in each game, the Centrals being accused of scoring 85 tallies in one game while their opponents only crossed the home pan ten times. A. L. Titsworth, who is now the organist of the Trinity Reformed church in this city, and who was the official scorer of the Central team, certainly had his hands full keeping up with the runs. It is said that he always carried an extra pencil or two in his pocket before attempting to keep score.

From all records in the score book, Asa Collier appeared to be the Christy Mathewson, Ty Cobb and Hans Wagner, of the old team, but Mr. Collier modestly denies such a title. When asked by a Daily Press reporter how it was then that he made so many runs each game, he said that he would admit that he could run like a deer and was pretty sure when it came to base stealing. In one game against the L. E. & F. Co. team, Mr. Collier lammed the horsehide for six home runs, and any number of three baggers and singles.

But not far behind Asa Collier came Jacob Van Deventer, who now resides on Woodland avenue and who was at that time a star pitcher and sure batsman. In nearly every game he could be counted on for a clean hit in a pinch and as a run getter, the score book proves that he was among the top notchers.

Augustus Van Deventer on third base was also one of the grand stand favorites. He now lives on Washington avenue, North Plainfield. Mr. Van Deventer clouted the leather covered sphere in great shape and always got his share of the home runs. Charles Daily and Edward Merritt, both of whom have since died, were steady and consistent players. The former held down the initial sack, while the latter ate up everything that came near second base. David Leeson, although not a king of the swatfests, always managed to do his part in the hitting. He has since passed away. Henry Leland and his brother M. Leland played steady games in right garden and short respectively. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, and his brother St. John McCutchen, also of the borough, were enthusiastic members of the club.

Only one member of the team, however, followed baseball as a profession. This was Frank Smith, the crack backstop of the Central nine. Shortly after his career with the Plainfield team, he moved out to San Francisco, where he introduced the more skillful game of baseball, which he had learned in the east, and was a constant promoter of the national game on the Pacific coast.

The games in Plainfield were then played on East Fifth street, on the grounds where the Edward C. Mulford's house now stands. Later, the diamond was moved up to the lot now occupied by the Scott's Press Works, and from there the team was forced to vacate to a lot nearer Netherwood, which at that time did not exist.

The old Central team lined up against the swiftest teams of its day in this vicinity. Among its opponents were: Rutgers College, Columbia College, Pingry College, of Elizabeth, the Atlantics of Elizabeth, the Nationals, of Williamsburg, the Fly Killers, of Bound Brook, and Cranford and Somerville.

The scores of all games were, of course, in the high numbers; but the worst one on record is 93 to 3 against the Bergen Baseball Club, of Bergen, on September 1 ,1869. In this contest the scorer had to use double columns and then work over time.

A silver baseball was presented to the team by C. A. Leveridge, at one time a resident of this city, for winning the championship of this county. The ball is perfect in size and is handsomely engraved. The final struggle for it came in a game with Cranford when the Plainfield team easily showed its superiority over its rivals, and thus obtained the claim to the undisputed championship of this county.

Mr. Collier has placed the score book and silver ball on exhibition in his store and many of the local fans and those interested in the days of yore are viewing the historic record of Plainfield's champion team.

PLATT ADAMS LEADS Y. M. C. A. SLUGGERS

Platt Adams still continues to lead the Y. M. C. A. sluggers. He has wielded the willow so far this season to the tune of .346, but this has been for only seven games. Fritts continues his good batting and has credited himself with .276 for sixteen games. In the five games which he has played Frederickson has only managed to squeeze out one single, but his box work more than makes up for his batting.

The Y. M. C. A. team is scheduled to play at Raritan on Saturday. Manager Line tried to get the Newark Y. M. C. A. nine to play the local team on the Oval Saturday, but the Newarks couldn't fill the date.

BASEBALL.

Unless the Y. M. C. A. can arrange a game on the Oval Saturday it looks as though that historic ball ground would be deserted. The Plainfield team goes to Asbury Park for a game with the ex-collegians and the Dunellen team has cancelled its game with the Y. M. C. A. The manager of the association nine is trying to land a game with Raritan and if this contest does come off, local fans may expect a hard fight.

Every lover of baseball is anxiously watching the outcome of this series between the Tigers and the Athletics. Jennings' men are traveling at their top speed now and are going to make the Philadelphia team fight it out in New York for the championship of the American league.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. has turned out two classy pitchers this year and both of them youngsters at that. Slocum and Frederickson are the gentlemen referred to. Both of them have made excellent records with the association bunch but Frederickson seems to have the advantage of his contemporary in the head work of the game.

That return throw by Nolan, of the Bound Brook team, in the game against Dunellen Saturday, was certainly up to league standards.

That percentage columns do not always show whether a baseball team is playing good ball or not is clearly demonstrated in the case of the Brooklyn National league team. The Superbas lost a game to Cincinnati yesterday 1-0 after a twelve-inning battle. And that is the way with most of the games played by the Dodgers—but look at their standing in the pennant race.

Samuel Bogart, Sidney Rockwell and Francis Foster, of this city, and all former Plainfield High School baseball stars, have signed for the season with a strong New York nine. Foster is doing the twirling, Rockwell, the catching, and Bogart is holding down the second bag. They are all winning the plaudits of the New York fans.

Jack Martin had his eye on the ball in Saturday's game with Morristown and clouted out a two sacker and a single. And the hits came at just the psychological moment, too.

Platt Adams, that Olympic baseball player on the Y. M. C. A. team, shifted his position to second base Saturday and let his brother Ben, cover the initial sack. But Platt isn't the second baseman that he is first sacker; he is a little slow in tagging base runners and he can't seem to get around the second base territory as sprightly as he can cover his accustomed place.

That home run swat by Nelson in the Morristown game might have been a fluke but the run counted just the same.

Seery's work behind the bat for Dunellen on Saturday was O. K., but he was weak with the stick.

Giddes and Dodwell certainly had off days in Saturday's game; it is seldom that one sees this combination making two errors apiece.

Why That Car Should be a Buick.

When you buy an automobile, you buy a power plant. Anybody can build a body, we happen to build our own; some manufacturers get them outside; most carriage builders make automobile bodies. Most of them are making more bodies than carriages—but it takes knowledge and experience to design and construct a power plant. The design of the Buick engine closely resembles the best type of foreign make. Our transmission is of the selective sliding gear type and is built forward. The rear axle is of the latest bevel pinion make. Simplicity of construction and surplus power is the key-note of our chassis. Nor is it necessary to be a mechanic to keep a Buick in condition. We take a pride in our cars, both before and after they are sold, but as that pride is not for sale all that you pay for is the car.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sandford, of East Front street, and Mulford Estill, of Park avenue, went to Atlantic City, today, where they will be registered at the Marlborough-Blenheim.

DUFFY COULDN'T COLLECT

ASKS HELP TO RECOVER $20.

Receives No Encouragement From Those to Whom Appeal for Aid is Made—Perhaps Someone Will Take up Case.

Will William Duffy ever get pay for a month's work? He is asking others besides himself this momentous question. And with reason, top. Mr. Duffy entered the office of District Court Clerk Horace Adams this morning and after making known to Mr. Adams why he came to him, told his little tale of woe.

Duffy first said that he was an honest laboring man and farmer, and that he had been engaged by a man at the east end of town to work at "twenty dollars a month and found", but that at the expiration of the first month, the promised twenty not being forthcoming, he had decided to make a change. He said the man's name was Van Ness and that he refused absolutely to pay him the money. A casual acquaintance told Duffy to appeal to Clerk Adams, who would start the machinery of the law for him in an endeavor to collect the twenty.

"I wouldn't work for that man again even if he let me sit in the parlor and play the piano all day and have nothing else to do, if I had to listen to his blackguardly talk all the time I was in the house," said Duffy. "And I'll give anyone of you half of the twenty dollars if you'll collect what's due me."

Duffy surely looked as though he needed the money. His clothing is practically rags, his toes are peeping from his shoes, and a shave would be a luxury which he has evidently not enjoyed in many a day.

After his story was told Duffy had to listen to what his chances were for recovering his wages. He received very little encouragement, and went away a disappointed man. He delivered this peroration as he went out of the door: "Things are coming to a pretty pass when an honest man doing the best he knows how under the promise of receiving pay for his labor, is thrown out into the world without the money for which he has worked so hard. I canot believe or at least I would not believe until now that such a thing could happen in this part of the world. What's the use of working if you don't get anything for your labor?" Nobody appeared able to answer this poser, and Mr. Duffy wended his hard way out into the street, apparently unable to comprehend the full meaning of his situation.

Several well known lawyers were present when Duffy told his story, but none of them could hold out any encouragement of recovering his wages for him.

FORTUNE CRANE BRIGHTENS HOME OF R. N. CRANE.

Congratulations have been pouring in on Counsellor Robert Newton Crane since early this morning and at noon his right hand was so nearly limp that no one need be surprised if when offering to shake with him today or tomorrow Mr. Crane should offer his left hand.

The cause of all the happy smiles and congratulatory remarks is the advent in the Crane household of another baby. This newcomer is a boy and a veracious scale declares his weight to be twelve pounds. A name suitable for this latest citizen has been chosen. He will be known as Fortune. Let's hope it proves prophetic.

Miss Case Visiting Friends.

Miss Anna Lucretia Case, formerly of this city, but now of New York, has been visiting Mrs. John C. Van Dyke and Miss Sarah Boss, of East Fifth street. She is taking her vacation this month, and will return to grand opera in September.

Letter-carriers John Hines and Thomas Meaney, of the local postoffice, started on their vacations today. Their positions are being filled for the two weeks by Fred Harold and Frank Keller.

August Rainfalls.

Weather Sergeant John Neagle reports that .13 inches of rain fell on Tuesday and .25 inches on Wednesday. The total fall for August so far is 3.86 inches.

William Sharkey, of Whitewood avenue, is improving after a severe illness. He expects to be around in a few days.

FOWLER SILENT ON RUNYON'S SPEECH

If the statement made Monday night by Judge William N. Runyon, candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Fifth district, to the effect that he had not indorsed the open letter recently published by Congressman Chas. N. Fowler, his opponent, is not true, Fowler is apparently not worrying much over it. Wednesday night when approached on the subject, he simply smiled and refused to say a word in regard to his opponent's declarations.

"Have you any reply to make to Judge Runyon's speech of last night?" Mr. Fowler was asked.

"What was the speech?" the Congressman inquired. "I have read nothing of it."

After he was told of Runyon's denial that he had indorsed the letter Mr. Fowler chuckled and said:

"I have nothing to say."

"Did you meet Judge Runyon in a New York restaurant and read the letter to him for his approval?" was the next question.

Again Mr. Fowler chuckled and refused to answer.

Before the Downtown Republican Club Monday night Judge Runyon emphatically denied that he had indorsed the open letter in which Charles N. Fowler had attacked United States Senator John Kean and others.

Mr. Runyon said that on appointment he had met Fowler in a New York restaurant, and that during a luncheon the letter was read to him. Mr. Runyon claimed that he told Mr. Fowler it would be better not to publish the letter, and said further that he made no suggestions concerning the letter.

Mr. Fowler is believed to have something up his sleeve that he will reveal within the next two weeks. The Insurgents, at their meeting in Elizabeth Monday night, planned to have meetings in every city and town in the Fifth Congressional district next Monday night. Fowler will probably appear before several of the gatherings.

PLAINFIELDERS WITNESS AEROPLANE ACCIDENT

Among the Plainfielders who witnessed the flight and accident to Walter A. Brookins, the Wright aeroplanist, at Asbury Park yesterday were David J. Carney, H. A. Todd, Alexander Milne and Charles Dutcharr. These men were only about fifty feet away from the bird man when he fell and were among the first to render assistance to those who were injured.

Mr. Todd lifted the remains of the aeroplane from the body of George Burnett, a fourteen-year-old boy of Spring Lake, who subsequently died in the hospital. Others of the party assisted the police and national guardsmen to lift the machine and extricate Brookins from the wreck. Others who were with the Plainfielders were William Devereaux, secretary of the New Jersey State Democratic committee, together with a group of newspaper men, all of whom rendered assistance in succoring the injured.

Mr. Carney in describing the accident this morning declared that from the moment the aviator began his ascent he was ready and on his toes to make a sprint for safety in case of the machine falling. The wind was tricky and Mr. Carney was sure that Brookins would fall. His fears were well founded, for no sooner had the aviator made the turn to begin a spectacular descent than the machine swerved at an angle of 45 degrees and like a flash was down on the ground, smashed to plinters.

When the wreck was removed from the prostrate man it was thought he had been killed outright, but on moving his body a faint groan showed that he was still alive. His injuries although, painful, are not considered fatal.

UNION COUNTY OUTING WILL BE BIG AFFAIR

The annual outing of the Union County Republicans at Rockaway on Saturday promises to be the biggest affair of its kind in the history of the organization. This is largely due to the unusual interest in the approaching campaign, which is sure to be exceptional, and the faithful ones are anxious to get together and talk over the situation and learn what the leaders have to say on the question. County Chairman F. H. Smith, who has just returned from his vacation, will lead the county Republicans, and there will be plenty of State notables on the trip to keep everyone busy throughout the day.

William Jeffery will lead a delegation of fifteen Republicans from Berkeley Heights, and everyone will wear a badge, declaring themselves to be for Judge William N. Runyon for Congress. "Bill" has also planned some other surprises to enliven the occasion.

Of course, all the prospective candidates will be there to present their claims and secure the endorsement of the party, and altogether it promises to be a lively time. The start will be made from Elizabethport by boat and those from Plainfield, planning to go will leave here about 8 o'clock.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS PLAY TO CAPACITY AUDIENCE

George Evans and his Honey Boy minstrels were greeted by a capacity audience at the Plainfield Theatre, last night, when the first public performance of the season was given, and at the conclusion everyone went away with aching sides from continuous laughter. While in many respects the old-time minstrel features have been retained, there are many novelties, which are sure to delight and please.

The original and only George Evans and his organization lived up to to all the promises made and the show is destined for a long run in New York. The solo work and chorus throughout were of a high order, the songs were new, with an occasional old-time favorite for an encore, and the jokes sparkled with originality and genuine humor, in fact there was not a dull moment from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

George Evans, in his original line of talk, was the big hit, and he kept the audience in continual laughter all the time he was on the stage. He was really funny and everyone was quick to appreciate his jokes.

Among the minstrel favorites appearing last night were John King, Sam Lee, Vaughn Comfort, James Meehan, Clarence Marks, Tommy Hyde, Charles Hilliard, Tom Kane, Pierce Keegan, Master Fagan, Wilson Miller and Ned Brill. The master hands of George M. Cohan and James Gorman were seen in the pleasing stage settings.

Perhaps, a feature of greatest interest was the appearance of James J. Corbett, first as interlocutor, and later as "Gentleman Jim," in a realistic sketch of the recent fight at Reno. He told his story with all earnestness.

Mr. Corbett concluded his story by adding that 'even though Johnson did win the fight, I would rather be with Jeffries any day." The show was concluded with a bright, galloping sketch, "The Firemen's Picnic," written by George M. Cohan. It had all the earmarks of Cohan and was filled with bright, catchy lines and new songs with that swing which characterizes all of Cohan's music. The show was given here under the management of W. J. Counihan.

Good Weather for Elks.

The elements have listened to reason and the weather man who has been filling the air with a varied assortment of atmosphere for the past few days has turned off the water cocks, and this afternoon there will undoubtedly be a large gathering of baseball fans at Crescent Oval to witness the clash between the Elks' team from Burlington and a nine made up from the local lodge.

Salvation Army Tent Dry.

The Salvation Army tent is perfectly dry for tonight's meeting which will begin at 8 o'clock and will be led by Captain Hewitt. There will be a welcome extended to everyone who comes.

In the District Court.

Business was dull in the District Court this morning, several judgments for small amouns having been given by Judge Newcorn. There was no contest in any of the cases.

WILL LIVE LIKE INDIANS

Party of Plainfield Boys to Camp Out at Lake George for Two Weeks.

TO DO THEIR OWN COOKING.

Camp is Maintained by Famous Boys' Scout Movement—A Visit from Roosevelt Promised.

The Plainfield delegation to the Earnest Thompson Seton camp on Lake George will leave for the lake Tuesday afternoon, where they will live for two weeks just as the Indians used to live and have a general good time. There are six boys in the Plainfield party, under the leadership of Chauncey R. Murphey, who has charge of the Plainfield tepee. In the local party will be Chauncey Murphey, leader; Schuyler Line, Frank Dunning, Wiliam Thompson, Cedric Ostrom, Murdock Hetfield, and Paul Hovey, of Washington, D. C.

This camp is being run in connection with the famous Boys' Scout Movement and is called the "Experimental Woodcraft Camp." The boys will have to live just as close to nature as they possibly can and learn the ins and outs of woodcraft. The boys are to do their own cooking and it is to be done inside the tepee, which the boys build themselves under the direction of Chauncey Murphey. The boys use their own dishes for the purpose, but buy their food from a commissary department. Each one is supposed to live on no more than thirty cents a day.

The tepee, which the city boys built is twelve feet in diameter and is constructed according to Indian style. The camp is to be made up of 120 boys from nearly every state in the Union.

It is expected that this camp will prove a grand success and already several prominent men have promised to visit it, including Theodore Roosevelt.

The entire work of the camp is under the direction of Ernest Thompson Seton, the well known author and writer. The officers of the Boys' Scout Movement are aiding materially in the development of the plans.

MAY LOWER TAX RATE A FEW POINTS

The local Board of Assessors has about completed its work of preparing the books to be sent to the County Board of Taxation for approval, but as yet no definite figures can be obtained. It is known that there will be a large increase this year in valuation in this city, and for this reason the assessors hope to keep the tax rate down; in fact, it has been said that it is likely to be a point or two less than last year. This would be welcome news to taxpayers, who have felt that the rate is pretty high.

The councilmanic finance committee in making up its tax budget has cut down various items, all with a view to lowering the rate. The contingent fund for next year was made a thousand dollars less than last year, and the money received from the State for school purposes will also help considerably. The expense of maintaining the schools here is probably the biggest item in the budget, but taxpayers generally believe that the money is well spent and is justified by the results.

"STATE OF DRASTIC MEASURES" NEW NAME FOR TEXAS.

Texas is looming up on the horizon as the "State of Drastic Measures" and bids fair to take away from her sister states the honor of driving the hardest bargains with the liquor interests. Three bills which are to be introduced into the next legislature are responsible for this declaration.

One of the new bills, which its introducer, Representative J. T. Briscoe, says will pass both houses, provides a penalty for treating in a public place. This will do away with much of the drunkenneess, says its sponsor.

Another bill none the less stringent provides for the closing of all saloons and bars between the hours of 6 p. m. and 7 a. m. No long all-nightd rinking bouts for the Texans. The third and last bill which is known as the "Ten Mile" bill, prohibits the sale of liquor within ten miles of any educational institution. This last named act has already been passed by the lower house and will come up in the fall for final passage.

HEALTH OFFICER DEFIED; TO PROSECUTE DEALER

Despite the warnings given out by John O'Brien, the health officer, regarding the covering up of foodstuffs exhibited for sale in the different marts of the city, many cases of negligence have been discovered since Monday, and the inspectors of the Board of Health have given a final warning to these delinquents.

Mr. O'Brien personally conducted an investigation this morning and found in some instances that absolutely no attention has been given to the instructions which have repeatedly been given to storekeepers in regard to the safeguarding of their wares from dust and flies.

Owing to this deregard of the health ordinances, another warning was given to some of the worst offenders this morning, and if by Saturday these storekeepers and peddlers have not complied with the regulations of the department they will be prosecuted under that section of the laws of 1909 which provides heavy fines for violations.

There is no question that the health officer has given ample time for all dealers to arrange their stores with a view to meeting the requirements of the law, and it will not be the fault of the board if prosecutions ensue by reason of the neglect of dealers themselves.

MAJOR W. B. MARTIN TO DEFEND TITLE

Camp Perry, Ohio, Aug. 11.—Among the many marksmen ready to compete in the matches at Camp Perry is Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, who will defend his title of military champion of the United States next week. Major Martin won this title last year by making the highest aggregate score in the President's match and the national individual match, although he did not win either of these matches. His total score in the President's match was 314 and in the national individual match 322. The winner of the President's match was Midshipman Andrew D. Denny and of the National Individual Match was Midshipman Herbert O. Roesch. All three of these marksmen received letters from President Taft congratulating them on their victories.

Major Martin, familiarly known as "Billy" Martin, and former captain of Company K, is one of the most popular men in the shooting game. A total abstainer from alcohol and tobacco he is nevertheless a most companionable fellow always ready with a good story and a hearty laugh. He has done some great shooting. Among other trophies he carried off the Wimbledon Cup in 1901, and was a member of the American team which captured the World's prizes at the Olympic games at Bisley, England in 1908. On his return he was given a rousing reception by the Mayor and citizens of Elizabeth, his home town.

HOPE CHAPEL EXCURSION NEXT ONE FOR THE SEASON.

The next excursion from this city to Asbury Park will be that of Hope chapel, on Saturday. The train will leave Grant avenue station at 7.55 in the morning and Plainfield station at 8 o'clock. This excursion has in former years been a most popular one, and this season promises to be equally so. Unusual interest is being shown in the outing for the reason that it affords an opportunity for Plainfielders to see the airship flights at the shore.

In addition to the above attraction, the Plainfield Baseball Club will accompany Hope chapel to the Park, where it will cross bats with the Ex-Collegians, a fast team. Many excursionists have planned to witness the contest. "Warry" McLaughlin and Walter Nelson will be in the points for Plainfield.

Want Convention Date Changed.

At the meeting of the Democratic County Committee, held last night in Elizabeth, a resolution was passed in which it was decided to ask Edward Nugent, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to change the date for the convention from September 15 to a later date, preferably October 4. The resolution was introduced by General Dennis F. Collins.

Elm Beetle Wins Out.

The old elm trees which have been in years past an ornament to the front of the First Presbyterian church on East Front street, have succumbed to the ravages of the elm beetle, and yesterday were felled and sawed up for firewood.

PROGRESSIVES NOT LIKELY TO ENDORSE FOWLER

There is a small likelihood of Representative Charles N. Fowler getting a formal endorsement from the Republican Progressives as a candidate for the United States Senate from Jersey. Mr. Fowler has been setting his political sails so as to catch an endorsement, but the Prograssives are wary of running into serious shoals by boarding the former's craft and he will be left to work himself into a safe port.

The Progressives plan to let the voters decide the question of the Senatorship so far as they are concerned. At least, this is the position to be taken by the Essex county Progressive aspirants for membership in the House of the Assembly next winter. These candidates will get together in Newark tonight and it is planned that they will then take a pledge to vote for the Senatorial aspirant who receives the greatest number of votes at the forthcoming primaries. In doing this they will not stand as the special friends of any of the men who want to succeed John Kean in the upper house of Congress.

Several of the Progressive candidates for the Legislature are men experienced in the State law-making body, among them being William Fellowes Morgan, Eliot E. Ford, Henry C. Hines and Philip Walsh, Jr. These men have served heretofore as members of the House of the Assembly, having been elected as "new idea" devotees. There is a demand for Colonel Austin Colgate to again make a fight for a legislative office, but it is hardly likely that he will do so because he has given his consent to run as the Republican candidate for Mayor of Orange. There is also some talk about trying to include Colonel Colgate to run as an anti-Cannon candidate for Congress in the Seventh district. It is said George H. Austin, of East Orange, will be the "insurgent" aspirant for the Republican Congressional berth in the Eighth district.

BIG CROWD ACCOMPANY KNIGHTS TO THE SHORE

More than sixteen hundred happy excursionists left this morning for Asbury Park on the annual excursion conducted by Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus. There were large delegations from the Sunday schools of St. Mary's and St. Joseph's churches of this city, and borough, and St. John's church, of Dunellen.

The excursion train was made up of twenty-nine cars, fifteen in the first section and fourteen in the second. The first section was entirely filled and all but two cars of the second section, were occupied. Both rains were late in starting, the first one getting under way at 8.36 and the second one at 8.41, but everyone got aboard safely and no one was left behind, it was reported.

The executive committee in charge comprises Arthur A. Cannon, chairman; Charles Kling, Francis J. Blatz, A. E. Kenney, John Y. Kenney, Clinton Shannon, C. W. Fogarty, Robert McCormick, David Doyle, J. J. Carty, James O'Keefe and John C. Trainor.

All the members of the Council are distinguished by white ribbon badges and the members of the executive committee were known by red badges. The return from the shore will be made at 7.10 tonight.

L. L. BAKER, CONFECTIONER, MAKES ASSIGNMENT.

L. L. Baker, the confectioner, whose place of business is on West Front street, made an assignment to V. W. Nash, Jr., this morning for the benefit of his creditors. The liabilities, according to the schedule, amount to $4 570, with nominal assets of $4,076.80. The papers were filed in Elizabeth this morning by Mr. Nash.

The reasons given for the assignment are poor health and inexperience in the business. To all appearances Mr. Baker was doing a splendid trade, and the assignment comes as a distinct surprise to his many friends. In recent weeks unprofitable ventures have helped to deplete his capital and the illness from which Mr. Baker suffers has prevented him from giving the business the attention which it should have.

Bussell Goes to Trades School.

Morris Bussell, the youngster who has been in some recent scrapes in which malicious mischief was charged, was taken to New York by his sister today. The boy has been entered in the Hebrew trades school.

LEAVE BOARD OF HEALTH

Wilson Fredericks and John Campbell Resign from Dunellen Council.

MR. CHURCHILL RETIRES, TOO.

Attention Called to Alleged Irregularities in Office of Borough Collector—Further Steps in Sewer Matter.

Because they declare that they cannot give the necessary time to preparing the weekly report of health conditions, Wilson Fredericks and John Campbell, resigned as members of the Dunellen Board of Health, Tuesday night. The council did not, however, accept the resignations. Both Mr. Fredericks and Mr. Campbell gave as their reasons for retiring their inability to comply with the State law as to the weekly report, which is demanded. They claimed that too much other business prevented them from complying with the requirements. Mr. Campbell was president of the board.

Some time ago the inspector from the State Board of Health and the Dunellen board had a controversy on this matter and this is said to have led to the resignations on Tuesday night.

Councilman Lewis T. Churchill also resigned as a member of that body on Tuesday night, after serving the borough several years. He will be engaged by Hering & Fuller, engineers, in the survey for the proposed borough sanitary sewer system and on this account he is forced to retire. His resignation was accepted.

Mayor Sanford called attention to some irregularities in the office of the borough treasurer and collector, in that it was alleged that borough vouchers had been loaned to various citizens, thus causing the possibility of failing to have the vouchers when wanted. The finance committee will take up the matter at once.

Further steps toward a sewerage system were made by the Council, when it appropriated $350 for the expense of the survey of the land. Mayor Sandford suggested that street drainage be incorporated with the sewerage system. After a discussion, the Council decided to look into the matter of a preliminary survey for the drainage system.

The charges which were brought before the Council by Michael Gallagher, were laid over until the first meeting in September. An adjourned meeting of the Council will be held next week to take action on the borough water contract with the Watchung Water Company, which expires at that time. The contract is made for five years and it is understood that conditions of the agreement this year will be practically unchanged.

PATROLMAN MYERS' FATHER DIES AT ROCKAWAY.

Peter D. Myers, father of Patrolman Nicholas Myers, died at his home near Rockaway Beach on Monday and was buried yesterday. Mr. Myers was a veteran of the Civil War and the Mexican War as well. He entered the service at the age of 14 and went through the campaign in Mexico as a drummer boy.

Besides being a veteran of two wars Mr. Myers was a veteran of the old volunteer firemen of Brooklyn. He also served as a patrolman on the Brooklyn Police force. After resigning from the force he studied electricity and became a fine mechanic in that line.

Mr. Myers was born at Nyack in 1833 and shortly afterwards his parents moved to the Williamsburg district of Brooklyn where Mr. Myers first entered into public life as a volunteer fireman. He was a member of Company D, Fourth U. S. Volunteers, which served throughout the entire struggle between the North and South. He was a Mason and Past Commander of Dupont Post, No. 187, of Brooklyn.

Mr. Myers leaves a widow and six sons, three of whom are policemen, and a sister, Mrs. Louis Mc Ray, of Brooklyn. The funeral services were held last night and the interment today was made in Mount Olivet cemetery, Brooklyn.

Social Activity at P. C. C.

The marked increase in the number of dinner parties at the Plainfield Country Club, indicates as unusual social season. Superintendent John Hilton has been kept busy week days and Sundays providing for these parties and all appreciate the fine service, as well as the variety of the menus. The dining-room is so situated that it commands a fine view of the surrounding country, and it is one of the coolest spots to be found on warm days.

WESTFIELD.

A special school election will be held in Garwood next Friday evening between 8 and 9 o'clock to vote an appropriation of $4,000 for the purchase of a portable frame building to be used as a kindergarten classroom. The idea is to place the building on the grounds of the Jefferson school and later move it south of the track, where the greater number of small children live.

So many complaints have been made about the United States Express Company blocking the sidewalk in front of the office on Elm street, that arrangements have been made to have the wagons drive to the rear of the building to load and unload, leaving the front clear.

The Westfield Federation of Church Clubs has arranged for a second open-air union service, which will be held on the lawn of the Congregational church on Elm street, next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Westfield assessors have already completed their work of assessing. As shown by the work so far, the total valuations of the town will be increased about $350,000 over the valuation of last year.

RARITAN.

Eddie, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Casey, who had a narrow escape from drowning a few days ago, is about again. He was fishing in the canal, when he fell in. He was near the outlet pipe of Duke's new power house, and the suction was so strong that it nearly dragged the boy beneath the surface of the water. He managed to hold on to the wall and called for help. His father was working nearby, and reached him, but it was only by using all his force that he was able to pull the boy from the stream just as the lad was becoming exhausted.

Mrs. James Clark and Miss Ellen McKeown have been spending several days with relatives in Flemington.

Robert Fern, of Whittier avenue, is enrolled among the new students at the Plainfield Business College. He will begin his studies next Tuesday when the fall term of the school commences.

Many of the boroughites, who are interested in Rutgers college, will regret to learn of the recent death of Dr. R. W. Page, who held the chair of history in that institution.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Letters from Phil Smith, after his first day in camp, describe Greenwood Lake as a most charming place much larger and more beautiful than Lake Hopatcong. Mountains loom up in every direction, no mosquitoes and the climate is most delightful. Large steamers ply the lake and are owned by the Erie Railroad.

William J. Ledden has made extensive improvements around his place, laying a concrete walk and steps and beautifying the place with fancy flower beds. Although his plot is only the size of a city one, he has a fine vegetable garden also.

Yesterday being a dark day the mill dam was filled with fishermen who were fairly successful. One man seemed to have more luck than all the rest put together, having caught a string he could scarcely carry home.

Mr. Fuller, who bought Fred Lounsbury's poultry farm, has over two thousand white leghorn fowls which are a picture to look upon sporting in and around his large peach orchard.

WILL LONG HIDDEN TAKES PROPERTY FROM WIDOW

If a legal way of getting around the problem can be found, it is possible that the First Methodist church of Rahway may refuse to accept the bequest of the property of Elizabeth Ann Randolph, who died in 1893, but whose will has just come to light. It had been kept unprobated and hidden by her son, John O. Randolph, who had a life interest in the property under the terms of the will. Randolph died July 21. In searching through the box in which he kept his papers, his widow, her daughter and the husband of another daughter, now dead, found the will. The widow turned it over to a local law firm. By its terms she and her children are shown to have no interest in the property, which they supposed they had inherited from Randolph. It had always been thought that he owned the property in fee. It is now evident that he knew of the existence of the will and kept its existence secret.

The property consists of two small houses and a plot at Estabrook and Central avenues. It was worth about $2,500 when Mrs. Randolph died, and is now worth about $4,000. Mrs. John O. Randolph is about sixty years old, and if the church takes the property she will be left penniless. The pastor of the church and members of the board of trustees declare that they are not in favor of taking the property, or, at any rate, of taking it until after Mrs. Randolph's death.

The will, besides giving her real band would never permit her to touch the box in which the will and other papers were hidden. A thorough search has been made throughout the house, it being supposed that in his lifetime Randolph secreted papers and money. There is little ground, however, for the belief that he had any great amount.

The will, esbides giving her real estate to the church on condition that it erect a monument and keep her grave in repair, provides that $500 in cash be paid to the local council of the American Mechanics and $100 to her niece, Mrs. Sarah Wandels.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Corse Payton will celebrate all next week, beginning August 15, at the Academy of Music New York, his twentieth year in the show business by returning to the stage himself and playing "Rip Van Winkle", the role made famous by the late Joseph Jefferson. The play is just twenty years old, and while its hero is supposed to sleep twenty years twice every day, Mr. Payton has been very wide-awake as actor and manager for that length of time. This character is one of the actor-manager's best and he has made a careful study of both young and old Rip.

Miss Grace Fox will be the Gretchen and Miss Ethel Milton the Meenie. Little Corinne Malvern will play little Meenie. Claude Payton will be the Heinrich and little Florence Perrett, the little Heinrich. Joseph W. Girard will portray the strong character of Derrick von Beeckman and George Storrs Fisher will have the excellent comedy role of Cockles. The week after "Rip Van Winkle" will be Mr. Payton's last week at the Academy, and his company will be seen in "The Sporting Duchess", after which they will return to Mr. Payton's two Brooklyn houses, the Lee Avenue and the Bijou.

This week's attraction at the Academy is an excellent one, Hall Caine's stirring love drama, "The Christian", in which Viola Allen starred with such success and was supported by Edward Morgen. Minna Phillips has made a triumph as Glory Quayle and Claude Payton is a hit as John Storm, the self-willed young clergyman from the Isle of Man, who goes to London to rescue his sweetheart from her life as a music hall singer, surrounded by rich but dissolute admirers.

DEAD IN CHAIR FRIENDS THOUGHT GIRL ASLEEP.

Word was received in this city Tuesday of the sudden death of Miss Edna Dean Hilton, of Paterson, at Butler, where she had gone to spend her vacation. She died in a chair while reading a book. Friends thought her asleep.

Miss Hilton was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hilton, of 230 Kearny street, Paterson, and while she complained of feeling tired from the effects of the heat during the early part of the summer, she was in her usual health when she went to Butler, where she stopped at the home of Wilton Mead.

Members of the family thought she had fallen asleep and did not disturb her for a time. But later when her appearance was noticed and she did not answer to questions, it was found she was dead.

Prepared Orange.

Oranges that have been gathered too soon can be greatly improved by ripening by stove heat; place them in a moderately heated oven for thirty or forty minutes or until they give to the hand like pulling ripe fruit; the rind will then peel off like a glove and be reduced in thickness; if too hot to hold in the hand, use a fork; when peeled remove the seeds and the core, if possible; then, with a sharp knife, or better, long-bladed scissors, divide into portions, easily handled; you can safely add a tablespoonful of water and plenty of sugar.—S. D. G., in "Little Helps for Home-Makers," in the National Magazine for September.

SILVERIO PUT TO DEATH AT TRENTON TUESDAY NIGHT.

Pietro Silverio, an Italian, who shot and killed his employer, Mrs. Rose Guarino, living in Midvale, Passaic county, was put to death Tuesday night in the electric chair at the State prison. The usual number of volts, 1,800, were required to kill him.

Silverio had a quarrel with the woman in her home, and during the argument he ran upstairs and secured a shotgun. He chased the woman around the house and fired two bullets into her body. The murder occurred in June, 1909, and the condemned man's case was fought in the higher courts by his counsel, Vivian M. Lewis. He was first condemned to die last November.

Silverio was thirty-eight years old. He had no relatives in this country and the body will be interred in the prison cemetery. Drs. Hammond and Williams, of the State Hospital for the Insane, held a post-mortem on the body.

1807—Robert Fulton's boat, the Clermont, steamed up to Albany. Fulton first became known in the maritime world as the inventor of military torpedoes and submarine war craft. The Clermont, which was to establish steam navigation, was built in New York, but her engine was of English construction. The success of the Clermont was followed by a multiplication of steamboats, and numerous claimants for the honors awarded Fulton as the father of steam navigation were heard from.

STATE IS WATCHING INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The State Board of Health is closely watching for developments in the five Camden cases which are said to be infantile paralysis, an ailment which is puzzling to medical men.

"Infant paralysis, so-called," said Dr. Bruce S. Keater, secretary of the State Board of Health, yesterday "is not yet included in the infectious diseases, but the best physicians say: 'Take care of the ones so infected, and keep the child apart from others.'

"It is wise to sequester such a child, for to the best of our knowledge, to the present moment, there is likelihood of the disease being infectious.

"Down in Washington, D. C., where the National Medical Society met this summer, there was a report from a committee authorized to get the infectious elements of this disease, and their report was that this disease, seemingly, was carried along a street by the moisture on the street, and because of the filth, although it was noted that when the street was cleared by rains, that is, heavy rains, the outbreak of the epidemic receded. Apparently the disease is carried by some of these causes enumerated but we are not certain.

"While the physicians and sanitarians are not sure of this disease being infectious, I would recommend to the people of New Jersey that good citizenship requires a family with a little one afflicted with this unfortunate disease to keep the child away from others."

MAYOR GAYNOR IMPROVES; TALK OF CONSPIRACY

In the opinion of the surgeons who are caring for Mayor William J. Gaynor at St. Mary's hospital in Hoboken, the stricken man will recover, although it will take some time. Every hour during last night the bulletins announced increased strength of the patient and with he taking of solid food which began this morning the strength which Mr. Gaynor will need in order to withstand the shock of an operation is assured.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon it was reported that the Mayor was continually growing stronger, was calling more insistently for food and was able to converse for half an hour at a time. During the whole time since the shooting occurred he has held his own mind, seldom losing consciousness except when sleeping naturally.

Gallagher, the would-be assassin, seems to be indifferent to his own or the Mayor's fate. At times yesterday when pressed for a reason for his act, Gallagher would declare he was sorry that his bullet had not had an immediately fatal result, and in the next breath would evince sorrow for his act. There is now a suspicion that more than one man is implicated in the attempt to murder Mayor Gaynor. Patrolman Joseph P. Huck, it is alleged, gave away information while under the influence of liquor which indicates that a deeply laid plot is at the bottom of the attempted assassination. Huck has been suspended pending an investigation by Commissioner Baker.

BOROUGH PLANNING FOR SEWER SYSTEM

The Borough Council will hold an adjourned meeting tomorrow night to take further steps in the matter of establishing a sanitary sewer system in the borough. The question of the kind of pipe to be used will probably be decided. It is likely that some action will be taken regarding the purchase of land in the extreme western end of North Plainfield township for sewage beds. Mayor N. B. Smalley, as well as the members of the council, is anxious to get everything in shape so that the work can be started at the earliest possible date.

While the borough is pushing the sewerage matter along, Dunellen is also busy, that municipality planning to join in the same system. Just what Plainfield will eventually do, is not known at present. The borough agreed on figures for a merger in the cost of constructing a new plant, while Plainfield offered another figure. At that time the two municipalities could not agree on the share of the cost, but there are many who still hope that the matter may be amicably arranged in the near future, for it is realized that it is only a question of time when the city will have to enlarge its present system at a great expense, unless it joins with the borough. The latter arrangement would be preferable because it would remove the sewage beds further away.

Funeral of J. C. Wendell.

The funeral services of the late John C. Wendell were held from the Mt. Bethel Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Peter Gibbs, of Millington, officiated. Intermen was made in he church cemtery.

PACKING FLOWERS

To pack cut flowers it is a simple matter if one or two important points are attended to. Whatever size the box may be in which they are to be packed it must be quite filled without crushing. If the box is only half full the flowers are constantly moved about, so that they have very chance of being rubbed against each other, with the result that the petals are often scattered about the box, which arrives at its destination with its contents in a condition for from fresh.

Packed quite firmly flowers cannot expand, as they often do if placed loosely in a box. Line the box with soft green leaves, such as spinach or lettuce. Moss should not be used for packing flowers, as it frequently soils them, and if sent a long distance is apt to become heated.

Cotton absorbs the moisture of uct blooms and adheres to their stems, being very difficult to remove.

It is a very good plan to send flowers in wide, shallow boxes rather than in those of a shape narrow and dep. Plac the heavier flowers at the bottom and use plenty of leaves betwen each layer, leaving the top of the box for the lighter class of blooms and delicate ferns.

The boxes usd by confectioners make good receptacles for flowers, but those that have been used for soap or other strong smelling groceries must be avoided, as they rob the flowers of their perfume.

Dean Jolts Cornell's Head.

Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University, was walking across the campus the other day with the dean of one of the colleges, when the chimes of the library tower began to ring.

"Dean," said he, "the music of those chimes is so beautiful that it always sets me dreaming of the past. My boyhood days—"

"What do you say?" interrupted the venerable dean.

"I say the chimes are very, very beautiful. They make me think—"

"What?" yelled the dignified old dean again.

"The chimes—the chimes—how beautiful—"

"Speak louder," cried the dean once more, "I can't hear you for the devlish bells."—Short Stories.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Scientific "Guessing."

Lord Kelvin, half a century ago, put forth the opinion that the age of the earth might be anywhere from 20,000,000 to 400,000,000 years; but later in life, he cut his maximum estimate down to 40,000,000 years. Seventeen years ago, Dr. Walcott, of the Smithsonian Institution, reckoned that our globe was probably 70,000,000 years old. Professor Joly, eleven years ago, estimated the age of the sea at 80,000,000 years; while Solas quite lately reckoned that "old ocean" had rolled over its sandy bed for a period anywhere between 80,000,000 and 150,000,000 years. And now our geological survey professors, having found the same problem of the earth's antiquity wholly beyond their skill, have resorted to "scientific guessing," like all of their forerunners. They "guess" that this world of ours has been in existence somewhere between 55,000,000 and 70,000,000 years.

Since the dawn of human reason, four great problems have occupied the mind of man, viz.: The earth; the heavens above; God the Creator, and man and his destiny. These are still the master studies of the race, and each successive age gives us deeper insight into them. It is a fine thing when men of intellect take up such studies earnestly and with reverence. The more they investigate in this spirit, the sooner will they trace clearly the lines of agreement that exist between science and the Bible, rightly interpreted, and the less need will there be for a resort to "guesswork," such as that we have seen in relation to the age of the earth.—The Christian Herald.

Lucky New Jersey.

We called attention last week when the 1910 census figures for Jersey City, Hoboken and Bayonne were made public to the fact that New Jersey, though lying between two large states, whose chief cities are on its opposite borders, is not being drained of population, but benefited instead by that proximity. Hoboken has grown in the last decade at about the same rate as Manhattan Borough, Jersey City at about the same rate as Brooklyn and Bayonne at about the same rate as Queens and The Bronx. The figures for Camden, just given out, show that on the western boundary of the State conditions are practically identical.

In the decade from 1900 to 1910 Camden's population increased from 75,935 to 94,538—a gain of 18,603 or 24.5 per cent. That is probably a little larger relative growth than Philadelphia will show. In the preceding decade Philadelphia's gain was 23.5 per cent., while Camden's was 30.2 per cent. Philadelphia has not only not drawn population from New Jersey, but has fostered the growth of the communities on the opposite side of the Delaware River. Instead of being dwarfed by its two greater neighbors, New Jersey finds them generous and constant contributors to its prosperity.—The New York Tribune.

The Downtown Meeting.

The reception given Judge Runyon Monday evening at the public meeting of the Downtown Republican Club was enthusiastic and genuine. The sincerity and frankness of the candidate for the nomination in the Fifth Congressional district made an impression with the audience, composed largely of workingmen, which would have pleased any aspirant for honors at the gift of the people. The speech was more apologetic than Judge Runyon will be called upon to make again, since certain charges had been made in connection with his candidacy which he thought wise in opening his campaign to clear up for all time. Otherwise the address of the man who would be Mr. Fowler's successor showed ability to discuss the issues of the campaign with intelligence, indicating good grasp of National affairs.

Judge Runyon's statement of principles, which gives the voters a good idea of where he stands on important issues, should be read with care by all those interested in the campaign in the Fifth Congressional District. As the campaign develops he will doubtless give his views more fully on the more important questions which are now before the people. It is sufficient now to note that there is no attempt at evasions, and no desire to cater to radicals or conservatives. Even on the Cannon issue Judge Runyon is entirely sane, declaring himself, in connection with the rules of the House, in favor of "such system as shall best secure fairness and equal rights for all members."

Judge Runyon's campaign for the Congressional nomination has started off favorably; and if he continues to get hearings all over the district as there can be little doubt about the result of the contest in which he is engaged.—Elizabeth Journal.

The Frelinghuysen Boom.

There are, let us say, twenty thousand citizens of New Jersey who own and operate automobiles in that State. We have not the exact figures at hand, but Frelinghuysen, of Somerville, the leading authority on the motor car in New Jersey politics, would know to a car.

Besides the twenty housand automobile owners, more or less, in New Jersey, it may be estimated that there are at least three times that number of citizens and voters, relatives and friends of the above mentioned twenty thousand, who sympathize absolutely with the views and political intentions of the automobile owners. This is because the interests and participation of the non-owning automobilists are precisely the same as those of the recorded possessors. Mr. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, may not believe that the automobilist voters of this secondary description are so numerous or so much in earnest as we think they are, he has a right to his own opinion in that respect.

These eight thousand voters more or less constitute a factor in the contemporaneous politics of New Jersey which is not only numerically portentous but is also a phenomenon in the way of solidarity. The eighty thousand more or less are animated by a single hope and actuated by a single purpose. Their hope is that the Hon. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, the father of automobilism in politics, may be gratified in his desire to receive the Republican nomination for Governor this fall. Their purpose, in case he shall be the Republican candidate, is to turn upon him and rend him at the polls and leave him there unrecognizable.

Such is the nature of the Frelinghuysen boom in New Jersey. Few politicians have ever entered the preliminary campaign for nomination with a backing like his. The prayers of the eighty thousand more or less who believe that the fair name of the State among her sisters demands the political extermination of the Senator from Somerset county, and who are ready to waive for that reason the ordinary considerations of party regularity, will be most enthusiastically for Frelinghuysen up to the time of the Republican State convention. Somerset has already declared for him. His name and fame ought to sweep the other twenty counties like a gasolene whirlwind.

Afterward, meaning next November, Senator Frelinghuysen will be likely to see what he does see up to the moment of unconsciousness. It is an easy problem in mental arithmetic. Consider the eighty thousand more or less now at his back and later at his fifth rib. Consider the fact that Governor Fort carried New Jersey three years ago by a plurality of 8,000. Subtract Frelinghuysen's eighty thousand from Fort's eight thousand and add the square root of Woodrow Wilson plus the logarithm of that venerable relic of Democratic common sense in campaign management the Hon. James Smith, Jr.—The New York Sun.

INSURANCE AGAINST RAIN.

Basking Ridge, Aug. 11.—The possibility of rain here on the days when the big carnival of the firemen takes place has no terrors for those in charge now. They were worried about it for a long time, but through Lloyds, of London, the problem has been solved. A policy for $1,000 has been issued by the English company to insure the carnival against loss by rain.

Lloyds has laid a bet, so to speak with the firemen that it will not rain from 1 o'clock a. m. on Friday, August 19, to midnight of Saturday, August 20. If Jupiter Pluvius frowns on the festivities, Fortune, through the instrumentality of the insurance concern, will not turn her back completely on the celebrants.

KATZENBACH ANSWERS QUESTIONS PUT TO WILSON.

Trenton, Aug. 11.—Replying to the same list of questions submitted to Dr. Woodrow Wilson, who declined to commit himself on them, Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., as a receptive candidate for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, today, declared that he favored a public utility law with rate making powers, the nomination of candidates for Governor and Congress through a direct vote of the people, an effective employers' liability law, the popular election of United States Senators and a law to prevent the contribution of political assessments by office holders.

NEW JERSEY'S WORST BOY.

Ernest Dierst, an eight-year-old boy of Fairview, N. J., was pronounced by Justice Phillipps yesterday to be the worst boy of his age in the State of New Jersey.

"This youngster, besides being incorrigible, is brutal," said the Justice.. "He yesterday choked to death two chickens and smiled with fiendish delight as they struggled.

"He drove a nail into the body of a dog, and because his brother had more pears than he, slashed him on the head with a scythe. One prank, in which he took a great deal of pleasure, was to dig up a foot of lawn grass with a spade and throw it at the owner as he ran away."

From Lucile's Diary

I have often told mother that I think our maid should wear a cap, since good form really demands it.

"Tilly is so faithful and efficient and has been with us so long that I don't like to suggest any such unnecessary innovation," said mother the last time I brought up the subject.

I made no reply, but I determined to see what I could do. So I bought the daintiest kind of little French cap and one morning when Tilly was dusting my room I put it on my own head. It was quite becoming and I could see that Tilly admired me in it.

Soon I took it off and, pinning it on her yellow hair, I said: "Ah, look in the glass! Aren't you perfectly fine in it? I'll make you a present of the cap, Tilly."

"Thank you, Miss Lucile," she returned, a little ungraciously, "but I have never worn caps."

"But this such a pretty one," I said, "and it looks so nice on you, Tilly. I should think you'd like to look as nice as you can. That reminds me that I've been thinking about your teeth. Why it it that you don't have them attended to?"

"It costs so much for filling," she said, "and when one hurts very much I have it pulled out."

"That is just what makes your mouth look bad," I said, very seriously, for I am quite sensitive about some things, and the vacancies in Tilly's front teeth had made me uncomfortable for a long time. "If you'll have your teeth fixed I'll pay the dentist's bill."

"Oh, Miss Lucile!" exclaimed Tilly, quite overwhelmed with the offer. "Will you, really?"

"Yes, indeed, I'll be glad to. Now, you'll wear the pretty cap every day, won't you?"

"Yes'm," she answered.

"I'm glad," said mother, a few days later, "that Tilly at last is having some dentistry done, but it is inconvenient for her to be out so much. She says she will have to be at the dentist's nearly all day to-morrow, and as Fannie and I each have an engagement for the day I'm afraid you'll have to stay at home with your grandmother, Lucile."

"I don't mind it in the least, mother," I replied. I immediately decided to invite Arthur Knight to run up in his automobile for luncheon.

In the morning I went out and bought some of those queer imported pickled fish that Arthur likes especially. Then I got some weiss-wurst, caviar, roquefort cheese, rye bread and ripe olives. I knew that these things with ginger ale would make just the kind of meal that Arthur would enjoy for a change. He did eat heartily and we had a merry time, although it was a little depressing when grandmother refused everything on the table and I think she might at least have pretended to like some of the things I had gone to so much trouble to provide.

"Lucile," said mother, soon after she came home, "your grandmother isn't feeling well. She is weak and faint, and I fear she didn't eat enough lunch. What did you have?"

When I answered her question mother began to reproach me. "Why, Lucile," she said, "you might have known that your grandmother couldn't eat any of those things. She should have had some eggs or cream toast."

I think it was unkind of mother to speak harshly to me when I had stayed at home all day so cheerfully at her request. I think mother doesn't realize how often, in doing things for the family, I deny myself pleasure.

One evening last week Tilly came to me just before dinner with a slip of paper.

"All through at last, Miss Lucile," she said, with a happy smile that displayed two complete rows of front teeth.

"I congratulate you," I remarked, as I opened the paper. "Thirty-eight dollars!" I exclaimed. "Why, Tilly, there must be some mistake."

"No, the dentist said he did it very cheap."

"But I never expected to pay more than $12 or $15 at the most. I am sorry, but of course, I can't afford to spend all this money on your teeth. It's out of the question, for I haven't it."

"Then I don't know what I'll do," she said. "I have sent all my money to help my father pay for his farm."

She began to cry, and father, who had just come in, asked what the trouble was.

"Don't worry, Tilly," he said, when I had explained the matter to him as well as I could with Tilly interrupting every minute. "I shall see that the bill is paid, and it will cost you nothing." When she left me he turned to me. "I shall deduct $5 from your allowance every month until at least half of this sum is made up," he said. "That is the best way I know to express my opinion of your conduct in so rashly promising what you couldn't fulfill."

I don't see why father should be so severe with me about that unfortunate promise, for he is always telling me that he wants me to be generous with those who haven't as much as I.

Tilly did not wear her cap while waiting on the dinner table that night, nor has she worn it since. I am afraid she has no sense of gratitude. She must know that if it hadn't been for me she could not have had her teeth put in order.

The glass firms all state that the outlook for the coming blast is more promising than it has been for years, and the early adjustment of the wage scale makes a prompt start certain.

Sunday school scholars and hundreds of sorrowing friends attended the funeral services of George C. Whomsley in the First Baptist church at Burlington Tuesday afternoon. He was one of the best known Sunday school workers in the county, having been former associate superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday school there and active in other lines of Bible work for thirty-five years. He had also served several years as church clerk.

Cookery Points

Nothing is more refreshing than a cup of good tea when one is traveling, and nothing is harder to find when one is en route. One way to be sure of it is to provide one's favorite brand and tie it up by teaspoonfuls in squares of loosely woven cheesecloth. When a cup of tea is wanted ice water or hot water is never difficult to obtain, and one's own bag may provide the beverage. The bag is easier to throw away than the loose dregs. The little bags should be kept in a tin box or the flavor will be lost if the trip is to be of any length. A tea making spoon or a tea ball answers the same purpose, but it leaves the dregs to be disposed of and is more messy.

Cucumber Jelly.

Pare two cucumbers and cut in slices. Add a slice of onion, a stalk of celery, half a tablespoonful of nasturtium seeds, a piece of green pepper pod and half a teaspoonful of sweet herbs, with water to cover. Let simmer until the cucumber is tender, then press through a very fine sieve. Season with salt, pepper and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Then add for each pint of liquid one-third of a package of gelatin softened in one-third of a cupful of cold water and dissolve over hot water. Tint delicately with green vegetable color paste and turn into molds to harden. Serve with any salad dressing in the same way that tomato jelly is used.

Raspberry Buns.

Scald five cupfuls of milk. When cool add one teaspoonful of salt, one yeast cake and sufficient flour to make a drop batter. Beat well and set aside to cool. Cream together one pound of butter and one pound of sugar and stir it into the sponge when light. Add more flour to make a soft dough and set aside to rise a second time. Make up into small round buns, cut a slit in the bottom of each and work in a half of a teaspoonful of raspberry jam, pinch the cut together and place the buns on greased tins, cut side downward. When light bake in a hot oven and wash over with a little beaten egg while hot.

Cherry Sponge.

Soak one-half of a box of gelatin in one-half of a cupful of cold water. Pit one quart of stemmed cherries, steep the pits in one cupful of hot water for half an hour, then strain. Add to the water one cupful of sugar, bring to the boiling point and boil for three minutes. Pour over the cherries, cover and let stand for ten minutes, then press all through a colander. Dissolve the gelatin over hot water, add to the cherry mixture and set away until it begins to thicken. Add the well beaten whites of three eggs and beat on ice until all is thick and light. Turn into a wetted mold and set in a cold place until firm.

One Cause of Bad Coffee.

The cause for unpalatable coffee may often be traced to the cotton bag used in making it. Coffee, like butter and milk, has the quality of absorbing flavors from other foods, and if the bag has not been properly cleansed it may be sure to take the edge from the flavor of the coffee. The bag cannot be scalded in soapsuds and ever again be free from a taint of the suds. Once a week is not too often to make a fresh bag from new cheesecloth. After use it should be washed in clear water and be scalded and dried.

A Fine Shortcake.

For delicious shortcake—the most delicious known—make baking powder biscuits, break them in two while hot, arrange them broken side up on a platter and pile each with strawberries that have been cut in two or three pieces and left in sugar for half an hour or so, or the berries may be mashed and sweetened. There should be a good allowance of berries and juice in a bowl to serve as sauce on the biscuits.

Vanilla Ice Cream With Maple Sirup.

Put two or three tablespoonfuls of maple sirup in the bottom of a sherbet cup, add a well rounded tablespoonful of vanilla ice cream and sprinkle a tablespoonful of chopped walnuts on the top of the cream. Caramel or chocolate sirup may be used in the same way, or preserved strawberries or bar-le-duc currants may replace the sirups.

Oatmeal Soup.

Have three pints of broth—lamb, veal or chicken—nicely flavored with onion, celery, parsley, herbs and carrot; add one-fourth of a cupful of oatmeal and stir until boiling. Let simmer an hour, then strain. When ready to serve stir in the yolks of two eggs beaten and mixed with half a cupful of cream. Do not let boil after the addition of the egg yolks.

To Make Pineapple Jelly.

One of the problems frequent with young housewives is why pineapple is so hard to make into jelly even with gelatin. Old housewives know that the pineapple should be cooked before it goes into the jelly. A glance at the gelatin box will probably reveal the same advice.

"Number's Been Changed To"—

Maiden at the central switch,
There's a little problem which
Bothers me no little bit.
Maiden, can you fathom it?

When I call a number and
You in voice serenely bland
Say the number has been changed,
How your talk is disarranged!

"It's been changed," say you to me,
"To Blixumptythr-r-rixtyth-r-ree."
"What?" I query, unaware.
But you are no longer there.

Hence, O maiden, comes this lay!
Whatthedevil do you say
When them inshoot curves you pitch,
Maiden at the central switch?
—New York Mail.

Taking It as a Matter of Course.

"Isn't it a shame the way she abuses those poor children?"

"Have you ever seen her abusing them?"

"No."

"Have they complained that she treats them badly?"

"Not that I know of."

"How do you know, then, that she abuses them?"

"She's their stepmother, isn't she?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Auto Hint.

I sat in my auto
One day in the shade
To rest for awhile
When a sweet rustic maid
In a pretty red bonnet
Came walking my way
With a smile in her eyes
Like the sunshine of May.

"Ah, Little Red Riding Hood,
Greeting!" quoth I—
A very bold knight
To a maiden so shy.
"Beg pardon, I'm not."
She shook her small head.
"I'm little red walking hood,
Sir," she said.
—Success Magazine.

The Appeal.

"Does your reading arouse your emotions?"

"Yes, it does."

"Ah, I thought so! Reading poetry makes you sad, does it not?"

"N-no. But reading a cookbook always makes me hungry."—Cleveland Leader.

A Brace of Limericks.

A henpecked old sport of Missoula
Declared to his wife that he'd fool her,
And so just for a dodge
He departed for lodge,
But he finished the night in the cooler.

There was a young man of Deer Park
Who was known as a musical shark,
And he won warmest praise
With that sweetest of lays,
"I'm Afraid to Go Home In the Dark."
—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Some Immunities.

"It must be irksome," said the visitor to the penal institution, "to remain here and be designated merely by a number."

"Yes," replied the once affluent inmate, "a number is an annoyance. But you don't have to carry a horn and a lot of lanterns."—Washington Star.

Pa's Sacrifice.

Give up your cares for one-half day,
Although you hate to do it.
Just be a martyr, by the way.
In time you will not rue it.
Of course you do not want to go,
But Johnny? Don't forsake him!
He wants to see the circus, so
Of course you'll have to take him.

Boy Was a Kentuckian.

The Sunday school teacher had just explained to the juvenile class that the first parents were made from dust.

"Now, Edgar," she said to a bright little fellow, "can you tell me who the first man was?"

"Henry Clay," was the prompt reply. —Philadelphia Times.

From Outside.

In some great public office I should like to be a clerk.
I shouldn't have to do much in the way of good hard work.
I'd sit behind a window pane
And look sedate and wise and sane,
And when the time for closing came I'd close up with a jerk.

COMIC COSIES FOR TEAPOT.

It may be the echo of the recent Chantecler vogue that has produced the cosies for the tea or coffe pot or the egg cup in the form of birds' heads.

Whatever the inspiration that called thm forth, they are certainly an amusing little novelty and one worth perpetuating.

They are cut in two pieces, or a double piece, to represent a bird's head with bill. The two pieces are stitched together along the outer edges or glued so, according to preference, and are padded as for the ordinary cosey.

In color and choice of material they can represent great ingenuity on the part of the young needlewoman.

One popular model is the head of a hen or rooster in white, with red wattles and comb, and beads or tiny buttons for eyes.

In the larger size the hen broods over a tea or coffee pot, while in miniature she keeps the eggs warm in the egg cup while he breakfaster enjoys his porridg.

Another cosey of the same comic suggestion is the Old Maid model. This is built over a doll whose bisque face is painted to simulate wrinkles. The wig is formed into corkscrew ringlets and is surmounted by a lace cap with strings. The old maid wears a skirt of flowered material, with a hoop skirt, in which the cosey is concealed, and a ruffled apron.

A cosey is either of these comic designs would make a good piece of fancy work for odd moments on the porch, and when finished would make a novel gift or prize for fall giving.

GOLD AND SILVER ON GOWNS.

Gold and silver effects have not diminished in favor. These are about equally divided between the antique and the bright silver and gold. A strong feature of the laces and trimmings are the allovers and edges of colored net, combining embroidery in mercerized silk metallic effects with real gold and silver threads.

One of the most attractive of these laces shows a net ground of dark pastel coloring, with scalloped edges of gold lace, and bold floral designs in highly mercerized threads or floss of metallic sheen.

Ecru and gold nets with figures in gold occupy a prominent place. Black is frequently used to outline these designs, and forms an excellent contrast. Touches of jet appear on some of these laces of metallic tendency, on allover figured nets and bandings. Jet is rapily becoming a feature on trimming bands, belts, scarfs, and all manner of accessories.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

A thick hide may be good for an elephant or a politician, but it never could help an honest man.

Strange how some men will put a dishonest dollar in a barrel of honest dollars quicker than they will put a rotten apple in a barrel of good apples.

Do it now—tomorrow some one else may have done it and collected the pay.

I like the truth simply because the truth always has been my unfailing friend.

We hear a good deal about the Almighty Dollar, but there isn't anything almighty about the dollar—it can't even buy you a new conscience, to say nothing of a seat in heaven.

By Telephone

Lothary had been talking over the telephone with another man and just as he finished a feminine voice said relievedly: "Thank goodness! I thought you never were going to get through!"

"Hello!" Lothary said, in surprise. "Where did you come from?"

There was a breathless little laugh. "Oh," said the voice, airily, "I just dropped in!".

"Well, I should say you did," agreed Lothary. Somehow, he liked the voice. "Is there something I can do for you?" he inquired, ingratiatingly.

"No," said the voice, meditatively. "I don't think so—unless you happen to be green 4276. That's the number I called."

"Sorry," mourned Lothary. "I happen to be blue 7069, but—"

"Oh!" gurgled the voice.

The little chuckle at the end of the exclamation quite won Lothary's heart. Whoever it was surely must be young, and anyone who could laugh like that assuredly must be attractive.

"See here!" Lothary cried. "Tell me who you are, won't you?"

"Certainly not," said the voice in properly shocked tones. "Why should I? I don't know who you are and it's most unheard of that I should talk to you at all. What I should do is to hang up the receiver. You might be a—a—burglar or—"

"I'm not!" Lothary protested. "I'm a fine young man, really! You'd like me if you knew me."

"Well, of all the conceit!" said the voice.

"I wish," said Lothary, "I could convince you that I'm a respectable person. Aren't you going to tell me——"

"I'm not," said the voice. "I'm going to hang up the receiver this very——"

"Wait!" begged Lothary. He could not explain why, but he had a strange reluctance to let her go. There was a haunting quality to her voice which charmed him and spurred him on. "Please—won't you call me up again?"

"Well, of all the impudence!" cried the voice.

"I know," he begged, "but you won't tell me who you are or your number, so what can I do? Won't you call me up?"

She seemed to consider the matter. "Maybe," she said at last. Then came the little chuckle which had so charmed him and she was gone from the wire.

Lothary was certain she was no ordinary girl. Her voice, her inflections and the strange impression she had made of daintiness and airiness convinced him of that. Lothary is hard-headed, but he was immensely curious about this unknown young woman and a great deal fearful. If only she had the requisite spice of daring in her make-up which would lead her to call him up again deliberately! Lothary blessed the telephone operator who had made the mistake of mixing numbers.

For several days he jumped whenever the telephone rang and then, just as he was regretfully thinking he should never hear from her again, she called him! Lothary was so dazed and pleased and anxious to make a good impression that his conversation was stilted and halting. She was bright and gay and charming, but she persistently refused to give her name or number.

"I shouldn't be doing this at all, you know," she said, with a verbal shudder.

"You'll call again?" besought Lothary.

She did. It was a charming little flirtation which developed over the telephone. The girl was exceptional and he was conscious that she did him a special favor. He told her so, gratefully, along with many other things. Finally his importunities to see her became so insistent that she relented.

"It is perfectly scandalous," she said, "but I suppose I owe you something. I've had it all on my side so far." She named a downtown drug store and an hour. "I have a gold bow on my black velvet turban," she told him.

Lothary was so excited over the prospect of actually knowing her that he counted the hours till the appointed time. He was fearful lest she should back out at the last minute.

There was one girl standing just inside the drug store when he entered and there was a gold bow on her velvet toque. She regarded Lothary smilingly. She was his sister.

"Why, Jim," she said, "What are you doing here?"

Lothary was getting hold of his emotions. It couldn't be possible—yet if it was so, had she known him all along? If she had, how could she look so innocently at him—and, anyhow—

Then she laughed. And in the little gurgle which Lothary now remembered she had always had he read his doom.

"Come along and I'll buy you anything on earth you want!" said Lothary.

"Oh!" moaned Lothary's sister amid spasms of laughter. "It was so funny—when I first found I had your office number and you didn't recognize my voice! I couldn't help it, Jim! I think I'll take a spring hat!"

Hackensack, N. J., Aug. 11.—Randolph Perkins last night officially launched the Gubernatorial boom of Senator Edmund W. Wakelee in a speech at the Bergen County Republican Committee. He said Wakelee was the most available man in the State for that high office. The resolutions offered were adopted. Senator Wakelee responded briefly.

NURSE HAS CURE FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Infantile paralysis has been virtually conquered in four out of six cases recently reported in Burlington, and the manner of the cure is exciting the interest of physicians throughout that locality.

Credit is given by doctor who are treating the cases to Miss Lillian Balz, a trained nurse in charge of the home nursing work of the Friendly Society of Burlington. External applications and expert massage have replaced the usual internal remedies in the treatment of these cases and the result will be brought to the attention of the State Medical Society at its next annual session.

The children, Miss Balz said, had been treated in their homes and she asserted that the hearty co-operation of parents had had much to do with the successful outcome.

Several families had been named by physicians, in which the afflicted children were almost completely cured.

"Four of these children are now walking," continued Miss Balz. "One took the first steps only last week. There is every reason to believe that the others will make a complete recovery."

COULD NOT PREACH AND FIGHT—SKEETERS TOO.

Persistent, irreligious mosquitoes have forced a little band of worshippers near South Orange, to abandon their Sunday evening service.

All summer long the Rev. A. Boylan Fitzgerald, the devout pastor of the Hilton Methodist church, has punctuated the service and sermons by slapping at demoniac mosquitoes which attacked his face, the back of his neck, his hands. The slaps reechoed from the pews, where the congregation were being pestered by hungry imps which, it seemed to them, were sent by Old Nick himself to distract their pious thoughts. The pastor realized finally that the mosquitoes, seeking prey, left their haunts as the shades of evening fell or just at the time that his congregation sought his church for spiritual teaching and consolation.

"Brethren," he announced after Sunday night's service, "until the first frost"—slap—"a brief vesper service at 4 p. m.—oh, gracious,"—slap—"will replace the evening service"—slap, slap.

"Amen," the congregation chorused thankfully.

NEW AUTO LAW STOPS PARTY.

Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 11.—A party of seventeen newspaper men and health officials of Bergen County, N. J., who were making an inspection of New Jersey's milk supply came in conflict with the new automobile law of New York State yesterday, and had considerable difficulty in getting out of trouble.

The party occupied four automobiles and left Hackensack early yesterday morning. At Tuxedo Park the four cars were held up by a constable, who demanded to see their New York State licenses. The owners of the cars did not have them and were held at Tuxedo for three hours, until they could make application. Then they had to pay the constable's fees before they were released.

In the party were E. G. Runner of The Hackensack Record; George F. Shaffer, of the State Board of Health, James Norton, editor of the Bergen County Democrat; Alfred Hopkirk, of The Englewood Press, Drs. Henry C. Humphreys, J. R. Edwards, C. A. Knox and S. A. Vandewater, and F. A. Ober, of The Hackensack Republic.

BASEBALL.

Now bring on the Elks.

There will be no game at the Oval on Saturday. The Y. M. C. A. team plays at Raritan and the Plainfield nine is scheduled to buck up against a team in Asbury Park.

And it ought to be a cracker-jack game on the Oval this afternoon.

The merchants' game for this afternoon was postponed on account of the Elks' match and the excursion of the Knights. A double-header is scheduled to be played next Thursday afternoon—but if either of the games is anything like that last one the contest had better begin on the preceding day and the spectators come provided with meals and bedding.

Those poor Yankees are in hard luck. Dropping two games to St. Louis yesterday was quite a disgrace as well as a set-back.

And the Detroit Tigers seem to have met their Waterloo for a while. In this series it is probable that the championship of the American league will be determined unless Detroit takes a decided brace and cops a few of the remaining games.

"Bill" Mullin's fielding work with the Plainfield nine is all that could be asked for but a brace in batting would be gratefully received.

Who said Jack Martin belongs to the "can't come back" club? His playing in Saturday's game put the taboo on such a statement.

By the way, don't forget that double attraction offered by the Front street merchants for next Thursday afternoon. There will be some baseball and lots of it for your money.

Now, if the Y. M. C. A. nine doesn't change its line-up three or four times within the next few games the association will have a classy team before the season is over. They can play ball with all the "fixings", as they showed to the sporting public on Saturday.

Hans Wagner is also "coming back" with the willow. He clouted out a home-run in the game with Boston yesterday.

Play ball Elks!

HERE AND THERE.

English railroad men are proud of their record as regards the safety of passengers. Last year out of 1,264,900,000 passengers hauled only one was killed by an accident to a train. Nineteen were killed getting on or off trains. This total of passengers does not include commuters, none of whom was killed.

Of this total only 300 were injured. By accidents to trains 82 railroad employes were killed and 2,148 injured.

One reason why the total deaths from all causes is so low is that persons are rarely killed while walking on the tracks. All the English railroads are fenced or hedged in and trespassing is not only forbidden but prevented. Magistrates deal rigorously with tramps and others who try to use the railroad right of way as a highroad.

The claim of Frau Dutkiewitz, of Posen, born on February 21, 1785, to be the oldest woman in the world, is now contested by Mrs. Baba Vasilka, who was born in May, 1784, in the little Bulgarian village of Bavelsko, where she has lived ever since. The record of her birth is preserved in a neighboring monastery of the Orthodox Greek faith. Baba Vasilka is the daughter of a peasant, and worked herself as a peasant up till a comparatively recent date. For more than a hundred years she regularly worked in the fields, according to the custom of her country, where women are employed in all sorts of manual labor. When she was born Bulgaria was merely a province of the Turkish empire, and the entire population groaned under the tyranny of their Turkish rulers.

She has seen innumerable wars and rebellions, massacres and atrocities, political crimes and political tragedies. She recollects with perfect distinctness events that happened at the end of the eighteenth century, and the beginning of the nineteenth century; in fact the events of her early life up to the time when she attained the age of eighty are far more distinctly impressed on her mind than the happenings of the last forty-six years. Baba Vasilka lived through the crises of her nation, and now rejoices to know that Bulgaria is an independent kingdom.

Her son Todor, following the family tradition, has also worked in the fields as a peasant nearly all his life, but he has also taken part in various wars and rebellions in the Balkan Peninsula. He is not quite so fresh and vigorous as his mother, although he is still capable of doing a good day's work. The "oldest woman in the world" is said to enjoy fairly good eyesight and good hearing and she is able to walk without support.

She lives on a pension paid her by many of her numerous descendants, who number more than 100. She is naturally quite a celebrity in her own land, and people come great distances to get a glimpse of this wonderful woman who has defied the ravages of time for a century and a quarter.

"I suppose you have a raft of summer boarders up at your place, now, Judge."

"Well, we could accommodate more, Colonel. There's about twenty of 'em, I guess."

"Judge, it seems a remarkable thing to me that you folks should want to keep boarders. You certainly don't need their money, and why you turn that lovely home of yours over to a parcel of city folks is more than I can see."

"It's true, Colonel, that we don't need the money, and it does come kind of hard to give up the place to strangers, right in the season when we might be enjoying it most ourselves. The fact of the matter is that we keep summer boarders in self-defense."

"How is that, Judge?"

"Before we went to keeping boarders, Colonel, we used to have as many as forty city relatives at a time camping down on us in the hot weather, and it got to be quite some drain on our resources. So we figured out that as long as we had to feed and bed a crowd every summer, anyway, we might as well come out even on it as to go in the hole, and we advertised summer board. Now we have to take care of about half the number of people we used to entertain, and our summers are much easier on us. Of course, our city relatives don't love us as much as they used to, but if they only knew, they ought to love us more, for we stand in less danger of going bankrupt and falling back on them for support. What's your candid opinion about the prospects of rain, Colonel?"

MATHEMATICAL WONDER IN MISSOURI PRISON.

Asserting that he has made important mathematical discoveries, Michael A. McGinnis, serving a ten-year sentence for forgery in the Missouri penitentiary, has offered to demonstrate his discovery to any committee of mathematicians Governor Herbert S. Hadley may designate if a pardon will be considered his just reward for success, it was learned recently. His communication was sent to the Governor through Dr. D. J. Simpson, of Clarksburg, Mo. Dr. Simpson says the discovery made by McGinnis is the reduction of the general equation of the tenth degree to an equation one degree lower.

Among the discoveries claimed by McGinnis are: First, that for the general solution of an equation containing literal co-efficients, there also lies a general logarithmic solution for its corresponding numerical equation, thus establishing a general method for solving numerical equations by logarithms; second, that he has found the exact ratio of the diameter of a circle to its circumference.

Since the time of Euclid, the ratio has been supposed to be 3.1416 plus. McGinnis says he knows just what the "plus" is. He says he has discovered the exact root of all numbers and that "imperfect squares" will be no more.

"I have known McGinnis for years," said Professor J. M. Greenwood, superintendent of Kansas City schools. "He taught mathematics in a college at Wichita, Kan., also in southern Missouri. A book of his on algebra written, I am told, during a former term in prison, is a marvelous work. But for his misuse of liquor, this man would be an international authority.

"Mathematicians so far never have been able to solve literal equations above the fourth degree. McGinness says he can work them in the tenth. European mathematicians say that they have proved it impossible to work them above the fourth degree."

MURPHY ISSUES CHALLENGE.

Chairman Murphy, of the New Jersey State Republican Committee, and candidate for the United States Senate to succeed John Kean, sprang a surprise on the political camps yesterday by challenging Kean and David Baird, of Camden, to a fight at the primaries.

The challenge was in the form of public letters sent to the two political leaders. Although he would make no formal statement, Mr. Kean indicated that Mr. Murphy's plan did not appeal to him.

Mr. Murphy's decision to place his fate in the hands of the voters at the primaries came as a sequel to the action of ex-Governor Edward C. Stokes, who is after the same honor and at the outset determined that his qualifications would have to be attested in the primaries.

A lawn festival will be given tomorrow night for the benefit of the benefit of the Ebenezer Baptist church. The affair will be held at the church.

Somerset Council No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate several candidates tomorrow night.

A ROYAL BOOK BUYER.

The Purchase of Diderot's Library by Catherine II. of Russia.

Empress Catherine II. of Russia was a great reader and a lover of books. One of her services to letters in Russia was the purchase of the libraries of Voltaire and Diderot. She was a warm friend and admirer of these French philosophers, and their work interested her because she was eager to learn new theories of politics and government. Voltaire's library of about 7,000 volumes is now a part of the Russian imperial library in the Hermitage palace, and in the hall devoted to it is Houdon's statue of Voltaire.

The story of Catherine's purchase of Diderot's library is interesting. It is creditable to her tact and her generosity. Diderot named $75,000 as the price of his library. Catherine II. offered him $80,000 and named as a condition of the bargain that her purchase should remain with Diderot until his death. Thus Diderot, without leaving Paris, became Catherine's librarian in his own library. As her librarian he was given a yearly salary of $5,000.

One year this salary was not paid. Then Catherine wrote to her librarian that she could not have him or her library suffer through the negligence of a treasurer's clerk and that she should send him the sum that she had set aside for the care and increase of her library for fifty years. At the end of that period she would make new arrangements. A check for $100,000 accompanied this letter.

LEE HELPED HIM.

The Old Soldier That Asked For and Received Assistance.

General Robert E. Lee was sitting on the veranda of his Lexington home one afternoon engaged in conversation with some friends when a man, ill clothed and covered with dust, appeared at the gate and timidly beckoned to the general.

Apologizing to his friends, Lee rose at once and went to the gate. Very soon his purse appeared, and he was seen to give the man some money.

His friends, knowing the extent of his charity in any case of suffering, real or apparent, looked on with some impatience, for they knew how slender his means were then and how many calls of the same kind came to him.

"General, who was that?" one of them ventured when he had returned to his place.

"One of our boys in trouble," was the half smiling answer, for the general knew the remonstrance which his friend was longing to make.

"What regiment and company did he belong to?" persisted the friend, anxious, if possible, to unearth the suspected fraud.

"Oh, he—he fought on the other side," was General Lee's calm answer.

Chinese Business Honesty.

With due respect for others, the Chinaman is perhaps the most honorable and upright business man in the world today. His business principles are founded entirely upon honesty, and he adheres to the policy with the insistence of a leech. The chase after dollars stops if he has to resort to low tricks to get them. Of course a little thing like telling a falsehood occasionally does not bother him so much, but when it comes to plotting and scheming to defraud some one the task becomes distasteful. The equal of the Japanese in initiative and foresight, he is much their superior when integrity is concerned. A Japanese does not think twice before deciding to get the best of you. He calculates that you are liable to change your mind or get out of reach if he indulges in a little mental debate as to the propriety of cheating you.—Bookkeeper.

Mourning Colors.

Intending to symbolize the gloom of night, "when all men sleep," black is the color of mourning all over Europe. In Persia pale brown materials are worn for mourning, the color of withered leaves. Both sorrow and hope are expressed to the south sea islander in black and white stripes, while in Ethiopia the mourning color is grayish brown, which represents "the earth to which all men shall return." Purple and violet have been the mourning colors for cardinals and kings of France, and white is worn to express grief in China. In Syria and Armenia sky blue is worn at the death of a relative and is intended to express the belief that the deceased has gone to heaven. In Egypt and Burma yellow is worn, to symbolize the sere and yellow leaf.—London Answers.

Really Antique.

An excellent plaster of paris cast may be seen in one of the Egyptian galleries of the British museum of the famous sycamore statuette known as the "Sheikh-el-Beled," or "Village Sheikh." The original dates from 3900 B. C. and is still in perfect condition, although it is the oldest known specimen of woodcarving. It represents an overseer of the workmen engaged in building the pyramids close to Sakkarao, where it was discovered.—London News.

A QUAINT OLD TAVERN

The Old Cheshire Cheese, in the Heart of London.

SERVES A FAMOUS PUDDING.

A Noble Pastry It Is, and It Was Sampled by Such Men as Gladstone, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson, Trollope and Whistler.

Nearly all Americans when they go to London make it a point to visit that quaint old tavern in the heart of the newspaper and printing business, the Old Cheshire Cheese, to partake of its famous pudding.

It is the Londoner's delight when he gets back to Fleet street to make a rush for the pudding, and it is almost the last thing he eats before leaving it. Travelers in the Sahara have seen mirages of that pudding, and during the Boer war the men shut up in Ladysmith and Mafeking dreamed of it at regular intervals.

Precisely at 1 o'clock p. m. Tom conveys the pudding from the first to the main floor. It is a big pudding, and the price of it is just 2 shillings—that is to say, a feed of it is 2 shillings, as much as you please, as many shares as you ask for, cut and come again, all for 48 cents of American coin. Cheap, aye, and, oh, how good it is! It is worth crossing the Atlantic to get a sniff of it, and the aroma lingers in the memory for many a day.

Big? The dimensions are Falstaffian. It is a round earthen vessel something more than two dozen inches deep, with a diameter of about eighteen inches. A noble pastry, my masters!

When it is placed upon the service table an elliptical white crust meets the hungry gaze. Tom and his myrmidons take their places in front facing the host, who, knife and spoon in hand, poses with gentle dignity and benignant mien. It is a moment of solemn thought when every man hopes that his portion will be larger than his friend's and that he will be blessed with an abundance of gravy. But they ought from years of acquaintance with the host to understand that his hand is as steady as his judgment is impartial.

No more and nothing better for one than for another. He waves his weapons, and the first onslaught is made. The room is full of a delicious steam bearing with it the concentrated essences of ambrosial substances. The guests sniff it up and murmur choice blessings on the cook, the original inventor, the house and the host. It is a time when men feel good, one toward the other.

One smell of that pudding makes the whole world kin. This famous pudding, which has tickled the palates of thousands, is thus compounded:

A crust of flour, water and suet.
Beefsteak.
Sheep's kidneys.
Larks.
Mushrooms (freshly gathered).
Oysters.
Stock.
Pepper and salt.

But it is the boiling that does it. For at least twelve hours this heaven sent pudding is kept slowly simmering in an immense copper specially constructed for the purpose. It must not boil quickly, but the same temperature be kept up the whole period. The steak assumes a juicy tenderness; the larks—not sparrows, as some malignant spirit has suggested, although sparrow pudding is not to be despised—are seethed to the bone, and you can chew up each little songster without an effort; the kidneys are soft and mushy and offer no resistance to the digestive organs, and the oysters, despite their lengthened cooking, are not leathery. The amalgamation and assimilation of the variety of constituents are perfect; the result is bliss.

There is a story told of one eminent litterateur who had seven helpings of the pudding and still yearned for more, and there is another remarkable narrative of four men who ordered a pudding of the regulation size and finished it among them.

J. Pierpont Morgan praised the pudding, and Theodore Roosevelt was delighted with it. Lord Beaconsfield bestowed his approbation thereon, and Gladstone thought it far superior to his famous "three courses." Dickens, Thackeray, Meredith, Swinburne, Tennyson, Trollope, Whistler, Leighton, Sala, Phil May—all sorts of the best of men of their day have fed upon the pudding, and it no doubt helped to inspire their work.

Apparently any cook can fashion it, mix it, fix it, boil it. Let any cook try it. Lots of cooks have tried it, but the results have not been satisfactory. There was a man who once ran the Old Cheshire Cheese, and in his day the pudding first achieved its great fame. When he sold the old hostelry and took a house in the financial district he announced that the same pudding—the same in every respect—would be served every Saturday.

Many of the Cheese's old patrons came around to celebrate. There was the size, but the aroma was wanting; there were the identical materials, but the flavor was not in them. It was not the same, not a bit of it. There was something missing. It may have been the shades of the departed great ones of a bygone time. And so it is that today the famous dish of the Old Cheshire Cheese tastes as of old, and its devotees cannot be seduced by any designing invitation based upon "just as good" simply because there is nothing just as good.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 1, 1910.

AN ORDINANCE

To Prescribe Conditions to be Complied with Before any Private Streets or Roads dedicated or Offered for Dedication Shall be Accepted by the City.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That any person or corporation contemplating laying out or locating and constructing any street or road in the City of Plainfield shall before beginning such construction submit to the Street Commissioner, the proposed plans therefor, in which shall be included an accurate designation of the location and grades of such street or streets, road or roads, and the sidewalks thereof, as proposed to be laid out as aforesaid, and the proposed manner of construction. Upon receipt of such plans by said Street Commissioner, together with a petition for their approval, said Street Commissioner shall consult with the Committee on Streets of the Common Council, and thereafter give a hearing to said petitioners, if they so request; after such hearing said petitioners may alter such plans if they so desire, and request the approval of said Street Commissioner of the plans so altered.

If said original or altered plans shall be approved by said Street Commissioner, he shall so indicate thereon in writing signed by him and file said plans in his office, and endorse thereon the date of such filing. Unless monuments properly defining the lines of the proposed street or road on any such plan have been already set, hard stone monuments, at least four inches square on top and at least two feet long, shall be forthwith set in sufficient numbers to definitely locate the lines of the proposed street or road. All curved streets or roads shall be laid out with regular curves, and sufficient data shall be shown on the maps to enable the streets or roads to be accurately located. Such approval of said plans or any other action by said Street Commisioner with respect thereto, or with respect to said proposed streets or roads, shall not operate as an acceptance of the same as public streets or roads, and acceptance of the same as public streets or roads shall not be effected except by ordinance of the Common Council, the Common Council hereby reserving full discretion in the premises, and the powers of the Common Council in regard to streets and roads shall not be abridged by this ordinance in any manner.

Section 2. After the passage of this ordinance, no proposed street or road in the City of Plainfield shown on any plan filed and approved by the Street Commisioner as aforesaid shall be laid out, located anew, altered, widened, or changed in grade, except in accordance with said plans, and no street or road heretofore or hereafter offered for dedication or acceptance by the City shall be accepted otherwise than by ordinance of the Common Council. If any person or corporation shall hereafter construct or open for public travel any private street or road the location, direction, width and grades of which and the manner of construction thereof have not previously been approved in writing by said Street Commissioner in the method provided in this ordinance, then no public sewer, drain, fire hydrant or street lamp shall be laid or placed in or upon, or any public work of any kind done upon, any such private street or road so constructed or opened for public travel except by ordinance of the Common Council.

Section 3. The Street Commissioner may in his discretion cause a suitable sign to be erected at any place where any private street or road intersects any public street or road, to indicate that such street or road is not a public highway, but no damages shall be recoverable by any person against the City for any injury alleged to have resulted from any failure to erect such a sign.

Section 4. Nothing in this ordinance shall prevent the Common Council or Street Commissioner from permitting suitable sewers laid or to be laid in such private streets or roads by private property owners to be connected with the sewers of the City.

A Supplement to

entitled "An Ordinance for the Assessment of Taxes for the Year 1910," approved May 2, 1910.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Any liquid that will emit an inflammable vapor at a temperature below 100 degrees Fahrenheit when tested in the open air or in a closed pyrometer of the Tagliabue type is to be considered a volatile liquid within the provisions of this ordinance. All naphthas, benzines and gasoline are included in this definition and are subject to the provisions of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. All tanks intended for the storage of volatile liquids must be set in Portland cement concrete and buried at least 3 feet under the ground. All tanks of a larger capacity than 150 gallons shall be made of boiler steel with not less than three-sixteenth (3-16) inch shells and one-fourth (¼) inch heads, tested to twenty-five (25) pounds cold water hydro-static pressure. All tanks are to be covered with twelve (12) inches of Portland Cement concrete. In all tanks situated within 25 feet of a building the bottom of the tank shall be at least one foot lower than the bottom of the cellar of such building.

Sec. 3. No tanks for the storage of volatile liquids shall be constructed or maintained under sidewalks or streets, except by special permission of the Common Council, and no tanks of a greater capacity than two hundred and fifty (250) gallons shall be constructed or maintained without such permission, and no person shall store or have upon his premises more than five (5) gallons of any volatile liquid unless the same is confined in a storage tank as provided by this ordinance, or unless kept in approved self closing cans, the total capacity of which shall not exceed ten (10) gallons, provided that portable filling cans of a construction approved by the Inspector of Buildings not to exceed fifty (50) gallons in capacity may be used for transporting volatile inflammable liquids to and from storage tanks for the immediate filling and charging of vehicles. The said portable tanks shall be supported or rubber tired wheels and shall be provided with a rubber hose attachment not to exceed eight (8) feet in length, equipped at the end with shut-off valve with ground key. This section does not apply to tanks in automobiles having a greater capacity than five (5) gallons.

Sec. 4. All tanks requiring the presence of air as a means of delivering the liquid shall be equipped with a galvanized wrought iron vent pipe not less than three-fourths (¾) inches in diameter extending to a point at least ten (10) feet above the roof of any building situated within twenty-five (25) feet of such pipe and terminating in a double goose neck, the opening of which shall be covered by a thirty (30) mesh brass wire screen. Such pipe shall not discharge within twenty (20) feet of a window in any building.

Sec. 5. All supply pipes must be buried at least three (3) feet under ground and the intake must be properly closed and protected.

Sec. 6. No volatile liquid shall be discharged into either the sanitary or storm sewer systems of the city or into a street.

Sec. 7. The delivery of volatile liquids to any storage tank shall be made in daylight only and shall be made directly from a tank car or a tank wagon provided with a metallic hose and an automatic shut-off valve connection, to be made outside of the buildings or by means of safety cans of an approved construction which shall be immediately emptied into the tank and removed from the premises forthwith.

Sec. 8. No tank shall be constructed unless specifications are first filed with the Inspector of Buildings, and approved by him.

Sec. 9. Upon satisfactory proof presented to the Inspector of Buildings or to the Common Council that the provisions of this ordinance are being violated, either said Inspector of Buildings or the Common Council shall have the authority to order all tanks which are situated upon the premises where this ordinance is being violated to be emptied, and shall have the power to enforce such an order by all proper means.

Sec. 10. That any person, persons or corporation, who shall violate any provisions of this ordinance, upon conviction, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100) or imprisonment not exceeding sixty days (60), or both.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning August 14, 1910.

Topic.—Do you let God plan your life? —Jer. x. 23; Prov. iii. 1-6. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Human life is a great mystery. If man alone were to map out his own plan for his life he would surely make a failure of it. He knows not what a day may bring forth, and how, therefore, could he plan his life? His plan might extend over years, as was the case with the rich fool in Christ's parable, and yet his life ended that very night. Had he known this one fact he would have planned differently. But, it not being known, he could not have made a greater mistake than he did in laying plans for his life.

Life is also a matter of great responsibility. Man alone is incapable of assuming this responsibility. What to do and what not to do, what duties to assume and what not to assume, are entirely beyond his ability because of his deficiency in knowledge concerning the ways of life. The man who takes his own life in his hands is most foolish and unwise. The prophet Jeremiah well says, "O Lord, I know the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." He is incapable of so doing because of his ignorance of life as a whole.

While man cannot plan his life, there is one who can and will, if permitted to do so—God, who knows the life of man from the beginning unto the end thereof. Moreover, God has a plan for each and every life lived in the world. We can thwart the plans of God if we desire to do so through the freedom of our wills. Not wishing to force us to do his will and desiring us to do it voluntarily, He has given us the power to choose, even against Him, even pertaining to the most vital issues of life. Of salvation, the most important factor in life, Christ said, "Ye will not come unto Me, that ye may be saved." Man's will can therefore thwart God's will. But all of man's opposition cannot thwart the penalty of sin. Man may choose to sin even against God's will, but he cannot escape the punishment for his sins. Therefore how foolish to rebel against God. Rather we should obey the wise man's injunction: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes. Fear the Lord and depart from evil."

God's plans for us are always wise and good. He has created us. "We are His people and the sheep of His pasture. He hath made us and not we ourselves. He preserves our life. He loves us and has manifested His love by giving His Son to die for our redemption." Herein is love—not that we loved Him, but that He loved us and gave His Son to die for us.

The attitude of God toward us being love and unstinted interest, should we not appreciate it by conforming our lives to His will, accepting His plan and not one of our own? Trust in the Lord, obey His commandments, and thus we will submit our life to His will and make it fit into His plan.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxviii. 1-9; xxxii. 12; xxxvii. 1-5; cii. 1-5; Prov. xxxii. 16; xxvii. 1; Matt. vi. 10, 25-34; Job xxiii. 13, 14; Luke xii. 16-21; Ex. iii. 10; John xvii. 1-4; Eph. ii. 10; Jas. iv. 13, 14.

Nothing Lost by It.

A young man had been in business for himself but a short time when the Maryland State Christian Endeavor convention was held in his city. His business required very close attention on account of his being a beginner. At the same time he was an officer in the state union and felt that his duty was as much to the convention as to the business. For the few days before the convention he was undecided what he should do, but at the time of the opening session he was on hand and each day spent a large part of his time at the convention performing the duties that belonged to his office. Each morning he attended the early Quiet Hour service and at that time asked God for direction through the day. And each day he spent part of the time at his office and part at the convention. Some of his friends told him he was neglecting his business and would lose by it, but he felt that his first obligation was to God and that He would look out for the rest. And so it happened. During the second and third days of the convention business came to his office almost unsolicited, and telephone calls that he attended to between sessions brought him the largest volume of business he had for the month. In fact, he said the business he had in those three days amounted to as much as he had during all the rest of the month, and all because he had first served God. This is a true record and should certainly more strongly impress upon our minds the necessity of living out the Scriptural command to seek first the kingdom of God. There is no question in the mind of the true believer that the teaching is true and that to whoever will "seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness" all things will be added.—Alfred S. Day, Secretary Maryland Christian Endeavor Union, in Christian Endeavor World.

Our Society Is a School of Christ.

If Christian Endeavor is anything it is a training school for Christian work. Every prayer meeting is a recitation, every committee is a training class, every quiet hour at home is a study period, every failure is an examination. So is every success. If we look upon our society in this light we shall see its importance and we shall learn to work harder in the Christian Endeavor cause.—Ames R. Wells.

Virginia of the Air Lanes

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

...By...

Herbert Quick

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"What I'm going to talk to you about," said Carson, "is a machine that could make Chicago against the fiercest gale quicker than this flying palace can do it tonight."

"Oh, yes," lightly replied Shayne. "I've had 'em offered me that would do it in an hour—in the inventor's mind."

The earth was a concave cup with the setting sun a flaming wick on its rim. To the north was a huge black accumulation of clouds which seemed swelling with startling rapidity, but the weatherwise aviators knew it to be their own headlong flight which brought the clouds nearer with such speed, giving them the swift upheaval which mimicked the approach of a storm. The silence was absolute save for the muffled exhaust of the engines and the purr of the driving screw astern, for the Roc kept pace with the blast, and the light breeze that swept her decks was from prow eastwardly to stern as she edged up into the great cyclonic whirl and outfooted the wind.

Carson walked aft. Looking rather concerned, the engineer was turning his ear downward, listening to the sullen roar that now droned up from the ground.

"A deuce of a wind," said he to Carson. "Hear it howl, and not a leaf stirring up here."

"Yes," assented Carson, listening. "It is blowing. But what of it?"

"Oh, nothing," replied the engineer, looking at the manometer, "only—did you ever try to bring one of these gas bags to in a gale, not to mention nursing her into the boss' Chicago garage? Hey?"

"No," answered Carson. "It must be difficult."

The young man wanted his serious talk with Shayne. So far they had spoken nothing but generalities, and he felt frustrated, held off, played with as a skillful fencer plays with a novice. And he had had no talk with Psyche. This made him irritable.

Miss Suarez stood by the rail looking off into the blackness, her hair heavy with a mist now just becoming perceptible. Mrs. Shayne from the cabin door looked forth at the young woman with distinct displeasure, for Virginia had just said a very naughty thing to Mr. Silberberg in a golf discussion which had unaccountably aroused her temper. And up walked young Carson to make things worse.

Virginia, taking him for Silberberg, turned on him a face hot with anger, stood looking at him a moment. Then all the displeasure faded away, and something quite irreconcilable with it took its place. Because she held out both hands and looked so divine Carson took them and held them close.

"My robber!" she whispered. "Are you a stowaway? Are you escaping?"

"Psyche! Psyche!" he gushed. "Oh, I'm glad! And you are well"—

Mrs. Shayne called Virginia. "Please come in," said she. "It's wet out there."

Mr. Carson gave Virginia his arm, and she swept into the cabin.

"Uncle Finley," said she, "I don't know how he happens to be aboard, but this is—this is my"—

"We know," said Mr. Shayne. "We picked up your deliverer down in the woods, Virginia."

"Oh!" said she. "Then I"—

"You were the only one, it seems, in ignorance of Mr. Theodore's presence. We have some business to talk over. What's up, Willett?"

Willett, the pilot, appeared at the door with a salute. "We seem to be breaking records," said Willett. "The distance gauge shows St. Louis nearest, with low variation for headway. Indianapolis is weak, right around a hundred and fifty miles, and we're getting indistinct registry that's either Nashville or Chicago, depending on whether it falls off or increases."

"I want to see you a minute," growled Silberberg and drew Shayne out upon the deck.

Willett went back to his work; Mrs. Shayne bowed grandly to the empty air which her gaze indicated as occupying Carson's position; Virginia, begging his pardon with her eyes, excused herself and followed her aunt, and Carson was alone.

Silberberg was making it unpleasant for Shayne again. This fellow, he said, has been taking liberties with Miss Suarez, and he (Silberberg) would not stand it.

"I tell you, Shayne," he urged hotly, "he must be put off! He must be paid and put off. If he isn't"—

"If he isn't," smiled Shayne, "it wouldn't be a serious matter, would it, Max?"

"Yes," spluttered Silberberg. "He insulted me! I tell you, it's all over between Federated Metals and Aerostatic Power if I'm forced to take things like this."

Shayne laughed heartily, but he heeded. Mr. Shayne saw real danger of a breach to which no obligation to Carson could have forced him and grasped Silberberg's hand warmly.

"Max, old man," said he, "you're quite right. We can't go down in this wind to let him land, but we can send him aft."

Theodore was examining his parachute as the pair entered the cabin.

"I have decided," said Shayne, "that your aeronef doesn't interest me."

"Very well," replied Theodore. "You are the sole judge of that, of course."

"And you may consider the negotiations off," went on Shayne.

"I adopted that theory some time ago," replied Carson.

Shayne took out his purse and ostentatiously removed from it a number of bills.

"I think I ought to pay you for your time," said he, "and your service to my niece. Please take these and be good enough to go aft with the crew."

If Silberberg had not seen fit to indulge in a sardonic laugh at this exigency the explosion would not have occurred, but that sneering chuckle acted as a detonator for Carson's temper. He struck Shayne's extended hand, scattering the bills over the floor. Shayne stood with flaring nostrils and white with rage.

"Don't notice the fellow, Shayne," said Silberberg. "He wants to keep his hold on the girl and"—

The speech was cut short by a blow from Carson's flat hand delivered with lightning quickness and with stinging force. As calmly as though bidding Silberberg good morning Carson spoke to him.

"Be careful how you speak of her," said he, "or I'll throw you over the side. Mr. Shayne, permit me to say that you are a cur. I shall leave this craft at once!"

He started to go on deck, but as if reconsidering he turned and rapped on the door through which Virginia had disappeared. The girl opened it and looked breathlessly into Theodore's face.

"I am about to leave the Roc," said he. "I could not leave without bidding you goodby."

"Going?" said she. "Have we descended?"

"Keep away from that man!" screamed Silberberg. "He struck me, and he knocked your uncle's money all over the ship!"

Carson stood aside for her, and they went out upon the mile high deck. She halted, aghast to note that they were still high among the clouds of the storm, plowing on through a wild waste of tossing vapor, while the hoarse growl from the earth was so distant as to admonish her of the giddy height from the ground. Beyond the illumination of the lights it was absolutely dark.

DROPPED OFF INTO THE BLACK ABYSS.

"You must be going aft?" said she interrogatively. "I'll go with you."

"No," said he. "I shall never see you again, but I shall never forget you. Goodby, Psyche! Goodby!"

That instantaneous leave taking the trembling girl never forgot. Pressing her hands, he started forward as if to clasp her in his arms. He turned from the embrace already half begun, stepped upon the rail and dropped off into that black abyss of night and tempest. Like a stone he fell, lost in the mists.

The parachute, so far as she could see, had not opened in the least. When he vanished, and with pallid face she stood there peering over into the unpeopled space, her soul filled with horrible visions.

CHAPTER V.

THE FALL THAT FOLLOWED PRIDE.

SUDDENLY Theodore burst from the floor of the cloud like a meteorite and saw a long procession of white and violet lights speeding past and away into the distance, the arc lights of a town set into apparent flight by the speed of his headlong career before the wind. Far off in the glare of a locomotive firebox he could see a devilish black fireman, weirdly stoking.

The town fled away. The roar of the wind rose about him. He was whipped stingingly by the branches of a tall tree; then a lower one bowed him through its dense top. He laid hold of a slim birch, and, as it bent like a fishing rod under his weight, he let go the sheets of his parachute, the wind spilled from the silken leach, and he tumbled heavily into a mattress like bridal wreath bush, over an asphalted walk, and, eased down by the shrubbery, he rose unhurt, so far as he could feel, to find himself by a rustic seat near a dry fountain. On his left he could make out a long building three or four stories high.

A high wall running back from each end of this structure seemed to him to bound the garden, for a garden he guessed it to be. Back in some crepuscular jungle he heard the throaty bellow of a great dog.

Following the wall, he found it integral with that of the house. It was blank and high and insurmountable. He reconnoitered the rear wall to a brick barn into which it was built. He returned to the long house and stole across to one side, where he found a door through the wall, tight shut and impregnable.

Calling up his scattered courage, he went with some steadiness up to a long veranda. A shrill whistle sounding from the top of the porch instantly commanded his attention. Theodore saw a man on the roof just in the act of swinging himself down over the eave.

"Get under here, old sport," said the voice, "and give a liberty loving classmate a leg down."

Theodore reached up and steadied a somewhat bony leg and was about to let his burden down when the liberty loving one collapsed in all his members and came down by the run.

Carson started forward to raise the demoralized fugitive to his feet. But he was already up and seemed to be bowing and kissing his hand to an imaginary audience.

"My celebrated Avernus act," said he. "Special gravitation expert to the crowned heads! But, hist! Let me greet thee! An ye be noble, salute my cheek; an ye be slob, receive my contemptuous thanks! Hey, old sport?"

Carson stood mute, alone with a possible lunatic and a very probable dog in a walled garden into which he had dropped from the night sky.

"From your caput cometh a rattle like a muted castanet," went on the strange personage, "and anon like a battery of telegraph sounders. Stay! Is it possible that it emanates from the clattering of your teeth? Caitiff, you are scairt—or in an ague that would reduce a foundry rattler to matchwood! Art cold, fair youth?"

"A little," replied Carson. "I am lightly dressed."

"Then come, come away, tra-la-la, with me, to a realm of balmy air and breezes of Ceylon. To heel, and if thy heavy hoof but scrape the gravel to betray our flight thou diest, and all thy wad is gobbled by the privy coffer of the emporium. To heel!"

With a swift darting movement the stranger turned, and, followed obediently by Carson, went across to a building which Theodore guessed to be a greenhouse. His guide opened the door and stood back with elaborate courtesy that Carson might precede him. Entering, Theodore found himself among beds of flowers which filled the house.

"It is too dark," said his guide, rejoining him, "to make the exchange of cards more than an empty and invisible formality. Yet I would fain know more of you than the bright and snappy technique of your tooth chattering."

"I don't understand," answered Carson. "I came here by accident."

"Quite so," interposed his interlocutor. "Let's sit down by the American Beauty bed—there. If we might strike a match, now. I estimate that half us lush logged derelicts go ashore here in a state, to coin a word, of orey eyed wooziness. I may say that I came myself by accident and without meaning to do so—or otherwise. I must have a smoke!" Then came the scratch of the match, and Theodore scrutinized the face by the flare of the match as with nervous, unsteady movements the stranger lighted the weed.

He was a medium sized person, with deep set eyes flickering from their caverns with a blurred sharpness. His face was sallow and colorless, with hollows in the cheeks. His nose was irregularly noticed in profile, like the stub of something else broken off his face.

"My name is Carson," said Theodore, "and I am from the south, from Alabama. I"—

"Craighead is mine," rejoined the other. "I am from here and elsewhere. There are twenty places where I might vote were there any question under the sun worth voting on. I think I may venture to give you, sir, as my permanent residence, until further notice only, the Rat Mort, Paris."

"I"— began Carson.

A Test for Any Samson.

There is a theatrical manager in New York who, in his early days, piloted a small circus through the villages of the Middle West, relates Everybody's Magazine.

"At that time," he says, "I was featuring an Italian as 'Biancialli, the Strong Man from Rome.' One day, traveling from Kansas City to Omaha in a day coach, the strong man and myself were seated just ahead of a tall man with side-whiskers. Whether or not the man overheard our conversation, I am unable to say; but after a time, he leaned over and tapped my companion on the shoulder, saying, 'Excuse me, sir, but are you not Biancialli the Strong Man?'

"Biancialli admitted the soft impeachment.

"'Is it true that you can lift two and a half tons in harness?'

"'Yes.'

"'You can hold two men at arms' length?'

"'I can.'

"'And put up five hundred pounds with one arm?'

"'Yes.'

"'Then,' concluded the man with the side-whiskers, 'would you kindly raise the car window for me?'"

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

LOCAL ELKS ARE DEFEATED

But for All That They Made the Visitors Play Some Ball to Win.

FIVE HUNDRED SEE CONTEST.

Snappy and Clean Game With Burlington Leading a Swatfest—Locals Uncovered Some Stars—Score 8 to 5.

They came, they played, and, alas, they won, but they, which stands for the Elks' baseball team from Burlington, didn't have a walkover by any means. Somebody intimated before the game started that the visitors had it all stowed away in their bat bags before they left home, but they didn't. They had to fight all the way and barring a little hard luck, due to lack of practice they would have gone home beaten.

All this preamble is necessary because taken all around the lodgemen gave as entertaining an exhibition of the national pastime as one would wish to see, and as for clean, straight ball both teams deserve to have a special niche in whatever hall of fame is established in the future for records in wholesomeness. For the most part snappy, crisp, machine-like action characterized both teams and when Plainfield slipped a cog it didn't call forth anathemas from the half thousand spectators. On the contrary, it worked encouragement.

As to the game? Well, the first ball Warry McLaughlin put over was squarely met by Perkins' bat and went sizzling through short and Mr. Perkins continued the circuit on sacrifices by Morgan and Rossell. A fumble by Harry De Meza, who guarded the third station, helping the runner a peg—In Plainfield's half after McCullough and McNaughton had been disposed of Captain Marcus Hoyt landed on one of Brother Morgan's straight ones for a clean single to left. Warry McLaughlin was passed and with two stations occupied it was up to Harry De Meza to bring 'em in. He didn't. He plumped a slow straight one into Morgan's outstretched hands and the inning ended, 1 to 0 for the visitors.

In the second the Burlington troop of actors got a dose of their own medicine, Lawrence being the only man to reach first base. In the locals' half of this inning a double play executed by Mitchell and Morgan robbed them of a chance to score.

The third session witnessed the adding of two tallies to Burlington's score. Thomason, the "old man" walloped a safe one to right and got around on a sacrifice and Rossell's long single to center, Rossell scoring on Ryder's bingle and a passed ball. It was blank again in this inning for the home players as Blimm and McCullough fanned and McNaughton's third strike which was missed by Perkins was heaved to first ahead of him.

Again in the fourth a tally was chalked up for Burlington and in this inning Plainfield broke the charm that held them away from the rubber. Capt. Hoyt flied out to Satterthwaite in left. Warry straightened out one of Morgan's benders which netted two bases and when Smith hypnotized Morgan into offering a straight one, he promptly brought Warry home, and then Bedlam broke loose and everybody got up to root for more. While the visitors made another in the fifth the home talent did not lose their grit. They landed good and hard for two more talleys. Van Arsdale got to first on an error by Rossell. Blimm advanced him to second and took first himself on an error by Donnelley. In a hit and run play Blimm died at second while McCullough just beat Donnelly's throw to first. Here McNaughton saw his opportunity and selecting a nice large and swift offering from Mr. Morgan he deftly laced it to center, bringing in Van Arsdale. McCullough got around with the second tally on Hoyt's single.

The home team scored twice in the seventh, one run being the result of an error which gave Blimm his base, and a corking two-bagger by McNaughton, the other through some heady playing by Capt. Hoyt. With McNaughton resting at third Marcus ran off first, which he had reached on a neat single, drawing the throw to second from Morgan. Nicol coaching at third got onto Hoyt's game and as soon as the attempt to catch Hoyt between the bases was made Nicol pushed McNaughon who skipped for the plate and scored. It was this play that brought out a roar of approval which might have been heard in Burlington. This ended the scoring for Plainfield. Burlington added one in the seventh and two in the eighth, and although beaten the local men were not disgraced. For

PIERCE NOT A CANDIDATE

Union Assemblyman Decides Not to Seek Nomination This Fall.

HAS SERVED THREE TERMS.

Freeholder Peter Meisel and Dr. J. Edwin Rowe Prominently Mentioned for the Place.

Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, who is now completing his third term as a member of the lower house of the New Jersey Legislature, has decided not to be a candidate for reelection to the Assembly. This announcement was made today by Mr. Pierce, after careful consideration on his part. In speaking of his decision, the Assemblyman says that, "having been honored with three terms, the full quota for Republicans in Union county, it seems to me fair to stand aside and give others a chance."

This decision on the part of Mr. Pierce will be regretted by a large number of warm friends of the Assemblyman, who have not failed to recognize his faithful service at Trenton. That he has been instrumental in bringing about certain desirable legislation, is appreciated by those who have watched the proceedings of the Legislature.

In the announcement today, declining to again be a candidate, Mr. Pierce briefly enumerates certain important things for which he has stood during his service in the Legislature, and calling attention to the record of the party, pting aside partisanship, believes that it is entitled to be continued in power.

The retirement of Assemblyman Pierce is not a surprise, in fact, it has been known for some days by the leaders of the Republican party. There are two prominent candidates to succeed Mr. Pierce. One is Freeholder Peter Meisel, of Springfield, who is a well-known contractor, and the other is Dr. J. Edwin Rowe, of Summit. Dr. Rowe is the present city clerk of Summit, a member of the Board of Health, secretary of the Board of Trade and a member of various other organizations. It is quite likely that the choice of a candidate will be made on the Republican outing tomorrow. Either Freeholder Meisel or Dr. Rowe would make a good successor to the present incumbent, and would doubtless be elected.

Mr. Pierce's statement is as follows:

"After reflection, I have reached the conclusion not to be a candidate again for the Assembly. Having been honored with three terms the full quota for Republicans in Union county, it seems to me fair to stand aside and give others a chance.

"It is needless to say, however, my services will be given as freely in the campaign as though I were a candidate.

"It is fair to say it has been a pleasure to me to be in the Assembly, and to have stood for certain things,—in particular the keeping of platform pledges, and the advancement of measures tending to place the State more and more on a business basis. There is no doubt but that the trend of affairs in the State is for better government. Such has been the record for the past three years, and putting partisanship aside, and considering simply the record, I believe the party is entitled to be continued in power, upon its record. This is not the place to give details, but the facts are upon the statute books, and will doubtless be marshalled and given out in due time."

REV. DR. EATON TO PREACH AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church, of New York city, will preach at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church at the morning service on Sunday, August 14.

Dr. Eaton is considered one of the ablest ministers in the Baptist denomination and has also gained a warm place in the hearts of the residents of Watchung where he has a country home, by his public spirit and interest in every good cause.

A week from Sunday, August 21, Rev. Robert E. Carter, of Washington, Conn., will occupy the pulpit.

Miss Adam, of Yonkers, an accomplished organist, will substitute for Alexander Russell at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church for the balance of the month of August. The choir will resume its duties the first Sunday in September, when Mr. Russell will also return.

—Among the fancy fruits at Neuman Brothers tomorrow will be table plums, Bartlett pears, Jersey peaches, fancy muskmelons, etc.

STOCK CO. FOR PLAINFIELD

Proctor & Sanderson to Install Dramatic Company Here at Popular Prices.

SEASON OPENS ON LABOR DAY.

Old Policy of Presenting High-Class Attractions Will Also Continue—Many Plays Booked.

Lovers of the drama and all first-class theatrical productions will be interested to learn that Plainfield is to have a dramatic company of merit, and that the Plainfield theatre is to be open continuously during the coming season. Messrs. Proctor and Sanderson have secured the services of H. A. Brunelle as local manager for the Plainfield theatre and will inaugurate the season with a dramatic stock company commencing Labor Day, September 5, producing only the best plays.

Mr. Brunelle, who managed the stock company at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre, Proctor's 58th Street theatre, New York; the Norwalk Opera House, Norwalk, Conn., and others, will assume entire charge of the Plainfield theatre. He will open the local season on September 5, with a New York company of superior excellence, producing a long list of popular plays including those of Belasco, Cohan & Harris, Klaw & Erlanger and other well-known producing managers. Popular prices will prevail, fifteen, twenty-five and thirty-five cents being charged. Thirty-five cents will be the highest price for the best orchestra chairs. Another feature will be a matinee every day for the convenience of those in the surrounding towns.

The old policy of the theatre, that of playing the traveling companies, will not be abandoned. The selections will be more carefully made and all of the New York successes will be produced as rapidly as possible. The following are a few of those already booked: "The Arcadians," "Is Matrimony a Failure?" "Arsene Lupin," "The Three Twins," "The Smart Set," Richard Carle in a new comedy; Raymond Hitchcock, in "The Man Who Owns Broadway"; Robert Hilliard, in "A Fool There Was"; Margaret Anglin, in "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie"; Al. G. Fields' minstrels and the attractions of Charles Frohman, Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and Henry B. Harris at usual prices prevailing for such attractions, thus combining a popular priced entertainment available for all and the higher-class attractions for those who desire to patronize them.

This effort of Proctor & Sanderson to give Plainfield theatregoers the best in the drama as well as comedy, it is believed will meet with generous support. Mr. Sanderson announces that more detailed particulars will be given within a short time relative to the new plans. In presenting a stock company a popular plan of subscription will be arranged whereby patrons may obtain the same seats for all plays and engage them weeks ahead, if desired.

FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE ENJOY ANNUAL EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of colored churches between Newark, Somerville and New Brunswick, to Bellewood Park, yesterday, was a great success, it being reported that 4,092 colored people enjoyed the outing. It required five trolley cars to carry the colored people from the Mt. Zion A. M. E. and Shiloh Baptist churches to Bound Brook, where they took a train on the Lehigh Valley railroad for Bellewood Park. Rev. T. J. Diggs, of the Mt. Zion church, had charge of those going on the picnic in the territory between Elizabeth, Somerville and New Brunswick, and his work was very satisfactory.

Despite the large number of people on the outing, there was not an accident of any moment and in fact nothing to mar the pleasures of the day. Six sections in all were required to carry the excursionists over the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Originally four sections were ordered, and later two more were found necessary to accommodate the crowd. It is estimated that nine hundred people from this city went on the outing. Mr. Diggs has been suggested for the management of next year's excursion, and will probably be chosen.

J. C. DYER PASSES AWAY AT ANDOVER, N. Y.

Word has been received here of the death, recently of J. C. Dyer, a former well-known resident of the borough, which occurred at his home in Andover, N. Y. Mr. Dyer for many years lived on Craig place at the head of Duer street, and it was his house that was removed to Grove street, adjoining the home of Dr. D. C. Adams, to permit the opening of Duer street into the city.

Mr. Dyer was for many years engaged in the millinery business in the Schepflin block on West Front street. After retiring from business Mr. Dyer and his wife removed to Andover, N. Y. The latter died a few years ago. Mr. Dyer leaves no children. He was about seventy years of age.

BOY DISCOVERS PARTS OF STOLEN BICYCLE

While coming into the city this morning, Edward Scott, one of the North Plainfield High School boys, who are camping on the Lindsey farm in the borough, and a Daily Press carrier, discovered the parts of a bicycle in the tall grass in the Hyde field on Mountain avenue. The boy searched around the spot and found several more of the parts, which were scattered widely.

The boy immediately notified Acting-chief Marshal Keller, of his discovery and the latter accompanied the lad back to the spot. Their combined efforts revealed all the parts of the bicycle except the front wheel.

Marshal Keller then notified Andrew Wilson, of Craig place, whose bicycle was stolen from in front of his office on Madison avenue, last Monday night. Mr. Wilson identified the parts as those of his bicycle. Mr. Wilson had reported the theft of his wheel to both the city and borough police and had given a description of the bicycle. It was upon this description that Marshal Keller got the clue as to the owner of the parts.

And now the question that is puzzling the police is, who is the thief that only wanted the front wheel?

PLAN TO RE-ORGANIZE GOOD GOVERNMENT CLUB

The Republicans of the borough are planning for an active campaign and they hope to roll up a big majority for the ticket in November. Mayor Newton B. Smalley together with about fifteen representative members of the party in the borough, met at fire headquarters, last night, and discussed plans for re-organizing the Good Government Club, which did such effective work in the last campaign.

It was decided to lease a store on Somerset street, and commencing next week the place will be open every day and evening and frequent meetings, together with social sessions, will be held to interest the voters in the coming primary and election. It is also planned to have good speakers address the meetings from time to time, as well as various candidates of the party.

An executive committee, comprising Mayor N. B. Smalley, B. R. Waldron and E. P. T. Smith was appointed to make arrangements for opening campaign headquarters next week. Plenty of good reading matter will be provided and everything possible will be done to maintain the interest of the voters and impress them with their duty both as to the primary and election.

Wagner Buys out Moorehouse.

Frank W. Wagner, formerly in charge of the newstand at the Central Railroad depot and later in partnership with William Moorehouse in the entrance to the city market, has bought out Mr. Moorehouse's interest in the business, the sale having taken place yesterday. Mr. Moorehouse will take a vacation for a couple of weeks and then will resume his trade of machinist.

Hope's Excursion Tomorrow.

The Hope chapel excursion to Asbury Park tomorrow will afford Plainfielders still another opportunity to witness the flight of airships at the popular resort. These exhibitions are attracting widespread attention and unprecedented crowds from all sections of the country.

HARRY MARSHALL, MANAGER.

Marcus Hoyt to Captain Team—Practice to Begin at Once—Will Revive Interest in Game Here.

As a result of a business meeting held in the rooms of the local lodge of Elks after the departure of the victorious team from Burlington last evening a permanent nine of the order will be organized right away and contests for the rest of the season will be held on Thursdays provided arrangements can be made with teams from other lodges in nearby towns or in fact from over across the Hudson.

Harry W. Marshall,
Manager Elks' Baseball Team.

The game yesterday afternoon demonstrated that their is enough good baseball material in Plainfield lodge to put a fine team on the diamond to represent the Elks in this city and to that end a manager and captain were elected last evening. Harry Marshall was selected as manager and Marcus Hoyt, captain.

It is the desire of the manager and captain that a first-class team be got together and they would like all of the members who have the baseball instinct to join them at the oval on Monday and Wednesday afternoons for practice so that the best material may be selected to represent this city.

Already the order for uniforms has been issued and the maker will be in this city to take measures and other data necessary to make the suits. The club will be a permanent thing and will take part in a series of games during the balance of this season and will continue to play for years to come. Manager Marshall is in hopes of getting either the Amboy or Paterson Elks for a game next Thursday and failing in this will try to arrange it with either a team from Paterson or one from Brooklyn. This action of the Elks will revive a decadent interest in the National game in this city.

The Burlington team were royally treated by the local boys after the game yesterday and they departed with a feeling of reciprocity which they will endeavor to put over the pan in the near future. A return game with Burlington is not an impossibility.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HAVE PERFECT DAY AT THE SHORE.

There was a sunburned happy crowd of nearly two thousand men, women and children, who returned from Asbury Park last night on the Knights of Columbus excursion. The affair had been a grand success and everybody was happy. Not an accident of any kind had occurred to marr the pleasure of the trip.

The excursion, which was one of the largest that has gone from this city this season, was also one of the most orderly, the running between cars by the children being an absent quantity. The train was made up of two sections.

While at the shore, the excursionists had a chance to witness the aeroplane flights, which took place shortly before 6 o'clock. The train left Asbury Park at 7.20 arriving in this city at 9 o'clock.

The day at the shore was as if made to order. A cool breeze blew in from the ocean and the temperature of the surf which was 69 degrees, enticed many of the excursionists into its boisterous waves.

BOLD DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP

Richard Hooper Twice Stopped by Daring Highwayman Yesterday.

THE DESPERADO BEATEN OFF.

Robber Fails to Obtain Loot Description Answers That of William Duffy of Newark.

A bold highway robbery was attempted yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the road leading to Mount St. Mary's convent, when Richard Hooper, a driver for William T. Campbell, a Somerset street livery man, was held up twice at the same place. The would-be desperado was unsuccessful in his attempt and made good his escape. The borough police, however, are keeping a sharp look out for him.

Hooper was driving Miss Helen Wyckoff, of New York city, from the railroad station to the Convent. Just as he turned his horse into Terrill road from Mountain avenue, the animal came to a sudden stop. It was not until Hooper leaned over the side of the carriage that he discovered the highwayman at the horse's head, so completely had the robber concealed himself. Without brandishing a revolver or weapon of any kind, the highwayman demanded all the valuables which the two passengers had with them. Hooper then suddenly applied the whip and got away up the hill to the Convent.

As the carriage started off, the robber yelled that he would get them when they came back. He made good his threat and stood waiting for Hooper when he returned after delivering his passenger. The robber attempted to jump in the carriage but Hooper beat him off with the butt of his whip and then sped off toward Plainfield.

He reported the matter at once to the borough police, giving a description of the man, who was about five feet, ten inches tall, and who wore a black suit and slouch hat, and a heavy black beard and mustache. His clothes were badly worn. Acting Chief Marshal Charles Keller went up to the scene of the hold-up immediately but could find no trace of the man. It is supposed that he beat a hasty retreat into the Watchung mountains.

The fact that the hold-up was committed in broad daylight, on a road, which is constantly traveled by automobilists, and by a man apparently without a weapon of any kind, makes the attempted robbery one of the boldest that has been perpetrated in this vicinity in a long time.

The description given by Hooper of this highwayman tallies exactly with the description of a man giving his name as William Duffy, who appeared in the district court yesterday morning, trying to collect wages, which he claimed were due him from a man named Van Nest, who lives in this city. It is supposed that the man became desperate from lack of money and food.

LAWRENCE BRAY, WELL KNOWN MACHINIST, DEAD.

Lawrence Bray, who has been a resident of this city for many years, died at his home, 610 Plainfield avenue, this morning. Mr. Bray was in his fifty-second year and had been employed in the Potter Printing Press factory for the past twenty-four years.

Mr. Bray is survived by his wife and ten children, all residents of this city. The dead man was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church and of A. O. H. No. 4, of Plainfield. He was also a member of Court Plainfield, 1144, I. O. F. Funeral services will be held on Monday morning but arrangements have not as yet been completed.

Supt McIlravy to Speak.

A prayer and praise service will be held at the Temple Baptist church, Sunday night, and will be in charge of Superintendent Harry McIlravy, of the Boys' department of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. This work is in charge of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union and Mr. McIlravy will bring with him some of the best singers from among his charges. He will also tell about his work. The public is invited. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

Captured a Ground-hog.

Charles Harris, of the borough, captured a live ground-hog near Smalley Brothers' stone crusher, yesterday afternoon. The animal is now on exhibition at W. L. Smalley's meat market on Park avenue, where he cannot see his shadow.

SHARP WANTED TO DIE

Tried Twice to Hang Himself in Cell at Police Headquarters—Finally Went to Sleep.

DR. LUFBURROW CALLED TWICE

Weaver was on Way to Scotland, but Stopped Here for a Drink—Then Lost Consciousness and Money Too.

Maybe John Sharp, a weaver, of Bound Brook, will be more careful with whom he drinks in the future if the emptiness of his pockets this morning proves to be any kind of a warning to him. Mr. Sharp, according to his story to Judge William N. Runyon this morning said when he arrived in Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, he had considerable money in his pockets; but all he could find when brought from his cell was fourteen cents and he had a hazy idea that he was touched for his roll during a slight deviation from the path of rectitude yesterday.

Sharp was arrested shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon while staggering along West Front street helplessly drunk. He was taken to police headquarters where he was put to bed on a cot in the hope that he would sober up. Evidently the demon in the rum which he had taken awakened the desire to shake off this mortal coil and acting upon the impulse Sharp at once began to make arrangements for his trip to the beyond. He originally intended to sail for Scotland and perhaps thought that such a journey was too short or not interesting enough hence the shorter and quicker route to oblivion.

Sharp detached a piece of the chain from his cell door and made a loop around his neck and attempted to strangle himself to death by throwing his weight on the chain. His attempt at self destruction made noise enough to cause an investigation to be made, and the would-be suicide was released from the chain and City Physician Lufburrow was called to examine the man. A second attempt by Sharpe produced the same procedure over again but he was finally quieted.

This morning he told a story of illness and the whisky cure which had the elements of truth in it and he was discharged. He declared that he intends to sail for Scotland tomorrow on the Furnessia of the Anchor line. On his way from Bound Brook he was taken with a sudden chill and on the advice of a fellow traveler he got off in this city and got some whiskey to warm his blood. It must have been pretty strong for no sooner had he imbibed the second glassful, again at the suggestion of his quandam friend, than he lost consciousness and from that time until he came to this morning his mind was a blank. Sharp claimed that he was a weaver and had been recently working in the woolen mills at Bound Brook and owing to continued ill health was going to his native land for a change of air. Luckily for him his ticket and other things are awaiting him at the Anchor line pier in New York or Sharp would have had to swim to Scotland.

McVEY HOTEL PROPERTY SOLD TO EMANUEL KAPELSOHN

The well-known McVey hotel property at West Front street and Clinton avenue, has been sold to Emanuel Kapelsohn, of New York city, by Tapscott Brothers, of 138 North avenue. The new owner will make extensive improvements and will probably convert the property into apartments. This building was originally erected by the Rising Sun Brewery Company, of Elizabeth, but was not used for the purposes intended, owing to the fact that a license was not granted. The original cost of construction was about $23,000 and the consideration in the recent deal was about $15,000 cash.

Mr. Kapelsohn has sold his Park avenue residence, through Tapscott Brothers, to William Foster, of New York. This property was at one time owned by Charles L. Moffett. Tapscott Brothers have also sold the property at 223 East Fifth street to Dwyer Brothers, of Bayonne; No. 817 Richmond street to John Myers, of New York and No. 15 Prospect place to Louis Potthoff, of Brooklyn.

But the Plainfield Elks can play ball, only, of course not as well as their Burlington brothers.

8—5 isn't such a bad game. It shows that the antlered ones were really playing baseball, anyway.

It will be an "unbaseball" Saturday in Plainfield tomorrow. The local people will be lonesome without the usual good game going on.

Perhaps it was a wise deal between Newark and Toronto when the former gave the latter Arthur Moeller for Lew McAllister—and then again perhaps it was not. That Newark pitcher was delivering the goods without any doubt, but Iron Man McGinnity figured that he had a strong enough pitching staff, and his bunch of back-stops is weak.

The eccentric Rube Waddell, the famous pitcher and strike-out manufacturer of the St. Louis Browns, will don a Newark Eastern League uniform this week. The Rube arrived in Newark last night and is expected to be a big addition to the Indians' pitching staff.

Montross and Emery will be the battery for Dunellen in the game with Scotch Plains tomorrow afternoon. The contest is scheduled to be played on the Madison avenue grounds in Dunellen.

Nolan, the Plainfield boy who is playing centerfield for Bound Brook, is one of the classiest players on that team. He is a good sticker, his fielding is O. K., and his throwing is certainly up almost to the big league standards.

VETERAN'S LIFE ENDS.

Summit, Aug. 12.—At the age of eighty-four years, William Moore, aide to General Thomas Francis Meagher, during the Civil War, died at the home of his grandson, James A. Burke, 237 Morris avenue, Summit, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Death was due to the infirmities of old age.

Born in Kilkenny, Ireland, Mr. Moore came to this country at the age of twenty-three, shortly after his marriage. He resided in New York until the opening of the Civil War, enlisting in Company B, Sixty-ninth Regiment, New York Volunteers, October 17, 1861.

Because of his skill as a horseman, however, he was in a short time appointed first aide to General Meagher, which post he held until mustered out, three years later. He was wounded on two occasions during the war. At one of the times, while standing at the head of his horse, delivering a message to the general, he was struck by a rifle ball which pierced both legs above the knee.

One of Mr. Moore's most prized possessions at the time of his death was a silver mounted Colt's revolver, which was carried by General Meagher throughout the war, and presented to him by the general after the surrender at Appomattox. It is one of the first Colt's revolvers made.

Mr. Moore had resided in Summit for over forty years. For the last three years he had been living with his grandson. He is also survived by one grand-daughter, Mrs. James J. Davis, of Flatbush, Brooklyn. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

IMMIGRATION DECLINING.

New York, Aug. 12.—Statistics for July, the first month of the fiscal year, given out Wednesday at Ellis Island, show a decided slackening in immigration. Of the 73,869 steerage passengers who arrived here, 52,727 were immigrants and 13,799 American citizens. Of the immigrants, 10,756 were Italians, 8,169 Jews, chiefly from Russia; 6,976 Poles, 4,006 Germans, 2,216 English, 1,263 Irish and 1,041 Scotch. Only one Scotch immigrant over fourteen years of age was unable to read and write. Other illiterates were 8 English, 15 Irish, 178 Germans, 1,676 Jews and 3,812 Italians; number deported, 1,22[illegible], money brought by those permitted to land, $1,537,794.

Inspect Ballot Boxes.

WESTFIELD.

A boy, who apparently in a spirit of mischief partly threw a switch in the Westfield freight yard Wednesday afternoon was responsible for the derailment of four cars and blocking the westbound freight track for several hours. While the engine, with half a dozen cars, was crossing over at the main crossing, one of the brakemen on the cars saw a boy standing at the switch, but paid no particular attention to him. When the engine returned and attempted to push the cars past the Irving siding, they split the switch and were pushed across the tracks. The boy was not in sight.

SAMUEL GILES FRACTURES RIBS IN FALL AT BEEF HOUSE.

Samuel Giles, of West Front street, employed at the Union Beef Company's house on East Third street, met with an accident this morning, while carrying a side of beef from one place to another. In some way he made a misstep, and fell a considerable distance, with the heavy weight of beef on top of him. Mr. Giles was unable to move until a fellow-workman rendered assistance by lifting the weight from his body.

Dr. P. J. Zeglio was summoned at once and removed the injured man in his automobile to his home on West Front street. The physician was under the impression that several ribs were fractured as a result of the accident and Mr. Giles will probably be detained at home for a couple of weeks at least.

ENTERTAINMENT AT FRESH AIR CAMP LAST NIGHT.

An enjoyable and interesting entertainment was given the children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp last night and several friends of the camp. A program of amusing "stunts" which included Charles Munford in character sketches; musical selections by William Richards and phonograph selections under the direction of Frederic Costello.

Herbert Henry was master of ceremonies and after the entertainment served the youngsters with peanuts a treat not often enjoyed. The children voted their thanks to the entertainers.

Giles Case Again Postponed.

The case of Mrs. Charles Bicknell against Mrs. John Giles, of Lake street, for using indecent and profane language on last Sunday, was again postponed for a week by City Judge William N. Runyon this morning. Only one witness was examined, a Mrs. Asago, of New York, who wanted to give her testimony and return to the city. The accused woman was not represented in court, her physician having certified to the fact that she is confined to her home ill. The allegations of Mrs. Asago were taken note of by Judge Runyon.

Borough Council Will Not Meet.

There will be no adjourned meeting of the Borough Council tonight, owing to the absence on vacation of several of the members and those who are engaged in the matter of the sewage disposal plant. The members are of the opinion that more time should be given to the study of the pipe to be used and other matters of importance in connection with the proposed new works. Therefore the meeting will be postponed until the regular meeting night in September.

CONGRESSMAN MAY GO ON G. O. P. OUTING

There were rumors today that Congressman Charles N. Fowler would join the Union County Republicans tomorrow on their outing to Rockaway Beach, serving to increase the interest in the annual affair. That Mr. Fowler is not going to lose any chances in the approaching campaign is the opinion of those who are in close touch with the situation. It has not been the custom of the Congressman to take in the Republican outing, but in view of the fight now on in the Fifth district, he perhaps, thinks it will afford a good opportunity to do some missionary work.

It was learned today that among others who are expected to join the outing are United States Senator John Kean, Vivian M. Lewis, who seeks the Gubernatorial nomination; United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, Judge William N. Runyon, as well as many others who are seeking nominations for one office or another. The start will be made from Elizabethport at 10 o'clock on the Steamer Isabelle.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE TO GET CHARTER MONDAY.

On Monday evening the Loyal Order of Moose will be formally instituted in this city, and, according to the organizers, the last opportunity for charter members will be on that date and the initiation fee will be increased to $25 after that date.

Those who have already joined, and they number more than two hundred, will assemble at Knights of Columbus hall at 8:30 Monday evening, and preceded by a band will repair to Saengerbund Hall in the borough, where a degree team from Trenton, in full costume, will confer the work and exemplify the newly adopted ritual. The obligation will be taken by a number of applicants before the initiation on Monday night.

HORSE STOLEN IN NEWARK MAY COME THIS WAY.

The Newark police notified Chief Kiely this morning that a dark bay cob had been stolen from that city last night and asked that the local patrolmen be on the lookout for the animal. It is described as being fifteen hands high, weighs about 10,000 pounds, both knees scarred and has white hind feet.

The horse was attached to a black runabout with cushion tires and the harness is described as being old and worn.

Golf Competition at P. C. C.

Instead of a four-ball foursome at the Plainfield Country Club, tomorrow, the event will be an 18-hole medal play handicap for both classes, A and B. This form of competition has proved popular at the club this season and a large field is expected out tomorrow, especially as many of the members have returned from their summer outing.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

John Shoemaker, of Marlboro, sold ten baskets of cantaloupes Wednesday at a dollar a basket.

Harry Bramble, of Paulsboro, fell from a scaffold at Lincoln Park on Tuesday and fractured his skull.

Charles Vickery, of Bridgeport, has one of the finest fields of cantaloupes in the county. Wednesday he picked 100 baskets.

Rev. Herbert L. Cottrell, pastor of the Shiloh Seventh-Day Baptist church, has been called to the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, of Nile, N. Y.

At Moorestown Wednesday Anna Pierce, of Riverton, was held in $200 bail on a charge of embezzlement preferred by John Carver of Moorestown.

The Salem County Freeholders Wednesday awarded the contract for a State road of gravel through Elmer to Firman H. Lloyd, of Salem, for $7,418.32.

The Cumberland County Freeholders Wednesday were asked to co-operate with the Cape May County Board in building a State road from Millville to Cape May.

The churches and the W. C. T. U. flooded Vineland Council Wednesday praying that the sale of ice cream and soda water be prohibited on Sundays. Rev. F. A. De Maris, pastor of the First Methodist church said the growing disregard for the American Sunday was alarming. The Council voted unanimously to consider an ordinance at the next meeting.

C. W. Pearson had an exciting race with a young deer on the pike below Buena Vista, near Vineland, Wednesday. The fleet little animal bounded out of the woods and, seeing Pearson's auto dashed up the road for half a mile while all the power was turned on to overtake it. Then the deer jumped sidewise and stood in plain sight while the auto sped by.

Atlantic City's project for a new bridge at Albany avenue, May's Landing, where the automobile boulevard enters the city, was turned down Wednesday at a meeting of the Atlantic County Board of Chosen Freeholders, after a mammoth petition from Atlantic City people had been received and Assemblyman Walter E. Edge and Isaac Bacharach, of Atlantic City, argued in its favor. The estimated cost of the bridge was $115,000.

Crowds of small boys and men at Atlantic City searched through the rubbish on the city dump Wednesday hoping to win the rich reward offered by Mrs. Samuel Hirsch, of Cincinnati, for the recovery of a pair of diamond earrings valued at $500 which disappeared from her apartments at a leading hotel. It is thought that a careless maid picked up the envelope in which Mrs. Hirsch had placed the gems, and threw it in a waste basket by mistake.

No reference was made by the Camden County Freeholders Wednesday to the action of the Grand Jury in condemning the dual authority in control of the jail, referring to the Freeholders and Sheriff Hatch. The matter was discussed privately among some of the members who were advised by those behind the scene not to ask the solicitor to carry the matter to court. As Sheriff Hatch is not taking any steps to see if he is the "jail boss" and will not discuss the matter, the complicated conditions will continue to prevail.

NOVEL PROBLEM FOR CIVIL SERVICE BOARD.

Trenton, Aug. 12.—The Civil Service Commission is wrestling with a novel problem presented by George L. Ruggles and Joseph T. Geraghty, former employes of the Hudson County Tax Board, who are seeking reinstatement. The petition of these two former clerks sets forth that on July 31, 1908, the offices they held were declared abolished and their services were dsipensed with. Since that time, however, they claim that other clerks have been employed to fill similar positions, ignoring their rights under the civil service law.

The civil service act was passed in 1908 and did not become operative in full until October of the same year. The attorney-general held, however, that in so far as removals from office were concerned the act went into effect immediately. The abolition of the two clerkships occurred between the time the act was signed and the date that it was supposed to take effect. At the time that the two men were removed it was supposed that the act did not extend to county officers but since then the attorney-general has ruled that such officials were included in its provisions. It is only recently that the commission assumed jurisdiction over county officers, and learning of this fact Ruggles and Geraghty decided to seek reinstatement. A question has also arisen as to whether Section 2 of the act, upon which their petition is based, would afford them protection. This question the attorney-general has been asked to pass upon.

The contention of the two clerks is that when their offices were abolished they should have been placed on the suspended list, which would have made them eligible for reappointment should the offices be re-established or services similar to theirs required. On the other hand, it is claimed that when Ruggles and Geraghty were appointed they were distinctly told that their employment would be for a limited period only.

Pianos & Player-Pianos

MATHUSHEK & SON PLAYER-PIANO is the most advanced instrument of its type on the market today, and in its capacity for individual musical expression and for the artistic rendition of music, whether popular or classic, it cannot be surpassed, for it places the control of tempo and phrasing entirely in the hands of the performer, enabling him to give expression to his moods and emotions quite as if he were playing the piano manually.

Our experts have spent a number of years in producing this instrument, and every detail has been carefully thought out and perfected so that it may, without exaggeration, be described as the most perfect Player-Piano Mechanism in the world.

Study a moment this detailed sectional cut of a BOYNTON "Square-pot" boiler.

Note how all interior surfaces tend upward toward the front connection. This means quick water circulation and lively steaming. A slow fire under a does more to kill the chill in a cold house than a roaring, red hot blaze in the ordinary round pot type of boiler. This is because the BOYNTON has most fire surface and best draft.

BOYNTON "Square-pot" boilers are easily cleaned. They have the same quick cleaning grate and capacious ash-pit as the famous BOYNTON hot air furnaces.

A dozen other strong features that we can't mention here—get the BOYNTON man to show you.

INT'L R'Y COMMISSIONS FOR DOMINION AND U. S.

New York, Aug. 12.—A preliminary meeting, designed by its promoters to pave the way for an agreement between the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Railway Commission of Canada, whereby international commerce shall be regulated, was held in the Hotel Manhattan yesterday. Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and J. H. Mabee, chief Commissioner of the Railway Commission of Canada, were the conferees. Both men made it plain that the conference, which will extend over several days, will likely result in the adoption of a tentative working agreement. This will later be elaborated on, and it is hoped, adopted, by both commissions.

Traffic by rail and water are being considered in all its international bearings. Although there has not been any clash on international commerce during the last few years, there has grown up a necessity for a common understanding between the commissions in this country and Canada because of the great increase in trade between the United States and the Dominion.

CROSSING HORROR DUE TO VICTIMS' ERROR.

Cape May, Aug. 12.—Coroner George H. Reeves held an inquest last evening on the bodies of the five victims of the automobile accident, which occurred Tuesday, when an automobile, containing Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Feldner, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Mergenthaler, of Baltimore, and the chauffeur, M. C. Jones, collided with a Pennsylvania express train at Cold Spring Crossing, the whole party being killed.

The only eye-witnesses were examined. The first fourteen included the train crew, the passengers on the train and those who lived near the crossing. All agreed that the locomotive whistle was blown. Miss May McNeill, an eye-witness testified that she waved her hands in warning to the approaching auto.

After a deliberation of fifty minutes the jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, which only the victims could prevent. It was recommended that the railroad be forced to take steps to prevent another such accident. No blame was placed.

BRIDGE COMPANY MUST PAY.

Paterson, Aug. 12.—The Abbott Bridge Company will be asked to pay the costs of readvertising for proposals for the Pompton Lakes bridge and the incidental expenses caused through the delay on the work, which will total about $400, before it can be released from the contract of putting up the structure.

The Abbott company was the lowest bidder by $1,700 when the proposals were opened several weeks ago. Immediately afterward the company discovered that it had made a mistake of about $2,000 in totaling up the items of the bid, and the freeholders were asked to release the company from its contract. It was apparent that an error had been made and the freeholders were not disposed to compel the company to go ahead with the work if it had to be done at a loss.

The matter was referred to the counsel, and he also came to the conclusion that an error had been committed and suggested to the board that the company be released if it will pay for the readvertising.

FOR COUNTY SEAT CHANGE.

Belvidere, Aug. 12.—Mayor Firth, of Phillipsburg, headed a delegation which appeared before the freeholders Wednesday and presented the petition gotten up by the Board of Trade of that place for the removal of the county seat from Belvidere to Phillipsburg. The petition contains 4,916 names. It was referred to the county attorney. Joseph M. Roseberry, for examination. Those who are opposed to the movement say that the petition is insufficient: that it must have at least 5,000 names in order to be considered.

The Asylum Committee reported that it found ninety Warren County inmates in the Morris Plains Asylum. Five new patients were recently admitted from this county, eight have been discharged, one has died, and one transferred to Union county.

A ROMANCE OF FLYING

"The Rat Mort," interposed Craighead. "One deep midnight in the dear, dread past beyond recall I was ejected from the Rat Mort because my conduct was not up to the theretofore undisclosed standards of the place—from the Rat Mort—actually trun out, to coin an expression! Doth it not open glimpses of a depravity hitherto fabulous? And when I have been graduated from this emporium I shall return, pride in my port—meaning nothing vinous—defiance in mine eyes, and I shall sit down in the Rat Mort and behave myself for long, long periods of time, for ages.

"I AM FROM HERE AND ELSEWHERE."

Carson grew somnolent. Mr. Craighead sat upright, making occasional elocutionary gestures with his cigar hand.

Morning came. Two or three men came past the greenhouse, went round it and walked away again, as if making some sort of search. They came back after a time and entered. One was a tall, athletic, ruddy complexioned, youngish man, who seemed to be the leader of the trio. They gazed at the sleeping Carson and Craighead as if taking stock dispassionately of returned estrays in the form of dogs or horses.

"Well, Mr. Craighead," said the tall one in accents distinctly British, "I'm so end sorry to find you out of bounds again, sir!"

Instantly wide awake, Craighead assumed an attitude of jocular familiarity.

"It agonizes me to have given you a moment's pain, Dennis," said he, "but believe me I should have been howling like a banshee had I stayed longer in the storm center of Mr. Waddy's pneumatic slumbering."

From his evident irritation at the mention of his "pneumatic slumbering" Carson guessed that the shorter of Dennis' companions was Mr. Waddy. He was blocky and strong in build and bearded with gray excrescenses that grew forward and upward from all points, as if eyebrows, whiskers and mustache had been trained through a knothole for a long time and then suddenly cropped off and left standing.

He was puffing audibly. This labored breathing coupled with his appearance of having dressed hurriedly gave him the general effect of one who has leaped suddenly from bed and chased something at high speed. He had on a topcoat over shirt and trousers. On one foot was an arctic overshoe, on the other a Wellington boot.

"Mr. Craighead," said he, as if carefully choosing terms of scathing rebuke, "I've seen all kinds, and you do—beat—the—Dutch!"

"Thank you," said Mr. Craighead, bowing. "Pardon me, Dennis, have you not met my friend, Mr. Carson, from Alabama? A new arrival. A periodical, I believe. Mr. Carson, Mr. Dennis O'Grady. Mr. O'Grady is the official dispenser of dope"—

"Tonic, Mr. Craighead, if I may correct you, sir!" said Mr. O'Grady.

"Of course, Dennis," protested Craighead, "I meant tonic! And is this Mr. Carson's jag boss? I hope his slumbers are less sonorous than Mr. Waddy's, Mr. Carson. I"—

"Attendant," suggested Mr. O'Grady softly. "Mr. Evans is the attendant of Mr. Wylie. No doubt an error on Mr. Craighead's part, Mr. Wylie, but we understand perfectly that you are the Mr. Wylie who arrived very ill last night, sir, and who departed before we could give him the examination and the formal admission. Mr. Evans will attend upon you, Mr. Wylie, and we hope, sir, to have you feeling much better in a few days, sir!"

"You are greatly mistaken!" exclaimed Theodore. "I don't belong here at all!"

"Quite right, sir!" responded Mr. O'Grady heartily. "Quite right! I am glad that you are already able to see, sir, that you belong with Mr. Evans in room 34, sir."

"But I am not Mr. Wylie," interposed Carson.

"Pardon me," softly suggested Mr. O'Grady, "but I find you here, Mr. Wylie, where none but inmates can come."

"I dropped into this garden from an aeronat," reiterated Theodore.

"And swallowed your parachute?" interpolated O'Grady.

"No!" cried Carson, producing it from under the bench. "Here it is."

"I have no knowledge of machinery," said O'Grady. "But the existence here of so common a contrivance does not at all prove the absence of Mr. Wylie, and Mr. Wylie is accounted for by no personality except your own, sir. The Slattery institute loses no patients. You are Mr. Wylie or Mr. Wylie is lost; hence, sir, you are Mr. Wylie."

Mr. Evans ushered young Mr. Carson into room 34 as if conferring a great favor in thus naming him Wylie and arresting him instanter under the new cognomen.

"I am not Mr. Wylie," reiterated Carson. "I am Theodore Carson, as I said, and I"—

"This matter of names is so complicated," quavered Mr. Evans, pushing up his cuffs as if about to attempt some feat of physical prowess. "No man drawin' my pay c'n be expected to work it out. I git awful small wages, Mr. Wylie. My duties is simple. You git your tonic an' treatments reg'lar an' keep hours. A whole lot of gentlemen comes here under special names."

Mr. Craighead rapped and entered.

"I quite agree with the remarks of my querulous friend, Mr. Evans," said Mr. Craighead. "Your position, Mr. Carson, is an equivocal one. The question is, what's your field?"

"It is aeronautics," replied Theodore. "I have devised the first effective aeronef. I"—

"Very interesting," returned Craighead. "I have made that a specialty. I know the defects of the present day aeronefs, and I understand the failure of the gas supported aerostats, except as toys for us parasitic capitalists. But to the point in controversy. Are you the Fulton of the empyrean or the Edison of the hot air? Mr. Evans' porcine tonality has expressed the only conclusion open to him—to accept the Wylie theory as a working hypothesis and to work it at the regular per diem. Dost foller me?"

"I suppose that this Wylie must turn up sooner or later," mused Theodore. "But why should I take treatment? What do they do to you?" persisted Theodore.

"They give you dope; they feed you for a few days on bran mash; they shoot you twice a day; they give you a little bottle to assuage what they call your thirst the first night or so, though why they call that a thirst which is only a cerebrospinal tendency entirely unconnected with irrigation deponeth saith not. Let's to breakfast."

Breakfast! Here was something to be "understanded of the people." Carson was famishing. And before he returned to his room he learned that he was an inmate of the Slattery Institute For Drunkards.

Feet So Sore Couldn't Walk Down Stairs

TIZ Cured Her Quick.

If you have sore feet, tired feet, sweaty feet, lame feet, tender feet, smelly feet, corns, callouses or bunions, read what happened to Mrs. Crockett, of Jeffersonville. TIZ DID IT, Mrs. Crockett says: "After the second treatment she walked downstairs one foot at a time. She has not been able to walk downstairs before in past five years, except by stepping down on each step with one foot at a time. This is remarkable. Send five more boxes."

No matter what ails your feet or what under heaven you have used without getting relief, just use TIZ. It's different. It acts right off. It cures sore feet to stay cured. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. You will feel better the first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25c per box, or direct if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

BIG BLAST BRINGS DOWN GREAT MASS OF ROCK.

Two hundred and fifty pounds of dynamite placed where its explosive force would do the greatest amount of work were exploded at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the stone quarry of Mayor Newton B. Smalley in North Plainfield. The promised spectacle of a great explosion and subsequent demolition of rock attracted quite a gallery of Somerset and Union county politicians and others who are not interested in politics.

It was estimated that more than two thousand tons of a fine quality of rock was dislodged by the blast. No drilling was done, for this blast tunnelling being found the surest and most expeditious method.

Among the spectators at the scene were M. C. Van Arsdale, Charles P. Sebring, Andrew Lutkins, B. R. Waldron, W. L. Smalley, Jr., and others, including Mayor Smalley.

the few hours of practice they have had they furnished a remarkably good article of ball. Any errors they committed must be attributed to lack of preparation. They'll do better next time, and anyway the sport was hugely enjoyed by everybody.

The plucky game put up by McNaughton, behind the bat, Van Arsdale's work at short, McLaughlin's fielding and Capt. Hoyt's all around playing were the features. Nicol was badly handicapped by the sun in right garden which accounts for two muffed flies. For Burlington the work of the battery and first baseman Lawrence was particularly good. George Johnson made an admirable umpire, none of his decisions being questioned.

Side Lights on the Game.

Warry McLaughlin was robbed of at least a three-bagger in the fifth when Mitchell engulfed his fly in deep centre.

Woolston had only one chance at the bat, but he wafted a scorching liner through Donnelly.

Doc Cadmus didn't get into the game until the sixth, but in that and the ninth he scored two pretty assists and a put out, the last being a screaming liner from Mitchell's bat. Pretty good stuff.

Capt. Hoyt covered a lot of ground around second. He was on his toes all the time.

Fourteen put outs on first is no mean record. Blimm had hard luck when he didn't make it seventeen, besides, the score would have been closer. The drop of Van Arsdale's assist in the eighth was unfortunate.

In another game the local boys would just about trim the team they lost to yesterday.

Thomason, the visitor's guardian of the right pasture, may be an old 'un, but he's as nimble as the youngest man on the Burlington team and he had his eye on the ball, too.

Well, after all, it was a glorious afternoon and judging by the conduct of the fans, among whom were many of the fair sex, everybody enjoyed the sport. Some more like it would be welcome.

The players of both teams accepter the courtesy of the Courier-News and enjoyed the shower baths before and after the game.

BASEBALL.

Marcus Hoyt proved himself a baseball player besides a jockey in the Elks' game yesterday. He covered second base in elite style and was also there with the willow.

Warry McLaughlin was touched up a little more than was expected by his fraternal brothers. The only solution to this is that those Burlington boys were ball players from the word "go".

The Pirates are not so far behind "them Cubs" as people think. Only fifty-six points on the paper, but the Pittsburgers have a great many postponed games to play off yet. It is a fortunate thing for the Pirates that this is the case, for at their present gait they can cop these games easily now, whereas they would have lost them had they played them in their early season form. You'll hear from them yet.

Since the last series between the Detroit Tigers and the Philadelphia Athletics it looks as though the race for the American league rag would rest between Philadelphia and the Boston Red Sox.

Luthman, the slab artist for the Gesang and Turn Verein team, seems to be among the young hopefuls in the city ball clubs. He has been doing some splendid box work of late. Give him time and he'll be heard from some day.

Report has it that the New York state league is about to disband. Poor attendance is given as the reason.

Play ball tomorrow!

G. O. P. ON OUTING TODAY

Steamer Isabella Loaded to Gunwales with the Union County Faithful.

JUDGE W. N. RUNYON BOOMED.

Successor to Carlton B. Pierce May be Selected During Trip—Dinner on Board an Innovation.

When the steamer Isabella pulled away from the dock at Elizabethport this morning she was loaded to the gunwales with a happy and expectant crowd of carefree men bent on having a good time. It was rumored in the early morning that Senator John Kean and former Governor Franklin Murphy were to meet on board, but this rumor was dispelled when the ex-Governor failed to put in an appearance. Nearly a thousand of the faithful were on board the steamer which was decked out in flags and bunting and amid the tooting of whistles she made her way down the bay under exactly the same weather conditions which prevailed a year ago.

A large delegation of G. O. P. adherents from this city left on the 8.36 train to join contingents from other parts of the county for the day's outing of the Union County Republican Committee among them being Walter Hetfield, Jr., Francis J. Blatz, Winfield S. Angleman, Horace Adams, William G. De Meza, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, James Stewart, Tax Collector W. R. Townsend, Alexander Ayres, James Morrison, John Bowman, Judge William N. Runyon and County Chairman Frank H. Smith, who headed the county contingent.

Many close confabs will undoubtedly occur on the way down the bay and perhaps a slate will be made up which will be put before the voters in the fall. But this, of course, is only conjecture. The newspaper men will have lots of opportunities of picking up stray bits of information which will give a line on the proposed doings of the leaders, but then again there may nothing happen to excite the newsgatherers' curiosity and they will join with the rest of the men in enjoying the outing, throwing the commonplace everyday grind to the winds. That's what the outing's for anyway.

The banquet will be served on the boat this time instead of at the hotel as on previous occasions. This will allow more time to be spent seeing the sights and for bathing.

One thing likely to be settled today will be the choice of a candidate for the Assembly nomination to succeed Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford. The wise ones say that it will be either Freeholder Peter Meisel, of Springfield, or Dr. J. Edwin Rowe, of Summit. Both have strong claims for the honor either one would make a good fight.

The candidacy of Judge William N. Runyon for the Congressional nomination was given a big boom and throughout the trip, William Jeffery and his delegation from Berkeley Heights enlivened the occasion with a song, entitled "Bill Runyon," and sung to the tune of "John Brown." The words were original with Mr. Jeffery, and it was not long before all were singing the song.

MRS. F. R. HOYT EXPIRES IN BRUSSELS, BELGIUM.

A cablegram from Brussels, Belgium received in this city yesterday, announced the death in that city of Mrs. Frank R. Hoyt, a sister of Mrs. Isaac Field and William Dutcher, of this city. The cable was sent by Miss Dorothea Hoyt, Mrs. Hoyt's daughter, but did not give any details of the sad occurrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt had made their home in Geneva, Switzerland, for the past fifteen years, and the announcement of the sudden demise was unexpected. Nothing is known of the cause of death.

Mrs. Hoyt was born at Bergen Point on April 20, 1856, and was therefore in her sixty-fifth year. She is survived by her husband and her daughter Dorothea, one sister, Mrs. Isaac Field, of Field avenue; and a brother, William Dutcher, of Central avenue.

Mrs. Hoyt's remains will be brought to Plainfield for interment, the date of which will be announced later.

Curate to Remain Here.

Rev. Elory G. Bowers, curate of Grace church, desires The Daily Press to state that there is no truth in the rumor that he is to resign his position here and take one as rector of another Episcopal church in New Jersey. He says that he will remain in this city.

"SILVER BAY PARTY" GIVEN AT Y. W. C. A.

Two parties were held at the local Y. W. C. A. this week. On Thursday night the Silver Bay party took place and last night the Junior club held an informal gathering.

The Silver Bay party proved to be a complete success, being given by the local delegates to the Y. W. C. A. conference at Silver Bay on Lake George. Games were enjoyed during the first part of the evening by the thirty girls who were present. After the games, the delegates performed the "stunts" which they did at Silver Bay. The young ladies were all dressed as New Jersey mosquitoes and acted cleverly. Among the delegates were the Misses Elizabeth Tapping, Helen Mosher, Maud Van Blarcom, Helen George, Florence Prior, Maizie Gray, Laura Hangliter, Nettie Steiner, Clara Runyon, Edith Jose and Myetie Fedderman.

There were thirty Juniors at the party last night. Gymnasium games were participated in and refreshments were served. The Misses Florence and Ethel Prior of Hillside avenue, assisted in the entertainment.

The board will meet at the courthouse in Somerville on Saturday, August 20, to receive bids on a number of bridges. These are mostly in Bernards township and were not awarded at a recent meeting owing to the inability of the Freeholders to interpret clearly the bid of H. W. Hoffman for the work, and it was voted to advertise again for bids and these will be presented at the meeting, August 20.

FAVORS A DIRECT VOTE

Edward C. Stokes Will Submit His Candidacy to the People of the State.

PETITION WAS FILED TO DAY.

Former Governor States Briefly His Position on the Important Questions Confronting the Federal Government at this Time.

Trenton, August 13.—While the other Republican aspirants are debating the question of whether or not they will submit their candidacies for the United States Senatorship to the popular vote of the people, which has created a tense political situation on account of the challenge of former Governor Franklin Murphy to John Kean and David Baird to avail themselves of the provisions of the direct primary law, former Governor Edward C. Stokes today formally announced his intention to submit his desire to be elected to the upper branch of Congress to a direct vote of the people as expressed in the Republican primaries to be held on September 13, next.

Coincident with the declaration that he is a candidate to succeed Senator Kean, Mr. Stokes filed with the Secretary of State petitions containing several thousand signatures from all sections of the State, requesting that his name be printed on the official ballots to be used in the direct primaries.

Besides expressing his views with reference to the advantages of a direct vote on the question of the United States Senatorship, Mr. Stokes states in a brief way his position on the important questions confronting the Federal government. He declares himself a firm believer in a protective tariff and approves of the idea of a permanent and impartial tariff commission to investigate and ascertain the facts in connection with the work of fixing the tariff rates. He pledges himself, if elected, to work for the development of inland waterways in New Jersey by Federal appropriations. Approving of the policy of establishing an American merchant marine, he also sets forth that he is in favor of the conservation of national resources.

Dealing with the questions of railroads and quasi-public corporations, Mr. Stokes declared that they should stand in the public confidence as high as the national banks and serve the people as faithfully and well. Governmental regulation, he said, should be directed to that end. He differentiated between governmental partnership and governmental supervision, asserting that there need be no conflict between the two under wise laws and a wise administration.

WM. NELSON'S HORSE SAVED BY MR. RAYBERT'S PLANKS.

Had it not been for the prompt assistance lent by Charles M. Raybert, of East Second street, early yesterday morning, William S. Nelson, of 323 Watchung avenue, would be minus a horse today.

Mr. Nelson was grazing his horse in the lot at the corner of Church and East Second streets when the hind right leg of the animal disappeared and the horse sank up to his middle in a disused cesspool.

The noise created by the animal in frantic efforts to extricate himself attracted a crowd in a short time and various suggestions were given to Mr. Nelson as to how best proceed to save the horse. Mr. Raybert learning of the state of affairs promptly put into use his brains and with a couple of planks soon had the animal on terra firma much to the relief of his owner.

SALVATION ARMY PLANS OUTING FOR THE POOR.

The local corps of the Salvation Army is now making preparations for a free outing for the poor on Labor Day next. It will be somewhat similar to the very successful one given a year ago, when about two hundred persons were taken to the Watchung mountains and enjoyed a pleasant day. Everything will be provided free, and it is hoped that not one person in the city who has been unable to get to the country some time during the hot months will be overlooked. Tickets will be ready for distribution in a few days. The place where the outing is to be held will be announced as soon as the question of transportation is settled.

Small Chimney Fire.

A still alarm was sent in to fire headquarters at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon for a small chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Noe, at 141 East Fifth street. The blaze was quickly put out with chemicals.

LONG WALK BY W. H. HALL

Regular Army Man on Tramp from Syracuse to Philadelphia.

HE WAS TAKEN ILL HERE.

Found Some Sympathetic Friends Who Eased His Journey For Him—Will Re-enlist in San Francisco.

William H. Hall, footsore and weary, reached Plainfield yesterday afternoon, after a jaunt afoot from Syracuse, N. Y. Hall is a discharged private from Uncle Sam's army, but be it understood he was honorably discharged with a recommendation for re-enlistment, and he had the necessary documents proving his identity and services.

Hall was destitute, and was seeking assistance to take him to Philadelphia, where he claimed to have a sister in good circumstances. He was seen in Thomas S. Armstrong's drug store, where he had applied to the druggist for some spirits of ammonia. Mr. Armstrong fixed up the dose gratis for the traveler and afterwards he told his story.

He had left Syracuse nine days ago to walk to the Quaker City, and intended to get there before Sunday if it were a possible thing. Among the discharge papers exhibited was one from the Philippines, another from San Francisco, and the third from Governors Island. In all of these papers Hall was given a good character, and had notes for bravery endorsed on the Far Eastern discharge, which showed that in fighting the Moros he had displayed the calibre of the best of soldiers.

Having buried his mother last week, the expenses of which consumed his little capital of $100, the result of months of saving, the man was all but discouraged. But among the few acquaintances he made in this city he managed to find those who were willing sympathizers and who dug down in their jeans and provided the wayfarer with the funds for his transportation as well as enough for several hearty meals.

After a visit with his sister, Hall will re-enlist at San Francisco. He says the army life is the best for him and he likes it.

SENATOR KEAN HITS BACK.

United States Senator John Kean has declined the offer of former Governor Franklin Murphy, who is a candidate for his place, to join in an open primary contest to see whom the Republicans of New Jersey desire the Legislature to choose. Senator Kean sent a letter to Mr. Murphy, which the latter received yesterday, telling the former Governor what he thought of his challenge. The latter, however, declined to make it public, saying Senator Kean could do that, while the latter retorted that it was up to Mr. Murphy to give it to the newspapers.

Just what Senator Kean's letter contains is not known, but it is said to tell the former Governor in strong but diplomatic language just what the Senator thinks of the Murphy trick, for that is what Senator Kean and his friends regard the Murphy challenge. The Senator is also said to refer in his letter to the many years of friendship which have existed between the two, and suggests the violation of a gentlemen's agreement among Kean, Baird and Murphy, whereby none of them was to take advantage of the primary law.

Senator Kean's friends and the friends of David Baird are angered at Mr. Murphy, and there was some talk yesterday of efforts to relieve the State chairman of the responsibility of conducting the coming State campaign. Mr. Murphy, it was pointed out, was now an active candidate for United States Senator to succeed Mr. Kean, and it was held that, in justice to his party, he should give up the chairmanship of the State committee and devote himself exclusively to the management of his own campaign, as he could not do justice to both.

Some of the more radical, in fact, looked with much favor on the plan to force Murphy out of the chairmanship.

ENDORSE JUDGE RUNYON

Rahway Republican Club Adopt Resolutions Favoring His Candidacy.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

Candidate for Congressional Nomination Says He Expects to be Elected—Rahway on the Edge of "Big Things."

Judge William N. Runyon was given an informal reception by the Republican Club, of Rahway, Thursday night, and it proved to be an enthusiastic affair. It was not intended that there should be any speechmaking, but the Republicans insisted on hearing the Judge and the latter said that he was impressed with the unanimity of spirit that existed in Rahway, adding that he believed that Rahway was right on the edge of "big things," considering its wonderful possibilities.

Judge Runyon, in company with a party of friends, enjoyed a trip on the Rahway river, and later was a guest at a beefsteak dinner at Hulsizer's Hotel. Among the other guests were prominent members of the party from Rahway and the county. At the conclusion of the dinner resolutions were adopted endorsing Judge Runyon for the Congressional nomination.

Judge Runyon said that he greatly appreciated the friendly feeling that exists toward him in Rahway, as when he first announced himself as a candidate for the nomination for Congress the first assurance of support came from David Armstrong, of Rahway, and subsequent events only strengthened the assurance.

In speaking of the trip down the river, the Judge said it was a unique one, and one of pleasure; from it he realized that there are great possibilities for Rahway, situated as it is with fine water facilities.

"You are right on the edge of 'big things,'" he said. "It is a pity things are so near perfection and yet with present conditions cannot be attained. There are great possibilities in Rahway for large developments. Rahway ought to be in the circle, and she should be, as there are but few places in the State so favorably situated."

The Judge said: "I am a candidate, expect and hope to be elected, and if so will make all honest efforts to give my district special attention and endeavor to see that your river is made right. My ambition will be to do what I can to help you.. Rahway will always have a just cause. If I am placed in a position and there is a failure, it will not be for lack of effort on my part."

HEALTH LAWS NOW BEING OBSERVED BY STOREKEEPERS.

The requirements of the law regarding the care of foodstuffs in this city may safely be said to have been complied with. An inspection by Health Officer John O'Brien showed that in all but two cases the law had been complied with.

The two cases mentioned are those of Greeks, one on Park avenue and the other on West Front street. These two were given until noon to get their fruit under cover and it was finally accomplished. Most of the opposition to complying with the regulations were due to not fully understanding the law by those who had been warned. After today it is not expected that any trouble will be found by the inspectors.

Next week Mr. O'Brien will devote his attention to the wagons of fruit and vegetable peddlers and other wagons from which food is distributed.

Sketching at Long Beach.

Society Notes of Long Beach, L. I., has the following item: One of the novelties of the week has been the re-establishment of sketching. In years gone by the sand dunes along this famous beach used to be chosen for many a painting in water colors or oil. With the construction of the three-mile board walk close to the ocean many of the sand dunes were removed, but there is still a fine picturesque group of them to the west if the Hotel Nassau, near the life saving station. The Misses Curtis, of this city, are especially enthusiastic over this group, and have made several fine sketches in water color.

ELKS TEAM PLAYS IN CAMDEN NEXT THURSDAY

Plainfield Lodge No. 88, B. P. O. E., are not letting any grass grow under their feet in the matter of basball, or anything else, for that matter, and the work of organizing a permanent ball team goes merrily on. John Murray, the representative of the N. Y. Sporting Goods Co., took the measures for the team's new suits yesterday afternoon and, according to all reports, they will be the slickest ever.

A game has been arranged for next Thursday with the Camden Elks, and the locals will go to Camden to play. Practice, which is one of the essentials of good playing will be held on Monday and Wednesday afternoons, and there are to be some changes in the team. All those who are to take part or who think they ought to help uphold the glory of Plainfield Elks, are expected to be on hand both evenings and join in the practice.

Manager Matthew Jefferson, of the Camden team, has promised the locals an interesting reception, and Manager Harry Marshall intends that Plainfield shall make an impression on the Camdenites and wants every man on the job. Other games are being arranged.

MURPHY DECIDES IN FAVOR OF DIRECT VOTE

Former Governor Franklin Murphy, in a letter to United States Senator Kean, today, in answer to one from the latter, declared that he would submit his candidacy for Senatorial position to a direct vote of the people at the primaries in September, thereby following the action of Former Governor E. C. Stokes, who also made a similar announcement today.

In his letter to Senator Kean, Mr. Murphy says: "I regret you will not accept my proposal and that you are of the opinion that 'the primary contest would jeopardize the chances of electing a Republican Governor and Legislature,'" quoting a sentence from Senator Kean's letter.

Mr. Murphy adds that he does not think that such a contest will jeopardize the interests of the Republican party. If he did he would not propose the question of a direct vote. He regrets that Senator Kean cannot see his way clear to concur with him in the plan proposed.

Want Education Laws Extended.

Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, of this city, in an address before the convention of the National Education Association, advocated that compulsory education laws should be so extended that they would meet the needs of the many thousands of children who are now outside of the scope of these laws, and at the mercy of the ignorance or bad will of their parents. His address resulted in the appointment of a committee, of which he was made chairman, to draft suitable resolutions looking toward the extension of the laws.

THREE HOUSES ENTERED

Burglars Force Their Way Into Residences in North Plainfield.

STEAL WHEEL FROM CELLAR.

Homes of Allen Coddington, George B. Cobb and C. A. Nichols Visited—Intruders Leave No Clues.

Three attempts at robbing houses, one of which was successful, were made by burglars on Fairview avenue shortly after midnight last night in North Plainfield. One "Peerless" bicycle was taken from the home of Allen Coddington, at 82 Fairview avenue. The other houses which were broken into are occupied by the families of George B. Cobb, Jr., and Charles A. Nichols.

Entrance was made in Mr. Cobb's house through an open kitchen window, which was guarded only by a wire screen. The thief or thieves prowled around in the kitchen but took nothing.

The houses of Mr. Coddington and Mr. Nichols were entered through open cellar windows. Nothing was taken from Mr. Nichols' cellar, and only a bicycle from the cellar of Mr. Coddington's house.

The fact that only one bicycle was taken from this cellar leads the police to believe that there was only one burglar. Another good wheel stood in the cellar beside the stolen one; this other wheel certainly could not have been ovrlooked, the police believe. The stolen bicycle was taken out of the house through the cellar door which was found to be unlocked. Further than these facts, the borough police could find no other traces of the robber or robbers.

It was a peculiar thing that none of the families were awakened by the intruders. The visit of the thieves was not discovered until this morning, when the members of the families came down stairs. The borough police force was notified immediately and Acting Chief Marshal Kellar hastened to the scene of the robbery, but he could find no trace of thei ntruders.

24 YEARS SAME STAND

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

There were over a hundred boroughites on the excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, which was conducted by the Knights of Columbus of Plainfield, Thursday. Everyone that went had the time of his or her life for the day was a perfect one and the attractions at the Park were unusual. Beside the regular bathing and general good time, the boroughites enjoyed seeing the flights made by several well known, daring aviators in their bi-planes. As far as reported none of the borough excursionists were injured in any way except by the rays of the sun. There are many sore arms, shoulders and necks among the Dunellen populous today. Over two thousand people altogether went on this excursion.

According to Tax Assessor Peters the tax rate for the borough this year will be made known about the first of September. The assessment books are now in the hands of the Middlesex County board and the work on them will be completed in a short time. The assessment in the borough this year will be based on a total valuation of $881,214, which is made up as follows: Value of land, $260,000; improvements, $480,000; personal estate, $89,425; and the second class, $51,039. This makes an increase of $88,000 over the total assessment of last year. There was an increase this year of $55 in poll taxes.

A reproduction of the great Johnson-Jeffries fight was given yesterday afternoon in the lot adjoining the town hall, by George Block and Edward Hanna, two Dunellen boys. The lads wore the regulation boxing gloves and fought a clever bout. The result was a draw. The little boxing match, which by the way brought forth a considerable amount of skill, was eagerly watched by a crowd of thirty-five men and boys.

The regular Dunellen team engaged in a stiff practice last night in preparation for the game with Scotch Plains this afternoon. From the looks of things, there will be one of the largest crowds of the season at the game. Many Plainfielders are planning to take the trip to Dunellen this afternoon to see the locals play. There being no game scheduled for today in Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A letter from Phil Smith, who is spending his vaaction camping with two other Plainfield boys at Greenwood Lake, reports that camping is an ideal way to spend one's vacation. Their first meal consisted of steak, fried potatoes, baked beans, sliced pineapple and cakes. Each is to take turns in cooking while the general clearing up is shared by all. An amusing incident occurred at the first breakfast, after a restless and unpleasant night. While the coffee was steaming away, the spout dropped off the coffee pot, a few minutes later the handle disappeared and finally the top melted off, and the boys were in a quandry how to serve the coffee. Finally it was poured into a saucepan and served as hot as if out of the coffee pot. One boy forgot his blankets and found he only had a sheet and a piece of mosquito netting, so he crept in with one of the boys, but as the cot was only intended for one, it broke down and they spent the night on the ground.

ORDERED SPANKING FOR GIRL.

Atlantic City, Aug. 13.—To stop youthful flirtations by spanking pretty summer girls is a task City Judge Keffer set Wednesday when he prescribed this punishment for Miss Celena Peters, seventeen-year-old daughter of Nathaniel Peters, of Philadelphia. The girl became madly infatuated with the spectacular riding of Charles Shelby, a dashing young cowboy at an open-air show, and, when she failed to return to her summer home Tuesday night and her parents sent out an alarm, policemen found the fair Celena in the company of her cavalier.

"Take her home and spank her well," Judge Keffer thundered at the surprised parents of the feminine party to the shattered romance. Mr. Peters suggested that the court might desire to take the law into his own hands, but the youthful judge promptly demurred. Shelby, the cowboy, was given the alternative of leaving the city or serving thirty days in the county prison, and the maid wept when Shelby decided he would leave town.

Touring in an automobile, Dr. and Mrs. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue, were registered this week at the Hotel Winchester, Winsted, Conn.

Vacation Clearance

We emphasize this vacation clearance sale. Not that we are trying to rid our shelves of unseasonable goods, for now is the time to wear these; not because they are undesirable, for we never had any shoes but the right kind. However, it is nearing the end of the season, and in order to retain our position of always being able to offer you something new, we have put a price on our remaining stock to clear our shelves for new goods. If you will come in and look them over, you will find something to interest you, and prices that will appeal to you as much as the shoes.

GOLF.

It has been claimed that golf is the only game possessing an established code of etiquette. Certainly golf can lay claim to a definite psychology which has engaged the attention of more than one philosopher. In discussing the question one golfer says:

"The reason is obvious. Golf is so intensely human and personal that its practice is a searching test of one's morals. The mean man is never more mean than when he is engaged in a tight match at golf; the coward and the thief and the hypocrite are invariably unmasked once they take play-club in hand. On the contrary, the generous virtues are never more brightly in evidence.

"The one great annoyance of golf is the blocked course. There are the hopelessly incompetent players, the searchers for lost balls, and the four-ball matches. It is really amazing to observe the calm indifference with which these gentry will obstruct the lawful pleasure of the helpless majority behind them. It is all against law and decency, and finally etiquette, but it persists. Why? Because this afternoon we ourselves may be hunting for a lost ball and dislike to lose our place; because tomorrow we may form one of a monopolistic four-ball match. We suffer one day and make our reprisals the next. But would not golf be a more agreeable pursuit if the rights of all were at all times respected?

"Etiquette and the written law are both emphatic on this point. The slower match should always allow a faster one to pass it without formal request. And permission to pass does not mean a free-for-all race for the putting green. The one decent course is to absolutely stop play until the passing couple have holed out and moved away."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Burlington county has been allowed an additional appropriation of $9,000 by the State Road Commission.

The Haleyville harvest home, the most popular event of the kind in lower Cumberland county, will be held August 20.

His birth, marriage and death, the three greatest life events, occurred on the same date, August 11, in the life of William W. Worrell, aged seventy-six years, station agent at Florence, who died Thursday after an illness of a day.

Freeholder Joshua S. Joyce, of West Deptford township, Gloucester county, will contest for the position with Wood T. Wynn and R. M. Plum.

The Burlington County Democratic Club will hold a field day at Rancocas Park within two weeks after the Gubernatorial convention, with the nominee as the principal speaker.

William H. Hoffman, for the Woodbury and Mantua road, and John Wallace, for the Swedesboro and Auburn road, have been appointed supervisors by the State Road Commission.

Just as he was about to step into the bathtub at his home Thursday, Michael Ryan, fifty-six years old, of Second and Walnut streets, Camden, was stricken with hemorrhages. Before a physician could aid him he had died. Apoplexy also caused the sudden death of Frank Viser, fifty-five years old, who was employed on Knolltop Farm. His lifeless body was found in a barn by a fellow-employe Wednesday.

A man's soft shirt and old pair of trousers, shoes and a plain four-in-hand tie were found Thursday at the foot of Mercer street wharf, Gloucester. Policeman Elliott and Sergeant Gallagher were notified and began an investigation, but have been unable to trace the owner. It is believed that they belonged to a workingman who was drowned.

Some of the guests at the Normandie at Ocean City had a novel experience Thursday night, and one they good-naturedly accepted and enjoyed when eight or ten of the waiters declined to serve dinner. Among the guests who helped to fill the breach were Tax Receiver Hugh Black and Assistant Chief of the Survey Department Datesman, of Philadelphia. The alleged trouble with the waiters is said to have been due to a question of wages. The hotel management denied having trouble with the help.

According to reports made by the city assessors to the County Board of Taxation Thursday, Camden ratables this year show an increase over last year of $1,084,566.87. The figures this year total $52,902,013, which includes second-class railroad property of $1,765,119.

A meeting is to be held soon to form an Automobile League at Vineland for the purpose of catching horse thieves. Two valuable horses have been stolen here recently and the town is aroused. Dr. C. R. Goodfellow has proposed the plan of ten autoists organizing and giving each member a map of the territory he is to cover in the event of a theft. It is conceded that in one hour's time ten automobiles could cover all the roads leading out of the town and out of the State. The county now offers $500 reward and the autoists think that sum is worth working for.

Signals of distress from a launch drifting on Delaware Bay caused excitement at Fortescue late Wednesday night and rescuing parties in other boats promptly set out. Captain Daniel Borden, of Bridgeton, was in command of the launch in distress. The engine of the boat had refused to work, causing the party to drift about the bay for several hours until darkness came, when they could signal for help with their lantern.

TO FORBID IMPROPER USE OF FIRE PLUGS.

Chatham, Aug. 13.—The practice of obtaining water from the fire hydrants by persons without proper authority has become so great that the Common Council will shortly pass an ordinance to forbid such use and provide penalties. Complaint regarding the matter was made to the council by a local plumber, who is a member of the fire department.

He found that the valves upon many of the hydrants had been badly battered as a result of the frequent turning on of the water by the aid of an ordinary wrench. A special wrench is designed to turn on the hydrant, and it is said that the value in its battered condition would severely handicap the fire department in case of fire, as they might not be able to use their wrench on it. It is said that the chief offenders are foreign laborers, who use the water for working and also drinking purposes.

DIED OF STARVATION FACING MURDER CHARGE.

An autopsy performed on the body of Miss Virginia O. Wardlaw, one of the women implicated in the alleged murder of Ocey Snead in East Orange, last winter, died yesterday in the house of detention in Newark, from what the doctors diagnose as voluntary starvation. Miss Wardlaw, who was about sixty years old, had refused to eat anything for weeks preceding her death.

Soon after the arraignment of herself and her seventy-year-old sister and the indictment was found against them on the murder charge, Miss Wardlaw threatened to starve herself to death, and yesterday succumbed to lack of nourishment.

It was alleged that the prosecution had evidence enough to convict the two women of the murder of their niece, who, it was alleged, was put out of the way for her money.

WARNS MOTORISTS AS TO RULES OF THE ROAD.

Trenton, Aug. 13.—Reports of frequent accidents and near accidents resulting from the failure of motorists to observe the ordinary rules of the road have prompted Commissioner J. B. R. Smith to call attention from time to time to violations resulting in danger to the traveling public.

In a notice sent out yesterday Mr. Smith said: "The commissioner desires particularly to call the attention of the motoring public to the rule of the road requiring vehicles moving behind another vehicle, approaching a third moving in the opposite direction to wait for the third to pass. Much danger to life and property is created by violators of this rule. It is earnestly hoped that all motorists will see that this rule is obeyed."

G. A. R. DECLARES BOYCOTT.

Louisville, Aug. 13.—Five hundred veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic have declared a boycott against railroads for alleged discrimination in charging the veterans an excessive excursion rate to the annual national encampment of the G. A. R., to be held in Atlantic City next month, and as a result this State, for the first time, will not be represented at the reunion. The Women's Relief Corps and the Daughters of Veterans have announced their intention of joining in the boycott.

AS TO FICHU EFFECTS.

Fichu effects that are tucked into high belts are one of the favorite bodice draperies. Quite often one sees three deep folds across the shoulders and either end in the wide back panel just above the waist line or, as in this case, under the princess and very slender waist line of the wearer and is finished at this point with a wide folded girdle of black satin. Such a girdle, however, outlining one of the most trying points of a bad figure, is only possible for a very small waist.

The white linen suits are admirable, and white muslin and lawn frocks, with the addition of a long coat of tussore or linen, if the breeze be cool, are useful. Then, of course, the navy blue serge beloved of every woman will not be forgotten.

French women, who seem to know instinctively what will look well, have adopted the black satin bathing dress with emthusiasm. Other gowns of a similar kind are built of alpaca, ornamented with foulard and braid and other materials.

A smart little tailormade of white worsted striped with black has a high cut skirt that goes just above the natural waist line.

PADDED THE CENSUS ROLLS.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 13.—Thomas Dailey and F. C. McDonald, Great Falls census enumerators, yesterday pleaded guilty in the federal court to padding census returns, and were sentenced to twenty-four hours in jail and fined $1,000 each. Two more enumerators will be arraigned on August 17 on a similar charge.

MANY GALLANT DEFENDERS

Union Co. Contains Graves of More Continental Soldiers Than Any Other in State.

ALL WILL HAVE MONUMENTS.

Gen. Drake County Supervisor of Burial of War Veterans and Erection of Monuments Presents Interesting Facts.

Last February, General J. Madison Drake, county supervisor of the burial of indigent war veterans and the erection of monuments to mark their resting places, was informed by the War Department that it stood ready to furnish white marble stones for the graves of all soldiers of the Revolutionary War, as well as for those who served in the War of 1812-1815, and the war with Mexico. General Drake communicated this information to the Board of Freeholders, which promptly directed him to ascertain the army record and burial place of the dead soldiers, and have them marked with stones, appropriately inscribed.

For more than six months General Drake has been engaged in the duty assigned him by the freeholders. He has visited every graveyard in the county, examined every headstone, as well as the church records of burials, and already secured the record of nearly 500 Continental soldiers and more than 100 soldiers of the second war with Great Britain.

General Drake says the result of his labors, when completed, will show that Union county contains the graves of more Continental soldiers, including those most distinguished, than can be found in any other county. In the cemetery of the First Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth, alone, the first spot in the State devoted to burial purposes, and where the first interment was made, General Drake has ascertained that 251 Continental soldiers were buried between 1775 and 1835. Of this number the names of twenty-four are "unknown," the church records simply registering the burial as that of "a soldier." But twenty-seven of these graves have been designated by iron markers erected by the Sons of the Revolution, and at least one of these marks the grave of a man who did not serve in the American Revolution.

Of those who served in the war of 1813-1815, whose ashes repose in the First Churchyard, General Drake has found the graves of twenty-seven, none being marked.

If the trustees of the First church do not object, white marble stones, furnished by the Government without cost, inscribed with the name, rank and command of the dead heroes of the long ago, will be erected before the close of the year.

In speaking yesterday of the First Church graveyard, General Drake said:

"The graveyard attached to the First Presbyterian church contains the ashes of more men who became distinguished for signal ability during the war for American liberty than can be found within any other inclosure in New Jersey. The most conspicuous shaft—a marble obelisk—within the grounds is that marking the resting place of the Rev. Jas. Caldwell, chaplain of the Third Regiment, Continental Army, ruthlessly slain by a soldier named Morgan as he stepped from a vessel at the foot of Elizabeth avenue, November 24, 1781. The monument was erected by citizens of Elizabeth in memory of the patriotic chaplain and his wife, who reposes beside him. The latter was murdered by a British soldier at her humble home at Connecticut Farms on the day of the battle there, June 7, 1780.

"In the rear of the church is a vault containing the remains of Gen. Elias Boudinot, president of Congress in 1733, and a determined patriot throughout the Revolutionary War.

"North of the church building, and but a few yards from the front is the grave of General Elias Dayton, who, born in this town in 1735, became a soldier in the British colonial army at the age of 14 years, when he was enrolled as a member of the "Jersey Blue" Regiment. This appellation was first given the corps because of the blue and buff colored uniforms worn by the command. Young Dayton, a captain in the service, in 1759 took an active part in the desperate French and Indian war on the northern frontier and was with General Wolfe when the latter captured Quebec. In 1775 Colonel Dayton organized the Third Regiment and led it in many battles until the retirement of General Maxwell, commander of the famous 'Jersey Brigade,' when he was promoted brigadier-general, succeeding to the command."

Close beside General Dayton, who died at the early age of 43 years, reposes the remains of General Matthias Ogden, 'soldier, patriot, friend,' who served in the brigade from start to finish, dying at the age of 36 years. Nearby is an unpretentious slab bearing the name of Ensign Moses Ogden, aged 19, who gave his life to his county at the battle of Connecticut Farms, being the first American to fall that day.

"Among the group of stones marking the resting places of illustrious men in these grounds, as a Gothic monolith bearing the name of Colonel Aaron Ogden, a bosom friend of Colonel Aaron Burr. He took part in all the battles in which the Jersey Brigade' engaged, and at Yorktown, serving as an aid to General Lafayette, distinguished himself by leading a desperate and successful charge on a redoubt on the British left, winning the personal approbation of Washington, who witnessed his gallantry. Subsequently he was Governor of New Jersey and United States Senator.

"Nearby is a stone marking the grave of Major William Crane, one of the best fighters in our army. So great was his hatred for the British, although he knew of the signing of a treaty of peace by Great Britain, he went to New York one night, accompanied by a number of friends, burned a British gunboat and captured another, which he brought to this town. He was afterward Mayor of Elizabeth.

"Among others buried there are Colonel Oliver Spencer, Major Thomas Morrell, Major Joseph Bloomfield, Captain Jonathan Dayton, Captain Jacob Crane, Captain Matthias Lyon, Captain Obadiah Meeker, Captain William Brittin, Lieutenant Shepard Collash (who established the New Jersey Journal in 1779), and many others of the bravest men who served the cause of American Independence."

NEW IDEA PLATFORM OUT.

The New Ideaites of Hudson county, held their convention in Jersey City last night and adopted a platform.

The platform points to "two great reforms imperatively demanded by public opinion—one to proper regulation of and control of public utilities and the other the improvement of our primary and election laws." The New Idea men are also opposed, in national politics, "to the control of the Republican party by Aldrich and Cannon."

In the matter of primary and election law reform, they favor popular election of United States Senators, direct nomination of candidates for Governor and Congressmen, a law providing for the distribution by mail, at public expense to each voter of primary and election ballots, and a law providing for the appointment of election officers by some impartial agency, such as the county courts.

THE VERMEULE FAMILY

Among the Earliest Colonial Pioneers to Settle in This Vicinity.

PURE HOLLAND EXTRACTION.

Local Historian Presents Many Interesting Facts About the First Settlers in Plainfield and Vicinity.

(By Oliver B. Leonard.)

CHAPTER ONE.

Among the earliest Colonial pioneers who permanently settled in this immediate vicinity was the Vermeule family. They were of pure Holland extraction, whose original ancestor, Adrian Ver Meulen, came to Harlem, N. Y., the latter part of the XVII century. He was born about 1675 at Vlissenger in Zeeland. He came well recommended as a Christian young man, bringing a church letter to Rev. Henricus Selyns, minister of the Dutch Reformed church at Harlem, 1682-1701. On the fourth of November, 1699, this progenitor of the Vermeules in New Jersey was appointed Voorleser (a clerk and reader in the church).

He was an excellent penman and a correct scholar. It is a noticeable fact that his great grandson, Rev. Cornelius C. Vermeule born 1785, became minister of this same church in 1816. This position he honored for twenty years, when impaired health in 1836 caused him to resign the charge. He lived till 1859, and his sepulchre is with us in the North Plainfield Presbyterian cemetery.

The paternal ancestor, Adrian Vermeule, moved to New Jersey January 1, 1708, with wife and child, both of whom died shortly afterwards. His second marriage the same year found him settled in Bergen, N. J., where he interested himself in the erection of a new school house there, laying the cornerstone of the building. He was a useful and influential citizen of the county, as well as a prominent member of the Bergen church. His duties as school master forereader, precentor and court-messenger for twenty-eight years added greatly to the unusual influence he possessed in the community where he settled. But his lifework ended in 1735-6; and two sons survived him to transmit the surname to posterity. These were Frederick, born 1709, and Cornelius, born 1716. Both of them rest in a memorial graveyard on the farm of the late Jeremiah Vandeventer, North Plainfield. This family burial plot, about a hundred feet square, has been enclosed with a substantial brick wall four feet high. The sacred spot is part of the original plantation bought by the Vermeules above named in the first half of the XVIII century. The inscription on either side of the entrance gate of the private graveyard is the following:

"1736—1887"

"Frederick Vermeule, born in the town of Bergen, Bergen County, N. J., May 20, 1709—died in Plainfield, July 13, 1796."

"Cornelius Vermeule, born April 2, 1716, in the town of Bergen, Bergen County, N. J.—died in Plainfield March 15, 1784."

"IN MEMORIAM".

"This Cemetery is part of the Vermeule Estate located here in 1736. It contains the remains of many members of that family."

"This Enclosure was erected in June, 1887, by Edmund C. Ver Meulen and John D. Vermeule, descendants of the fifth generation."

Of the posterity of these two sons of Adrian and Christina Vermeule this article will enumerate only one branch of the descendants of the younger, Cornelius, through his son Eder.

Cornelius Vermeule was born, as the memorial tablet at the burial plot records, April 2, 1716. He married (1740) Mary Marseilis, whose birth is stated to be in the year 1720, and her death May 1, 1766. Their seven children were Adrian, born 1741, Feb. 21, died 1777; Gerty, born 1744, Sept. 4, died 1764; Christina, born 1754, Nov. 4, died 1779; Dinah, born Sept. 25, 1759, died 1825, and three sons, well known during the Revolutionary period, viz., Eder, born January 4, 1748; Frederick, born February 8, 1751; Cornelius, born June 30, 1757.

These last three were prominent citizens of this section of the country for a period of more than half a century, extending from the early days of the Revolution to the closing days of the first quarter of the XIX century. They were all industrious farmers, patriotic citizens, and identified with the Dutch Reformed churches at Raritan and New Brunswick, and friendly to the interests of the Presbyterian churches in Bound Brook and Plainfield. In secular affairs they were equally helpful as prominent freeholders in local government and educational matters. Their farm lay between Plainfield avenue and Clinton avenue, extending from about Fourth street westerly across Green Brook to the mountains. These plantations, together with those adjoining, bought about the same time by Richard Cadmus, Isaac Drake and others, were sold by Judge Neville in settling the estate of Arent Sonman's heirs. This wealthy Hollander and his son at one time owned nearly one-sixth of the whole of East Jersey. Just before his death the son, Peter Sonman, sold 619 acres in 1732 to John Vail. This was the eastern portion of the 2,500-acre patent granted the Sonmans in 1685. In the western end of this extensive tract lay the farms deeded subsequently to Vermeule, Cadmus, Drake, Covert, Lenox and others.

It may not be known generally that this Dutch landlord for over fifty years held back the sale and division of this particular acreage occupied now by the city of Plainfield and borough of North Plainfield. No doubt because of its beautiful situation it was thought an increased value would be realized at a later date. Such was the fact, but the Dutchman did not live to enjoy advanced prices.

Eder Vermeule, the oldest of the three sons, left his plough for a while and enlisted in the war of '76, and became Lieutenant in the Essex County Militia. He married Elizabeth Myers, born 1752, died 1831. His death occurred April 5, 1828. Their only son was Cornelius, who married Sarah Manning, daughter of Trustum and Betsey Walker Manning. These Manning parents belonged to old reliable families of Middlesex county. Their other children intermarried with FitzRandolphs, Runyon and Pyatts. The only son, John Manning, married Hannah Vandervort, and had Trustum (married Mary Tingley); John, Edward, Paul, Catharine, and Lewis married Ann Longstreet and had James L. (married Amelia Runyon).

By the union of Cornelius Vermeule and Sarah Manning there was a family raised consisting of four boys and one girl—all well known to the early residents of Plainfield.

Manning Vermeule, the oldest child, was born in 1804 and died March 19, 1892. He was a prominent hatter of the town, and married Rebecca A. Drake (daughter of Daniel and Mary), and had the following five children: Daniel D., who married Sarah Webster (daughter of Zachariah and Agnes), and had Frank W. (married Margaret Skully); and Margaret (married Capt. Samuel B. Pearson; Whitfield (died unmarried); Sarah married Frederick E. Keep, had Charles, married Grace Bradley; Charles M. married Margaret Drake; Emma married John H. French, son of Phineas M. and Mary, and had Mary E., Ella R. married Darwin E. Dudley, and Edward V. married Ernestine Negus, had James Engle and Isabel.

Jethro M. Vermeule, the second son, was born Jan. 8, 1811; died 1872. He married Mary Elizabeth Thompson and had eight children: Elizabeth A. (married Daniel H. Thickstun, son of David and Mary, whose son William D., married Libby V. Taylor and had four boys: David B., William D., Jr., Robert G. and Gerald); Mary Louise (married Charles Lancaster, had Frederick L., married Olive L. Barber and had six children: Charles F., Maud E., Dorothy L., Frederick L., Jr., Olive L. and Mabel G.); Jethro Judson (married Ella K. Johnson); Addie M. (married Henry S. Phillips); Isabella A.; Sarah F.; Manning C. and William O.

John Vermeule, born Feb. 14, 1816 married 1842, May 12, Agnes Young Scudder born March 16, 1823, and had six children: Elizabeth S. (married Cyrus W. Overman, whose children are Henry Warren, Edna Richardson and Joseph John); George S.; Emma J and Ada Lee, twins, born 1882 March 15. The former died young; the latter married, 1870, Nov. 10, Amos F. Gates, of Carthage, Ind. Their children are Herbert, Nellie B., Edwin L. and John V. James P.; Mary Agnes married Charles M. Sharpless had Harold and Catharine M.

Samuel S. Vermeule was born July 30, 1819; married 1842, March 3, Frances O. Acken, and in 1886 his second wife was Sarah J. Smith. By first marriage were born Mary A., William A., Anna Frances (married Hillwood W. Graham).

Betsey Vermeule was the only daughter of her parents, Cornelius and Mary Vermeule. She died unmarried.

The name has been spelled various ways, according to the notions of town clerks, or clerks of churches. Ver Meulen, Ver Miulen, Vermuel, Vermule and lastly, Vermeule, which is the generally accepted spelling.

In this article especial reference has been made to Eder only, son of Cornelius, reserving for a further narration the descendants of his brothers, Frederick and Cornelius.

"Typo." Old Age Pensions.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 13.—Among important matters to come before the annual convention of the International Typographical Union were the old age pension and mortuary propositions. The old age pension fund is now paying $4 a week to all members who are sixty years and have been boni fide members for twenty years. Some of the proposed changes relating to the mortuary fund favor a straight payment instead of an assessment of a certain per cent. of his wages.

FOUR JUDGES UNCERTAIN WHO HIT SULLIVAN.

Trenton, August 13.—To decide who really hit Patrick Sullivan has proved too big a problem for four judges here, and as a result the alleged assailant was allowed his liberty. The subject was tackled by Acting Judge Blackman Saturday night, Acting Judge Hulme Monday, Judge Rees on Tuesday, and Judge Harris, Wednesday. Individually and collectively they tried to determine who hit Sullivan and after due deliberation each gave it up. Judge Harris, finding the Trenton police court judges stumped, every one of them, failed to find that Sullivan was the victim of anybody in particular and forthwith he dismissed the case against Joseph Spafford, who had already lost three days' work.

Patrick Sullivan attended a wake Friday night. Following the obsequies, he went to "Vic" Peterson's saloon and hit a few glasses of grog. He and Spafford got into an argument. Both were put out. Sullivan went home, returning late to get a lemon." He got it.

As he left the saloon he was struck a heavy blow by somebody that laid him low in the gutter near "Vic's." He went down at once. He was picked up by Patrolman Wirwick, who arrested Spafford also, and both were landed with much trouble in the city lock-up.

As both men had suffered in one way or another and neither had witnesses, the judge thought their experience with Jersey courts had sufficed by way of punishment.

JAIL CONTRACTOR FILES BANKRUPTCY PETITION.

Trenton, Aug. 13.—Petitions in bankruptcy have been filed by Jerome M. Schwerin for himself and as president of the Ridgeway Manufacturing Company. Mr. Schwerin has for some time past been a contractor turning out goods in the State prison, with convict labor. He formerly had a contract of the same sort, manufacturing handkerchiefs, in the Essex county penitentiary. The Essex County Board of Freeholders required that the goods so manufactured should be marked "prison-made", and Schwerin some time later terminated his contract.

The schedules filed in the personal proceedings show assets of $15,204.91 and liabilities of $26,725. For the corporation the schedules show liabilities of $47,037.92, and assets of $34,225.39.

The company has $24,500 of discounted paper in Trenton banks. Mr. Schwerin's personal schedules show paper in Trenton banks to the amount of $5,135, while he is indorser of the company's paper to the amount of $21,500.

The schedule of the company's assets shows $22,000 worth of underwear in course of manufacture at the State prison, $9,000 worth at his local plant and $178 in cash in bank. His principal personal assets consist of his interest in the corporation and $6,777.17 due him from the corporation.

Trenton, August. 13.—Announcement was made Wednesday that the Junior Order of United American Mechanics had secured additional stock subscriptions and would proceed at once with the completion of their ten-story office building in this city. NEGRO STEALS NEW CAR FROM ORANGE GARAGE

About as bold a theft of an automobile as can be imagined was carried out in Orange Thursday night, when a negro took a new automobile belonging to Thomas H. Blodgett, president of the Outlook Outing Publishing Company, of New York, from Stanley D. Atkinson's garage at Essex avenue and Railroad place, after having gone so far as to give orders to the proprietor of the garage and after having the tank filled. The negro was a stranger. He had hung around the garage and the neighborhood all day.

Mr. Blodgett's home is at 245 Highland avenue, Orange. He came East from Chicago about a year ago. He learned of a car that had had practically no use, and which was for sale in Chicago, and had it shipped to New York. Yesterday afternoon he drove the machine out to the Orange garage with a man sent by the manufacturer's agent and left it for the night.

Mr. Atkinson was not in the garage when Mr. Blodgett drove in but was there later when the new car was backed onto the washing stand. As Mr. Atkinson stood there the negro walked up to him and in a matter-of-fact tone told him that he need not wash the car yet as his boss would probably want to take an evening spin. A little later Mr. Atkinson went home.

After dark, or about 8:30 o'clock, the negro went to the car and then directed that the tanks be filled by an employe. Saying he was to meet his employer, the negro started up the machine. The car was not running well, and one of the men at the garage told the negro he had better turn back and have it put in better shape.

"Oh, I guess I can manage it all right," the negro replied, and with that he swept around the corner. That is the last seen of him in Orange.

John Miller, a chauffeur with whom the negro had talked during the day, came into the garage about 11:30 o'clock, and the conversation soon turned to the new car. When Miller asked to see the car he was told it had been taken out by the stranger who had been talking with him during the day. He immediately became suspicious and Mr. Atkinson was notified. At 12:30 o'clock, four hours after the theft, the Orange police were notified. They immediately got into communication with the police of the surrounding towns and New York and Philadelphia.

Word was received later from Hoboken that a car answering the description of the one stolen, and driven by a negro, was towed aboard a Lackawanna ferryboat and taken to New York. The officer who reported the incident did not know until he returned to headquarters that a machine was missing, and had made no attempt to follow it.

Every garage in New York city was notified today by telephone and Detective Drabell and Atkinson went to that city to search the garages. Other cities are also being watched.

Mr. Blodgett said today that Atkinson had no foreknowledge that the machine was to be kept in his place. But for the fact that he could not remove a key from the electric equipment, it would have been impossible for the thief to have gotten away with the car, Mr. Blodgett declared. He had tried to remove the key, but it stuck.

The negro is described as being about twenty years old, five feet nine inches tall, of slim build, smooth shaven and unusually dark. He wore tan shoes, a black serge suit and a gray cap with goggles.

The car was a thirty-five-horsepower, Apperson "Jack Rabbit." It had a yellow running gear and a dark blue body. It was completely equipped, had a top, a glass windshield with a brass frame and a prestolite gas tank and brass searchlights. On the dashboard was a brass "Jack Rabbit" and in front of the radiator was a brass fender. The letters "J. W. K." were on the tonneau doors. It bore an Illinois tag, the numbers of which are not known. The machine had just cost Mr. Blodgett $2,700, and was not insured, as he had not had it in his possession long enough to attend to this or to get a license.

CHAPTER VI.

THE MYSTERY OF THE EMPORIUM.

YOUNG Mr. Carson, detained at the Slattery Institute to balance the books on account of the evanishment of Mr. Wylie, thought often of Shayne's charming niece, but, manlike, gave scarcely a thought of the situation on board the Roc as she bore northward in the night sky after dropping him as a hawk might let fall a too belligerent weasel.

The warfare and insurrection which he left behind would have interested him had he known. Mr. Silberberg, hurt in amour propre as well as proboscis, was deeply disturbed in his suitanic regard for Virginia. He was too angry to follow her to the deck as she swept out of the cabin to take leave of her bandit of the dunes. For some minutes the girl lay, half fainting, wholly terrified, by the rail, where she had fallen as Theodore dropped over the side into the cloud and the night.

"Where is Virginia?" queried Aunt Marie at last. "Has she eloped with that creature? Look for her! She's my niece, after all!"

Mr. Shayne called Mrs. Shayne's maid and gave orders that Virginia be sought on deck. The maid looked about hastily and, failing to observe the little heap in which Virginia sat huddled up by the rail, ran in agitatedly and said that Miss Suarez was not on deck "in the least."

"I told you!" gasped Mrs. Shayne. "She's thrown herself away!"

Silberberg walked glumly in from the cabin.

"This assassin," said he, "must be aft with the crew. There's only one place where Miss Suarez can be."

Shayne ran aft and astonished the crew by bursting into their midst and staring wildly about, as if demented.

"What is it, sir?" Willett asked calmly.

"Where is Miss Suarez?" panted Mr. Shayne.

"I don't know, sir."

"Where's that fellow we picked up?"

"I don't know," responded Willett.

"They're gone!" Shayne exclaimed, rushing into the cabin. "Max, they've gone over the side!"

"That parachute," said Max, "could not save two from death, even if they made a good drop. And in this darkness"—

Virginia, having recovered her self possession and the control of her knees, rose and, entering her cabin, threw herself on her bed. She felt a horror of Silberberg, a sense of disgust with the Shaynes. To think that they could so insult this young man who had saved her life and treated her so beautifully, no matter what he was—to offer him money, to send him aft like a servant! No wonder he had struck Silberberg's odious nose. Later she rose, preened like a bird before the mirror and sat down to think. The voices of her uncle and aunt and Mr. Silberberg came to her ears from the main salon. Opening her window for air, she noted that the roar of the wind from the earth had ceased and knew that they had reached the calm area, of which Willett had spoken, in the middle of the "low." They would probably have an easy landing in Chicago. And then?

One thing was certain—she would not live longer with the Shaynes. They were too sordid, too hard, too cruel. And she would—not—stay—with—them—any longer!

Oh, if she only had just one relative in the world save Aunt Marie!

Stay! The thought struck her of her mother's father's people, somewhere in the south. Her mother had been disowned by her family for a perversely contracted marriage, but they were southerners, and they would not see an orphan girl of their kin go homeless. She would leave Aunt Marie a note of thanks for all her many kindnesses, take her really, truly own belongings and fly south. So there!

So resolving, she became quite calm and walked into the main salon in a very matter of fact way. Aunt Marie gave a shrill scream and fainted. Silberberg said that he would be—tormented. Mr. Shayne stared blankly.

"Well," said Virginia, "do you think I am a ghost?"

"Oh, child," gasped Aunt Marie, "where have you been with him?"

Virginia stood still, her eyes ablaze, her cheeks burning. The Roc was coming into the Chicago garage on the roof of the Aerostatic Power building in a most beautiful landing, but none of the party knew it. Silberberg was gazing at the enraged Virginia in unbounded admiration. Her splendid anger had won him back. Shayne spoke in foolish agreement with his wife, half believing for the moment that there was something questionable in Virginia's absence.

"With a beggar!" said he.

"A bandit," said Aunt Marie, "an assassin!"

"A beggar," repeated Virginia in lofty scorn. "Why, even if he were one, in rags and a hovel, he'd be worth a million like you! An assassin, bandit! And, if he is, what are you? You rob by syndicate, assassinate by general managers and superintendents and make beggars by votes of shares! I loathe you, and I— I admire him as much as I loathe you. As between bandits like you and bandits like him give me the brave man rather than the coward!"

Willett interrupted the scene by announcing their successful landing. They passed constrainedly into the tower and went down to the street and to Shayne's Chicago hotel in a motorcar, all in silence.

In the morning a letter was taken to the Shayne apartments. It was a short, tear stained missive of gratitude, penitence and farewell from Virginia to her aunt. It ran:

You have been as kind to me as any woman can be to a person she cannot love. You have never loved me, Aunt Marie, and you will never see me again. I blush to be obliged by your unjust suspicions to say one thing more. I am not going to any one. You have misjudged me terribly. I don't even know where he is. I shall never know!

• • • • • • •

Craighead and Carson walked through a stately peristyle to a low building called the laboratory, but termed by the patients the "shot tower." Theodore was astonished at the throng assembled for the "shot" treatment, of which he had as yet no conception—men of all sorts anxiously watching the clock like schoolboys fearful of being tardy. They formed in two columns, resting on two aisles, across the farther ends of which stood two desks exactly alike. All slung their coats over their right arms, disclosing slits in their shirts at the left shoulder.

Craighead, with Carson following, sent back ripples of disorder along the line by offering bets as to whether Carson was himself or Wylie. Two young men easily classified as new hatched physicians stationed themselves like sentinels at the desks. The clock struck. There was a jostling at the rear caused by late comers, at which the serious young doctors frowned fiercely. The lines moved forward, and the men as they passed the physicians seemed to undergo some sort of operation performed by means of glittering instruments, of which Theodore caught glimpses like lightning playing about those slitted shirt sleeves.

"I ADMIRE HIM AS MUCH AS I LOATHE YOU."

Theodore found himself in the human current and drifted with it. On closer view he saw that the doctors pricked the patients with little glittering weapons, but he reasoned that it could be nothing very severe.

Craighead passed on, and Carson took his place. The doctor looked searchingly in his face, seemed puzzled and reached to another region of the tray for a syringe.

"You should have rolled up your sleeve or cut it," said he sternly. "Roll it up."

Theodore rolled up his sleeve, whereupon with an expertness quite startling the man of medicine pinched up a bit of the brown flesh, shoved in the needle, pressed down the piston, and Theodore was "shot." With a stinging in his arm and wondering as to the why of it all, though he knew by this time that he had dropped out of the night sky into full membership in a drink cure establishment, he passed on.

Dr. Witherspoon met each patient with a standardized smile, clasped each hand with a grip of absolute uniformity and said, "Good morning, Mr. Bascom," or whatever the name might be. "And how is the appetite this morning? And the tongue, please. Pulse regular, I observe. Have you had your constitutional this morning? Improving nicely, Mr. Bascom. Good morning."

They returned to Theodore's room. Soon entered Mr. O'Grady, Mr. Evans and a sleuthler person of about Carson's size, who at once began the coursing of imaginary game on the wall paper, slapping his thigh and laughing at every failure.

"This," said Mr. O'Grady, introducing the indoor huntsman, "is Mr. Wylie, Mr. Carson."

"My worst fears confirmed!" gasped Craighead. "The one man I ever loved turns out to be—oh, ye gods, both a teller of truth and a victim of regular habits! The last straw and no julep!"

Carson looked at Wylie, awaiting Mr. O'Grady's development of his case.

"We are, of cawse," said O'Grady, "sorry to have interfered with your plans, Mr. Carson, but"—

Mr. O'Grady's grave discourse, in which Carson could feel himself being placed irrevocably in the wrong, was interrupted by Mr. Wylie's making a swoop upon an imaginary animal on Mr. O'Grady's nose.

"I most caught him," he cried. "A bumblebee! A bumblebee! Sunday, gnats; mosquitoes. Monday; Tuesday, flies; bees. Wednesday; hornets yesterday and bumblebees today. Big game soon! Ha, ha, ha, ha! Whoop!"

"Long lost brother evidently," remarked Craighead. "I note the Craighead strawberry mark. Well, when he gets to elephants I may claim relationship."

"Of cawse," went on Mr. O'Grady, paying no attention to the Wylie incident except to use and examine for blood stains a neatly folded handkerchief, "your being found in the greenhouse has been partially explained, sir, and we are not disposed to make you trouble. In fact, with our customary liberality we shall leave to you both that and your board and lodgings since you so strangely came into our—into our midst."

"Hear, hear!" ejaculated Craighead. "Hooroar for the emporium!"

"And if you will kindly sign these mutual receipts in full for all claims on both sides we will give Mr. Wylie his room, and—here's the pen, Mr. Carson, sir."

Theodore had already made the first stroke of the "T" when Craighead rushed upon him like a whirlwind, snatched the pen, hurled it into the door like a javelin, where it stood quivering, and interposed between Carson and O'Grady.

"Caitiff, avaunt!" he roared. "Wilt deprive the widows and orphans this youth may accumulate of their cause of action against this dope shotten emporium? Back, slave! You reach him only over my dead body! Receipts in full? Not on your life—to coin an expression. You have shot his patrician blood full of dishwater and bug juice. You have filled his innocent and unworldly stomach with dope. You have amputated his appetite for light wines and may as well pass him the darker drink first as last. He has suffered and must ever suffer most excruciating pain and agony and both mental and physical anguish. He's a gone gosling! And I, the greatest personal injury specialist in the legal world, as his attorney demand ten—thousand—plunks as damages, failing the receipt of which, well and truly to be paid in lawful money of the realm, we'll take the emporium in execution and make Witherspoon a stable boy, with you as assistant swipe, both of you to sleep with Tige! We don't sign nothin', see?"

CHAPTER VII.

A TALK WITH MR. WADDY.

THEODORE resolved that he must flie to the shed in the gulf dunes, complete the flying machine and bring it to the notice of the world in spite of the enmity of Mr. Shayne, upon which he now confidently counted. He must—

"I know," broke in Mr. Craighead, gazing at the ceiling through wreaths of smoke, "the yearnings of your subtropical Alabamian system. But be practical. You come to this emporium, of which, alas, neither of us is fated to be an alumnus, and you find me in fine fettle saving that I am unrelated to the world. I am an Antaeus, with no immediate prospects of getting my tootsies to mother earth; a storage battery as big as Pike's peak, but insulated from the mass of demagnetized humanity; a great force for a number of things, with no way of proving it. What do you do? You make a profession for me. I was naught, not to mention naughty. What am I now? A great personal injury lawyer, developing into a prosperous ambulance chaser. I was out of touch with the world of finance. I have now laid the foundation for the organization of the great Carson Craighead Aeronef corporation!"

"What do you mean?" ejaculated Carson.

"What I say. What I say! Through a long, colonnaded, peristyled vista of marble and onyx I can see nailed to the back fence the hide of Mr. Finley Shayne.

"But I have no clothes," Carson urged.

"Clothes!" scornfully repeated Craighead. "What are they? Merely woven fabrics to fill bags to secure credit withal at hotels. And you need no credit, for this room is mine for the whole term of the treatments paid for by some one into whose company I dropped or rose during my last shore leave from the good ship Lithia, but by whom I have no idea. Clothes, indeed! Scat!"

"But it's cold here," persisted Carson, feeling helpless in the toils of this serpentine logic. "I'm not prepared for this climate."

"Look abroad!" commanded Craighead, with a gesture toward the window. "The sun beats down upon the last remnants of the snow, and the little brooks give the glad ha-ha to the river and send down the silky billet doux of the catkin to remind him that they've busted loose and are hurling themselves into his arms. Why, darn you, it's spring! And you can stay right here—steam heat, bath, hot and cold water, padded cell in connection—oh, fair youth, I love thee! Let me finish bunkoing Mr. O'Grady and start the Aeronef company. Don't be a clam!"

"You know how I feel about those damages, but I could get the capital for the aeronef—"

"Why, you don't doubt my practical genius, do you?" queried Craighead in astonishment—"in other people's affairs, I mean, of course? Why, sir, if in view of my failure with my own I can't handle other people's business then what becomes of my ability? I tell you, haughty southron, I'm good for something! I have found a billionaire, and you shall meet him."

At a banquet in New York Canon Henson, describing the old dress of English bishops, said:

"The bishop of Bath and Wells had been visiting Scarborough. On he way to the train he lost his reckoning and stopped a boy.

"'I say, my lad, how far is it to the station?' he asked.

"'About a mile straight ahead,' said the boy. Then, staring at the bishop's knee breeches and silk stockings, he added:

BASEBALL.

It was said yesterday by some of those who watched the game of baseball on Thursday afternoon that Marcus Hoyt is a ringer for Johnnie "Dots" Miller, the crack second baseman of the Pittsburgs.

If pluck could have won that game for the Elks on Thursday the locals had it cinched. Look at that exhibition behind the bat by McNaughton. He had some difficulty holding the swift delivery of Warry McLaughlin and besides, he couldn't see Hoyt at second. But everybody knows how hard he worked for the team. And that's pluck.

Here's hoping that when the two teams line up again that 885 takes the ball.

"It looks like a slow day today!" Not a game in town that would bring forth howling crowds. Well, they are all slow days if baseball was reckoned that way in Plainfield.

Who said this city wasn't having a baseball revival?

And those Elks are just the fellows to keep up the spirit of the national game here, especially with Harry Marshall at the reins.

And Marcus de Second Base is the captain of the antlered ones. Well, he earned his title in Thursday's game.

The game which the Plainfield B. B. C. was to play in Red Bank on Sunday has been called off.

Several of the Y. M. C. A. players are unable to play in this afternoon's game. What, Charlie, another change in the line-up? But Frederickson will be on the slab—so here's hoping!

A good name for the Plainfield Baseball Club team would be, "The Mechanics"; nearly every member of the nine knows some mechanical trade.

Detroit is almost as good as out of the American league race after losing that game to the Athletics yesterday.

And those poor Highlanders—another game gone to the St. Louis Browns. Baseball is an uncertain game for sure.

Brooklyn is the team of hard luck, the Dodgers being robbed of a game against the Pirates yesterday by the frown of Dame Fortune.

Harry DeMeza had some trouble in getting a baseball suit that would fit him for that game Thursday. The only one in town that was of Harry's dimensions was found in the possession of Cory Adams, of Grove street, who held down the initial sack for the North Plainfield High School nine.

John Fritts, the Y. M. C. A. captain, plays the game with lots of spirit. And he can clout some, too.

Now, Mr. Dorfinger, don't let your team get mixed up in a sixteen inning tie today, but bring home the bacon!

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Something to Think About.

Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, candidate for the Republican congressional nomination in the Fifth district, gave Congressman Fowler something to think about in his address a few nights ago to the Down-Town Republican Club, of Elizabeth.

Congressman Fowler has been insisting that Judge Runyon indorsed the open letter which he gave to the Republicans a few weeks ago, in which he assailed the character and the quality of the public service of United States Senator Kean.

Judge Runyon says there is no truth in Congressman Fowler's assertion. He admits that the letter was read by him before it was published, and that he told the congressman it would cause a great deal of trouble if published. He was asked to make suggestions for the changing of the verbiage of the Fowler letter. This he refused to do.

At the conclusion of his address to the members of the Down-Town Republican Club he urged them to refrain from indulging in mud-slinging during the campaign. He asked them to work for him and to vote for him. He plead with them to not say an unkind word that would leave after it a cut or a scar.

The character of Judge Runyon's campaign, as indicated by these words, will be higher than that of the one already inaugurated by Congressman Fowler, which was begun with a vicious attack upon Senator Kean, and was continued with verbal assaults upon "Uncle Dan" Voorhees and other prominent leaders of the Republican party in the Fifth congressional district. — Trenton State Gazette.

Mr. Swackhamer's Fight.

Former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of Somerset county, who for many years has responded to frequent calls to talk on the evils attached to the use of intoxicants, is an intense advocate of the cause of local option as espoused by the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League. Besides being a local optionist Mr. Swackhamer is a stalwart Democrat, and he intends to use his influence and oratory to focus the attention of the Democratic State convention upon the advisability of committing the New Jersey Democracy to the cause of local option as a stepping stone to fruitifying the Anti-Saloon League's slogan, "The solution of the saloon problem is no saloon." Mr. Swackhamer has drafted the following proposed plank to be inserted in the Democratic State platform for the approaching campaign:

"Recognizing the constitutional doctrine that all political power is inherent in the people, and firmly believing in the principle of municipal home rule, we demand the submission of the question of granting or denying liquor licenses in the several municipalities of the State to a direct vote of the people."

Mr. Swackhamer will seek election as a delegate to the State convention. If successful in this move he will first submit his local option declaration to the platform committee of he convention, but if the committee declines to include it in the majority report, as will probably be the outcome, he will make a fight for his proposition from the floor of the convention. It is possible, however, that the "Tall Sycamore", a sobriquet given him during his legislative career, may land outside the breastworks, for now that he has outlined what he purposes doing in the State convention there is scheming to prevent his election as a delegate.—Elizabeth Journal.

Dentistry in Kansas.

Did you ever have a tooth filled? No? Well, it is the greatest sport on earth—for the dentist. First he handcuffs you and ties you in a chair. Then he jerks your mouth open, turns on a searchlight and begins poking around inside with a crowbar. After an hour or so of jim-jamming around he wheels up a big derrick with a well drill attachment and proceeds to dig for oil in the prospect hole he started with the crowbar. He drills right down through your jaw, on through your lungs, your heart, your liver and everything else that happens to be in the way, and never stops until the bit strikes fire on the iron in the chair seat, and then only because he's afraid of damaging his office furniture. Then he pulls the drill out and exchanges the bit for one of those emery wheels that blacksmiths use for grinding thick ploughshares. He grinds away at your very vitals while the emery wheel emits a gritty whir like no other sound on earth, but most nearly approached by the noise of forty big rasps sliding back and forth at right angles across a strip of hard steel. At last the dentist finishes the grinding and prepares to put in the tubing and cap the well. First he rams a bale of cotton back into the corner of your cheek. Then he takes the blade of an old carpenter's saw and jams one edge in between the damaged tooth and its next door neighbor. In his purring tones he begs you not to swallow or spit, well knowing that you could do either as easily as you could turn Halley's comet into a can of Boston baked beans. Having you thus handcuffed, tied and effectually gagged, he proceeds to mix up a mortar composed of seven sacks of Portland cement, half a load of sand and two barrels of lime. Having deliberately and carefully prepared this mortar he begins shovelling it into the hole and tamping it down with a railroad rail. Here you lose consciousness, and when you come to an hour later you find yourself released from your bonds and lying on a couch, feeling as if you had been through a rock crusher and ground into ballast.—Bonner Springs (Kan.) Chieftain.

Small But Steady Victims.

"City people don't buy gold bricks, you know," said the summer young man.

"No," replied Farmer Corntossel, "they jes' keep pinkin' along, buyin' melons an' such that look good on the outside.'—Washington Star.

Desperate.

"My brother has just written a poem which he thinks will outlive him," said the man in the newspaper office.

"It certainly will if he brings it in here," said the fighting editor.—Yonkers Statesman.

Chalmers MOTOR CARS

The Chalmers "Thirty" is the Only Medium Priced Car That Was Ever Awarded the Glidden Trophy

Never before has a car costing under $4,000 won the Glidden Trophy.

This year—the longest, the hardest, and most racking route ever undertaken—the Glidden Trophy was won by the Chalmers "Thirty" in competition with cars of more than twice its price, and rated power.

What more could you ask of any car at any price?

With such a proof of its study and reliable quality, the demand for 1911 models is going to be even greater than last year, when the output was sold before the season was half over.

The increased demand will not effect the Chalmers policy of building cars of quality, not quantity, not how many cars, but how good, is our constant aim and effort, this is the principal reason for the fact that the Chalmers has never been defeated in any motoring event by any car of its price and power.

The 1911 Models are being delivered in order of purchase. Demonstration of new models by appointment.

THOS. J. CAULFIELD KILLED

Mystery in Death of Plainfielder Who was Found on Railroad Tracks.

ON HIS WAY TO EASTON, PA.

In July Last Caulfield Received Fractured Skull in Altercation at Local Hotel—Funeral Tomorrow Morning.

The death of Thomas J. Caulfield, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Caulfield, of 303 Johnstone avenue, who was found dead on the tracks of the New Jersey Central near Bloomsbury, yesterday morning, is shrouded in mystery. No one seems to know how or when the young man met his death. It is supposed that he fell from the train on which he was going to Easton and that another train, thought to be a freight ran over him as he lay in a dazed condition on the railroad tracks. The body of the young man was found by a railroad employe, who immediately notified a coroner and the body was removed to the morgue in Easton. Here an investigation of the clothing on the body was made and a mason's union card, of which young Caulfield was a member, revealed who the dead man was.

Word was sent to James Caulfield, the father of the dead man, and he, accompanied by his son John, went to Easton immediately. They identified the body as that of Thomas J. Caulfield. The remains were brought to this city late last night.

Thomas Caulfield was well known in this city. He was a mason by trade and was twenty-four years old. He had lived in this city for more than a score of years. He left Plainfield Saturday night to take a job at Easton, Pa.

Several friends saw Caulfield just before he left the city and noted nothing strange in his actions. He stopped in the Kensington Hotel to say good-bye to some friends there and then started for the 5.23 train for Easton. He came back to the hotel shortly, having just missed his train. He waited around the hotel until the next train for Easton. His friends, who were in the hotel at the time, said he was in good spirits and perfectly sober at the time of his departure.

On July 4, 1909, Caulfield received a fractured skull in an altercation in the Hotel Iroquois from which he almost died. It is believed by many who know him that this injury began to trouble him and that he became dazed and was thrown from the train. There were no marks on his body to show that he had been the victim of foul play.

Mr. Caulfield is survived by his father and mother, a sister and two brothers, as members of his immediate family. Funeral services will be held for him tomorrow morning from his late home, 303 Johnston avenue, at 8.15 and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

BIG MOOSE PARADE IN THIS CITY TONIGHT.

For the final spurt in the closing of the charter of the Loyal Order of Moose tonight, a band has been hired and the new lodge proposes to have a great time. The band will give a concert in front of the Waldorf Hotel on East Front street beginning at 6:45. At 8:30 the members will fall into line and follow this line of march:

From the corner of Watchung avenue and Front street they will march up West Front to Grant avenue, to Fourth street, to Park avenue, to North avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Second street, to Park avenue, to Front to Somerset street and up Somerset street to Saengerbund Hall, where the installation will take place by a team from Trenton. It is expected that nearly three hundred men will be in line.

GOSPEL MEETING AT SALVATION ARMY TENT.

An interesting and profitable service was held last evening in the Salvation Army tent on Watchung avenue. The meeting was conducted by Captain and Mrs. Hewitt. The singing of familiar gospel hymns in which the congregation joined heartily occupied the opening of the service, after which a short gospel address was given by Capt. Hewitt, his subject being "The Three-Round Ladder Which Reaches to Perdition". In contrast to this was held up the upward ladder which reaches to God and Heaven, repentance towards God and faith in Jesus Christ. The speaker urged the unsaved to place their feet upon this and receive salvation.

GWYER CASE NOT ENDED

Testimony in Alleged Assault Heard This Morning—To be Finished on Thursday.

GENERAL DENIAL ENTERED.

Conductor Kiely Corroborated by Several Witnesses—Miss Thompson Testifies for Defendant.

The case of the Public Service Railway Co., against Le Roy Gwyer, for alleged disorderly conduct and assault upon Conductor Con. Kiely, on the evening of August 6, was called this morning before Judge Runyon in the city court and after the witnesses for the prosecution and two for the defense had been called and given their testimony the case was adjourned until next Tuesday morning, when another witness for the defense will be heard. S. S. Swackhamer appeared as counsel for Gwyer and Judge Clarence L. Case appeared for the company.

Conductor Kiely testified to the alleged assault declaring that Gwyer attempted to force his way out of the trolley car and in so doing assaulted him by striking his outstretched arm violently enough to break Kiely's hold on the door of the car. The conductor said that he had previous to blocking the doorway asked the passengers to step out of the forward end of the car as there was a large number of people attempting to board the car from the rear. He alleged that Gwyer paid no attention to his repeated requests and after striking his arm from the door attempted to again strike him with his fist and in dodging the blow struck his head against the iron railing in the center of the rear platform.

The testimony of the conductor was partially corroborated by Edward Willoughby, a plumber, of Westfield, and Thomas and Charles Clark, also of Westfield, all of whom declared they were on the car and saw everything that happened.

Mr. Gwyer took the stand in his own defense, denying specifically the allegations of the conductor and his witnesses and was corroborated in some essential points by Miss E. S. Thompson, who was in his company on the evening of the alleged assault. Another witness who was to have appeared this morning failed to show up, but his testimony will be heard on Thursday and the case adjudicated.

YESTERDAY'S MEETING AT THE BABY CAMP.

"Helpfulness" was the subject of Mrs. J. A. Powlinson's talk at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp yesterday afternoon, and the stories with which she illustrated her remarks held the close attention of the children as well as the older ones in the audience. Mrs. Powlinson possesses the happy faculty of knowing just how to talk to children. She is considered one of the best elementary teachers in the State, and to her splendid work more than any other influence is due the success of the large elementary department of the First Baptist Sunday-school, of which Mrs. Powlinson is superintendent.

Yesterday's service was in charge of George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school, whose remarks added materially to the interest of the meeting. A feature of the program was the singing of Miss Nora Schenck, whose voice was at its best in the solos selected; she sang the Gospel Story with marked sweetness and sympathy, and unconsciously illustrated the speaker's remarks on "Helpfulness". Martin A. Korff played two violin solos—"Sweet Peace" and "Face to Face"—with exceptional expression. Miss Drake presided at the piano.

Mrs. C. A. Braider Recovering.

Mrs. Clifford A. Braider, of Putnam avenue, who has been seriously ill with peritonitis, is now pronounced out of danger by the physician. She was taken suddenly ill with acute indigestion while with her husband, she was visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Endicott at Coggins Point, Va., and she was brought home as quickly as possible. For several days her condition was such as to greatly alarm the family, but Saturday there was a change for the better and her recovery is now assured.

CONSCIOUSNESS OF GOD

Topic of Sermon by Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton in Crescent Ave. Church.

INSPIRATION FROM PSALM 139.

"Man Not What He Seems to be, But As He Is"—Must be Transfigured and Transformed.

An unusually large congregation gathered in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday morning to listen to Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, who acted as supply in the absence of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. Dr. Eaton did not fail of appreciation, his eloquent, forceful discourse holding the attention of everyone from beginning to end.

The subject of the sermon was taken from the whole of the 139th Psalm and under the interpretation of Dr. Eaton the psalm itself became not only a poem, but a sermon full of the richest of thought. "The Consciousness of God," was his topic and it was unfolded to his hearers in so unmistakable a way that it was impossible for one to have heard without having been immeasurably thankful that one was privileged to have been present.

In the beginning Dr. Eaton declared that in order to get into close touch with God it was essential to remove the thing which has obtruded itself between us and the Divine. "Take the psalm as an inspiration," he said, "and it will lead you to think and to pray and to final-

GOD'S COVENANT NEVER CHANGES, SAYS PREACHER

The pulpit of the Trinity Reformed church was filled yesterday morning by the Rev. J. T. Shock, of this city. Mr. Shock took for the text of his sermon the seventh chapter of Deuteronomy, the ninth verse; Know therefore that Jehovah, thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations." Mr. Shock's topic was "Our Faithful and Covenant-keeping God." In part he said:

"I have substituted the word Jehovah in the text for the word Lord. The word Jehovah stands for: divine free will and determination, absolute self-consistency, and unchangeableness, and so makes this text better fit the topic of the sermon. A covenant at that time was a sacred thing which lasted, not only between the parties concerned, but also between their posterity for generations to come. And so the covenant, which God made with his people, He will keep through all ages.

"The covenant, which Jehovah made with his church is the hope of that church in this period of doubt, which is being furthered by scientists and men of knowledge. It has been said by modern speakers that it is better not to know so much than to know that so much isn't true. And so much science is misleading and its teachings vague. Voltaire's prophesy that the Bible would be unknown in a hundred years has failed to come true and the time for its fullfillment is up.

"Think of an engine of fourteen thousand million of horse power set on one of the fixed stars and driving the world around at a thousand miles an hour—for such an engine would be necessary for this work—and then try to stop it. It is impossible for it is as lasting as the unchangeable laws of nature. And just so unchangeable is the covenant which Jehovah has made with His people and His love for them."

David Rogers Resigns.

David Rogers, who has been treasurer of the Plainfield theatre, since the house was opened by William J. Counihan, and later under the management of Proctor & Sanderson, has resigned. He has not yet decided upon his plans for the future. Under the new management of Harry Brunelle, several changes have taken place, and the position held by Mr. Rogers will be filled by Superintendent Hoffmeister.

A CLEVER CLAIRVOYANT

Gets Mrs. Stevens' Ring and Makes an Unostentatious Exit from the City.

WAS CLEVER PRESDIDIGITATOR.

The Woman Consulted the Bogus Seer and Now Mourns the Loss of a Valuable Keepsake.

When is a diamond tied around your neck, safely ensconced in a chamois bag, not a diamond? It's easy when you have a clairvoyant tie the bag carefully for you, especially after you have consulted the seer. This is what Mrs. John Stevens has just found out, after having consulted a so-styled prowler in the mysteries of the occult, and today she mourns the loss of a valuable solitaire which was the property of her daughter.

According to the story told in connection with the disappearance of the bauble, Mrs. Stevens had in mind a trip to the sea shore and in order to take no chances with fate decided to interview the dealer in futures as to the prospects of a pleasant vacation.

The clairvoyant, who had been visiting for the past week at a house next door and had ingratiated himself into the good graces of the neighbors, was glad to see Mrs. Stevens and at once took note of the ring worn by the woman. He advised her that to expose such a valuable bit of jewelry to the vulgar crowd was to tempt Providence. Producing a chambois bag, he advised Mrs. Stevens to put the ring in it, and he immediately fastened the bag around her neck so that it could not possibly be stolen, and proceeded to tell her what might happen during the coming visit to Asbury Park. Instead of fastening the bag with the ring in it about Mrs. Stevens' neck, he deftly substituted one that was empty, and after Mrs. Stevens had departed on her journey the clairvoyant also disappeared, and has not since been seen.

Mrs. Stevens discovered her loss shortly after her arrival at the beach and instantly wired the police in this city, stating the circumstances. But the bird had flown. A good description of the man was wired to all the principal cities in the State, as well as New York city, and the authorities have hopes of apprehending the man.

The ring, besides having an intrinsic value of more than a hundred dollars, is also valued as a keepsake by Mrs. Stevens.

MARTINE WILLING TO RUN

"Farmer Orator" Will Seek Nomination to U.S. Senate to Succeed John Kean.

PETITIONS ARE IN CIRCULATION.

Oft-Defeated Candidate Yields to the Wishes of His Friends and Admits he Would Like to be Elected.

James E. Martine, who three years ago received the Democratic vote in the Legislature as a candidate to succeed John F. Dryden in the United States Senate, has agreed to allow his name to go before the Democratic voters as a candidate for the United States Senate, to succeed John Kean, at the direct primaries on September 13th next.

Petitions requesting the Secretary of State to print Mr. Martine's name on the official primary ballots as a Senatorial condidate, in accordance with the law which former Governors Stokes and Murphy will avail themselves of as Republicans, will be circulated in several counties of the State this week, with the assurance that many more names than the one thousand required by law will be secured in favor of making the "farmer orator" a popular Democratic choice to sit in the upper branch of Congress.

Mr. Martine's friends declare that he is entitled to receive the most serious and favorable consideration from his party in connection with the question of choosing a successor to Senator Kean. He was the choice of his party for Senator when there was no chance of his being successful, they say, and taking into consideration this fact, they argue that he is now a logical selection for the place. At any rate his friends are determined to have his name submitted under the direct primary law.

GLORY IN TRIBULATION

Rev. Dr. C. E. Bronson, at Union Service, Says It is a Blessed Asset.

GOD'S PURPOSE IN TRIALS.

"The Life Which Has Never Tasted of the Cup of Sorrow and Trial is Not the Best by Far," Says the Preacher.

The Union services were held last night in the First Presbyterian church, with not as large an attendance as usual. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Bronson, pastor of the West Hope Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, who occupied the pulpit of this church in the morning. Owing to the absence of the choir, there was no special music at the service.

Dr. Bronson took for his text last night the third verse of the fifth chapter of Romans: "And not only so but we glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience." In the course of his remarks, Dr. Bronson spoke in part as follows:

"To learn to glory in tribulation and trial and sorrow is one of the greatest and most blessed assets, which one can possess. But few of us have this faculty in our possession. When we are in the midst of sorrow and trouble, we often become discouraged with ourselves and with those about us, fearing that perchance it is on account of our faults that these trials have been sent upon us. But then we should question ourselves whether or not God has any purpose in sending such tribula-

NETHERWOOD CAMPERS HEAR GOOD SPEAKERS

The usual Sunday afternoon services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp was largely attended yesterday. George Chapman, the chairman of the finance committee of the association presided. The singing by the newly organized choir, composed of Camp children, added much to the interestand impressiveness of the service. They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Frank, one of the Camp mothers.

In his opening remarks Mr. Chapman threw some light on the finances of the association. He said that a greater work was being done this year than ever before, and naturally the expenses were heavier. He also pointed out that while it is true the association has benefitted under the will of the late Mr. Hewitt, the principal of the bequest could not be used in the service work, and only the interest is available,nearly three-quarters of this income had to be used to work necessary improvement on the building and grounds. "It must not be supposed," said Mr. Chapman "that Miss Curry has unlimited capital at her disposal. She needs funds badly to meet the running expenses and must depend upon the general public for them."

Frederick Suton was the next speaker. Mr. Suton has a direct way of saying things which leaves a deep impression. He impressed upon his audience the necessity of helping one another.

Arthur N. Pearson, of Westfield, made a rousing address. Mr. Pearson was one of Miss Curry's first supporters at Westfield and has remained true to her a great many years. Mr. Pearson appealed to those present to arouse themselves and take some active interest in the work. To get their friends interested and help along a work descrving of every one's prayers and co-operation.

MISS CARRIE R. STOUT THE BRIDE OF CLARENCE H. YOUNG

Miss Carrie R. Stout, of Somerville, and Clarence H. Young, of this city, were married Saturday night at 226 East Ninth street, by Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, who was assisted by Rev. George H. Donovan, pastor of the Reformed church at Rocky Hill. The couple was accompanied by a small party of friends, who witnessed the ceremony. Immediately afterward the couple left on a wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

Just Threw a Fit.

John Hogan, of West Third street, was taken with a fit yesterday afternoon at the corner of West Second street and Central avenue, at about 2:30 o'clock and, before the ambulance arrived had been removed to his home.

SEBRING IS ENDORSED

Receives Majority of Votes of Somerset Co. Republican Committee for Shrievalty.

ROBERT KAY IS SECOND CHOICE.

Carl Fleischmann Endorsed for the Assembly Nomination—Plan to Abolish Board of Freeholders.

Charles P. Sebring, of North Plainfield, received the endorsement of a majority of the members of the Somerset County Republican Committee for the shrievalty nomination, at its meeting in Somerville, Saturday. He received nine of the fifteen votes cast, while Robert Kay, of Bernards, was given the balance of the votes. The committee then gave its endorsement to Mr. Sebring's candidacy. This action of the committee has a tendency to strengthen the claims of Mr. Sebring and assure him the nomination at the hands of the party next month.

During the past few weeks Mr. Sebring's candidacy has been rapidly gaining in popularity and his many friends agree that he is now entitled to recognition. At the same time, North Plainfield believes that it is entitled to the office, inasmuch as the other end of the county has been treated generously in the past.

The county committee also gave its endorsement to Carl Fleischmann, of Millstone, for the Assembly nomination to succeed W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, who is now serving his fourth term and does not seek a re-nomination. It was said on Saturday that if Mr. Fleischman will accept the nomination he can have it. He is a young man of considerable wealth and has been a good supporter of the party in the past. His candidacy is being looked upon with considerable favor and his friends hope that he will consent to stand for the nomination.

Further plans for the clambake were discussed and it was decided to hold the outing at Witzel's Point Grove on Long Island in September. The date will be announced later. Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Another important matter discussed Saturday was that of preparing petitions at once for the purpose of abolishing the Board of Freeholders and substituting commissioners. This matter will be taken up at once so that the question can be voted on at the coming election. It is understood that the Democrats of the county will take similar action. It is the belief that with county commissioners there will be considerable saving to the county over the present method of having freeholders.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

James Rosse, an Italian, was a complainant against Georgio De Melio in the city court this morning, alleging assault and threatening to kill. Judge Runyon dismissed the testimony. Both men are residents of the East End.

William McNamara, Frank Vermeule, George Bowen and John Callahan, all accused of drunkenness on Saturday, were given suspended sentences by City Judge William N. Runyon this morning.

For fighting and creating a disturbance at 430 West Fourth street on Saturday evening, James Pondicello and Michael Rizzo, both Italians, were fined $5 each this morning. The fracas arose over a debt of $14.50 which Pondicello claimed Rizzo owed him.

Ralph Delabro, caught riding a wheel without a light on Saturday evening by Patrolman Chas. Flynn, was allowed to go with a warning, this morning, by Judge Runyon.

Another alleged trolley car rowdy, Joseph Marron, of the West End, was fined $20 by Judge Runyon this morning. Marron was drunk and fought with another passenger over the payment of fare, shocking the other passengers with their profanity.

The crap-shooting case, in which four colored men were implicated a week ago, was again postponed until John Jordan can be apprehended. It is believed that Jordan has taken French leave, still owing a five-dollar fine for a previous offense.

Arrested for Drunkenness.

John Murray, a laborer of Watchung, was arrested in the borough Saturday night by Marshal Culver for being helplessly drunk. In court this morning, Murray was penitent, and Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence.

B. F. CORIELL FOR MAYOR

Former Sheriff Chosen on Republican Outing as Nominee of Party.

WILL OPPOSE G. W. V. MOY.

Congressman Fowler Gets Chilly Reception While Judge Runyon Is Given the "Glad Hand."

Aside from the fact that Congressman Charles N. Fowler joined the Union County Republicans on their annual outing to Rockaway Beach, Saturday, the most important happening of the day was the selection of a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination on the regular ticket. The man chosen to lead the party in this city is Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, and before the trip was concluded his petition was prepared and almost the required number of signatures were obtained.

When the matter was first mentioned to Mr. Coriell he declined the honor, but when he discovered that nearly everyone of the Plainfield delegation was for him, he finally consented amid the cheers of the large crowd. No time was lost in preparing the petition and getting signatures. This action means that Mr. Coriell will have for his opponent in the primary, George W. V. Moy, the choice of the Progressive Republicans and a lively campaign is promised. Mr. Coriell is thoroughly equipped for the position, having served the city in the Common Council several terms and is in close touch with city affairs. He is also a large property owner and his business interests being here, he would be able to devote considerable time to the office, if he should be elected.

As for the outing, it was a great success. Nearly six hundred of the faithful ones were aboard, a larger crowd than was expected, and among the notables were United States Senators John Kean and Frank O. Briggs, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Judge William N. Runyon, who is seeking the Congressional nomination; State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, Hamilton F. Kean, John I. Blair Reilly, of Warren; J. H. Capstick, of Morris; Assemblyman Lloyd Thompson and Augustus Schwartz and many office-seekers, including all the aspirants for the city judgeship in this city, except V. W. Nash. County Chairman Frank H. Smith lead the county delegation. Among others present were Donald McLean, Senator Kean's secretary, and William Evans, who holds a similar position for Senator Briggs.

One of the greatest surprises of the day was the presence of Congressman Fowler, and his reception was a chilly one. He held fort at one end of the boat, while Judge Runyon, his opponent, was at the other end. It was plainly evident who was the most popular man of the two. Everyone had the "glad hand" out for the Plainfielder, while Mr. Fowler did not seem to be so much of an attraction.

Mr. Fowler did not appear to enter into the spirit of the occasion and as many recalled the harsh things the Representative said about them, recently, no efforts were made to make the trip a pleasant one for the Elizabeth man. Some one handed him a copy of William Jeffery's song, and the Congressman was noticed tearing the paper into pieces and throwing it overboard.

The leaders discussed the question of a successor to Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, and Freeholder Peter Meisel, of Springfield, appeared to be the choice for the nomination. Dr. J. Edwin Rowe, of Summit, was also mentioned, but Mr. Meisel's claims seemed to impress the leaders more forcibly.

It was nearly 10.30 o'clock when the Steamer Isabelle left Elizabethport for the trip, and as the committee had planned to serve all refreshments on board, instead of giving a dinner at Rockaway Beach, it was nearly 3 o'clock when the boat reached the latter place. After landing, the committee escorted the invited guests, including Senators Kean, Briggs, Congressman Fowler, Judge Runyon, "Uncle Dan" Voorhees, Mr. Capstick and Mr. Reilly, and the Assemblymen, to a hotel, where dinner was served.

After spending a few hours at the Beach, the start on the return journey was made at 6:20, the party reaching Elizabethport about 9 o'clock. The crowd was so great that not only did the badges, bearing a fine picture of Senator Kean, give out, but there was a shortage of cigars. On the trip down to Rockaway, Councilman Herbert Buxton was at the wheel of the boat for a time, and he directed its course as

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

At 4 o'clock Saturday morning, the tool house and carpenter shop on Whittier avenue, belonging to J. H. Higgins, was entirely destroyed by fire. The borough fire department was aroused from its slumbers at that early hour and made quick time in reaching the scene of the blaze but its efforts toward saving the property were useless as they could not get sufficient water. Fortunately there were no buildings near the burning tool house and so the blaze was kept from spreading. The origin of the fire is unknown but incendiarism is believed by many of the boroughites to have been the cause of the blaze. The tool house was filled with sashes, blinds, window casings, etc., which were all burned up. The damage has not as yet been ascertained but Mr. Higgins had the building well insured.

Fred Davy and James Kelly, of Scranton, Pa., and William Miller, with no home town, were arrested by Marshal James Benson Saturday morning as being suspicious looking characters. They were seen by Benson on the railroad track, closely watching a house and then the Marshal took them down to the borough jail. The three men were given a hearing before Recorder Campbell at 6 o'clock. Sentence was suspended on the men.

The Dunellen baseball team made up for its defeat of last Saturday and won easily over the Scotch Plains team Saturday afternoon. There was a smaller attendance than had been expected but the game was fast and exciting. The final score showed Dunellen in the lead 4-1.

GREAT FLOODS IN JAPAN; 100,000 HOMELESS

Tokio, Aug. 15.—The waters of the river Sumida are still rising, and the Honjo and Fukadawa wards of Tokio are nearly completely submerged. Tens of thousands of persons are homeless and starving. One of the three more important embankments guarding Tokio has broken. Should the second and third dykes break half the capital would be submerged.

The threatened embankments are now being guarded by troops. At 3 o'clock this evening the steady rise of the water was still apparent. Owing to the inundation of the buildings the Fukagawa gas and electric lights are failing.

Thousands of homeless persons are being sheltered in the temples and schoolhouses, at which relief stations the most deplorable sights are witnessed. The victims of the flood are wholly dependent upon public relief. Thousands more have been unable to find shelter, owing to the insufficiency of the boats to convey them to places of safety, and they are exposed to the rain and hunger. Every available boat is being employed in the work of rescue and to convey food where it is most needed.

The question of feeding the stricken people is causing apprehension. The vegetable and fish supply are failing and the stock of biscuits is nearly exhausted. There is no fear, however, for the supply of rice.

The climax of the inundation is expected tonight.

The mountain flood in the neighborhood of Karuizawa has destroyed the Mikasa Hotel.

Many foreigners were stopping there, but fortunately no fatality has been reported so far.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

State Senator Frelinghuysen issued a statement of his views the other day. This fire insurance agent, over in New York, has a fair business perception of averages. The problem of the Governorship of the State of New Jersey presents itself to him in somewhat this way: "If nearly everybody who owns or uses an automobile is unalterably opposed to me by my folly and obstinacy as a State Senator, it is obvious that I can not be elected Governor by catering to this class. Therefore, I will appeal to all who do not own automobiles and never use them, and as they are in the majority, I must stand to win." The Somerset Senator has political sense, but with limitations. He appeals only to prejudice. He is nothing except an automobile crank. If New Jersey had no other public interest, he might be right in selecting opposition to automobiling as an issue, albeit he is

FAKE MASONIC LODGE MEN ARE ARRESTED.

Charged with using the mails to defraud aspirants to membership in the Masonic order, Darius Wilson, of East Roxboro, Mass., is held in $1,000 bonds in Boston for trial August 22. He was arrested at Brockton on charges of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Wilson has been arrested before in St. Louis and in Newark on similar offered to make persons genuine charges. It is alleged that Wilson Masons for a small initiation fee, when in reality he made them "Egyptian" Masons, a body of no affiliation with the society of Free and Accepted Masons.

Postoffice Inspector Clarahan says that in every case he investigated the "initiated" person believed he would become a "genuine" Mason by joining the "lodge".

Wilson became a Mason by joining the Yonnondio Lodge 163, F. and A. M., Rochester, N. Y., February, 1863. He became a Royal Arch Mason, and a member of the Scottish rite, and has been granted special rites in France, Spain and in Scotland.

In 1902 he was expelled for organizing clandestine lodges.

Darius Wilson and his son were arrested in Newark a year ago, while preparing to confer "Masonic degrees" at $7 per head. The elder Wilson was bound over in the Second Precinct Court on a charge of false pretenses and indicted by the grand jury. He was released under $1,500 bail pending trial.

Chief Weimer, of the prosecutor's office in Newark, said Saturday that it was their intention to bring Wilson to trial at the September term, the reason for the delay being the press of business produced by the Snead, Anson and other cases.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS.

Because it maters little how light her hair becomes a blonde may wash her hair more frequently than a brunette.

When shampooing never rub the soap directly on the hair, as it gums and is almost impossible to rub or rinse off. Always have the soap in some liquid form.

To stop bleeding of the fingers, hand, arm or foot, raise the part as high as possible. The best plan in the case of, say the hand, is to put it under the cold water tap for a minute or half a minute, and then raise it above the head.

When a person feels jumpiness, weariness and listlessness, accompanied by headache, there is indicated a general run-down state of the nerves and the system. Plenty of plain nourishing food should be eaten. There should be daily outdoor exercise and a good internal nerve tonic should be taken.

Ther are various causes for redness of the nose, not to suggest the use of alcoholic beverages as being one of them. If cause exists the remedy suggests itself. But another cause is defective circulation. In such cases outdoor exercise is necessary and much good will result from a cold bath every morning, followed by a brisk rubdown. A good tonic should be taken.

B. F. CORIELL FOR MAYOR

successfully as he does the affairs of the city.

The question of a successor to City Judge William N. Runyon did not reach a conclusion, Saturday. There are several aspirants for the job, and it looks now as though a conference will be necessary in the near future to pick the strongest man for the nomination.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who is in Genoa, and in consequence could not go on the outing, sent a telegram to Andrew McCardell, chairman of the outing committee, wishing all a good time. This was read on the boat.

The Plainfielders who were on the outing included, in addition to those already mentioned, Winfred S. Angleman, Postmaster E. H. Bird, John Bowman, Tax Collector W. R. Townsend, James Stewart, Councilman Herbert Buxton and William L. Gloak, James Morrison, Francis J. Blatz, William G. DeMeza, Harry C. Runyon, J. Henry Crane, Robert Newton Crane, William Jeffery, and the Berkley Heights delegation, and a host of others.

An amusing incident occurred in connection with the outing. Councilman F. L. Montgomery, who, it was said, planned to go to Rockaway Beach, got on the wrong train and landed at Asbury Park, where he spent the day.

The committee in charge of the outing comprised Andrew McCardell, chairman; Herbert Buxton, of this city; Edward Bauer, of Elizabeth; Henry Walz and William Bainbridge.

CHARLES H. GALLAGHER WANTS SEPT. FIFTEEN.

Trenton August 15.—Charles H. Gallagher, member of the Democratic State committee from Mercer county, and chairman of the subcommittee on fixing a date for the Democratic State convention, says that there is little likelihood of having the convention held at a later date than September 15th, as requested by the Union County Democratic committee. Mr. Gallagher says that the only dates open for holding the convention in the opera house, in this city, are September 15, 18 and 21.

"As things stand now, I don't see how we can hold the convention on any other date than the 15th," said Mr. Gallagher today.

Isaac Apgar Injured.

Isaac Apgar, of 15 Mountain avenue, fell downstairs at his home late Saturday night and it was thought at first that he had sustained serious injuries. The ambulance was summoned immediately and the injured man was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital. Here it was found that his injuries were not as serious as was supposed. Mr. Apgar was discharged from the hospital today.

Glimpse of a Millionaire "Cabin".

Saturday's supplement to the New York Evening Mail devoted a double page to pictures of "MilHonaire 'Cabins'" in the Adirondacks. One of these will interest older Plainfielders, for the owner is Simon J. Drake, of New York, who is the son of Rev. Simeon J. Drake, pastor of the First Baptist church for twenty-three years, preceding Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

Proctor's New Show.

Gertrude Griffin & Co. will present a comedy sketch at Proctor's theatre today, entitled "A Woman Hater". Elmer & DeWitt, comedy jugglers and dancers, have a novelty act. Weston & Slavin will present a sketch, "Buying a Husband", and Tennessee Hall, the original "Coon Shouter", completes the vaudeville bill.

Last Excursion on Thursday.

The annual excursion of Warren chapel on Thursday to Asbury Park will be the last one from this city to the shore this season, and it promises to be a large outing. The birdmen are still flying at Asbury Park, and those going there Thursday will have a fine opportunity to see the air-ships.

GLORY IN TRIBULATION

tions upon His children, whom He says He loves and protects.

"But we find that the life which has never tasted of the cup of sorrow and trial is not the best life by far. Something is lacking in it. From this we learn that God strengthens our lives by just such trials. By means of these sorrows our weaknesses are uncovered and we find ourselves not dependent but independent of some outside power. Our lives are like a frontier farm, which needs the careful hand of the farmer to rid it of the rocks and weeds before it will bear fruit. And so we are tested by the standard of trial.

"As a young bird first learns the latent powers, which are in its wings, when it is forced to fly from danger, so we discover our own powers when we are brought face to face with opposition and trial. God wants manhood and character and He will have it at any price. The school of adversity is the only place where men are made and if we want to be men and women of character, we must needs listen to the teachings of this school and take our lessons in trials and tribulations.

"It is not always for our own benefit that we are compelled to taste of the cup of sorrow—far from that. But by learning the bitterness of that taste, we are able to share its burden with those about us and sympathese with them.

"Then through the school of adversity and sorrow we are able to come into contact with Christ. Unless we have tasted of the cup of sorrow, we can never fully come to the point of understanding Christ and His love for us.

"Put back all mystery about the causes of the sending of tribulation and remember that God is a kind and loving Father. If your brook has dried up perhaps it is God's purpose to give you something larger and grander to accomplish. God can give you the victory over tribulation and can vanish all fear. Remember that a life of poverty, the life which was begun in a manger, the life full of opposition and trials—the life of Christ your Saviour—was the grandest life that has ever been lived. With such thoughts in mind and with God's help perhaps we can say then, as the apostle Paul said, "I glory in my tribulation."

CONSCIOUSNESS OF GOD

ly feel the repugnance for sin which was felt by David."

"Do not be too swift to believe men when they say that all books of genius are inspired. The Bible is unique in this distinction and alone between its covers carries the conviction that God in it is expressing Himself to us through His ministers. A normal human being is divine in his attributes because he is made in the image of Him who created all things, and it is this Divine thing which, coming into your life and mine brings to us that consciousness of the existence of God.

Fifty years ago certain teachers brought Jesus Christ down from the sky and made Him human. That is the kind of Christ I want. I want Him nearby, right at hand, where I can feel his influence, although I cannot see nor hear Him I know he is all about; in the air and in our homes, in our hearts and in our every day lives. I feel I ought to be able to find Him here. Therefore the Uniterians did a great service when they eliminated certain things from the common belief of the theologians and brought to us a personal Christ. It has been a wonderful thing for humanity.

"God must be the influence for the right kind of life. Without the consciousness of His being we are as the sailor without a compass or the watch without a spring. I may have a fine plot of ground and I may cultivate it after the most approved methods, plant the best seed carefully superintend its development, but without the sky and its elements my garden will be a failure. Nothing good will be produced.

"It is of no use to tell men to be good. We must grasp them as we find them—transfigure and regenerate them by the divine love of the Master, Jesus of Nazareth. If you could see men as I have seen them, in the purlieus of the slums in a great city and on the avenues where are the dwellings of the rich, you would see men as they are, not as they appear to be. It is thus being able to get close to men that gives you the opportunity to tell of the limitless power of the God whom you profess to love and obey. It must be some one of divine power who will do this and that one is Jesus.

"This psalmist sang as no other could sing, 'O Lord Thou hast searched me and know me.' He sang from a heart full of the presence of his Maker and from whom every aspiration came as though thrilled with the very essence of God Himself."
